1922-1925, 2c Imperforated Horizontally

There has just been located in New York City a block of twenty-five, with margin at bottom, of the current 2c stamps on unwatermarked paper, wherein ten are perforated 11 vertically and imperforated horizontally.

This unusual piece occurred as follows—the imperforated sheet was first run through the perforating machine and all of the sheet, with the exception of these ten stamps, received the horizontal perforation. The corner of the sheet, however, evidently caught in the machine and was torn off entirely before receiving any perforation. The girl pasted it back on the part perf. sheet by means of the usual brown paper and it then passed on along with the other sheets where it received the vertical perforation. This piece, however, not having previously received the horizontal perforation, but receiving later the vertical perforation, gives us a new variety not noted heretofore. I mention ten copies but this is not a regular block of ten but is an irregular block consisting of the torn off corner of the sheet. The variety comes from plate 14213.

Air Mail Notes

It will be recalled that mention was made of the proposed Hawaiian air mail flight, and while we now learn officially from Washington that the planes were not authorized to carry mail, nevertheless, one of our contemporaries have advice from a correspondent that mail was supposedly carried unofficially.

Communications intended for routing via air the entire way have now been returned to Philadelphia, so that the description of their appearance may be of interest.

The covers naturally bear the Philadelphia postmark and in addition in small letters, "Via Air Mail". On arrival at San Francisco they were postmarked on the back and in addition a further marking, "AIR MAIL" in larger letters. This was supposedly applied to show that they were to continue to the Hawaiian Islands in this manner.

As the postmaster at Honolulu advises that no mail was delivered by planes, it is natural to assume that this mail was either carried out by the plane that go but a short distance from the America coast when it returned, or else was held for the third plane whose flight was late officially canceled at Washington. Th covers finally reached their destinatio being carried to the Islands by steamshi

The Postal Bulletin of September 21s calls the attention of various postmaster concerned to the fact that the Depart ment is inviting proposals for the opera tion of four contract air mail routes a follows:

Detroit, Mich., to Chicago, Ill., an return.
Detroit, Mich., to Cleveland, Ohio, an return.
Chicago, Ill., by St. Louis, Mo., Memphis Tenn., and Jackson, Miss., to New Orleans, La., and return.
Cheyenne, Wyo., to Denver, Colo., an return.

The Department has asked that a much publicity as possible be given thi matter. No doubt the first two route will be covered by the Ford Company who are greatly interested in the projec and it is supposed at this time that thei bids will be attractive.

On September 15th the Post Office Department opened bids on air mail con tracts covering flights as enumerated i this column a few weeks back. These routes will be feeders to the present transcontinental. Mr. A. E. Gorham kindly sends a list of the bids together with rates quoted by the bidders. In several cases they specify amounts from 6 to 7½c per ounce per letter, and in other cases they ask for a certain portion of the revenue, namely three-quarters to four-fifths. Seventeen bids in all were submitted.

The contracts for these eight new routes will call for an extension of the air mail service of 4,662 miles. Fulfillment of the contracts will require about 390,000 miles of flying yearly on the six round trips per week, scheduled for each route.

These services will directly connect up twenty-nine important cities with sixteen cities which have been receiving similar service on the transcontinental route.

The Department announces that proposals for the service between New York and Miami by way of Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, etc., will not be called for at present. This route is being held up because of information that itions are being circulated for other vices into the southern territory, and mail officials wish to consider them at the same time.

Tentative proposals for routes from w York to Miami and from New rk to New Orleans also have been eived.

CHILE.—Whitfield King & Co., advise that the 10 peso stamp is now being ted lithographed.

FRENCH GUINEA.—Whitfield King & Co. have sent for chronicle two new colors in the current series: 15c green and 60c violet.

FEDERATED MALAY STATES.—Mr. G. V. Stewart informs us that the following values of Postage Due stamps have been issued: 1c bright violet, 2c greyish black, 8c red, 10c yellow orange and 12c blue. The design consists of a large numeral in circle with the name of the country at the top and "Postage Due" at the bottom.

FRENCH SOMALI COAST.—Whitfield King & Co. send the following new colors recently issued for this colony: 10c red orange and green, 30c violet and green, 50c brown and red lilac, 60c light green and red lilac and 75c blue.

JOHORE.—Mr. G. V. Stewart advises that the $3 green and blue has been issued on script watermarked paper.

LUXEMBURG.—Whitfield King & Co. advise us that the 10c green has been surcharged "5" in black.

MADAGASCAR.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 60c in violet color.

NEW HEBRIDES.—Mr. G. V. Stewart writes to us the following: "I have just received word from the Postmaster at Port Villa (New Hebrides) that the two new sets of stamps (one a British-French series, the values of which are in British currency, at the right, and French currency, at the left, and the other a French-British series, the values of which are in French currency, at the right, and British currency, at the left) are now on issue. The design is the same as that of the obsolete series, excepting that there are now two values, one at each side (as explained above, instead of just one value at the bottom, as heretofore. The values of the British-French series are: ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d, 5d, 6d, 1s, 2s and 5s, at the right, with the equivalents in French currency, at the left. Values of the French-British series: 5c, 10c 20c, 25c, 30c, 40c, 50c, 75c, 1fr, 2fr and 5fr, at the right, with the equivalents in British currency, at the left. It is interesting to note that the British currency is converted into francs and centimes at the pre-war rate of exchange (10d=1fr). The supplies received (which represent the first printing) were very small, and it will be some time (probably not until after a second printing has been made) before the stamps become really plentiful. As a matter of fact, the order of one British dealer represented, for certain values, half the quantity expected from the Crown Agents in London.

The following values of the two new sets for this Colony have been overprinted for use as Postage Due stamps:

British-French series, overprinted 'Postage Due.'

1d, 2d, 3d, 5d and 10d. (The 3d and 10d have not been issued without the overprint.)

French-British series, overprinted 'Chiffre Taxe.'

10c, 20c, 30c, 50c and 1fr.

The new sets of both ordinary and postage due stamps were issued on the 1st June, and remainder stocks destroyed on the 30th May, Niue."

NIUE.—Whitefield King & Co. submit for chronicle the 1p, current issue, on N. Z. and star watermarked paper.

PALESTINE.—Mr. G. V. Stewart reports that a new stamp of 11m value has been printed and is due for issue shortly. This value is necessitated by reason of the new foreign postage rate which is 11m, instead of 13m, as heretofore.

ST. PIERRE AND MIQUELON.—Whitfield King & Co. advise us of the following new items which have been received: 10c bistre brown and rose, 30c red lilac, and blue, 50c bistre brown and rose, 20c of the 1909-17 series surcharged "Colis Postaux" in blue; and the 5c blue, 10c brown, 20c olive green, 25c rose red, 30c rose, 45c green, 50c brown violet, 1fr red brown have been surcharged "Saint-Pierre et Miquelon" in three lines in black and the 1fr rose has been overprinted in two lines with the added surcharge "2 francs a percevoir" in three lines also in black.

IRELAND

¶ The Interest of American collectors in the Surcharged Issues of Ireland surpasses that of any other stamps except our own U. S.
¶ More Specializing is being done today, I believe, in Irish stamps than in the stamps of any other country.
¶ The Large Stocks which existed have been greatly depleted and Prices Are Advancing Rapidly—Now is certainly the time to buy.
¶ I Am Offering herewith a nearly complete list of the Irish Surcharges and can supply others, including some of the Errors.
¶ Through Accumulation and the Purchase of several Very Fine Collections, I am in a position to sell or get you what you need in Ireland.
¶ Kindly Note that these stamps are offered according to Gibbons' Classification, which Scott will no doubt eventually follow.
¶ The Dollard and Thom "Black" Overprints are the original issue which was followed by the Thom "Blue Black" Surcharge. Five of the latter were later overprinted with a longer surcharge and last of all came the three-line or "Saorstat" Overprint.
¶ All Stamps Offered below are unused O. G.

THE PERSONNEL OF OUR FIVE YEAR HONOR CLUB

A STRIKING TRIBUTE TO THE STABILITY OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST PHILATELIC PUBLICATION

Every once in a while some stamp paper is bold enough to claim the distinction of being the one and only great paper. We should not be over-modest in our own behalf, and to substantiate a self-evident truth in many quarters we list below no fewer than 436 subscribers who during the past two years have taken out five-year subscriptions to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS. There has been no cheapening in price and no premiums of any kind have been offered, and withal many messages of cheer and good-will have accompanied the remittances. What paper of any kind, published anywhere in the world, can claim any such record as this? We have published names and addresses with the expectation that honorable dealers will observe the ethics of the trade and refrain from sending out unsolicited approval selections. Price lists mailed will no doubt be read and publishers of stamp papers are invited to mail specimen copies.

JAMAICA ISSUES OF WAR STAMPS

By Dilettante.

This brings us to the withdrawal or cessation of the use of overprint, type 20, and the issue of type 20a.

In March, 1917, the Legislature re-enacted the Law of 1916 for another year (this has since been done from year to year, and at the time of writing, February, 1920, is still in force).

The same font of type had been used for the overprints, types 19 and 20, and at this time, March, 1917, had been in constant use for a year. The last impressions of type 20 were very poor, broken and defective letters, missing points, heavy blurred impressions, etc., and it was decided to use new type of larger and heavier construction, which would stand more wear. About the 14th of that month, the 1½d stamp was issued with a new overprint, the same words, in black, in letters 2 mm. high, in two lines spaced 3½ mm. apart. Before the close of the month, the ½d and 3d values were issued with the new overprint. As all values were practically issued at the same time, and the varieties of note are common to them all, we can deal with them in group.

Gibbons records a "no stop" variety of this printing on the 1½d, i.e., No. 45, on the first pane. They must, undoubtedly, possess positive evidence in support, but all the sheets I have seen show a small and almost invisible dot on this specimen, the degree of invisibility being greatly intensified by the darker backgrounds of the ½d and 3d, but with the aid of a glass, the minute stop may be seen on both, so that perhaps we again have a freak, developed into the genuine variety.

Someone on the Post Office staff seems to have been keenly on the alert for these varieties to correct them, as a hand correction of this minute stop was made. In doing this, the letter P was impressed a second time and the stop clearly inserted. This hand correction may be noted by the P, and that letter only, appearing as if embossed on the back, sometimes cutting through the paper and showing the ink, the foot of the P is joined to the letter M. P is about twice the normal thickness and the stop is larger and not truly spherical in shape. The ½d and 1½d show up this correction quite clearly, but on the 3d, while the evidence on the face is readily visible, the thicker paper does not permit so pronounced an effect of embossing at the back.

The true "no stop" variety did not appear until the April printing was put on sale, and was No. 11 first pane in all values. We again had an attempt at hand correction, which created minor varieties, showing in the place of a stop, small reversed D, small three rayed star, small irregular outlined circle, small solid circle, not quite spherical. In spite of this correction, No. 11 appeared subsequently without stop, for about three or four months. It was then corrected in the press, and was not again known as a variety. Certain letters, A, R and P on three specimens of the second pane, apparently were damaged early, and were permitted to appear in this condition for some while, becoming worse with each impression, and creating minor varieties, which I see some dealers offer for sale, i.e., small AR, the R subsequently appeared as WAP., the greater portion of the tail broken away leaving the appearance of a stop. The P eventually took on the appearance of an inverted J, i.e., ʃ . They were corrected by inserting new letters in the press. For quite a while the printing was done without variety of note, the impressions growing heavier, until May, 1919, when the issue for that month showed again the "no stop" variety on all values, No. 48 of the second pane, this being constant throughout, but on many sheets of all three denominations, we got the variety three times in vertical succession on the second pane, i.e., Nos. 36, 42 and 48. The sheets with the single variety show Nos. 36 and 42 with minute stop.

In the June printing these varieties were corrected, but No. 47 of the second pane, all values, was without stop.

This was the last local printing, as the London issue had been on order for some while and was expected at any moment. Before we go on to that, I wish to refer to Gibbons 106b, 108b, 109b, i.e., ½d overprinted on back only, 1½d with double overprint, 3d inverted overprint. The first two, I understand, came from Jamaica, very little is known of them here, and their history is unknown to me. The 3d is not known here at all, no one that I have met has ever seen a copy, and while one has heard rumours of its origin, nothing definite has become known.

I do not suggest anything to disparage these varieties in any way, but merely ex-

Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The issue with the London overprint in sans-serif capitals 2½ mm. high, in one line, 13 mm. long in red, reading WAR STAMP, was put on sale on Oct. 4, 1919. The overprint is of the same type as that used for the third issue, War Stamp, Cayman Islands, Montserrat, and St. Vincent. A variety in smaller type on the 3d is known, No. 55 second pane is in letters 2 mm. high, and the length of the overprint is 12½ mm. One or two specimens show slightly defective letters, this last being true also of the ½d.

The tale of how local speculators cornered the supply of the 3d has already been told, and some writers on the subject attempt to blame the postal authorities. I hold no brief for them, but they always have been a much abused body of officials, sometimes I am afraid not without good reason, but in this instance, I do not think that they as a whole, were in any manner at fault. We have first to remember that such an attempt had never before been made in Jamaica, to corner a supply of stamps, so that even if the Post Office people, not expecting such an attack, should have been caught napping, little blame could have been theirs. We have also to remember that £1,100 value, which is said to have been that of this first London 3d, represented, on the basis of figures previously given, a supply for three months. Where someone was seriously at fault, is in the fact that the total value of the issue and the expected date of issue were known outside before the stamps were put on sale.

Possessing this information, it was a comparatively easy matter for the speculators to lay their plans and carry them out, without arousing suspicion, until it was too late, so rapidly did they work. I learn that only in one instance was a sale of larger proportions, than would be considered normal, made, i.e., one of £100, smaller sales of £20-£30 were made several times over to different people at a window besieged by a crowd of eager buyers. One of the speculators told me, in the course of conversation, that he had worked mainly through agents, as he realised that two or three large purchases by him would have created alarm, so that the statement by the Post Office people appears to be substantially correct. The continued pressure at the sales window, the eager demand for purchases in comparatively small quantities, while they created a "run" on the Post Office which was unknown before, did not excite suspicion of what was really happening, until the supply began to give out, then the speculators had pretty well secured what they were after. The effort of the Postal authorities to duplicate the issue, partial success as it is, is strong presumptive evidence of their desire to break the corner which exists, and of their unsympathetic attitude to the speculators. I am of opinion that this cornering will not again be tried with success to the "cornerers".

The details of the 2nd London issue have only been recently given, so it is hardly necessary to repeat them here.

The Peace Stamp. For the first time in her Philatelic history Jamaica has been guilty of a commemorative issue. I know that that statement will probably be contradicted, as many people refer to the issue of 1900-01, the two "Llandovery Falls" as, "The Jubilee Issue", but the date positively denies that claim, while in an old number of the Postage Stamp, I have seen it recorded that "the view has been recognised as a bit of Welsh scenery". It can be positively denied that this is in the slightest degree correct, ample proof of the origin of the view in Jamaica is to be had, but that is another story.

In a recent article I gave the reasons for this Commemorative and defended the issue, as in the circumstances it is perhaps excusable, but attempting to tread in the path of one of the "great masters", the late Mr. Nankivell, I am sure I but echo his sentiments, when I express the hope that this commemorative, like the provisional of 1889, will be the "one and only".

The mark of the novice is, I know, on these notes, but I hope that the effort to interest your readers has not been an entire failure; for myself it has been very interesting to set out, in some comprehensive form, the jottings I have made from time to time, and I trust that I will not be too severely dealt with for having had the nerve to dispute, in some instances, the dicta of the house of Gibbons.

Woodrow Wilson Stamp

FEATURES OF EX-PRESIDENT TO BE SEEN WHEN A NEW ISSUE IS NECESSARY

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

Under date of September 29th the Associated Press carried notices of the fact that President Coolidge desires the issuing of a postage stamp bearing the portrait of Woodrow Wilson and has communicated his wishes to the Post Office Department. The announcement, we are told, was made at the White House.

I have communciated by phone with Washington on the day following the appearance of the notice, but am advised that no definite decision has been reached as yet, either as to the denomination or when it will be ready. It was thought that it might go upon a 13c stamp or upon a 17c stamp, but the matter would be left to the final decision of the Postmaster General. There is even a possibility of his portrait appearing on one of the lower denominations.

Americans in general will be glad to learn of the issue of such a stamp for there is no doubt the Department has received numerous communications relative to a Wilson stamp. On the day that the Ex-President passed away, I communicated both with the President and the Postmaster General and was advised that the matter was being taken under consideration. Since then numerous communications have reached the Post Office Department. Under date of September 2nd, Mr. Norman H. Davis, President of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, addressed a communication to Mr. New, requesting a Wilson stamp to be ready for issue on December 28th next—the 69th anniversary of the birth of the late President. This communication was followed by a call on the post office officials by Mrs. Kate Trenholm Adams, a vice-president of the League of Nations Non-partisan Association.

Mr. New replied to the Foundation that it would be impossible to have plates for such a stamp engraved and the stamps ready for delivery by December 28th. He evidently overlooked the fact that the Harding stamp appeared in less than a month after Mr. Harding died.

We are told that the Post Office Department is resentful of charges that political bias has held up the issuing of the Wilson stamp, but many of us are still of the opinion that Mr. Wilson's political faith has delayed his appearance upon the stamp.

The Foundation Officials evidently refused to take a "No" from the Postmaster General and went over his head and applied to the President, who has given instructions that such a stamp be issued. It would have been a nice courtesy for the Postmaster General to have taken such a step on his own responsibility, and it is to be regretted that his only reason for issuing such a stamp is because he has been forced to do so.

Am going to take a little trip to Washington early in October to see the World's Series Games and hope to have some further news regarding the new Wilson stamps at that time.

11c Hayes, Issue of 1922, Imperforated.

Mr. E. N. Costales has shown me a horizontal pair of the 11c peacock blue, Hayes, issue of 1922, imperforated. The pair, which is partly severed between, bears the precancellation of "San Francisco." The variety was recently found by a boy in Los Angeles and Mr. Hugh Clark informs me that while visiting on the coast it was rumored that an additional pair had been found on a package coming from a wholesale jeweler. There is a further rumor that there is a possibility of a sheet or a portion of a sheet still being in existence.

Coolidge Hopes To Issue Wilson Memorial Stamp Soon

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—President Coolidge is hopeful that an occasion will arise soon to honor Woodrow Wilson by issuing a memorial stamp. But the President let it be known today that there has been no long delay in issuing a stamp in honor of the former President.

It was recalled that a stamp bearing Grover Cleveland's profile was issued only recently and several other Presidents were not so honored until twenty years after their terms.

AMERICAN STAMP DEALERS' ASSOCIATION CONVENTION

By Philip H. Ward, Jr.

The American Stamp Dealers' Association met in annual convention on Monday, September 28th, the meeting being called in New York at the Collectors Club on West 149th Street. There were present twenty-four dealers, mostly from New York City, but some few from the nearby cities. Offhand I recall the presence of Messrs. Phillips, Clark, Sloane, Seely, Bartels, Neefus, Wolsieffer, Crawford, Klein, Ohlman, Slusser, Barr, Mozian, Souren, Binmore, Litt, as well as one or two others that I do not offhand recall.

Mr. Bartels welcomed the members to the city and told of the progress of the association during the last year. He called for a closer co-operation among members and brought the meeting's attention to the fact that many dealers doing business right in New York had not become members. He suggested that dealers locally get together as often as possible in order that they might discuss matters of importance to the trade. He felt that such co-operation would be of benefit to all concerned. In his remarks he suggested that one of the qualifications for membership in the association should be the requirement that the dealer devoted most of his time or received his main livelihood from stamps. If such a rule ever became effective, the association would no doubt lose over half of its membership.

Mr. Phillips in his remarks dwelt upon a subject upon which he is well posted, namely, the investment possibilities in the purchase of fine stamps. He stressed the point that at present the demand was so great for United States stamps that dealers could not supply them, and that something should be done to popularize the foreign issues. He thought that co-operation among dealers was not only advisable but necessary for the best interests of philately. He brought out the fact that some were noted for their knocking propensities and that he had found from experience that the knocker was not only hurting philately, but was hurting himself even more.

Mr. Slusser reported that the association was in excellent condition, had a substantial cash balance and that in the eleven years of its existence had gradually grown, year by year, stronger.

The subject of most importance discussed by the association was one of publicity, and a committee with Mr. Clark as chairman was appointed to look into the ways and means of adding to the collecting fold.

The association adjourned, after authorizing the Board to call the next convention in New York during the time of the International Exhibition.

EXHIBIT AT KANSAS FREE FAIR

By Art. Bledsoe.

This Exhibition was the first attempt by the Free Fair of Kansas. It has proven to be a great success and drawing card. Many thousands of people, both young and old, viewed this display. There can be no doubt that many non-collectors became interested in stamps for the first time. To Paul R. Parrish, of Topeka, goes the honor of being the one to put this idea into being. Eight displays of stamps were entered by six different collectors. These displays consisted mostly of United States. However, some foreign were also shown. First prize went to William Skibbe and second to Frances Swan, both of Topeka. Each of these collectors had a fine showing of United States. First prize in the coins went to Art. Bledsoe of Coffeyville and second to Paul R. Parrish.

THE COLLECTION AS A BAROMETER

By C. E. R.

The stamp collection, aside from its cultural value, may be used to foretell the weather, thus:

If U. S. and Canadian mints stick lovingly to the album, it means that there will be or has been a spell of dampness.

When low-grade Hungarians of the Reaper type start to curl up, fine dry weather is indicated. If they roll themselves into cunning little tubes the period of low humidity will be protracted.

Remarks by non-philatelists on the superiority of Seebecks over early issues or derogatory statements anent the mentality of people who pay real money for little bits of colored paper precede coolness which may develop into extreme frigidity.

If the album is found on the floor with fluttering leaves and detached stamps it shows high winds (or possibly the attentions of a youthful relative).

A rug strewn with old hinges, parts of stamps, bits of damp paper and similar debris is a mighty good sign that there will be serious local disturbances with rising temperature, thunder, lightning, and possibly earthquakes.

If an upset ink bottle is found in contact with choice B. C.'s or Departments, look out for volcanic eruptions and general cataclysms.

These few tentative rules were formulated from personal observation. The writer will welcome any additional data in the hope that the matter may be taken up by the experts of the Agricultural Department for the benefit of our long-suffering farmers. Radio is already doing its bit and it is about time that philately helped.

THE FORUM

By H. P. ATHERTON, 318 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Readers of the Forum, this column has now been running for over a year without a skip. Usually the first anniversary of anything is heralded with a fanfare of trumpets, everyone is in sartorial elegance, festivity being proclaimed on all sides. Not so this one, however, as it entirely slipped my mind until this minute, for my old typewriter (machine, not a lady typist), squeaked a few notes at me from its dusty depths of accumulated papers, letters, memos of things to be done right off, etc., advising me of an anniversary.

Let's see what we have accomplished,—we have dug up a few authentic date of issue facts re early U. S. stamps; have had some rare items mentioned with detailed philatelic accuracy, and had several chats on unusual problems, most of which have been solved in a satisfactory manner.

We have mastered the intricacies of "shifts," or double transfers, the principal thing to remember being that the shifted portion consists of some useless lines or portions of the design which are duplicated somewhere in the stamp, and on the engraved stamps these shifts are always in the same color as the stamp.

Then we have recorded cracked plates, caps on the 2 of the 2c of the 1890s, the "broken hat" on 2c Columbians, minor plate flaws on 2c vermilions, scratches, extra dots, gashes over the button on 3c 1851s, broken and repaired transfer rolls on 3c '57s, and inverted transfers on 1c 1851-57s, etc.

Possibly the majority of the readers of the Forum pass up these minor plate varieties, yet there are many who have sent in interesting letters showing that much careful study is now being given to our early U. S., and if all these carefully described little minor varieties were combined into book form they would make a decidedly interesting volume of no mean proportions.

The majority of the more readily seen flaws were mentioned during the year. Some wrote that on going thru their duplicates, they were able to find the items described, this being gratifying not alone to the finder, but to myself as well, for a written description is far more difficult to follow than an illustration.

Cancellations, however, interested a far greater number of readers. Every day or so some new arrival is carefully copied and placed in the archives; it is my present Forum ambition to get these into a systematic arrangement for you all to see depicted at the tops of Forum columns in the near future. They are a truly wonderful lot, and the majority of them have never before been reproduced in any publication. On talking the illustrating over with Mr. Wylie, it has been decided to group certain similar designs together in an article, for example, the birds will all flock together, then animals, leaves, flowers, skulls and bones, heads, etc.

Some of the more cleanly hit unknowns will be shown, "open for discussion" as 'twere. There will be no fixed groupings at all. My first intention was to give each design a number; but this might lead into difficulties as later arrivals would undoubtedly belong to some earlier grouping, and so spoil any attempt at rotation.

There are now well over 200 designs in hand. Many Forum readers have dropped in, and on seeing the designs, have expressed wonderment at the great variety and quantity. Few have been saved with "PAID" cancellation, and many of the commoner numerals as "3," etc., are omitted, as they have been illustrated previously in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY and other philatelic publications.

There were some slight disappointments during the past year. The information regarding the usage of U. S. before '70 from Foreign Ports was well taken care of in a recent Forum; but the examples of these as seen on covers was woefully weak in quantity, there must be many covers that we have never heard about from foreign countries. It is with pleasure we note an addition to this rare group, details from Dr. William Evans—

"U. S. Used Abroad. 1869, strip of three and one-half of a fourth stamp. 2c 1869 showing '3 Hiogo, Japan,' pmks. on front, and on back evidence that two and a half stamps were there. These have been removed. Letter addressed to 68 Westbourne Terrace, Hyde Park, London, England. In upper left mss. 'Via San Francisco and New York.' Center left mss. 'P. P.' Bottom left mss. '25. 12-69.' Just below the upper left inscription a large figure 2 in the color of the San Francisco pmk. on the back. This is in the characteristic pink sometimes used at San Francisco. It is a circle 32 mm. in diameter reading 'San Francisco, Cal.' around the circumference. In the center is 'Jan 25 PAID.' The PAID is between the S and L. On the back is also the red London pmk. dated 'Fe. 18-70.' There is nothing to indicate that this was carried by any other than the regular mails. But it is interesting as showing that U. S. stamps were used in Japan to carry mail via the U. S. to England."

That is a rare cover. You often see the words "rare" and "superb" used philatelically. Here is a little harangue on those words, especially the "rare."

On approvals the word often looms large for the sole reason that the stamp with the word under it has a catalog value of say $10.00, or more, the rest being of smaller value. On the other

HAVE YOU REALIZED
How Difficult It Is To Find

Superb USED copies of Edwardian and Georgian Colonials? The Reason is that there is very little demand for values above 2½d for postage purposes in the smaller colonies. The higher values are really much rarer used than mint and are very difficult to obtain.

I have had the good fortune to purchase an immense accumulation of Georgians, both MINT and superb USED, and shall be pleased to receive Wantlists (Scott or Yvert) from collectors interested in these stamps.

THE REPUBLIC OF FINLAND

By C. A. Howes.

One of the surprising happenings during the Great War was the Russian coup d'état of March, 1917, by which the Czar's autocracy was overthrown and a republican form of government substituted, with the Duma or Parliament in charge, which elected Kerensky as provisional President. This relaxation in Russia's grip gave Finland her long sought opportunity to regain her political autonomy and she was not slow to take advantage of it. A provisional government was established at Helsingfors, which took over the public services, including the post office. The natural result followed in the shape of distinctive Finnish postage stamps once more, as soon as these could be prepared. The Senate decreed their preparation on June 5, 1917, and entrusted the design to Mr. Eliel Saarinen, a prominent architect, who used the ancient coat-of-arms of the Grand Duchy but minus the Grand Ducal crown which formerly surmounted it. The arms were not placed upon a shield as before, but simply enclosed in plain ovals set in a continuous background of narrow horizontal wavy bands, which covered the whole sheet as printed, the separation into stamps being accomplished by the perforation alone. Above each oval appeared the name SUOMI and beneath FINLAND, the latter flanked by the numerals of value. The plates were prepared by Lilius and Herzberg of Helsingfors and typographed one hundred stamps to the sheet upon unwatermarked white wove paper and perforated 14.

The first value to appear was the 5 penni on September 28, 1917, followed by the 10p on October 15th, the 25p on November 3d, the 10 marks on November 20th, the 4p and 5m together on December 18th, and the 50p and 1m on December 24th. The 20p did not appear until April 22, 1918. The former stamps for local use were allowed to be used up to April 1, 1918, but were demonetized from that date. A die for a 2½p was prepared and proofs from that distributed through the Universal Postal Union, but no plate was ever made for this value. The same may be said for values of 30p and 70p, which exist as imperforate die proofs.

Meanwhile the "Red" revolution of November, 1917, had taken place in Russia and the Bolshevik army had made an attempt to bring Finland back into the fold. The Finnish National troops, known for distinction as the "White Army," prevented the consummation of this, but considerable fighting occurred in Finland early in 1918. At one time the important city and province of Vasa ("Wasa") in western Finland was cut off from Helsingfors, the capital, which is in the south; and as stamp supplies ran out they decided to create an issue for their own convenience until communication should be restored. This Vasa ("Wasa") issue was made very similar to the National issue, the main difference being that the arms are in a panel with straight sides and curved top and bottom, and the figures of value are enclosed in circles. The stamps were lithographed by Julius Bjorkells of Vasa on unwatermarked white wove paper and perforated 11½. The issue comprised 3,000,000 5p, 6,000,000 10p, 1,023,000 30p, 2,000,000 40p, 1,000,000 50p, 422,000 70p, 700,000 1m and 30,000 5m. The 5 and 10p were issued first on March 5, 1918, the 30p on March 7th, the 1m on March 27th, the 5m on April 3d, the 40p on April 29th and the 50p on May 8th. The date of the 70p does not appear. Communication with Helsingfors was restored sooner than expected and the remainders of this issue were called in by the postal authorities and delivered to them at Helsingfors on May 31, 1918. Here they were kept until November 8, 1918, when they were again issued to the public to be used up together with the regular issue.

Imperforate varieties of all except the 30 and 70p are known, but these were unofficial, having been obtained privately from the lithographer; they are known postmarked by favor, however, with the Vasa postmark and the date August 5, 1918.

The progress of the White army of Finland in driving back the "Red" army led them eastward across the border i the Russian province of Olonetz, wh capital, Petrozavodsk, they occupied. signalize the occupation they issued regular set of Finnish stamps, with exception of the 25p, bearing the o print "AUNUS," which was the Fin name for the province. The quanti overprinted at Helsingfors were 40 each of the 5, 10, 20, 40 and 50p, 4 1m, 1,600 5m, and 1,200 10m.

In 1919 the Republic of Finland admitted to the Universal Postal Un and because of the fall in the value the Finnish mark the postal rates w doubled. In order to keep the Po Union colors for the appropriate val the 5p, 10p and 25p were surcharged w the numerals 10, 20 and 50 in black, th appearing three times on each stamp. old 20p stamp in yellow was at the sa time surcharged with the numerals 75 like manner, to be used for parcel p rates. These stamps were issued on cember 11, 1919, in the following qu tities: 10p 12 million, 20p 8½ million, 5 million, and 75p 8 million. The 5 25p stamps were also issued at about same time in new colors. The 50p bl unsurcharged, appeared in Februa 1920, and the 10 and 20p unsurchar in May, 1920.

Further depreciation of the "Finma led to new advances in postal rates, domestic letter rate being raised to and the foreign letter rate to 1½ mar As before provisionals were made by s charging in black, this time with la numerals over the letters "P" or " thus transforming the 10p into 30p, 40p into 60p, the 20p into 90p, and 50p into 1½m. These were issued February 16, 1921. New permanent val of 2, 3 and 25m in bicolor were added March, 1921, while the 10 and 50p changed colors were issued in Septemb 1921. In December, 1921, the surcharg 60p was replaced by a permanent sta and in February, 1922, the 75p surchar of 1919 appeared in permanent form. date we are not appraised of the appe ance of the 30p, 90p or 1½m as perm nent stamps. The 2m, however, w changed in color in December, 1922, to uniform blue.

On March 22, 1922, a large Red Cr stamp was issued to the number of 2 m lions for internal use only. It had oval printed in gray with the arms Finland outlined in white. This w printed over a red cross, with the val beneath the oval also in red and e pressed as "1M+50P." The design without a frame and the stamp is pe forated 14. The postal value of the stan was 1m and the extra 50p was the co tribution to the Red Cross funds.—Ne England Stamp Monthly.

JAMAICAN CHILD WELFARE

By HARRY E. HUBER.

The Jamaican Child Welfare stamps, ½d, 1d and 2½d (sold at ½d each over face, for the benefit of the Child Saving League of Jamaica), were issued November 1, 1923. At the G. P. O., Kingston, they went on sale at 8 o'clock that morning, and before noon the ½d was sold out. This was not at all surprising, as it was known beforehand that the printing of all values was very small, and particularly so of the ½d. The small supplies allotted to the offices in the country districts soon exhausted, and except in Kingston and a few of the larger towns, even the 1d and 2½d were not to be had. Immediately a cable was dispatched for further supplies—£50 of the ½d, and £100 each of the 1d and 2½d.

That the 1d and 2½d did not exhaust also within a few days of issue was due to the fact that the Secretary of State for the Colonies laid down restrictions on the sale of these stamps, and the Postmaster of Jamaica refused to fill orders from abroad, received through the post. The stamps were not sold by the Crown Agents in London, and orders booked by them and sent out to Jamaica were reduced 75%. As a result, very few dealers were able to offer the stamps for sale during the year.

As it was extremely doubtful if these further supplies could reach Jamaica in time for the Christmas mailings (and the Child Saving League would lose much revenue), it was urged that the Government overprint the current ½d pictorial "Child Welfare, 1923," or surcharge the 1½d orange and black Child Welfare stamp (not issued owing to the reduction of local letter rate on August 2, 1923, from 1½d to 1d), for use as a ½d Child Welfare stamp. But the Government replied that "there are stringent rules which make surcharging of stamps impracticable." Neither would they act favorably on the suggestion to issue the 1½d Child Welfare stamp, for use on British Empire letters.

Action legalising the overage of ½d per stamp being turned over to the Child Saving League was taken at a meeting of the Legislative Council on December 11, 1923 (as reported by the Gleaner of the following day):—

"The Colonial Secretary (Col. H. Bryan), next moved . . . That the profits derived from the sale of the Child Welfare stamps be handed over to the Child Saving League.

Mr. Sangster (elected member from St. Elizabeth)—What period will this cover?

The Colonial Secretary—January 31st next.

The resolution was adopted."

Child Welfare stamps of the second printing were received early in January, 1924, and the ½d was re-issued January 4th. Formal announcement was made by the Postmaster in the Gleaner of January 7th:

"NOTICE.

A further supply of the Child Welfare stamps at ½d has been received. The following denominations are now obtainable at all Telegraph Offices—½d, 1d and 2½d.

Signed, ELLIS WOLFE,
Postmaster for Jamaica."

Later in the month the 1d and 2½d of the second printing were obtainable at the Kingston G. P. O., even though the first lot had not exhausted. The difference between stamps of the two printings is very slight, those of the second being a trifle lighter in shade.

The details of the two printings are as follows:—

Total,	974	116,520	£599.15.0	£342.15.0

On January 21, 1924, it was notified that sale of these stamps would cease after the 31st of that month.

"CHILD WELFARE POSTAGE STAMPS.

The sale of Child Welfare stamps in Kingston and at District Post Offices will cease after the 31st. January.

Signed, ELLIS WOLFE,
Postmaster for Jamaica.
G.P.O. 21.1.24."

The face value of the stamps sold between November 1, 1923, and January 31, 1924, was £182.6.11, and £79.0.10½ (representing 37941 stamps at ½d each), was handed over to the Child Saving League. The cost of the dies, plates and printing must have been but little less than the value of the stamps sold, so that so far as the Post Office Department was concerned, the issue resulted in but little, if any, profit to them.

HARRIS' BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

In recent weeks a large advertisement has been appearing in the WEEKLY advertising the special fall number of the Bi-Monthly Journal issued by H. E. Harris & Co., 161 Massachusetts Ave., Boston, Mass. We feel it our duty to give this publication a review in our columns.

It consists of no fewer than 68 pages, printed upon heavy calendered paper, and has an illustrated cover. There are nearly one hundred illustrations in the book and no dealer or collector should miss the opportunity of possessing a copy. The opening article is by Stephen G. Rich and is entitled, "Iceland and Its Stamps." An editorial, "Spending Money to Make Money," is an argument for advertising that we could well afford to reprint with profit, and would do so were it not for the fact that so many of our readers will read the same first-handed.

There are two or three advertisers in the WEEKLY who are setting the pace for bold and aggressive methods in advertising, and we heartily commend the same, believing that the enterprise now being demonstrated in the lines of general business may well be employed by stamp dealers.

We congratulate the Harris Co. upon this splendid production and consider it a distinct contribution to our trade literature.

EDITORIAL.

The hold-up of Mr. B. F. Enelow of the Colonial Stamp Company, Chicago, is about the biggest job in the annals of philatelic crime. The boldness of the operator and his demeanor while perpetrating the robbery, coupled with his successful get-away, make the affair a sensational one aside from the great value of the booty. It would seem as if the theft was committed by a man who had been tipped off to the value of the stamps as he appeared to have little knowledge of stamps and their worth. It is evident that the criminal visited the building the afternoon before the crime of the next day, as the elevator men remember having seen the man who wore dark glasses and a heavy overcoat on one of the hottest days of the year. The following morning he was awaiting Mr. Enelow, and carrying a suitcase. Once in Mr. Enelow's office he betrayed some nervousness, but did not excite the suspicions of Mr. Enelow, even though his palpable philatelic ignorance struck the dealer as unusual. Somewhat adroitly, the crook, by asking for stamps of different countries that ranged through the alphabet, located the books with the desirable stamps. He started to buy a few stamps and then when Mr. Enelow's back was turned pulled his gun and, showing that he meant business, tied him to the radiator. Wisely, Mr. Enelow did not resist, particularly as he thought that he could arouse the building before the thief could escape down the elevators. Scooping books containing U. S., British Colonials, and other scarce foreign, into the suitcase, the man left and almost immediately Mr. Enelow freed himself and aroused the tenants on the floor, who flocked out of their offices upon hearing his cries. Mysteriously enough the criminal had disappeared and though a search was made by the police through the building, the man was not found. During the hold-up the fellow conversed with Mr. Enelow and said that he needed money and the victim said that he would give him the amount he asked for if he would not take the stamps. His parting words were that he would return the stamps upon the payment of a certain sum. Though the thief tried to lock the door from the inside, he was unable to do so, but he proceeded with his work, notwithstanding that a caller or customer might come in at any moment. Mr. Enelow's loss is a very heavy one and up to this writing, a number of seeming clues have yielded no definite results. There was no insurance on the stamps.

The haul made by the hold-up man in Chicago gives our complacency a jolt, as it was felt heretofore that the risk run by dealers in openly displaying valuable stock was relatively small. It is just as well not to trade too heavily on general ignorance of philatelic conditions and the thought that the difficulty of converting stamps into coin is an effective deterrent to the evil-doer. It is not to be expected that isolated instances of theft would not occur, but danger from this condition has not been in the minds of dealers as any great menace. With this incident in Chicago before them, dealers will take some cautionary measures to protect themselves. The question arises whether there is any systematized attempt being made to prey on stamp dealers and underlying this subject the natural inquiry follows whether there is any "fence" known to crooks through which stamps may be disposed of. Our opinion is that there are no "fences," even though there may be a few dealers on the fringe of commercial philately who may be more concerned with the price at which they could buy stamps that are offered rather than a full knowledge of the antecedents of the stamps. In all probability the lessons of the Chicago hold-up will have attention at the convention of the American Stamp Dealers' Association, now being held in New York.

Stamps have been receiving so much attention in the outside press that they must blushingly acknowledge a curtain-call. In the American Legion Weekly, that inimitable humorist, Ellis Parker Butler, has a rollicking contribution, "The Collecting Mania," that is surcharged with stamp sense and nonsense. It would be almost sacrilege to mutilate the article and we have received the permission of the editor of the American Legion Weekly to reprint it, but we wish to be on the safe side and get that of Mr. Butler, who, as our readers know, is a member of the American Philatelic Society. If we are not mistaken, Mr. Butler years ago did some stamp exchanging with the patrons of the exchange department of Harper's Young People and so, it is seen with half an eye, he knows his subject. In Queen's Gardens of September 12th, a paper for girls, Ruth Kathryn Gaylord has a story, "The Postage Stamps," in which philately is brought to the fore in an engaging manner. A sheaf of clippings further proves that as the new season opens, the public mind is being cultivated for the reception of philatelic seed.

According to a clipping received from Mr. W. C. Stone, one of the recurring miltary conspiracies has been uncovered in Catalonia, Spain, the stormy petrel of the realm of Alfonso. A prison chaplain is in the toils for his plotting and when he was apprehended, "stamps of the future state of Catalonia" were found on him. As to explaining the possession of the stamps, the priest said that he had bought them for his stamp collection. Whether these stamps will ever see the light of day in a collecting day is a question, but if they do, they are to be classified as curiosities only. This incident shows that no revolution is attempted in these modern days without stamps in hand, while in former times collectors were accused of instigating rebellions and political changes for the new stamps that would attend the changes of government.

If only Henry Ford would capitulate to the charms of philately, how the dealers would lick their chops. The day may come when we shall be able to say with nonchalance that Henry is a stamp collector and his name would lead all the rest when we ran down the list of the great and more or less good folks who collect stamps. The New York World recently showed a picture of furniture decorated with stamps, the work of Mrs. Josephine Farrell of Winthrop, Mass., and it is said that Henry Ford has made Mrs. Farrell an offer for her "much decorated bedstead."

From Mr. Benedict Prieth, Avon-by-the-Sea, New Jersey, we have received a gruesome exhibit. He writes: "Enclosed exhibit shows what happens to Trinidad & Tobago, No. 22, if soaked in water too long." All that remains of the once proud stamps are perforated blanks of paper, more or less stained, with the watermark showing plainly. On a few of the specimens, traces of the design are seen but on others, there is nothing visible. Verily, here are the "disappearing stamps" of story that the fiction writers of the philatelic press once delighted in.

Judging from the statistics that have been submitted to us by a collector who is employed by a firm that receives a large mail from all sections of the country, the used Norse American stamps are destined to have an immediate value. In the great mass of mail to which he has access, he has not found over fifty of the 2c and he has only four of the 5c. Our contention is that if collectors had not used the stamps on their mail so generously, these two stamps would emulate the modest violet in shrinking from the sight of man. It is somewhat significant to find that in the Advance Sheets of the new catalogue the 2c is catalogued at two cents used and the 5c at twelve cents in the same condition.

In our issue of September 28th a letter was printed as received from Martin Johnson, 900 Montrose Avenue, Chicago, in which he protested against the manner his activities were reviewed in the Weekly of August 17, 1925. The wording of the communication afforded a curious example of attempted condonation, even though this tendency to justify actions is recognized as a trait in man of the persons who get into trouble, serious or petty. In the light of his letter Mr. Johnson was asked for particulars that might tend to prove from his viewpoint that he was more sinned against than sinning, but thus far he has been disinclined to give them. The details published previously were obtained from a fellow-worker whom we have known for nearly twenty-five years and who assuredly has no axe concealed about his person for Johnson. As for the court proceedings as affecting Johnson, there evidently is some room for argument, judging from Johnson's assertions and we are not prepared to say that in our report the circumstances were reflected actually but an effort is being made to get definite findings on this phase of the question. Be this as it may, Johnson has left Chicago, the scene of some of his vicissitudes and is said to be in the south and while his advent for a haven in warmer clime, as we have it from credible source, is somewhat premature the advisability of being forehanded, now that winter is coming, is not to be criticised.

It will be remembered that this paper in commenting on the death of F. C. Selianoff of San Francisco, who previously had been contributing articles on early cancellations on U. S. stamps to the Weekly, until some suspicion was expressed that all of the types indicated were not on a firm postal foundation

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF HAYTI

By Bertram W. H. Poole.

Chapter XIX.

The 1906 Provisionals.

Early in 1905 supplies of the 1c and 2c stamps of the preceding issue began to run low and by March they were completely exhausted. As usual, recourse was had to provisionals, and a number of the then current 20c and 50c stamps were surcharged 1c and 2c respectively. As there were large remainders of the 1c and 2c stamps of 1898-99 issue on hand, it is difficult to understand why these were not brought into use, especially as they were actually requisitioned a little later. But perhaps the authorities wished to make a clean sweep of the not too handsome 1904 series before the arrival of the new set which had been ordered from the American Bank Note Company.

Both surcharges are in black or brownish black, that on the 20c consisting of a double-lined hexagon, measuring 22 mm. from point to point and 19½ mm. from side to side, containing "1 CENTIME" in two lines with a short line under the word.

The surcharge on the 50c is similar only the frame is a double-lined heptagon.

Both surcharges were applied by means of handstamps with the result that there is the usual crop of varieties. Both exist with double and inverted surcharges, and also with the overprint struck diagonally, sideways, etc.

A block of six of the 2c on 50c, in two rows of three, was recorded in the Monthly Journal for June, 1907, with the line of perforations between the two rows omitted.

An error caused by using the 1c handstamp on the 50c value is listed in Scott's catalogue and is said to only exist inverted. We have never seen this variety nor can we find any other record of it.

It is said that 200,000 of the 1c on 20c and 150,000 of the 2c on 50c were issued.

Chapter XX.

The "Piastre" Provisionals of 1906.

In 1906 the finances of Hayti were in a chaotic condition and, as is not unusual under such circumstances, paper currency flooded the country. This showed rapid depreciation with the result that the gourde, though nominally the equivalent of the United States dollar, in actuality only had a value of barely 20c. Naturally the rate of exchange was high and as the actual facial value of the stamps used for international postage had to be maintained, the Treasury soon found that it was out of pocket when accepting paper money.

Consequently it was enacted that stamps used for foreign postage must be paid for on a gold basis, and this meant the introduction of two currencies—one founded on paper and liable to fluctuation, and the other on a gold basis unaffected by the depreciation of the first. To distinguish between these a new unit was introduced for the gold currency termed a "piastre". This was divided into 100 centimes and had a fixed value of $1, while the gourde was made to serve as the unit for the paper currency.

Two new sets of stamps were ordered from the American Bank Note Company one inscribed "CENTIMES DE GOURDE" for domestic use, and the other inscribed "CENTIMES DE PIASTRE" for external postage. The former could be purchased with the debased paper money while the latter could only be bought for coin.

Pending the arrival of the new stamps a provisional set was issued for use on foreign correspondence, while the 1904 stamps still remained available for internal postage.

There were large remainders of all values of the 1898 and 1899 issues on hand, and these were pressed into service in making the provisional labels. They were overprinted with a large double-lined oval containing the words "SERVICE EXTERIEUR PROVISOIRE" between the lines, and "EN—PIASTRES—FORTES" in three straight lines in the centre to show that they were only to be sold on the basis of the new fixed currency.

The overprint was applied by means of a handstamp, and was struck in red on all values. As usual there are plenty of errors all denominations, with the exception of the 4c, being known with the overprint inverted, and while we have only seen the 2c carmine, 5c brown, 8c, 10c, 15c and 50c with double overprint we have no doubt others exist. The 3c is known with two impressions of the handstamp, one being normal and the other inverted.

These provisional stamps are said to have been first placed on sale in April, 1906, and according to the Monthly Journal the numbers overprinted were as follows:—

1c yellow green, approximately,	20,000
2c orange, } 2c carmine, } prop'tions not stated	13,000
3c green,	9,800
4c red,	2,000
5c brown, approximately,	2,200
5c blue, approximately,	41,700
7c grey,	4,700
8c carmine,	13,000
10c orange,	11,800
15c olive grey,	21,400
20c black,	4,000
50c brown-lake,	8,000
1g mauve,	5,600

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

Magenta Provisional Envelope

1½c ON 1c GREEN

One of the numerous cities revaluing the 1c envelopes used a magenta surcharge and when I originally acquired my supply I naturally assumed that the variety would be available in large quantities. I now understand that the sale was restricted by order of the Department, due to the fact that they should not have been overprinted in magenta, although I do not recall that the postal order instructed them to overprint in black ink.

This office only surcharged two varieties, namely, a size 5 and a size 13, both die C. Can furnish these while a fair supply lasts at 50c each, or the two mailed flat, unused and entire for a $1.00 bill.

The scarce provisional brown kraft envelope now comes in two distinct varieties, namely, on thin glazed paper (Price 50c), and on thick unglazed paper (25c).

Have just issued a little list showing those varieties of the revalued 1½c on 1c envelopes which I can furnish, that are of interest to the cut square collector. A copy will be gladly mailed upon request.

Can furnish most of the other known varieties. Want lists solicited.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the address of correspondents.

New 3c and 6c Postal Cards.

In order to meet the new postal rates effective October 1st of 3c on foreign postals and 6c on return reply foreign cards, the Department is preparing to issue new foreign and foreign reply postal cards. The single rate will be of a 3c denomination and the reply type will sell at 6c. It is not expected that the cards will be ready for distribution much before October 15th. In the meantime it will be necessary to affix 1c stamps to the current issue.

Revalued 1½c on 1c Envelopes.

Since my last notes, quite a few new varieties have come to hand, including a lot from one office that evidently cleaned up all of their loose stock of former issues. Of some of the varieties only small quantities were found.

In going over the enormous stock overprinted in one city, there were eleven copies of the 2c carmine envelope found with the single line overprint, as well as two copies of the 1½c brown, the envelopes no doubt being put into the packages by the manufacturers in Dayton, for they bear imprints of firms of other towns. For instance, there were four 2c die E window envelopes of the Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester, there were six die F's with the imprint of a Michigan firm and one die H without imprint. The two 1½c were die H. Three die A's were noted quite recently from another city. Mr. Costales shows me a die F picked from a New York lot, bearing the imprint also of a firm of different city.

Mr. R. J. Tarpy takes me to task for listing the envelopes in accordance with Scott rather than Bartels. As a matter of fact, I list them in accordance with their sizes and dies and as a rule do not give numbers of either catalog. Where numbers are advisable I much prefer the Scott listing for the general collector, rather than the Bartels' numbers, for the Scott catalog is in the hands of thousands of collectors, whereas the little Bartels' booklet is held by comparatively few. I note that Mr. Tarpy assigns numbers to the different cities overprinting, and if this scheme is to be followed, it is suggested that the numbers given to the dies by the Deparment, which were published in this column on September 21st, be used rather than assign die numbers promiscuously.

ITALY.—Mr. Henry Hooreman reports the 55c dull violet has been surcharged "Cent. 30" in black at the base of the stamp. Four horizontal lines obliterate the former figures of value.

JAPAN.—Our esteemed Japanese friend, Mr. Umijiro Kimura, writes from Tokyo (July 28th, 1925), that a new 13 sen stamp will be issued shortly. This stamp has become necessary on account of the inland registration fee having been recently raised to 10 sen, thus making 13 sen with the single inland postage of 3 sen. The old registration fee was 7 sen. —Stamp Collecting.

POLAND.—Whitfield King & Co. have sent for chronicle a set of nine values of Air Post stamps, showing a bi-plane in flight and with the usual "Poczta Polska" at the top, while the Polish emblem within a circle is at the lower central part of the stamp. Beneath this is the word "Lotnicza" with figures of value at each side. The colors are as follows: 1g light blue, 2g yellow brown, 3g brown, 5g dark brown, 10g blue green, 15g magenta, 20g olive, 30g Indian red and 45g grey lilac.

RAROTONGA.—We are informed by several correspondents that the 1p stamp will soon be issued of watermarked "NZ" and Star, same as has been already noted of the 1p stamp of Niue.

ROUMANIA.—M. Champion informs us that, following an official circular dated April 1st, 1925, the Roumanian post office has issued a new 10 bani stamp, for use on journals and periodicals. It appears that only 150,000 of this stamp have been printed.—Stamp Collecting.

SPAIN.—Mr. R. Roberts advises of the appearance of the 50c, of the 1924-25 series in a vermilion shade.

TURKEY.—The following appeared in the London Daily Express of August 29th, with an enlarged illustration of the new 10 piastres stamp:—

112,000,000 to be printed here for Turkey.

The picture of a wolf will decorate some of the 112,000,000 postage stamps which are about to be printed in England for the Turkish Republic.

Sami Bey, the famous Turkish artist, who has come to England to superintend the printing of the stamps, has done five designs, and the one he likes best depicts the legendary Boscourt and his wolf.

Boscourt, according to ancient legend, was a mountain blacksmith of great strength and valour, and he directed the wandering Turkish tribes who had lost their way and were starving in the hills.

'My picture,' said Sami Bey to a Daily Express representative, 'shows Boscourt standing by his anvil, and at his feet is his pet wolf.

'One of the stamps will bear the head of Mustapha Kemal, the President of the Turkish Republic.'

'Has Mustapha Kemal's recent divorce affected his political popularity?' Sami Bey was asked.

'Ah,' he replied, enigmatically, with a slow shake of his head, 'in Turkey we never look over the wall.'"—Stamp Collecting.

and a 3c 1869 having a catalog value of 6c and postmarked from Hiogo, Japan, deserves the word "rare," while that $10.00 stamp might be purchased from some dozen dealers at a regular discount from cat. value, hence the word uncommon might be more correct.

You see "superb" so much that it needs no amplification, it is a good word, tho a very hard one to live up to in stamps as it are needed to fill in the blanks of the early days.

The above mention of rare is to just forewarn you that in mentioning the various odd cancels, the word will not show up frequently, and when it does, you may congratulate yourself most heartily that your collection shows a "superb" copy of the item mentioned.

And now we are going to take a little trip up to the Canadian Exhibition and see if those collectors can help out the forum with a few novelties in unusual dates, and cancellations. We hear that they have some wonderful items up there, and am going to sharpen a lot of pencils and take along some tracing paper so the words may be made of the oddities with their permission. Here's hoping.

RHODESIA

By W. A. Town.

Now that administrative changes are pending in Northern and Southern Rhodesia, which will involve a separate new issue of stamps for the northern and southern parts of the country, the time seems opportune for drawing attention to the interest of the separate issues used in the two divisions in the early days.

About sixteen years ago I began to specialise in the early stamps used in the country now called Rhodesia, and have paid special attention to the Rhodesian issues down to, and including, the 1897 issue, the first issue of Nyasaland, which was also used in the British South Africa Company's northern territory, and the Bechuanaland stamps used in the Matabeleland portion of Southern Rhodesia.

The romance of the country several times traversed by Livingstone, and in which he died, attracted me. The designs depicted on the stamps, and the varied features of interest to be found in the work of four different stamp printers, seemed to me to make the early stamps used in Rhodesia far more interesting than the middle issues of most of our older colonies.

Let me try to show how varied the interest to be found in this early period really is.

There is much of interest to the specialist in the stamps printed by Messrs, Bradbury, Wilkinson and Co., but the different sheet watermarks, to be dealt with later, are an outstanding feature not met with in any other Rhodesian stamps, and the different settings of the B.C.A. overprint in the Nyasaland issue give these stamps additional interest, especially when entire sheets can be obtained.

The feature of the 1895 issue is the difference in the size and impression of the engraving obtained by Messrs. Perkins Bacon and Co. from the Bradbury, Wilkinson plate, by printing on thick, soft, dry, gummed paper with the requisite additional pressure.

The special interest of the 1896 issue, which appears to have attracted more attention than the earlier types, is largely connected with the two dies, the four plates, and the marginal lines which surround the sheets. These stamps were printed in a similar way to the two values just referred to, and like the Rhodesian issues of 1891-94 embrace both line engraving and surface printing in the same stamp. The shades have not been mentioned, but these are numerous enough in this 1896 issue and in Messrs. Bradbury-Wilkinson's work to satisfy the most ardent specialist.

The feature of the Bulawayo Provisionals is of course the surcharges on the Company's stamps, and the overprint with six minor types, on the surface printed stamps of the Cape of Good Hope, but the different issues found in the Cape stamps which were overprinted, the plate numbers in the margins, and the presence or absence of continuous lines round the panes add to the interest of these stamps.

The 1897 issue, printed by Messrs. Waterlow and Sons, gives us varieties of perforation, and consecutive numbers at the right lower corners of the sheets. Perhaps the most interesting of these perforations is the fine gauge, which measures 15½ to 16, discarded by the printers about 1902, and the perforations under 14 (see "Perforations of 1898-1910 Issues of China," by Captain Crawford, in The Monthly Journal, Vol. XX, p. 369).

I have also found a wealth of interest in the postmarks, notably in an endeavour to locate the post offices, where the different numbers and letters were used, which are found in the centre of the obliterations composed of bars, and in the different spellings of some places in the circular-dated postmarks.

The interest of the Bechuanaland stamps "used abroad" at the Protectorate post office near Bulawayo, from August, 1888, to about 1894, will be readily acknowledged. During this time Buiawayo was the chief town of the independent native kingdom of Matabeleland. The *Gu*bulawayo (Bulawayo) circular-dated postmark (frequently found on the Company's stamps at a later date) was used, and an obliteration numbered, I think, 678. These postmarks are very difficult to find on Bechuanaland stamps. This is accounted for by the fact that there were so very few white people in the country when they were used.

Then there are Rhodesian stamps "used abroad" in the Bechuanaland Protectorate. In 1894 the post office in the Tati district of the Bechuanaland Protectorate was handed over to the British South Africa Company, although the division in which it was situated remained under the Protectorate administration as before. Rhodesian stamps were used at the town of Tati from April, 1894, to July, 1897, when the Tati post office was transferred to Francistown, on the coming of the railway, and at Francistown (mis-spelled Francestown in the postmark) from July, 1897, to September, 1898, from which date the High Commissioner of South Africa had decided this post office should revert to Bechuanaland control.

Lastly, there are the stamps overprinted B.C.A., used in Northern Rhodesia. Collectors must often have been puzzled by these stamps being catalogued by Messrs. Gibbons under Nyasaland, and by Messrs. Bright and Son under Rhodesia, with a note intimating that their use was confined to Northern Rhodesia. As a matter of fact they were supplied by the British South Africa Company to Sir Harry H. Johnston for use in both territories, under the following circumstances. When Sir Harry Johnston was appointed administrator of the British Central Africa Protectorate [Note:—The Protectorate was not administered "under the Company's Charter" as stated in "British Africa," Part I.] (Nyasaland) by the Imperial Government in 1890, he also agreed (no doubt with the approval of the authorities) to administer Northern Rhodesia for the British South Africa Company, an unpaid post which he held until 1895. During this period the Company paid the expenses of the administration of Northern Rhodesia and contributed an annual subsidy for the maintenance of a police force, for use in both territories, besides rendering the administrator other aid. In making this arrangement the Company was no doubt influenced by the fact that the most attractive portion of their northern territory was much more accessible from Nyasaland than from Southern Rhodesia, and that Nyasaland provided the natural outlet from this region to the coast. Although the different status of Northern Rhodesia and the Nyasaland Protectorate was clearly recognised from the first, the whole area administered by Sir Harry Johnston was known as British Central Africa until the Company assumed the direct administration of their own territory in 1895.

Twenty-four places are mentioned in Mr. Melville's handbook on British Central Africa as having post offices in 1893-94, and of these I find seven were in Northern Rhodesia, viz.: Fife, Abercorn, Tanganyika (Sunbu), Rhodesia [Note:—The map in Sir Harry Johnston's "British Central Africa" has Rhodesia in place of Kalungwisi, but Mr. Melland places it at Chienji, further north, and the postal organization map in Mr. Melville's hand-book supports this view.] (Chienji), Kalungwisi, Johnston Falls, and Fort Rosebery. On reference to a map it will be seen that all these post offices were in the extreme north of the Company's territory, except the two last mentioned, which are somewhat further south.

There was one postal organisation for the whole area, the same types of dated postmark with B.C.A. at bottom being used in both territories. An oval obliteration with the number 859 was used at Fort Rosebery, and a similar one with 860 at Abercorn. I have been unable to identify any postmark on these stamps with Kalungwisi or Johnston Falls.

The British South Africa Company kindly inform me that the stamps overprinted B.C.A. continued in use in Northern Rhodesia until some time in 1898,

They Cost You 50c!

50 Consecutive Numbers of my Weekly Bargain Lists cost you 50c.

Some seem to think I have a colossal nerve to ask it.

Others write me that they would not miss a single number at five times the cost.

Certainly no other stamp dealer in America offers a similar proposition.

Every week you receive a price list with 20 to 30 new offers in 20th Century stamps—New Issues, Obsolete Issues, Cheap Stamps, Medium-priced Stamps, Rare Stamps—all kinds of 20th Century Stamps in Singles and in Sets.

Many Very Special Bargains are offered—some of these will save you the price of a year's subscription on a single purchase.

Many tips are given concerning stamps that are likely to have a big future — a little more than a year ago these lists offered Cyprus Nos. 87 & 88 at $9.00 per pair and urged their purchase as an investment. Many like instances could be mentioned.

It costs me 75c in postage to mail these lists to you and the cost of stationery and printing is at least as much—so that I am only asking you to pay one-third the cost. I want active buyers only as subscribers. I want those who appreciate good stamps at reasonable prices, who know a Bargain when they see one and who will take advantage of my large stock and my courteous service.

I don't want cheap skates or pikers, for they will waste their own time as well as mine.

I just want honest-to-goodness collectors of 20th Century stamps, whether their collections be small or large, and for their 50c I will give them full value—and a great deal more.

If you are such, send on that four bits and just ask to be put down for 50 lists.

Incidentally, in next week's MEKEEL'S I will offer a very fine lot of 20th Century stamps in mint sets — watch for my advertisement.

OCTOBER 16—A general line of stamps with "something for everybody." In this sale may be found a special consignment of 1c 1851's all plated, early U. S. covers with Western Franks and Mississippi River Packet cancellations, a few rare 20th Century British Colonials such as the 10sh Malta superbly used, the 10sh and £1 Cyprus and St. Kitts, etc., etc.

NOVEMBER 12—A part of the superb mint collection formed by Mr. Charles Stuart Street of New York City. This sale embraces both 19th and 20th Centuries, the latter predominating. Almost every stamp is Superb Mint. Many rarities are included, among which can be mentioned 10sh Malta, 50r G. E. A., 10 franc green Luxemburg, a superb Philippine No. 4, 5 franc Monaco first issue, Philippine on U. S. all the high values, and last but not least, the superb lots by countries which are verily the finest collections by countries ever offered at auction.

DECEMBER 10 and 11—The entire collection formed by the late Mr. John Fry sold by order of the executors.

The U. S. portion contains many rarities, only a few of which can be mentioned here: e. g., St. Louis Bear, complete mint sheet of Providence, 1c 1851 type 1a, mint block of six of the 1c 1857, three being type II and three type IIIa, 3c Scarlet, complete set of 1869 re-issue, 1c 1901 inverted, etc.

Departments are complete with the exception of the $5 State and in superb mint condition. The finest lot of Departments we have ever seen. Several rare envelopes and revenues in extremely fine condition. Only one Confederate, an entire Danville envelope.

The Foreign is strongest in the 20th Century. The British Colonials are practically complete, including ALL the rarities, even high values up to £5 and 50 rupees. The other 20th Century contain many VERY RARE WAR STAMPS. Among the 19th Century are a special lot of Danish West Indies and French Colonials, including many rarities.

If not on our mailing list, drop us a postal card and receive catalogues of these fine sales.

Frank P. Brown Co., 5 Bromfield St., Boston, Mass.

i.e. for three or four years after they assumed the direct administration of this territory. This does not appear, however, to have exhausted the stock of these stamps, and remainders withdrawn from sale are still, I believe, in the Company's hands.

The postal business at these Northern Rhodesian post offices appears to have been small, consequently the B. C. A. stamps used in this territory (prior to 1899) are very scarce, the Fife postmark being perhaps the easiest to find. They are more common, however, with Abercorn and Fife postmark dated 1899 or early in 1900. A few of these may have passed through the post, but most of the stamps with these dates appear to have been postmarked in blocks or sheets to order, or to oblige.

As there is a difference of opinion as to where this issue was actually used, the number of these stamps in my collection used in each territory may be of interest. They have been collected during a fairly long period from many sources. Leaving out of count 44 copies, most of which have obliterations with numbers or letters I cannot locate, I find I have 103 copies used in Nyasaland, compared with 20 used in Northern Rhodesia prior to 1899. Their use appears to have begun earlier in Nyasaland than in Northern Rhodesia, and to have continued later in the latter territory. I have two covers franked with these stamps used in Nyasaland in September, 1891, at Zomba and Ruo respectively, but doubt very much whether post offices were opened in more distant and less settled Northern Rhodesia until a year or two later than this.

It seems to me, therefore, that these stamps are rightly placed in Gibbons Catalogue under Nyasaland, but I would suggest a note under Rhodesia, stating that they were issued for use in Northern Rhodesia as well, would be of advantage.

I wish to acknowledge my indebtedness to the Secretary of the British South Africa Company for much valued help; to Mr. G. H. Eyre, when Postmaster-General of Southern Rhodesia, for kindly giving me particulars regarding the use of Rhodesian stamps at Tati and Francistown, and to Mr. J. Dunbar Heath of Messrs. Perkins Bacon and Co., Ltd., who was good enough to explain to me their method of printing the 1895 and 1896 issues of Rhodesia.

The particulars relating to the Chartered Company's connection with the Administrator of the Nyasaland Protectorate have been chiefly taken from Sir Harry Johnston's book, British Central Africa, where further details regarding this matter may be found.

Postscript.—Since writing the above I have seen Mr. Barry May's reference to this matter in the South African Philatelist of October, 1923, p. 122. As this appears to be in conflict with my statement that the Tati District remained under the Bechuanaland Protectorate Administration when these stamps were used, I append the evidence upon which my statement was based.

Being anxious to determine the status of Rhodesian stamps used in the Tati District of the Protectorate, I made enquiries some years ago from the British South Africa Company and from the Colonial Office.

In a letter received from the Secretary of the British South Africa Company, dated 26, March, 1914, I was informed that "the Tati District was never under the administration of the Company," and the reply received from the Colonial Office, headed, Downing Street, 2nd April, 1914, stated that "the Tati District forms part of the Bechuanaland Protectorate and the British South Africa Company have never exercised any administrative authority there."

The Company's post office at Tati, and later at Francistown, was also their telegraph office. The telegraph in the Protectorate has always, I believe, been in the Company's hands.

The history of the Tati District, philatelic and otherwise, is particularly interesting, and at a future time I hope to give further details regarding it.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The Advance Sheets have been coming regularly and if there is no hitch at the last minute, the new catalogue will be out on the date advertised, "about October 10th, 1925."

—Mr. A. William Bloss, better known as Bill Bloss, is making a trip that embraces Chicago and other cities that feel their philatelic oats. Bill is as full of quaint philatelic philosophy as ever and we hope to have him take charge of his old department in the WEEKLY again, devoted to the new collectors.

—Those who predict a good philatelic season do not know the half of it. All signs and portents signify that it will eclipse anything heretofore known in the stamp line. Publicity and the great exhibition in New York a year from now will turn the trick.

—The following officers were elected at a meeting of Chicago Branch, No. 1, American Philatelic Society, held September 15th, 1925: President, G. Neville Wheat; Vice-President, J. F. Vickrey; Secretary, Paul W. Himan, and Treasurer, Frank G. Everard. The address of the secretary is 7603 Langley Avenue.

—Old Doc Hennan must know the editor of the Comet of Chicago, who may have a charge account with him or how would it come that the following appeared in the Comet's columns:

"Jan Goede, traveling salesman for a firm of old postage stamp dealers at Amsterdam, Holland, arrived in Chicago Tuesday and called on Dr. C. W. Hennan at 7602 Paxton Ave. with his stock in trade.

He had with him a large stock of stamps of all countries which, he explained, was badly depleted, due to his trip to the Pacific coast and his stops in a number of cities on the way east. He will remain in New York for a short time and expects to sail for Holland in about two weeks.

He says he made a special trip to Chicago to see the collection of Holland and colonies owned by Dr. Hennan which, Mr. Goede says, is finer and more valuable than anything which can be seen in Holland."

—A poor innocent little boy said the other day that he wished that his father was a stamp dealer. Such simple faith is better than coronets and things, and dealers should act accordingly.

—Mr. W. G. Windhurst, Marion, Ohio, recently picked up a three cent green on cover with the railroad cancellation, "Athe. & Upt., 25 Oct., Agt." that "sounds scarce." Who knows what the road is?

—The Precancel Gazette for September reaches its 52nd number, resuming publication after being "at liberty" since February of this year. A new editor, Mr. Al Burns, is at the helm, but Mr. V. M. Rotnem still guides its managerial destinies.

—There has been a delay in acknowledging the receipt of three sightly labels issued by the Denver Stamp Club, A. P. S. Branch 22, for publicity purposes. The enterprise of the Denver folks is well turned and the stamps will make an impression when used as seals on letters. The central design is a picture of the state capitol at Denver with corner ornaments showing columbines (the state flower of Colorado). The labels are lithographed and are of three colors, green, brown and blue, respectively.

—Some time ago Mr. Willard P. Snyder, Ashland, Pa., wrote: "Recently, I sent an order to the Philatelic Agency in which I requested a supply of the 2c Washington, rotary press, perforated 11 by 10, catalogue number 575. I was informed that the supply of this stamp was exhausted, a statement that will interest your readers, no doubt."

—Dr. C. W. Hennan, president of the Chicago Philatelic Society, recently shipped his collection of Netherlands and colonies in eighteen volumes to Montreal for exhibition.

—Mr. Samuel W. F. Weill of 136 Crestmont Terrace, Collingswood, N. J., is organizing a stamp club for residents in his section, where he has done much to proclaim the attractions of philately. Incidentally, he became the father of a brand new philatelist, a baby girl.

—We are pleased to have the wedding announcement of the marriage of Anna Elizabeth Hoeller to Olaf Julian Olson of St. Paul; and best wishes are conveyed to our friends.

—Mr. Harold C. Brooks, incidentally mayor of Marshall, Michigan, was a recent visitor to Chicago, where he showed a really wonderful lot of U. S. covers, which he has amassed during the past years, among which was his famous New Haven cover. In due course, we shall have the privilege of giving some adequate idea of the unusual things in his possession.

—Again, we hear that a new weekly stamp paper is to be launched from St. Louis, but we shall await particulars before saying more, the weekly in question having been promised before.

—Mr. Stacy H. Hume is informed that the twenty cent black special delivery stamp, issued last April, is intended for parcels subject to the increased special delivery fees or on parcels weighing more than ten pounds. The fifteen cent special is required for the special delivery of matter weighing more than two pounds, but not more than ten pounds. These rates are in addition to the regular postage.

—In the WEEKLY of August 17, 1925, Mr. Frank L. Coes, Worcester, Mass., contributed an article, "Committee on Public Relations," to have a general overseership of philately as affected by general conditions, broadly speaking. The following interesting letter on the subject broached by Mr. Coes has been received from Mr. Michael Miller of Baltimore, who has been active in what may be called a legislative sense when philatelic interests are involved:

"I am heartily in favor of such committee because there seems to be no concerted action whenever a matter of public nature arises. Particularly is this so when bills are in Congress that affect Philately and the poor bills have to ride the rough seas, buffeted hither and thither, without the guidance of even a mediocre mariner.

So much is this true, that when a recent bill was in Congress, the President of one of the leading philatelic societies requested all members to write to their senators. When I did get the senator from my state to do something he wrote me that the bill had died one of the usual natural deaths.

Then again there is another instance that I recall not so long ago, when the officials of one of the leading stamp societies and leading philatelists could not agree as to what was the best course to pursue in connection with the bill, which was finally passed, permitting partial reproductions of the stamps.

Thus you can readily see that Mr. Coes had made a suggestion that should require some action by all concerned and not let it drift into a state of innocuous desuetude. The committee could consist of representatives from leading stamp societies, as well as unaffiliated influential philatelists, who could keep close touch in Washington or any other large cities of the country, with matters that involve legislation as well as publicity, and speak authoritatively for all philatelists."

Business Prospects Bright

Reports from Leading Stamp Centres of the Country Very Optimistic

By WILLARD O. WYLIE

The writer has just returned from a six weeks trip through the west, travelling as far north as Vancouver and as far south as San Diego. Wherever he has come in contact with stamp dealers, he has found a very optimistic feeling prevailing as regards the trade conditions of the coming season. There is a good foundation for this feeling of satisfaction. The country is prosperous, there is very little unemployment and the contentment in general lines of business is so stable as to be reflected in the stamp trade.

Without a doubt the coming Exhibition at New York will prove a decided tonic in increasing philatelic activity. Large publicity should result as every item of news relative to this event will be eagerly seized upon by the general press. The WEEKLY stands ready to give the Exhibition large publicity but the Press Committee must realize that one cannot make bricks without straw.

This issue of the WEEKLY speaks a known language in the advertising it carries. The trade says unitedly: "We believe in publicity." These firms have built their faith into the great stocks they carry and they look not only to the WEEKLY but to every organized factor to industriously, indefatigably and zealously mission the public with philatelic publicity.

A Real Slaughter Sale
With Investment Bargains

Genuine Price Slashing for the Legitimate Purpose of Quickly Realizing on $50,000 Worth of Seasoned 19th Century Classic Issues.

For several years this firm has carried a comparatively large investment in fine 19th century foreign stamps. It has taken us a long time to realize that while the investment was perfectly sound it is poor business to leave upwards of $50,000 lying in a safe deposit vault simply because we have not sufficient help to handle it, in addition to our large stock of specialized United States.

Now we propose to sell at any old price everything but British North America and, of course, United States. That means our discounts will range from 50% to 75% off catalog figures for really fine things, not for seconds, but picked material taken from valuable collections. This is a real investment opportunity, and worth serious investigation.

THE FORUM

By H. P. ATHERTON, 318 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Every once in a while some enthusiast on early United States writes in about odd rates on early United States covers. If stuck, I turn to the booklet "U. S. Postage Rates" by Sampson, 10c, as advertised by MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. It is a dandy book to have round, for with a few spare moments you can pick it up and read some lines which will "put you wise" to maybe just the thing you were wondering about a week ago when you saw a cover that had an unusual combination of stamps to carry it.

While it is stamps you want to spend you money for, there is always a certain satisfaction in knowing as much as you can about what stamps you have. Then you will know what to look for to further your collection, and why you will need certain items that are seen, tho' allowed to get away, then wanted later on.

Turn to page 448, MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. Give our book list in the lower left hand corner a careful perusal. You will see several items in that list that you should read. These books will answer a lot of questions that you have had in mind. The prices are more than reasonable, too, so it is all to your advantage to start a little library of your own, or maybe order a couple of each of them, and give the duplicate to the Club, or to the Boy's Club, or maybe they are just the Stamp Gang so far. A few books like that will help turn a gang into a club.

Some of you who feel that "All U. S. makes Jack a dull boy", can pick out a number of countries to specialize in from that list, or go even further and study the stamps of some wee, isolated, unknown, inaccessible, stamp-issuing country, or a hard-to-get issue of that country, then write a book of your own.

The last number of Scott's Monthly Journal contains a beautiful lot of pictured watermarkings which they are going to have in their 1926 edition of the Catalog. They are real wmks. this year, and there will be 192 in all, every one a picture! You'll like this innovation. One shows an umbrella for a wmk., and another shows a block of four apparently, with what would make a nice design for a Persian rug, being of Swastikas and Petals alternately. They have me guessing as to the countries of issue all right. Then there is the Spring Bock, no, Bok, and the various wreaths, and flowers indigenous to the stamp issuing country. I wish that it were lawfully possible to reproduce our cancellations in a manner similar to this.

Here is a proposition that I would like to see presented to the Postal Authorities, viz.—The United States stamps issued prior to 1861's are invalid for postage today. Being demonetized, they are not negotiable. Now, what I can't get through my thick skull is why the picturing of a demonetized stamp in cancelled condition is counterfeiting. Think of the pretty illustrations we could show in the way of beautiful covers all stuck over with 90c 1857's; cancelled with horseshoes, flying squirrels, etc., great, eh? But it can't be done—yet. Never is a long, long time tho', and we may some day see demonetized stamps in pictures, as we do our U. S. coins. It's an odd ruling that permits illustrating coins, and prohibits stamps. Always remember when at the movies to cover your eyes at the point where our hero, Jack, received the letter from Esmeralda, for the chances are about even that the letter bears a stamp, and it might show in the picture!

Knocking doesn't do any good tho', and when sane efforts fail, the remedy seems to be to "forget it".

Here are a couple of hints on the mounting of stamps: First. When you wish to mount stamps neatly for your own carefully arranged collection. Question,—Why do my stamps not lie flat in their album; but show a small series of waves on the surface? Answer,—Wet paper (the hinge) fastened to dry paper (the stamp) develops unequal tension when both are dry.

Remedy—Bend over only about ⅛ of the hinge, and moisten it barely enough to stick to the stamp, then lay the stamp down on its face quickly, before it dries, and press down the fold, stamp tongs are best but your thumb nail will do. Then when you moisten the hinge part that is affixed to the album page, do not moisten more than the bottom half. This allows some play at the top when you raise up the stamp to see the back, and will not bend over all the perfs if the hinge is on the stamp way up near the top.

The second method is for mounting commoner items rapidly.

Bend a bunch of hinges about ⅓ of the way down so that the gummed faces are outermost. Then slip your stamp into correct position, after having bent it a trifle so that the top part is barely off the paper; then grab your hinge in your tweezers and moisten both sides at one lick, so to speak, lightly, so the hinge does not lose its shape, for then it would not slip in under the stamp, but end in a jumble of wet paper, and your disgust would be hurled back at me.

In mounting stamps, use tweezers, moisten the hinges very little, and place a fairly heavy weight on the finished sheets of mounted stamps. Practice makes perfect.

THE NEW SCOTT CATALOG

(By the time this issue of the WEEKLY appears, the new Standard Catalog will be in general circulation. The publishers have done well to place this book upon the market at the beginning of the season. We forestall any review of the work by publishing this description of the new book as seen by the publishers themselves.—W. O. W.)

The 1926 edition of Scott's American standard postage stamp catalogue, to be placed on sale about October 19, will contain many features which will make the book more valuable to the collector than it has ever been before.

Watermarks will be shown by means of a photographic process—something unprecedented in the history of the hobby.

Turn to page 1485 of the current 1925 catalogue. There you will find watermark "reproductions" which are virtually only free hand drawings. Admittedly they are old, incomplete and inaccurate. The watermark illustrations to be found in the standard catalogues published in foreign countries are not much better in respect to giving assistance to collectors.

In Scott's 1926 catalogue there will be shown actual illustrations, made with the aid of the camera, of watermarks as they truly appear when stamps are placed in benzine so that the thinned spots—that is, the watermarking—show up black to the eye.

Approximately 200 such illustrations will appear in a section by itself. A special grade of paper will be used, so that the watermarks will show to the best advantage.

Every known watermark will be thus reproduced, and each will have its own type number. Eventually—there was not time to do the work for the 1926 catalogue—these type numbers will be inserted near the stamp illustrations themselves, through the body of the book, so as to enable the collector readily to connect watermark and stamp. Meanwhile the Scott company has under consideration publishing a special booklet, independent of the new catalogue, containing the watermark illustrations. On that point, more in a subsequent Journal.

An important development is that during the making of the illustrations there were discovered a number of minor differences hitherto unidentified with philately. Some of these are definite enough to warrant the stamps containing them being classified as distinct varieties, and that will be done in the chronicling in the 1926 catalogue. Grills of all the U. S. issues which bear them will be measured by points instead of by millimeters—a method of classifying never before undertaken.

The point method of classifying grills, in preference to the current millimeter system, is designed to simplify for the general collector a situation that has sometimes been discouraging to him. Probably not one philatelist in a hundred makes constant use of a millimeter scale, and even when he does he is not certain that he has rightly identified the grill of the stamp he is examining.

In the revised way of dealing with grills the number of points across and the number of points down will each be stated in the catalogue, and thus the collector will find it easier in the future to decide in which "blank space" in his album each grilled stamp should be placed. And the establishing of such accuracy in classifying will mean the chronicling of some new minor varieties.

There will be no change in the price of the new edition. The clothbound book will cost $2 a copy; the leatherbound indexed one, $2.50. In number of pages, the 1926 Scott's will be considerably larger than the present one, owing of course to the fact that some 1,500 to 2,000 varieties of stamps have been issued since the 1925 book was compiled about a year ago, and many of these newcomers call for space-occupying illustrations.

Probably the average non-philatelist has the impression that the prices of all stamps are raised yearly in order to assure dealers fresh profits. Again does the Scott catalogue show that that is not true. Some of the philatelic quotations have been increased, others reduced—all prices being regulated, as nearly as it is possible to determine, by the well-known law of supply and demand.

Notable among the price reductions are those attached to hundreds of the new issues of recent years, particularly the so-called speculative sets of Europe. Profiteering wholesalers abroad who held back large stocks with a hope of disposing of the stamps a few at a time while prices were enhanced, have finally become discouraged and have dumped onto the market great blocks of certain issues. Thus the supplies of such stamps have become amply abundant to meet philately's needs—and obviously prices must collapse. All of which is duly reflected in quotations in the 1926 catalogue.

On the contrary—and as was to be expected—the prices of U. S. stamps are being increased, owing to their growing popularity, which, in turn, strengthens the demand and makes them harder to obtain. It's that way with stocks down in Wall Street—the same principle applies. Incidentally there will be more elaborate listings of the 10c of the issues of 1851-57.

There will be some drastic upward changes in the prices of some of the stamps of the British colonies, with relation to the multiple CA watermarked paper and the script CA watermarked paper. It transpires that certain of these watermarked stamps were short-lived—so much so that supplies are insufficient to meet philately's requirements.

Another cause of price increases is the rapidly shifting postal rates of France and French colonies, a situation which produced some denominations which were not in use long and the supplies of which are accordingly relatively scant.

RECENT ISSUES OF SALVADOR

By PAUL C. STANDLEY.

During the past year the government of Salvador has put into circulation a series of nine stamps to supersede the handsome set issued in 1921. According to information furnished by a friend, Dr. Salvador Calderón of San Salvador, the stamps of 3 and 20 centavos were placed in circulation January 1, 1925; those of 10, 35, and 50 centavos, February 1, 1925. The 5 centavo stamp was issued in 1924, at least as early as December 5th; while those of 1, 2 and 20 centavos have been placed on sale more recently.

The 1 centavo stamp bears a reproduction of the monument to Daniel Hernández in Hernández Park, in the beautiful city of Santa Tecla. Hernández is noted for his work in improving the educational system of Salvador, and was born in Santa Tecla.

Upon the 2 centavo stamp is seen the recently erected public gymnasium in San Salvador. Upon the 3 centavo stamp appears an idealized figure of Atlacatl, most famous of the rulers of the Nahuatl people who inhabited the Valley of San Salvador (sometimes called the Valley of Hammocks, because of its frequent earthquakes) at the arrival of the Spaniards under Don Pedro de Alvarado, in 1525. The natives of Salvador were of the same race as those of the Valley of Mexico, and of different stock from those dwelling in most parts of intervening Guatemala.

The stamp of 5 centavos bears a scene entitled "Conspiración de 1811"—"Conspiracy of 1811," the local initiation of the struggle for independence from the Spanish crown, which attained success in 1821. Four priests may be seen in the picture; the one seated at the table is José Matías Delgado, the Father of Central American Independence.

Upon the stamp of 6 centavos is a view of the railroad bridge over the Lempa River in eastern Salvador, one of the largest Central American streams. This bridge has been completed only three years, and is the property of a North American company which operates the railroad between San Salvador and Cutuco, the latter a port on the Gulf of Fonseca.

The 10 centavo stamp is similar to a recent issue of Costa Rica and of the same color, but the Costa Rican stamp shows only a map of Costa Rica, while on the Salvadorean one is a map of all Central America. Such an advertisement of the geographic position of Salvador is much needed, for all too often its name is confused with that of San Salvador, the island of the West Indies upon which Columbus made his first landing. It may be mentioned here that the proper and official name of the Republic is El Salvador, "The Saviour;" while the capital is San Salvador, or "Saint Saviour." Salvador is the smallest of the American republics and the most densely populated. It is very rich in agricultural resources, is advanced in material affairs, and has a stable government. The country is a beautiful one and an agreeable place to visit, and the people are hospitable and delightful, as the writer can testify from personal experience.

It is probable that the placing upon the 10 centavo stamp of a map of all Central America rather than one of Salvador alone has a political significance. This Republic has always been the most loyal advocate of a united Central American Republic, which actually existed for many years. Salvador has never fully admitted the dissolution of that alliance, and most of her stamps bear besides the name of the country the words "Centro América," while as late as 1898, long after the actual dissolution of the Central American Federation, they bore the inscription "República Mayor de Centro América."

The 20 centavo stamp is the most interesting of the series of 1925. It bears an artistic and characteristic representation of a balsam tree, with the somewhat cryptic statement, "Only El Salvador produces Balsam of Peru." The balsam tree is widely distributed in tropical America, but all or nearly all its product is produced in a small region of Salvador, known as the Balsam Coast. The balsam, an oily fragrant liquid of pungent flavor, is obtained by tapping the trees, and the process of preparation for market is highly interesting. It is used in the manufacture of certain medicines, and by two papal bulls, of 1562 and 1571, its use was authorized in the services of the church. Its export is a business of some importance.

In colonial days the balsam was valued in medicine more highly than today, and was much in demand in Spain. In accordance with her customary policy of concealing so far as possible from other countries the resources of her colonies, the Spanish government insisted that the balsam should not be exported directly to Europe from Salvador, but instead it was sent first to Peru, and represented as originating in the latter country, hence the misleading name under which it is still known to commerce — Balsam of Peru, although none of the article comes from Peru.

According to the Official Gazette, the design of the 35 centavo stamp "represents the national agriculture." It is the portrait of a very attractive young lady, quite up to date with her bobbed hair, probably from a local photograph. There are two legends, one of them strangely enough in English, "The best coffee," this a translation of the Castilian legend. Coffee is the principal export of Salvador, as of most of the Central American countries. Central American coffee is of superior quality, obtaining in the foreign markets, with that of northern South America — Colombia and Ecuador — the highest price of all American coffee. There is great rivalry among the Central American republics as to which produces the best coffee, but it is only fair to state that it is all excellent, and of a quality such as may be sought in vain in the United States.

The last stamp of the series, of 50 centavos, according to the official Gazette, shows "Christopher Columbus before the scholars."

The stamps of 60 centavos and 1 colon of the series of 1921, are still on sale in San Salvador. Official stamps of the same series are still in use.

The most recent stamp issued by Salvador is a commemorative one, dating from August 1, 1925, and celebrates the four hundredth anniversary of the founding of the capital, San Salvador. It is the 60 centavos of 1921, surcharged in red with the dates 1525 and 1925 and a new value of 2 centavos. Dr. Calderón informs me that these stamps were on sale from August 1st to 6th, but that a small quantity remained unsold, and that these were still being sold (August 10th) two hours each day, but only to be attached upon the spot to mail matter.

CONVENTION OF THE A. S. D. A.

The annual convention of the American Stamp Dealers' Association was held on the afternoon of September 28, 1925 at the Collectors Club, New York, and for three and one-half hours general and special business was discussed to advantage. The president, J. Murray Bartels, was in the chair and W. F. Slusser, secretary, was at his post, while nearly thirty members were on hand. At the meeting unwittingly was called on the Jewish Day of Atonement, the attendance suffered somewhat on that account, it is fair to say. President Bartels gave an interesting opening speech in which he drew attention to the increase in membership during the past fiscal year and the necessity of inviting the co-operation of reputable dealers who are not members, as yet, in pressing the campaign against the crooks of philately. The alacrity with which news was circulated about frauds was praised and the warnings that were sent out certainly did much to curtail the losses that have been suffered. The address of the vice-president, Charles J. Phillips, was a stirring one and we shall subjoin a good part of it to this report.

The report of the secretary, Mr. Slusser, was listened to attentively as it gave an idea of the extent of his activities and his statement as treasurer showed that the finances of the organization were sound, with about $400 in the bank. After these reports, Robert Crawford, the incoming secretary, outlined the work that he would take up at the first of the coming year, when his term of office began, and the meeting was favorably impressed by his views and remarks.

Much discussion was indulged in on different subjects of interest as they were developed and a summary of the work accomplished is submitted. It was decided to reprint the list of frauds of all kinds which had been reported to the association for circulation among members, as for some years no complete list of the kind has been published. The question of publicity had its inning, and after expressions of opinion by Messrs. Clark, Seely and Binmore and many others, a committee of four, Hugh M. Clark, chairman, was appointed to consider the best methods in the interest of the trade by which to achieve the desired end. The committee is to report to the directors in due course. A long discussion was precipitated by the question of the position of the dealer in connection with stamp guarantees, submitted by Mr. Phillips. Mr. Bartels said that he was present at a discussion on the same subject at the meeting of the dealers' society in Hamburg. No final decision was reached in either instance as it was felt that to a great extent the question was one that was between the dealer and his customer. The problem was then viewed from the auctioneer's stand and the difficulty of citing any certain stamp as the original or substitute after the passing of many years and a remarkable case of where a substituted stamp masqueraded as the one that was actually sold at auction was told of by Mr. Wolsieffer. The question in effect was tabled after it was shown that in almost every case the point at issue was peculiar to the one instance. It was decided that the by-laws be amended so that the annual meeting next year might be held at New York, just before, during or just after the International Philatelic Exhibition in October, 1925.

The meeting was one that did much to cement trade relations and to strengthen the position of the A. S. D. A.

Portions of the address of the vice-president, Charles J. Phillips, are appended:

At these annual meetings of a large number of American stamp dealers I think it would be a wise thing to discuss subjects that might help and guide us in our business. Those of us who have been in the game as long as I have—nearly forty years—must have gathered some ideas that might be worth open discussion.

I hope you will allow me to say that I am first and foremost a booster for Philately, in all I say or write I have only one aim, and that is to popularize

Ir. Stamp Collector
Dear Sir:—

Last January I purchased from Stanley Gibbons, Inc., of New York, their entire stock of XIX century stamps and in July I acquired a XIX century collection worth over $15,000.00.

This great accumulation has now been sorted, the damaged discarded and the better stamps reserved for my approval customers. With what I previously held, these additions give me a stock catalogng over $150,000.00 and having a range of from 25,000 to 30,000 arieties, especially strong in old European, British Colonies, French olonies, South and Central America and, in fact, I have something rom almost everywhere.

I am also rearranging and remaking my approval selections in ree grades to fit the collections and pocket books of all sorts of llectors, as follows:

"A" books contain cheap stamps in great variety and are inended for those just commencing to collect and who wish to get as rge a variety for as little money as possible. In these the highest riced stamps seldom exceed 10c net. About 5,000 varieties.

"B" books are for the general collector whose collection is not rge and whose expenditure is more or less limited. These selecons contain as large a variety of stamps ranging in value from 1c $1.00 as my stock will produce—over 15,000 varieties.

"C" books are the very best that I can make, being intended r those endeavoring to make their collections as complete as posble. The BEST copy of every variety in stock is ALWAYS ounted and in both used and unused condition where I have them. lso many shades, blocks and pairs are included.

ALL stamps in ALL selections are mounted on loose book aves BY COUNTRIES, in order of issue and may be sent you to ver any range of countries that you may desire. hobby. Every dealer in America ght to do all in his power in his ne district and in his travels, get publicity for our hobby. This be done in many ways:—Write l contribute articles on stamp collectto the general press, point out the antages of our hobby to the youth of country, as an aid to teaching history geography, draw attention to the adtages of a hobby to the keen business n, and when advisable show that when mp collecting is conducted on well conered lines it is almost always a real d investment. Contrast it with other bies, show that philately is the best m many points of view, for example, akes up little bulk, the stamp collector take one or more volumes of his colion to club and social meetings; the , picture or furniture collector can- do this. No hobby is so instructive youth as philately. It teaches habits exactness and neatness, develops ly of detail, all so useful to us later n any business career.

dvocate the formation of philatelic eties in all large centers of popula- Get collectors together, talk to n on the thousand and one interesting fects a dealer knows. The day has e by when you can get a collector to d out of your hands" and not feed where. Such ideas are puerile and fashioned. The best buyers we have ay are those who meet many other ctors at their clubs and societies and , by so doing, get the idea to com- with one another. Such men are of h more use to the trade than the man is kept in the backwoods, never wed to see another collector or colon and who lacks the competitive force to be a good buyer.

I think that all American dealers would be well advised to try and "sell" to their customers the fact that the stamps of many other countries are as interesting and as profitable to collect as those of the United States.

In the great European centers of collecting, the home collector naturally turns first to the stamps of their own country but I do not think in Great Britain, Germany or France, the stamps of those countries are collected by anything like the percentage of collectors that take United States stamps only, in this country.

Any American dealer can sell all the United States stamps he can get so he has no need to boost them; on the other hand many dealers have good and valuable lines of foreign stamps for which he has little demand because he has not sufficient business acumen to boost them.

There is also another point for us to bear in view, the profit on old United States stamps, unused, used, or on cover, is, in most cases, very small. Few of these can be bought much below market value, and the general result is that the dealer gets a large turnover with little net profit after his overhead is paid.

In three years' experience over here I have found that it has paid me very much better to invest my capital in side lines of United States stamps, such as Locals, Departmentals, and Confederate States, and after these in profit and salability I place British North Americans, early South and Central Americans, West Indies, some of the countries of Europe where the exchange rates are near normal, such as the fine group of Scandinavia, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland. Following these I have also found profitable lines to be British Colonies in Africa, Australians, Japan, etc. In almost all cases I have mentioned there is a good sale for the older issues of these countries, and as supplies can be generally bought at a much cheaper rate than United States stamps, the profit is considerably larger.

My own personal opinion, in which I am supported by the opinion of many of the largest collectors that I know, is that United States stamps have been overboomed. Probably few of you realize the enormous mass of early United States stamps that are tied up in some of the larger collections. I know of three collectors, who are the largest holders of United States stamps, and these three men between them have 850 volumes of stamps already mounted and arranged, and a very large proportion of these are United States stamps. I believe that five well known American collectors hold United States stamps worth about four million dollars.

I know well that all United States collections that are offered are readily sold and up to now at advancing prices, but the bulk of stamps held in the hands of say fifty of the leading specialists in United States stamps is truly stupendous, and as time goes on I think the unloading of these stamps will be apt to be greater than the new demand for them, great as I know it is at present.

I am no pessimist, but I do like to try and have "visions" and to look to the future, that is why I earnestly advocate that dealers will be wise to turn the attention of their clients to other branches of collecting, rather than that of United States stamps.

This America of ours is the greatest and richest country that has ever existed, because since the days of the "Mayflower" it has been gradually built up, by hardy, sturdy and bold thinkers from Holland, Great Britain, Scandinavia, Germany and elsewhere, who have sought over here the freedom of expression that has been denied them in their home lands.

There is no doubt in my own mind but that this amalgamation that is still taking place is producing the most virile race that has ever existed, but in the course of such an admixture of nationalities we find some characters that are not all we could wish. To one of these I want specially to refer, the "knocker," as I find this particular variety of pest more prevalent in America than any of the many countries I know.

I wonder if these "knockers" have ever seriously considered what they are doing. If not I should like to offer a few observations for their serious attention:—

This "knocking" can be divided into two parts: 1st. The harm they are doing themselves. 2nd. The harm they are doing Philately.

Under the first caption I would like to point out that a number of well known collectors have told me of instances where certain dealers have gone to them, examined their collections, and made a practice of finding out from whom they bought and then running down the stamps so bought and the vendors themselves, and eventually leading up to the point of suggesting that Mr. Collectors would be well advised to buy from the speaker and from no one else.

It is my experience that American collectors will not stand for such dirty work and I know of a number of cases where they have ceased to deal with the person who tries such an unethical method of getting business.

Some "knockers" go further than this, as I know of cases where they have gone out of their way to vilify a competitor, even to the extent of inventing stories to his discredit. Lies have a habit of coming home to roost, and I think that the man who tries to get business in this manner always gets the worst of it in the long run.

I could mention dozens of cases that have been told me by collectors and dealers, but I wish to keep off personalities and only to generalize.

The other point of view which the While our picture of the banquet scene is not all that could be desired in presenting the details, yet it will give a go idea of the occasion. Further, it is testimony that philatelists make a commendable showing when they meet with gastr nomic intent at the annual convention of the American Philatelic Society. The dinner was a great success and it will rema in mind as one of the outstanding features of the entertainment so lavishly provided by the Los Angeles members.

The "THOROBRED" PACKET

of 650 Different South and Central America

No Seebecks, no speculative items; Catalogue value over $60.00

Price Only $12.50

This offering is the result of the urgent requests of many patrons who for months have been wanting a real, old-fashioned, honest-to-goodness packet of South and Central America—the kind they used to see in the old days before the inclusion of Seebecks and other "fillers" became the style.

It was a difficult task indeed to accumulate the hundreds of fine items used in the Thorobred packet—for South and Central Americans (after excluding the few speculative items) are almost entirely off the market and exceeding y hard to obtain.

We were assisted in this undertaking not only by the fine-combing of our own extensive stock, but also by the fortunate acquisition of an excellent lot of 19th and ear y 20th from the estate of an old-time dealer.

These two, united, have resulted in the creation of an assembling so exceptional, so attractive, and so brimful of real value that even the most hard-to-please and conservative buyer must assuredly be delighted.

Space does not permit of an adequate description of a collection abounding in so many good points, but here are a few of the distinguishing characteristics:

(1) Every single country of South and Central America is liberally represented.

Argentina—Over one hundred varieties, many peso values and commemoratives; an attractive and valuable assembling of this popular country.

Brazil—About sixty different, beginning with the year 1850 and including commemoratives and high denominations of the postal issues only.

Chile—Without exception the finest assortment of hard-to-get items ever seen in a packet. From 1856 onward, all of the issues are liberally represented. There are scores of 19th century, values up to the 5peso, provisionals, commemoratives including the Pan American—altogether about one hundred varieties, cataloguing nearly ten dollars. These stamps, all fine postally used copies, would alone at retail bring more than half the price of the entire packet.

Ecuador—A nice lot of 20th century, with the popular triangle stamps.

And so on down the line—picked representations from Canal Zone, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Peru, Salvador, Uruguay and all of the others.

(2) Although there may be a half dozen items which go higher, practically all of the stamps will catalogue within a radius of from two to seventy-five cents each. As our stock was by no means complete, hundreds of the very common stamps are probably missing.

(3) Seebecks—By the addition of Seebecks, of which large quantities are now on the market, the packet could easily have been increased to a thousand or more varieties at little extra cost. But this would have robbed the "Thorobred" of its name and of its distinctive quality.

We, therefore, guarantee the positive exclusion of every single Seebeck issue, as well as of bar-cancelled stamps and all other items of a speculative, over-priced nature.

Every stamp is warranted genuine and the average condition is exceptionally fine.

(4) Total catalogue value will exceed $60.00, which makes the net price about one-fifth! The stamps should easily bring at retail over thirty dollars.

We stake our reputation on the quality and value of the Thorobred packet. It is impossible of replacement after present supply is exhausted.

Order yours TODAY on our money-back guarantee!

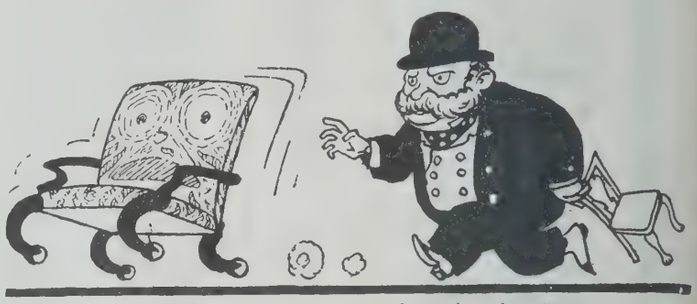
THE COLLECTING MANIA

By Ellis Parker Butler.

(Republished by the special permission of the editor of the "American Legion Weekly" and with the consent of the author, Ellis Parker Butler, in whom all other rights remain.—Editor, MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS.)

Consider this mania folks have for collecting things. Take this hobby for collecting second-hand postage stamps, for instance. I am willing to stand up in church and announce that the most sissified thing a great big able-bodied man can possibly do is to spend hours and hours of precious time gathering together a lot of annulled, defaced and ex-officio postage stamps and pasting them in albums. In the utmost seriousness I declare that I think this thing of collecting discarded postage stamps to be the lowest form of mental exertion of which a man is capable. And that is, I shouldn't wonder, why I have been a tireless postage stamp collector for fifteen years or more. It does a man a lot of good to know he is doing something absolutely idiotic and nonsensible, and to have a real good time doing it.

The trouble with the world is that it is getting to be so full of intelligence and ethics and sense that it is not worth living in any more. A man can't buy a dog that looks like a dish-mop nowadays without first getting ready to make an affidavit that it is a fullbred Czecho-Slovakian heath-hound, and worth seventy-five dollars, and useful for catching rats. There was a day when a fellow could pick up any old pup in the alley and all the excuse he needed was that he loved it. A man once upon a time could wear whiskers because he liked their looks; now he has to say he wears them because he has throat trouble. Nobody ever gives a boy a dog now because a boy likes a dog; the dog is given because—so the bluff goes—taking care of a dog teaches the boy kindness, consideration, politeness, respect for the American flag, how to care for the teeth, gums and tonsils, and arithmetic. I admit here and now that the reason I collect postage stamps is because it gives me a few minutes of completely idiotic inanity of mind now and then. I collect postage stamps because there is no reason in the world, that I can imagine, why I should.



In my opinion that is the finest thing about collecting anything, aside from collecting bills. In a period when you can't sit down with a man to have a dish of vanilla ice cream without having him explain that he eats it because it contains 1,256 calories and seven gross of vitamines it is a godsend to have something foolish that can be done. My father for many years was a bookkeeper. When I was a small lad I discovered that I was able, by resting my left heel on the floor and raising the left side of that foot, to bend my big toe downward from the end joint and make it crack with a loud snapping sound. I demonstrated this to my father with no mean pride.

"Yes," he said, "I see! But I don't believe that is an accomplishment that would be of much service to a bookkeeper."

Right there I think he was wrong. I think all serious-minded bookkeepers should learn to crack their toes or wiggle their ears or indulge in some other harmless and useless amusement, such as collecting old furniture or patent medicine bottles of the hoop-skirt era. Indulging in such time-wasting pastimes is folly of the deepest dye, but no man is a wise man until he learns to be considerably numerous sorts of a fool.

Collecting postage stamps, to my notion, ranks near the top of all collecting because there is nothing quite as useless as a cast off postage stamp, unless it is a worn-out automobile tire, and even they can be sold as junk. The only objection to collecting postage stamps is that the collector can usually sell his collection day after tomorrow for more than he paid for it day before yesterday, and that postage stamps—being so small and flat—are just about the most compact and convenient things to store. These two are serious objections, I admit. They prevent the postage stamp collector from feeling absolutely weak-minded and irresponsible, which is the feeling we need.

This thing of feeling that we must be rational has gone too far. It has gone so far that the man who picks up a pin because it is lucky to pick up a pin feels he has to tell you that he has picked up the pin because it will come in handy. He will try to spoof you with a long explanation regarding how his wife's mother is always asking him for pins, and how his wife is always asking him for pins, and how his daughters are always asking him for pins, and how he tries to keep a few pins under his coat lapel because the house he lives in has such steep stairs and it is hard on an old lady like his grandmother to have to climb the stairs for a pin. And the man who picks up a pin because he thinks it may come in handy sometime does just the other thing—he tells you that he does not pick up the pin because he is the sort of man who picks up anything that is lying around lost, but that he believes there may be something in this idea of picking up a pin being good luck.

It is the same interesting game of pursuit and capture

The world is jammed full of men who go fishing for their health and play golf to avoid anemia and hardening of the arteries—to hear them tell it. We need more men who collect brass jugs and are willing to admit that it is merely and solely because they have a bug in the bean. We need more plain unadulterated foolishness scattered around or one of these days we will all go crazy.

I have been a collector, and always with limited means at my disposal, since I was a child. I had a twenty-five cent stamp album and was collecting stamps a few days after I climbed out of the cradle and fell on the floor for the last time. I "exchanged" with boys in other towns, for none of the boys I knew were simple enough to waste time with stamps, or if they were they did not tell me. In those days Harpers Young People, of blessed memory, printed free "exchange ads" inside the front and back covers, and one ad would bring letters from dozens of boys. We kept the lists and did a big business trading "three mounted specimens of sea moss from Pacific Ocean" for "ten stamps from Russia, Germany and France." We traded anything that could be tied up in a package and sent by mail. When I saved up a few pennies I sent them to someone who advertised "five large pennies for 10 cts."

No one ever got a "complete" collection of anything. We could collect postage stamps by the hundreds but we never completed the stamps of any one country. We would buy and exchange and get a fine array and then run up against the "rare" varieties that cost real money—

y cents or a dollar—and we would hope and start exchanging everything we had for something else. We uld begin to collect cent pieces of ry year of issue, and run up against place that could not be filled unless were millionaires and had $2.50, and would start exchanging again like l.

ome of the lads who put "exchange" in the columns of Harpers Young ple had a well developed business inct. A favorite "exchange ad" was that read: "Will exchange twenty ieties European stamps, no two alike, a silver dime of any issue." That, vever, was commercializing the game. n I guessed that that exchanger was entirely bent on securing a complete ction of dime coins, and I was as ncent as most, in those days.

ddly enough, I can't remember what me of my juvenile stamp collection, ough I probably exchanged it for ething else—coins, most likely, for id a good collection of copper coins nd I exchanged its constituent parts coins of the size of silver dollars. uilt up quite a collection of those— franc pieces of various mintages, rican dollars, American trade dol- coined for business with China, Spanish, English and German coins, and so on, all approximately the size of our silver dollar. I got some of these by exchanging, but I got more from the merchants in town and from one of the bankers. The coins were "passed" on the merchants or taken at a discount by them and they would sell them for a good whole-souled American dollar any time. I got a lot of them, for by that time I was out of high school and working, and had some spending money.

To anyone who has not been a collector of one kind or another I can hardly explain the delight of securing an addition to my collection as I felt it in those days. I cannot remember ever feeling the same pleasure upon receiving my wages or even when receiving a present of money. To find a new coin or, earlier, to go to the post office and be handed the letter that I knew contained a wanted stamp, was an exquisite delight. It was a culmination of a wished for happiness. I think that explains why the collecting mania gives so many rational people such disproportionate pleasure. A collection is never complete. And though you think you have a pretty good array, the non-collector is apt to be unmoved by the rare gems of your collection. He will even yawn as you point with pride.

A collector is, let us say, trying to gather together examples of all types of Chippendale chairs in the genuine article. He begins his hunt for a shell-back French-type Chippendale chair and while he is hunting it he has all the pleasure of pursuit. He finds the specimen and he has, for a moment, the joy of acquisition. It is a most amazingly satisfying feeling. He has gone a-hunting for one particular thing and he has hunted it down and bagged it. He has it. The next moment he has a new and equally insistent desire—he must get an authentic specimen of the Chinese Chippendale chair. It is the same interesting game of pursuit and capture. And with the bagging of the Chinese Chippendale he begins a new hunt for a Chippendale Gothic chair. It is endless and the appetite increases with each success. Every day the collector learns more of the technic and finely specialized details. What he comes to know about Chippendale furniture is as truly knowledge as anything else. He comes to be a wise man in his chosen field of collecting and he enjoys being wise.

A few years after the Spanish War, when I was in Paris, the antique shops fascinated me, and in the window of one I saw a shell cameo I rather admired and I bought it. I paid less than a dollar for it—about ninety cents, if I remember rightly—and I immediately began collecting cameos. It was one grand excitement and the best fun I had in Europe, any time or any place. In those days the cameo had not had its revival, as it has had since then, and they were cheap, and the hunt had the additional zest that I did not know seven words of French.

But in spite of this I found buying cameos in Paris great fun, as it is to buy anything in antique shops when you know what you want and really want it. The method, of course, was the old one of entering the shop and asking the price of something I did not want, deciding it was too high priced, and then asking carelessly what that cameo cost. This is the method every collector should use on all occasions. The dealer expects it. It is supposed to be the ultimate of cleverness and to hoodwink the dealer and catch him off his guard. I used to follow it up by a fanning motion of the hand to indicate that I was not really interested. The only trouble is that the dealer thought of it before I was born. It is such an old trick that once when I went into a shop and asked the price of a cameo the first thing, and then bought it, the dealer dropped dead. If it had not been that

EDITORIAL.

The article, "The Collecting Mania," by Ellis Parker Butler that appeared in the American Legion Weekly for September 11th, was an exceptionally good feature from the philatelic view-point by reason of its strong stamp appeal. The interest of the editor of the American Legion Weekly was solicited in behalf of a request for publication of this "amiable satire" and he was generous enough to allow us the privilege of reproduction. Then the author, so well known to fame, Ellis Parker Butler, was approached and he was gracious enough to say: "Dear Mr. Severn: I have no objection whatever to your publication of my American Legion Weekly article in your NEWS,—all other rights remaining mine." We appreciate the attitude of the editor of the American Legion Weekly and our thanks to Mr. Butler, who is a member of the American Philatelic Society, are heart-felt.

"Your editorial paragraph in the issue of October 5th," writes a friend in the service at Washington, "was somewhat surprising in its treatment of the postponement of the issue of a Wilson stamp. You were right in saying that the department is not antagonistic to the idea of a Wilson stamp and singularly enough, you anticipated the information given out by the post office department under date of September 30, 1925, on this very subject, as you will see from the circular enclosed. This is accurate and alert service, indeed." The circular is interesting and we shall quote from it. It says that both the President and Postmaster General are in accord with the movement for the Wilson stamp. Further:

"In discussing the position of the Post Office Department regarding the matter, Postmaster General New said today:

'A short time ago, Mr. Norman H. Davis, President of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, wrote to suggest the propriety of issuing such a stamp on the anniversary of Mr. Wilson's death. In replying to that letter I said that I thought it entirely fitting that the stamp should be issued but the time named was not propitious.

'It has been urged that two stamps were issued in honor of the late President Harding. That is true, but it is also true that Mr. Harding was at the time of his death the President of the United States and the mourning stamp was issued because of that fact. A feature of the postal law which went into effect with the adjournment of the last Congress called for the immediate issue of a one and one-half cent stamp. There was not time, except under great pressure, to make a new design and for that reason, and that one alone, the design of the Harding memorial stamp was used, the denominational figures only requiring to be changed.

'In this connection it may not be amiss to say that it was fifteen years from the time of Grover Cleveland's death until a stamp was issued in his honor. In the interval, there had been eight years of Democratic administration. The stamp was issued under the Coolidge administration and since I have been Postmaster General, March 23, 1923.

'President Roosevelt was dead three years before a stamp was issued in his honor; Grant, five years; Hayes, twenty-nine years. It was three years from the time McKinley was assassinated before a stamp was issued bearing his features, which were placed on a postal card. It may also be remarked that the use of this stamp was discontinued June 4, 1914, and one bearing the features of Thomas Jefferson substituted for it. The McKinley 3-cent stamp, however, is still being used'."

The following communication comes from Mr. G. A. Jackson, Boston, whose specialty is "out of print books," with particular attention to law books: "In looking through some printed 'Briefs' of Admiralty Cases prior to the War of 1812, when the English were capturing our ships, I came across the following in the testimony given in 1809 by the Master of the Ship 'Rapid' of Norwich, Conn., Burgess Fleming, Master. The ship had sailed from New York. 'That it is customary at New York and other ports of the United States, when ships are detained for foreign ports, to put up a letter bag, either at a coffee house or counting house of the shipper or his agent and that in consequence of such custom, Mr. Gracie had in his counting house in New York, a letter bag for the purpose of receiving letters to be sent by the 'Rapid' to Tonningen, and that on the destination of the said ship being notified, all persons who had letters for that port or neighborhood thereof brought the same to the counting house of Mr. Gracie and put the letters into the said bag."

Supplementing the note on New Zealand, in the issue, editorially, of October 5th, Messrs. Wilcox, Smith & Co., Dunedin, New Zealand, say: "The following have appeared on the experimental papers: 1 d. Official, on thick Jones paper and 1 d. Official on thick lithographed watermark paper. These are the last of the experimental papers and all will be scarce, especially the thick lithographed watermark."

In the September issue of the General Merchant, Chicago, a new form of stamp contest is mentioned and although it may not be adaptable to the use of the entertainment committees of stamp societies, it speaks volumes for the canniness of the originator of the plan: "A New England merchant held a stamp contest. He offered a barrel of flour to the individual or organization that brought the most canceled postage stamps to his store within sixty days. In a window he had a barrel of flour to be given away and another barrel in which the stamps were deposited as brought to the store. The stamp barrel was tipped so that folks could watch it fill up. (If any General Merchant reader decides to try this stunt, our managing editor, who is a 'stamp fiend' will gladly buy the stamps after the contest is decided.—Editor.)" The aforesaid managing editor is Mr. Walter N. Emerson, a philatelist who knows a harp from a hand-saw and he is well qualified to evaluate stamps from a single specimen to a bar'l full.

No longer do we have to deplore inattention to stamps by the daily press and since the New York Times has installed philately among the recognized subjects having news attachments, one of our standing regrets has been removed. The example of the Times will have its effect and in time the barriers of opposition to the full and free welcome of stamps in the news columns of the big papers will crumble away. However, the place of the Times in the good-will of philatelists the world over will never be diminished as its pioneership is undisputed. We are pleased to notice that in the art section of the Chicago Post of October 6th, the story of the sale at auction by J. C. Morgenthau & Co., of the John Bister collection of U. S. that appeared in the New York Times of September 27th is copied practically in its entirety.

Canada is adopting a new plan to expedite the handling of parcel post mail. Mr. C. A. Larson, Toronto, Canada, writes: "I enclose something new in parcel post labels for Canada. This one was issued by one of the large mail order houses of this city and also, it is used

More Finds
Last year I disposed of all my finds with little trouble. This summer I did some more hunting down here in the south and along with a small specialized collection of United States and Confederates, which I bought to get the Confederates for my collection, I have put up 50 books. I am not interested in the United States — I collect only Confederates and I solicit approvals of these at all times—therefore I must dispose of all surplus finds. I offer these books on approval against a society or two commercial references. They are mostly books of covers, but nothing except United States and Confederates. A few real items.
Along with the better stuff there always comes thousands of the 3c 1861-68 and 3c Greens. In fact, this summer a shoe box full of the 3c Greens off cover showed up. To clear out this accumulation I offer them as they run. Nothing guaranteed except shoot them back if you don't like them.

During our absence in the west, the following letter was received from Mr. W. W. MacLaren, "the stamp hunter":
"Dear Mr. Severn:—
Regarding the nine bisected 10c, 1847, discovered in Syracuse, N. Y., last November, and written up in my article in The Stamp Hunter entitled, 'The Story of the Bisects'.
Your short reference in the WEEKLY of August 17th, seems to raise the question as to who discovered them.
I am not greatly concerned, being quite satisfied with the fact that I got seven out of the nine.
The following excerpts from letters written me by Miss Foote, who owned the old letters amongst which they were found are interesting, and would seem to answer this question conclusively.
November 4th—'I noticed your advertisement.'
November 18th—'I am sending you a package—five 10c stamps cut in two to make fives—I wish you would tell me whether the cutting in two destroys their value entirely.'
November 28th—'Others have heard of what I have—I have been introduced to a dealer here.'
December 11th—'I agreed to an offer—from this dealer for two of the ten's—I will send you the remaining two'."

VANCOUVER, B. C. EXHIBIT

The British Columbia Philatelic Society is planning an exhibition to be held Nov. 7, to which no entrance or admission fees will be charged. All expenses are being defrayed by voluntary subscriptions of members and the committee in charge is requesting assistance by way of exhibits and prizes from collectors, dealers and publishers. A rough draft copy of the proposed program has been sent us, and any of our readers desiring a copy when printed should communicate with the secretary, M. W. Dougherty, 148 10th Ave. West, Vancouver, B. C., Can. It is expected that the collectors of Alberta, Saskatchewan, and the state of Washington, will co-operate in making the exhibition a success.

SOME NEW CANADIANS

The Daoust Stamp Co. of Montreal, and the Beaver Stamp Co. of Toronto, call our attention to the fact that some new stamps are to be issued for Canada. The Beaver Stamp Co. corrects a mistake made in our issue of September 28th where reference was made to a new 3c blue. The denomination is 8c and it was issued by the P. O. Department on October 1st. The design is uniform with the current issue.
We learn from both of our correspondents that a new series of three historical stamps is also about to be issued, one containing the portrait of Baldwin and Lafontaine, a second containing the portrait of Thomas D'Arcy McGee, and a third containing the portraits of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir John A. Macdonald.

TWIN HAPPENINGS

The Managing Editor had registered at Glacier, B. C., and as his wont had looked over the preceding signatures for some Massachusetts names. None could be found and he felt content in having done his duty.
On the following morning a gentleman stepped up with "You are Mr. Wylie?" The impeachment was acknowledged and Joseph B. McIntyre, Providence, R. I., ex-president of the R. I. Philatelic Society, made himself known. We came to the conclusion that Mr. McIntyre holds Glacier in high regard as he visits the Selkirks annually and is there from June to September. What he doesn't know about the mountains and the glaciers around Glacier, B. C., isn't worth knowing.

Ten days later the Managing Editor journeyed from Portland, Ore., out to Multnomah Falls. In the bus he met a very sociable and well informed gentleman. We talked of various things and finally he let drop the word that he had been to Los Angeles to a philatelic convention. Of course developments were in order and Wm. A. Johnson, president of the Washington, D. C., Society, was revealed to us in all his majesty. It was a great pleasure for us to thus meet Mr. and Mrs. Johnson.
Not so large a world after all as we thus meet people traveling along life's pathway.

DO YOU KNOW?

F. J. Jackson gives Montara, Calif., the name of being the bright spot in California life and mentions as attractions "abalones, mussels, sea trout, corn fed rabbits, pigeons and wine cellars." This is indeed convincing.

All who are interested in postal markings should write A. H. Pike, 21 Moeller St., Binghamton, N. Y., for application blank for membership in the "Associated Collectors of Postal Markings."

A nice pricelist of the postage stamps of Chile has just been issued by the Metropolitan Stamp Co., 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City. Anyone interested in this country should apply for a copy of the book.

Many clippings come to our desk dealing with the establishment of airmail services, but these we are unable to use to advantage. Anything that pertains to stamps issued for airmail service will find space in our columns.

According to Albert E. Gorham the "Richmond reds" 1½c on 1c re-valued envelopes overprinted in magenta are soon to be placed on sale at the Philatelic Agency. A very large stock is on hand.

The Washington Philatelic Society was honored with the presence of Robert Regar, Third Assistant Postmaster General, at the meeting held October 14th.

We want a cover design for our January Missionary number. Why not try your hand in our competition announced elsewhere in this issue?

The A. P. S. has a live wire in President Wilhelm. Moreover, one has only to look over his splendid collection of U. S. to realize that he is a genuine philatelist.

This is certainly a good opening number of the WEEKLY. Keep this issue on your desk for the next few weeks, so you can take advantage of the bargains offered.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? CONSIDERABLE

By F. L. COES.

It seems that the little phrase "I'm for it" intrigued a lot of people who are actually "for it" and as many more who had more reservations and articles than the Versailles treaty.

However, the trend seems to be toward some form of Committee which shall represent adequately, function continually, and be of the self perpetuating type. Fine, also correct.

One lovable guy in Calif. (note the proper abbreviation) started his letter thus:—"Comes the roseate dawn of a new day", and then he was "for it" four pages worth.

I never thought I would be conniving with a member of the stamp fraternity who wrote movie sub-titles. But I found that he was not only a poet and a clever stamp man, but thoroly imbued with the idea of a Domestic Committee in direct opposition to the suggestion of friend Ams that we make it international.

Now this item is worthy a lot of argument. To me it seems more feasible and suitable to suggest a sub-committee for the handling of foreign relations. The weight that we want, the influence we need, the initiative we must use, must be all local and intimately and personally American. Plenty of us are members of foreign bodies, and few of us (excepting the dealers) ever come in contact with the continental societies. If we do, it is as guests, and they rarely ask us for an opinion, or use it if we give it to them. Our assimilation of their political needs is as slow and uncertain as data on Santa Barbara's next "fire".

On the other hand, a sub-committee might be given a little aid, notice and encouragement, but why waste the glorious opportunity which lies before a body which would have all its attention, energy, and political weight to be given to things of national, local, domestic; call it what you will, interest and necessity.

Let the International connection rest till we get our stampic balance. Till we get the freedom of publication, of legal weight, of public interest that our cousins abroad have got.

Lots of us know they have a lot of things we have not, but we carry on because we haven't got more Ackermans or a Melville.

Now this committee will help the efforts of our publicists, as well as strengthen their backing in Congressional circles. It will not make it any heavier to add to its clumsy cognomen the "International" handle.

I confess I am still dissatisfied with the name. "Committee on Public Relations" is clumsy. It is not definite or illuminating to the by-stander. But for want of a better, let it stand until some of the push think out a simpler and better one. But, let's all keep thinking and doing and talking about it. Don't drop it with "I'm for it". Be for it and get busy.

DEATH OF SILAS CHAPMAN, JR.

We have already referred in our columns to the death of Silas Chapman, Jr., of Hartford, Conn. Rev. G. E. Richter of Wells, Me., sends us a clipping from the New York Times, which we recently published. He also writes us:—

"Mr. Chapman was an exceedingly kindly man, and altho he invariably invited me to spend an evening at his home to look over his collection, I was always too busy and was rarely in Hartford in the evening. From his conversation, I gather that it was quite a collection. I recall that once he told me that he desired to bequeath it to the State of Connecticut, and that if arrangements could be made to house it at the State Library, where there is a very fine and almost complete collection of American gold coins, he would make such a bequest. I am rather interested to know whether this was done. He also told me that he had been in the insurance business in that identical location for over 50 years, and that he still had in his employ one of the clerks who started with him at that time.

Another interesting statement was that for an equal length of time he had occupied the same pew in the First Baptist Church of Hartford, and if I am not mistaken, that he had been a deacon of the church for all that time, at least for many years.

Possibly much of what I have written will be given you by others who knew Mr. Chapman better than I, but I am disposed to believe that he was not the 'joiner' kind of a collector, and that possibly not many with whom he had philatelic contacts met him in person."

DICKEY'S PRECANCEL DOPE

By H. S. Dickey.

The three line current type New York, N. Y., makes the prettiest set of pictorial precancels ever issued; and at present can be obtained and completed for a few cents. Ten years from now you'll wish you had a set when some one shows you his albums and tells you what they're worth.

Along the eastern and western sea coast there is lots of foreign commerce and lots of foreign correspondence. This makes foreign stamps easy to obtain. Here in the middle west (or center of the United States) our commerce is only from the big cities to our smaller inland cities and this makes precancels easy to obtain here so following the lines of least resistance, I collect precancels. All stamp collecting lines are related and if you are a specialist in U. S. issues, as many collectors are, you can't overlook the fact that precancels are first cousins to the regular cancelled U. S., so why not collect them?

If I lived in Massachusetts I'd collect those pretty "Indian Orchard" precancels and then I'd trade my straw hat or a bushel of wheat for a set of those "Danvers, Mass." "red ink" precancels. You tell the world they are pretty and rare, and then the "Millers Falls, Mass." precancels running up instead of down and that's the first time I ever saw falls that ran up.

Some skeptics who have laughed at precancel collecting are chasing the new Rotary Press U. S. Government issue of precancels. There's an old saying about folks waiting a long time, and then falling hard when they do fall.

The 1½c Harding precancels undoubtedly are the most popular single item precancels in America today, the stamp itself being such a pretty color and the value such an odd one.

At Lawrence, Kansas, the students of Kansas University have a stamp club; and fine collections are the rule rather than the exception, one collector having some 20,000 varieties. I'll bet some fathers get pretty heavy bills for college expenses about the same time eastern stamp dealers receive checks from students for stamps bought.

A Mr. Jansen of Topeka, Kansas, displayed the first and second issues of U. S. revenues at the Topeka State Fair recently, He is also a stamp hunter and recently unearthed several hundred 1861 to 1869 original covers.

The ½c Hale precancelled is destin to be a scarce stamp. It is in real many times scarcer than the 1½c Ha ing but popularity is a peculiar thing, a the Harding stamp still leads.

The new issue of 15c U. S. Special D livery stamp is undoubtedly the showi stamp precancelled that we ever s New York and Chicago use them.

The 25c green Special Handling Sta is precancelled by Providence, R. Chicago and New York.

SHARON STAMP CLUB MEETS

At the preliminary meeting of the se son of the Sharon (Pa.) Stamp Clu held Saturday evening in the home John Thomas, Case-av, plans were beg to organize the club into a branch of t American Philatelic Society, which o ganization has branches only in the larg cities. Sufficient interest is manifest ho ever, in the local society to warrant su procedure. W. W. MacLaren of Clevela stamp dealer, was a guest at this meetin

Honoring Mr. MacLaren and Mr. Irw of Rochester, the club entertained at chicken dinner yesterday at Hermita Inn, Sharon-Mercer-rd. Dinner w served at 1.00 with placements arrang for eight guests. Following the dinn a study of the various stamp collectio was entered into. At a meeting to h held in the near future, organization w take place.

A NEW DECATUR, ILL. SOCIETY

We are informed by Clinton L. Cha fant that Decatur is to have a stam club. Those having the matter in charg are Fred L. Hoyt and Capt. J. P. Mu phy. Membership is to be restricted t those who confine their collecting t postal issues alone. This will be some what of an innovation in philatelic ci cles. A charter organization of fro fifteen to twenty members will be ob tained and affiliation with the America Philatelic Society is planned.

OUR AMERICAN VISITORS

Although as a general practice we refrain, in the pages of this journal, from expressing our opinions on matters which are not strictly philatelic, we cannot help making a passing reference to the event which has during the past month been foremost in all our thoughts. We mean the visit of the American fleet. We may observe, however, that there is a closer connection between ships and stamp collecting, than between the "shoes and ships and sealing wax" which Lewis Carroll placed in juxtaposition. The men who go down to the sea in ships have opportunities of adding to their stamp collections which the landsman may envy, and it is not surprising, therefore, that the hobby of philately has gained many adherents amongst those whose business carries them into strange climes and countries.

We do not know whether our Sailor-King first became a convert to the charms of philately when a midshipman aboard the "Bacchante", but during his subsequent travels he found time to pursue his hobby, and it is surely significant that the two members of the Royal Family whose devotion to philately has been most conspicuous—we refer to his present Majesty and to the late Duke of Edinburgh — were both men who had adopted the sea for their profession. We have no doubt, therefore, that among the officers and men of the fleet which has lately visited our shores, there were many collectors, who will return to America with additions, not only to their collections, but also to their knowledge and, we may hope, to their appreciation of Australian stamps.

If any of our visitors have found time to study at all closely the history of philately in this country they cannot fail to have been struck by a marked contrast which has attended its progress here when compared with its development in the United States. As this point may not be appreciated by some of our readers, we shall make no apology for devoting a little space to a few reflections on the subject.

In Australia the study of philately has been largely the study of Australian stamps. Philately here, like charity, has begun at home — and too often ended there. Our foremost students and writers, Dr. Houison, Mr. David H. Hill and Mr. A. F. Basset-Hull, achieved renown in investigating the issues of the Australian States. Nor is a reason for this state of affairs far to seek. Our isolation from the old world, an isolation which is only now, through quicker methods of transit, becoming less apparent, and the consequent difficulty of obtaining material for study in sufficient quantities, has inevitably compelled our philatelists to devote their attention to Australian or, if we include New Zealand and the Pacific Islands, to Australasian stamps. Mainly through the exertions of the writers we have named, the stamps of Australia, and more particularly those of New South Wales, have obtained a world-wide popularity which, indeed, their merit well deserves. Their status, as philatelic "classics", has been confirmed by time, and we believe that no rivals will ever displace them permanently from the position they now hold. There is yet much to be learnt, even among the issues which have been most closely studied, nor have we noted any falling-off in the potency of that charm with which the "Sydney Views" of New South Wales and the "half-lengths" of Victoria have intrigued for so long the affections of collectors.

An unfortunate but natural result of this popularity has been that only too many of the finest collections of Australian stamps formed in this country, have left our shores, never, perhaps, to return. Only of late years has the drift of Australasian stamps been arrested to a certain extent, and some of the gems parted with in bygone years are now returning again to their motherland, after having appreciated, during their sojourn abroad, a hundred-fold in value!

Very different has been the progress of philately in the United States. A glance through the files of American philatelic journals of the 'nineties will reveal the comparative paucity of articles devoted to the stamps of the Republic. In fact, the intensive specialism in the issues of the United States which is such a marked feature of philatelic affairs in that country today, has only become prominent in recent years. There are many general collectors. There are also many advanced collectors and students, whose activities range over every stamp-issuing country "from China to Peru". The material prosperity of the States has resulted, more particularly of late years, in many of the choicest pieces and greatest rarities of philately finding a home there. Today we very much doubt whether any other country has within its borders such great philatelic possessions.

As we have mentioned above, specialism in United States stamps is now carried on in the most advanced and scientific fashion. Intensive study of plate varieties, of papers and of cancellations, has resulted in collections of remarkable magnitude. A collection of three thousand or more varieties of one stamp is an undertaking which might astonish even the most persistent accumulator of "Sydney Views". If any of our readers are interested in the trend of philatelic study in the States they will be considerably enlightened by examining the masterly series of articles which Dr. Carroll Chase has been contributing to recent numbers of the American Philatelist, on the 3c stamp of the 1851-1857 issue.

We have not time now to pass over, even in brief review, that long sequence of issues which in beauty of design and skill of engraving stands almost unequalled. We may at some future date return to the subject and indicate, for the benefit of those who are disheartened by the lists given in the standard catalogues, on what lines, in our opinion, a small but representative and interesting collection of United States stamps can best be formed.

We are reminded by one of the recent commemorative issues, which our American cousins seem to find so attractive, that this year is the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the outbreak of the Revolutionary War. Looking back through the intervening years, we can see now what results, undreamed of and still incalculable, hung upon that event. For, paradoxical as it may sound, the separation of the American Colonies was the first step in the foundation of that union of free commonwealths which we term the British Empire. On that day, too, a new social system was begun; "Democracy announcing in rifle-volleys death-winged", as Carlyle put it in his forcible way, "that she is born, and, whirlwind-like, will envelop the whole world!"

The heat and passions of that bygone conflict have long since faded. In their place has arisen a friendship which we believe will only become stronger with the passing years. The visit of the American fleet has recalled to us the fact that into the hands of the United States and of Australia have been largely confided the destinies of the ocean which washes our shores. May we prove worthy of the trust.—Australian Stamp Journal.

O-KIKU-ARISTOCRAT FROM ORIENT

Hail to "O-kiku"—lovely Chrysanthemum blossom! Golden flower so faultless and fair that it is used as a symbol for a Japanese crest and official seal—on stamps and coinage—on flags and banners—as emblem of one of the highest of the military decorations, Order of the Chrysanthemum. Such is Japan's tribute to the glory of Fall's fairest flower.

Whence came such gracious blossoms? Legend tells of a Japanese maiden, in a moonlit garden, who cleverly created it that her future husband's happiness might be enduring—for he would live "as many years as the flower she chose had petals".

Even now one may believe that the moonlight is woven into Chrysanthemum petals—and that this flower is meant to add just so much to the happiness in life.

CONVENTION OF THE A. S. D. A.

"knocker" should consider is the harm he is doing philately in general, and by damaging the hobby he is injuring his own prospects. Do we all not know of collector who have been disgusted with the tactics of such people and given up in disgust?

This great world, I am sure, is large enough for us all. Amerian collectors are countless, but we in the trade by our business methods ought to do all in our power to "play the game" and show collectors that the dealers can act and conduct their business in a fair and honest manner without trying to vilify their competitors or the hobby that they ought to adorn.

U. S. COIL STAMPS

MINT—O. G.

Among the most interesting of the late U. S. stamps are the coil varieties, which unfortunately most collectors have neglected until recent years. As a result, many varieties which catalog only a few cents are really difficult to obtain. I really believe that at today's catalog prices these are most reasonable and if the demand continues to increase, many varieties that were on sale at the post office just a few years back will be selling at substantial prices.

I have on hand one of the finest stocks of coil stamps in existence and offer the following:

Woodrow Wilson Stamp

At this writing (October 6th) the Department has not as yet decided as to what denomination will be used in issuing the Wilson stamp but it is expected that something definite will be ready for publication within the next few days. They have considered a 17c stamp but then it is realized there is a possibility of postal rates being changed by the new Congress and if the registration fee is changed, there would be little use for a 17c stamp. It has even been thought that a 2c stamp might be issued along the lines of the Harding emission and that this would run for a short while concurrent with the regular issue. The Department has been receiving thousands of suggestions from all over the country since press notices appeared. My own personal suggestion would be the substitution of the Wilson head for Martha Washington on the 4c. This value is used in quantities and he is certainlv entitled to appear upon such a denomination.

The vast amount of criticism regarding the fact that the Department had not used Wilson for illustrating stamps heretofore has evidently gotten under the skin of the present administration for under date of September 30th, the Information Service of the Post Office Department sends out a communication stating that propaganda being carried on by certain associations and individuals have made it appear that not only the President but the Postmaster General is opposed to the issuing of a Wilson stamp. It is stated that nothing could be further from the fact, for both are in hearty accord with the movement to honor the memory of the wartime President. In discussing the position of the Post Office Department regarding the matter, Postmaster General New made a statement on September 30th in which he said:—

"A short time ago, Mr. Norman H. Davis, President of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, wrote to suggest the propriety of issuing such a stamp on the anniversary of Mr. Wilson's death. In replying to that letter I said that I thought it entirely fitting that the stamp should be issued but the time named was not propitious.

It has been urged that two stamps were issued in honor of the late President Harding. That is true, but it is also true that Mr. Harding was at the time of his death the President of the United States and the mourning stamp was issued because of that fact. A feature of the postal law which went into effect with the adjournment of the last Congress called for the immediate issue of a one and one-half cent stamp. There was not time, except under great pressure, to make a new design and for that reason, and that one alone, the design of the Harding memorial stamp was used, the denominational figures only requiring to be changed.

In this connection it may not be amiss to say that it was fifteen years from the time of Grover Cleveland's death until a stamp was issued in his honor. In the interval, there had been eight years of Democratic administration. The stamp was issued under the Coolidge administration and since I have been Postmaster General—March 23, 1923.

President Roosevelt was dead three years before a stamp was issued in his honor; Grant, five years; Hayes, twenty-nine years. It was three years from the time McKinley was assassinated before a stamp was issued bearing his features, which were placed on a postal card. It may also be remarked that the use of this stamp was discontinued June 4, 1914, and one bearing the features of Thomas Jefferson substituted for it. The McKinley 3-cent stamp, however, is still being used."

In this communication the Postmaster General brings attention to the fact that the Bureau did not have time to engrave a new die for the 1½c stamp, but that they simply used the Harding die on hand. He has evidently overlooked the fact that they had to take the time and trouble to engrave the ½c stamp showing Nathan Hale. From letters reaching my desk, almost daily, I am afraid that the general opinion of the philatelic public will continue to remain as heretofore, and the remarks of the Postmaster General are not sufficiently persuasive to lead us to believe that politics did not enter into the omission.

New Postal Cards

Under date of October 2nd, Mr. R. S. Regar, Third Assistant Postmaster General, advises that in view of the adoption by the Universal Postal Congress of Stockholm of the 3c postage rate for postal cards mailed in the United States addressed for delivery in foreign countries generally, the department will issue a 3-cent foreign single and a 3-cent foreign reply postal card of new design as soon as a supply can be manufactured. The single card will be known as No. 11, and the reply card as No. 12. Both cards will be printed in red ink and will bear a portrait of William McKinley. Postmasters will receive due notice through the Postal Bulletin when the new 3-cent foreign cards are available; however the present 2-cent foreign cards should be used with a 1-cent stamp affixed thereto until the department is prepared to issue the new 3-cent cards.

The 2-cent foreign single and the 2-cent foreign reply cards will continue in use to meet the new rates applicable to postal cards addressed for delivery in Canada, Spain and its colonies, and the Pan American countries.

As mentioned in a previous chronicle it is expected that these cards will be ready for delivery around October 15th.

Special Canceling Machine at New York

Under date of September 19th, the Third Assistant Postmaster General announced that the postmaster at New York had been authorized to make a trial of postmarking registered letters on the back as nearly as practicable at the crossings of the upper and lower flaps by a canceling machine specially constructed for the purpose, instead of using the rubber registry hand stamp; and in canceling the stamps on the address side of the registered letters, the New York office will omit the name of the post office and state, in conformity with the requirement of paragraph 3, section 874 of the Postal Laws and Regulations of 1924.

1917, 2c Broken Plate

Relative to information that has been appearing in the philatelic press here of late concerning the 2c cracked plate, Dr. William Evans writes as follows:

"The crack in plate 7582 seems to be causing considerable interest just now which is entertaining. This news is old. This crack was reported to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY and illustrated there several years ago. It was first seen in connection with the perforated stamps from this plate. At that time very few if any paid any attention to it and it is likely that most of the sheets showing it were used up. It was found in Norfolk in a drug store but examination of the stock

BOLIVIA.—Our forecast of new centen-
l commemoratives for this Republic proved justified. Ten values have n issued, which are thus "described" a circular sent out by a stamp com-sioner from La Paz:—"The designs

BRITISH GUIANA.—Mr. R. Roberts ls for chronicle the 96c black and nine on new pale yellow paper, old rmark, multiple CA.

ANADA.—Mr. Gordon H. Crouch ls the following clipping taken from cent issue of the Toronto Star:
TTAWA, Oct. 1.—A new eight-cent mp was issued by the postoffice depart-t today. It resembles the current
's head stamps, but is blue in color.
new series of three historical stamps
so about to be issued—one containing the portrait of Baldwin and Lafontaine, a second containing the portrait of Thomas D'Arcy McGee, and a third containing the portraits of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir John A. Macdonald.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA.—We have received from the Economist Stamp Co. a 1kr rose red and 2kr brown in the type of the 1923 issue, Scott's C3.

EGYPT.—We are informed by our Athens Special Correspondent, Mr. P. J. Drossos, that Egypt is to have another commemorative set of stamps next year. This time the occasion is a Navigation Congress, to be held in Cairo in 1926. King Fuad, who is a very keen philatelist, has already had four designs submitted to him for the three values which have been decided upon, viz., 5, 10 and 15 milliemes.

The size of these new commemoratives will be smaller than that of the recent Geographical Congress series, the designs submitted comprising the Lighthouse at Alexandria, an ancient Egyptian ship found in the sands, the Nile and Pyramids, and an allegory of the land of the Sphinx. There is to be a special delivery stamp also.—Stamp Collecting.

FRANCE.—We have received from Mr. H. Bedford Jones a block of six of the 85c light red, Sower type stamps printed on what appears to be azure paper. Mr. Jones informs us that he submitted a block to a Paris dealer for inspection and that he was advised that it appeared to be an unlisted variety or error and while it was not noted in the recent catalog it would probably appear in the next issue. Of the two blocks that Mr. Jones has one of them seems much bluer than the other.

GERMANY.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the 20pf blue in the Rheinland type.

JAPAN.—Mr. R. Roberts submits for our inspection two values of a new design showing the likeness of the Empress in a full face view. They are the 5 yen pale green and the 10 yen pale violet.

NEW HEBRIDES CONDOMINIUM.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us the new colors of the English currency set, script watermark, line engraved, type as before. Sheets are inscribed at the foot with the name of the printers Thomas de la Rue & Co., Ltd., London. The English currency is on the right and the French on the left, the figures being inscribed in a tablet under the words "Postes" and "Postage". The centre urn which formed the value tablet in the previous issue being void is partly filled with dotted lines of shading. Shades are as follows: ½p (5c) black, 1p (10c) green, 2p (20c) grey, 2½p (25c) brown, 5p (50c) blue, 6p (60c) lilac, 1sh (1fr 25c) black on emerald, 2sh (2fr 50c) purple on blue, 5sh (6fr 25c) green on yellow. Also a postage due series of the same type overprinted "Postage Due" in small sans serif capitals in one line, type set; 1p (10c) green, 2p (20c) grey, 3p (30c) red, 5p (50c) blue and 1sh (1fr) carmine on blue.

The French currency set is similar to the English currency type but inscribed "Nouvelles Hebrides", no watermark. The currency is at the right and the English at the left. Colors and values are: 5c (½p) black, 10c (1) green, 20c (2) grey, 25c (2) brown, 30c (3) red, 40c (4) carmine on yellow, 50c (5) blue, 75c (7½) yellow brown, 1fr (10) carmine on blue, 2fr (1sh8p) purple, 5fr (4/) carmine on pale green. Also the French currency postage dues overprinted "Chiffre Taxe" in one line 10c (1p) green, 20c (2p) grey, 30c (3p) red, 50c (5p) blue, 1fr (10p) carmine on blue.

SAN MARINO.—We learn that a series of stamps are soon to be issued to commemorate a local patriot Antonio Onofri, who died a hundred years ago.

SWEDEN.—Whitfield King & Co. advise us of the appearance of the 90o ultramarine and 120ö, gray black, in type A18, perf. 10 vertically.

TONGA.—Mr. G. V. Stewart informs us that the current 2sh value, Queen, has just been issued in a distinct yellow brown and black coloring.

URUGUAY.—Francis J. Field, Ltd., advise that a series of commemorative stamps, depicting "House of Parliament", were issued on the 25th of August last. There were two values, 5c mauve and black and the 12c blue and black, perf. 11½ and 43x30 mm. in size. There were 10,000 sets printed, 8,000 issued and 5,000 used.

STAMP NEWS IN BRIEF

BRITISH EMPIRE.

Australian Commonwealth.—Mr. W. R. Ellers kindly shows us the current 4d in a very slightly greener shade of the olive-yellow, and with thin paper which causes the watermark to show very clearly on the front of the stamp.

The Australian Stamp Journal notes that recent supplies of the £2 have the centre in slate-purple.

Canada.—Several readers favour us with letters bearing stamps cancelled with a bi-lingual announcement of the Third Canadian Philatelic Exhibition, Montreal. The device shows a beaver against a maple-leaf background.

Mr. D. Taylor informs us that an 8c stamp, in yellow-brown, is expected shortly. Also a 13c for registered letters. The colour of the 10c is likely to be changed. Messrs. E. E. Goodchild and J. Almar tell us that the latter will be light brown.

Ceylon.—Mr. R. Roberts notes that the new 15c Script is printed from Plate 7 (top pane) and Plate 12 (bottom pane), the top pane being Die I and the lower Die II, as in recent printings of several other Cingalese stamps.

Malta.—Mr. J. F. Darmanin sends us an official notice announcing that the type-set Dues are withdrawn, as from July 20th. The new Postage Dues are of neat and effective design, as will be seen from this month's Supplement illustration.

New Zealand.—This dominion is having a good many variations in its current 1d stamps, both in the Map and the Universal Postage types. Mr. T. F. Grey kindly shows us the U. P. type in a deep oily shade of carmine, which, however, tones off a little in parts of some blocks we have seen. There is also a pinkish shade of the Map stamp, on thinner paper and with very shiny gum.

Later. Messrs. Wilcox Smith & Co., T. F. Grey, and other readers send us the 1d "Universal" with a new N Z and Star "watermark" which appears to be printed on the back of the stamp, as it does not show any transparency when the stamp is held to the light. The watermark has a bluish tinge.

OTHER COUNTRIES.

Brazil.—Mr. G. E. Steward kindly forwards a copy of a decree authorising the issue of special aviation stamps for use in connection with the aerial postage service, when one is established, and until then as ordinary postage stamps. The 200 reis value will be in honour of Santos Dumont, the famous Brazilian pioneer of aviation, the remaining designs of the new series being allotted to allegories representing aviation and recording the experiments from which the present state of the science has resulted.

A letter received from another reader in Brazil is franked by an automatic machine, the value of the frank being 400 reis, and the device, so far as can be seen, the Southern Cross surrounded by a circle of stars, on a diamond-shaped background, with "BRASIL" above and value below, and with a border in imitation of perforations.

China.—Mr. R. Strange informs us that though the $5, $10 and $20 have been withdrawn from use, they are on sale in used condition at all post offices for stamp collectors only. Our informant

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

does not say whether face value is charged for them, but presumably this is the case.

Holland.—Mr. P. Gordon Wimberley shows us the 3c orange, of the Queen's portrait type of 1898, with a line under the "t" of "Ct." This variety also occurs in the 3c olive-green, of the same type, but is considerably scarcer in this colour.

Mr. R. Roberts, whose new issue bulletins have lately shown a vivid descriptive power, describes the automatic machine perfs. recently noted in these pages as "syncopated." He shows us the current 2, 2½, 4 and 5c with this perforation, the oblong stamps having the "syncopation" at the sides, while the Portrait type has it at top and bottom. He also shows us the current 1c perf. 12 all round.

Norway.—A letter received from Mr. A. N. Jorstad shortly after our last number went to press suggested that owing to delay in printing the new official stamps it might be necessary to overprint the word " ENESTE" on current postage stamps, and that, in fact, such provisionals had been prepared, but that they would not be issued if the definitive service stamps were ready in time. Mr. Reidar Johansen confirms this information. He also states that a sheet of the 1kr on 2sk, 1905, is known with surcharge reading up and down instead of horizontally.

Persia.—Lt.-Col. G. S. F. Napier warns collectors against a most dangerous forgery of Persia, S. G. No. 366, the Meshed 5ch, black, with centre and numerals inverted. As it is printed in four operations like the originals, all the other errors may be expected. It is on the paper showing a mesh which was used for the original, and though there are infallible tests it could easily deceive a specialist who was not on his guard.

Portuguese Colonies.—Guinea.—Mr. J. N. Marsden, in sending us specimens of the recent provisionals, pointed out that in one pair of the 40c on 400r on 75c the "a" of "Republica" was misplaced. He now informs us that in printing this "a" was omitted, and was later inserted by hand, as in the Jamaica "WAR STAMP" errors. The variety is to be found on the third stamp in the top row of the sheet.

Mozambique.—The "a" inserted by hand is found here also, in the 40c on 400r on 80c.

Turkey.—The current issue of Turkey should provide an interesting study as there have been a number of changes of shade and perf., and, in one or two instances, of type. The latest 2 piastre stamp, sent us by Mr. Oswald W. Churchill, has both English and Turkish figures distinctly smaller and thicker than before. In the specimen shown us, the printing is much clearer than is usually the case.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

his wife was in love with the janitor next door and had intended to poison her husband that evening at dinner I might have been in serious trouble. As it was she made me a present of the cameo and it is one of the most prized in my collection, because it has a history.

In collecting cameos I ranged all over Paris and I did not spend much money because I did not have much. I bought quite a number of shell cameos before, being the rankest kind of amateur, I discovered that the stone cameos were the most desirable. I found one ancient Roman cameo cut in lava, possibly before Pompeii was destroyed. In a box under the stalls of a bookseller on the quais I found the remnants of some cameo-maker's stock—blanks of oval shape cut from the shell but not yet carved, cameos partly completed, cameos evidently done by apprentice hands. In the studio of a Spanish artist I found some Spanish cameos of great crudity but of considerable charm and unlike the vast mass of cameos, which are Italian. I found one early shell cameo showing the three graces, most exquisitely carved on a brown shell — not so common — and I found another with a head of Minerva, as delicately cut as any I have seen. I found three dainty little cameos no bigger than match ends.

I had shifted from shell cameos to stone cameos when I met my Nemesis. Stone cameos, cut in agate of all colors, are irresistible, and I had begun buying them when, in a good shop near the Invalides, I ran across a Napoleonic cameo pin with which the dealer said he could furnish authentic documents proving it was given by Bonaparte to Madame So-and-So. I forgot her name The cameo was dark agate. set in a frame that had a dozen small diamonds and was about as big as the first joint of a man's thumb. The cutting left a profile bust of Napoleon in relief in dull white, and across the brows was a wreath of leaves in gold. When I examined the wreath to see how it was held in place I turned the pin over and found on the back a most delicately carved Napoleonic bee, little larger than the head of a pin. The cameo had been drilled and this bee was the flange or nut or washer on the end of the minute gold bar that connected with the wreath and held it in place.

Well, I felt sick when I heard the price! It was not more than I could pay, but it was a lot more than I ought to spend for any cameo in the world, bar none. I went back to that shop again and again, fretting and whining like a Scotch terrier at the wrong end of a rat-hole, feeling that life would not be worth living if I did not own that cameo, but frightened stiff for fear I might have to go hungry and then swim the Atlantic to get back to America. It was the year of the bank panic, when none of the banks in New York had any cash; my money was in a New York bank. When I went to my Paris bank it told me a draft might be honored and it might not, but the papers were full of the Grand Crash Américaine, and the bank did not seem hopeful about it.

There you have one of the real joys of collecting. Day after day and week after week and year after year we collectors come plump face to face with the most delightful agony. It beats the pleasure of the small boy who lusciously bites down on his sore tooth to see just how much it hurts. Continually we meet temptation in its most thrilling form; we are endlessly finding something we positively must add to our collection and positively cannot afford. If we grab Old Man Temptation by the neck and strangle him and don't buy the cameo we swim for days in a sweet agony of regret, and if we let Old Man Temptation whack us on the head and we do buy the cameo we swim for just as many days in an even sweeter agony of remorse and contrition, flavored with the joy of possession. No one can understand this unless he has experienced it. Mighty few people except collectors know how much pleasure can be got out of suffering.

I had a perfectly grand time over that Napoleonic cameo and I might have suffered all that spring and summer if someone had not told me there was a nice little collection of cameos in the Bibliothèque Nationale. That's the National Library, and the last place I would have looked for cameos. I had always thought a library was where books were kept and, being an author, I never go to libraries. But I went to see the cameos in the Bibliothèque Nationale.

One look was enough. It took me about two minutes to decide that with my income and the time at my disposal it would take me about four million years to get together a collection of cameos that I could mention without a blush of shame after seeing one sixty-fourth of the collection in the Bibliothèque Nationale. I saw at once that as a cameo collector I ranked about minus zero. The Bibliothèque Nationale seemed to rank cameos like the Napoleonic on over which I had yearned as also ran an selling plater, and did not bother to sho them in less than ten gross lots. M memory is not very good, but there wer little trifles, like a whole sea-shell as bi as my head, carved in the year 43 A. D with a representation of the conquest o Troy, showing 864 warriors and a jo lot of gods and goddesses that would fil a first-class pantheon and spill over There were unimportant little items, lik the cameo Nebuchadnezzar wore in hi crown, and the cameo Noah carved o the Ark while waiting for the high wate to evaporate. I don't know but tha there was a cameo carved by Adam. I they did not have that one then the probably have it by this time. I wen back to our pension and began collectin postage stamps. There is one thing abou postage stamps that is comforting—th first stamp was issued in 1840 and ther is no danger of strolling into a museur and finding one issued by King Solomo to commemorate the visit of the Quee of Sheba.

The idea of collecting postage stamp seems to have originated with boys— girls, for some reason never seemed t take to it, possibly because they fin greater pleasure in collecting the boys There are some women now who hav notable collections, but they probably went into it on an equal rights platform and because they felt they ought to do i if men did it. A list of the men wh collect postage stamps would be a sur prise to most people. It would includ kings, senators, financiers, generals an many notable men in all professions Army and Navy men are frequently col lectors. Collections worth a million dol lars are not talked about much; collec tions worth thousands of dollars are s common that they excite no commen whatever unless they contain some especia rarities. The Scott postage stamp cata logue lists a 10 cent stamp issued in Balti more in 1845 at $8,000, one issued th same year in Alexandria, Virginia, a $10,000, and one issued the next year a Boscawen, New Hampshire, at $12,000 There are at least thirty stamps issue in the United States that are quoted a $1,000 or over—probably more—and t rapid glance through the latest catalogu shows at least 155 postage stamps liste at over $100 each.

The above do not include stamps printed on envelopes or revenue stamps The two-cent vermilion stamp, printe on an envelope in 1880-1882, for example is worth $200. If someone who bought a five-cent box of matches made by the Maryland Match Company back in Civi War days had saved the one-cent revenue stamp that was printed on watermarked paper and pasted on the box, he would have made a good investment, for the stamp is now worth $225. These figures are for United States stamps only, a very small part of the catalogue, and stamps of other countries worth hundreds or thousands of dollars are amazingly numerous you'll find if you investigate.

FIVE YEAR HONOR CLUB

J. W. Benn, Medford, Wis.
Wm. H. Jensen, Brown's Valley, Minn.
Hon. R. T. Kingsbury, Keene, N. H.
Herman Becker, Cleveland, Ohio.
Dr. F. B. Dake, Hot Springs, Ark.
Wm. Hausler, Mart, Texas.
J. D. Standish, Jr., Detroit, Mich.
C. A. Yarrington, N. Y. City.
John C. Hunt, Hyde Park, Mass.
J. H. D. Roger, M. D., San Fran., Calif.
Fred Wettin, San Francisco, Calif.
F. M. Morgan, Hanover, N. H.
Herbert Weinstock, Milwaukee, Wis.

Here is a notable list of applicants for membership in our Honor Club.

J. W. Benn of Medford, Wis., is register of deeds for Taylor County. He makes remittance for his five years membership in the club and encloses check to cover. In addition to holding his official position he is engaged in various business pursuits involving responsible financial interests. Mr. Benn has collected since he was a boy and his philatelic possessions have a catalog value of approximately $50,000.

In making his application for membership Wm. H. Jensen of Brown's Valley, Minn., sends an order for our booklets comprising no fewer than twenty-one, including the Philatelic Dictionary, an evidence that he means business in his collecting activities. Mr. Jensen is in business at Brown's Valley, where he deals in grain, flour and coal.

The Mayor of Keene, N. H., Hon. Robert T. Kingsbury, in a businesslike manner renews his subscription for five years, "just to be sure that notice of expiration of subscription does not happen again". We have before referred to the blending of philatelic and political activities in the life of the Mayor, and we hope that in both he may be successful.

Herman Becker of Cleveland, Ohio, and Dr. Frank B. Dake of Hot Springs, Ark., both make application for membership in the club and we enter their names with pleasure.

William Hausler, Mart, Texas, is admitted to the Club. He has ten years copies of the WEEKLY which he will donate to some stamp club that will pay express charges. Address him R. F. D. 6, Mart, Texas.

Here are four applications for membership in the Honor Club upon which there is an absence of any explanatory data. We enter all with a proper appreciation of their loyalty to the WEEKLY. These applications come from:—C. A. Yarrington, N. Y. City; J. D. Standish, Jr., Detroit, Mich.; John C. Hunt, Hyde Park, Mass., and Dr. J. H. D. Roger, San Francisco, Calif.

Fred Wettin of San Francisco, Calif., after an absence of a number of years has returned to the philatelic fold with renewed enthusiasm. He collected as a boy and when a year ago a small collection came into his possession his interest was re-awakened.

Just as we go to press two more applications for membership in our Honor Club are received and we take pleasure in adding the names of F. M. Morgan of Hanover, N. H., and Herbert Weinstock of Milwaukee, Wis.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We are advised by J. D. Martin of Bradford, England, that the postcard rate in Ireland is 1d in place of 1½d and as a consequence the displaced stamp will be used but little.

—Our library list has now reached such proportions that we cannot take the space that is required for its publication every time a new subscription is sent in. However, we shall regularly note any new subscriptions that are received. The latest is from Olaf T. Gylleck of Grand Haven, Mich., for the local Public Library for one year.

—Bela Sekula, Lucerne, Switzerland, is distributing an interesting wholesale pricelist among his U. S. customers. It is a fine booklet, very nicely illustrated and printed, and any dealer who fails to receive it will do well to write for a copy. It is printed in French, German and English.

—The firm of J. L. Riedel, Nurnberg, Germany, has issued a wholesale pricelist, No. 3, printed in English. The numerous offerings are accompanied with testimonials from various patrons as to satisfactory service rendered.

—The Fellowship Stamp Agency reports to us that letters addressed to Ole B. Ogne, Box 8, Drake, N. D., are returned marked "Removed. Left no address." Interested parties will please communicate with the company at Fresno, Calif.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Philip B. Campbell, Frank Monaghan, Albert E. Gorham and F. S. Eaton.

—The three new Vice-Presidents of the A. P. S. were tendered a hearty welcome at the opening of the Milwaukee Philatelic Society's 1925 season. Dr. F. A. Kraft, W. O. Staab and Dr. S. G. Keller all responded to the congratulations and felicitations heaped upon them in beginning their duties. Sixty members attended, promising a bright year for the society. A. W. Bloss of Los Angeles was a visitor and exhibited a collection of battleship cancellations. Louis Burmeister exhibited two volumes of United States stamps in position and plate blocks. Enthusiastic trading followed the business meeting, showing increased activities in the local bourse.—A. W. Draves.

—The Stamp Section of the Schoolboys' Exhibition has been organized by Mr. Fred. J. Melville, London; and boys and girls up to the age of eighteen are eligible as owners of stamp collections. Entries must be received, by registered post, not later than December, 10, 1925, by Mrs. H. P. Terry, 22 Wempshott Road, Streatham, London, S. W., 16 England. There are three prizes in each of the following classes and awards are not to be made on the basis of monetary value: Class I. The best-arranged general collection. Class II. The best-arranged and written-up collection of stamps from any one country or colony. Class III. The best-arranged collection of stamps illustrating any special subject from Art or Aviation down to Zoology.

—Mr. A. W. Filstrup, Benton Harbor, Michigan, attended the meeting of the Chicago Philatelic Society on October 1st.

—The Evanston News-Index, Illinois, recently told of the first meeting of a new society which certainly seems to have been launched under pleasant circumstances and we hope that the club will continue during the school year:

"The Junior Stamp Club of the Boltwood Intermediate High School held its first meeting of the year Wednesday. This is one of the most active organizations of the school, having its own news sheet, its own library and a well-organized program of activities.

At the first meeting, the constitution was read to its newest member, Jean Tibbitts, and Mary Utley was elected secretary. The hostess for the meeting was Gertrude Chamberlain, stamps were traded at the meeting and a short program was given.

Mr. Walker of the Boltwood School, has granted the club the use of a room for a club house every Wednesday afternoon. It is now busy gathering together a library of books and magazines on stamp collecting."

—The Buffalo Stamp Club has started the ball a-rolling and the meetings of the club for October are well taken care of. None other than that fearless philatelic Nimrod, W. W. MacLaren, Cleveland, Ohio, is the star attraction at the meeting of October 9th, and on October 23rd, "our own Warner Bates," past master in the lore of the 3 cent green, will talk on the Bank Note issues.

—A request for a complete list of all the philatelic societies in the United States brings forth the realization that no such compendium has been published for a good many years. A work of this kind would receive a real welcome, at least from a few of us.

—Mr. J. A. McKinney, St. Louis, has sent us several covers addressed from the Compagnie des Messageries Maritimes, Paris, to the Canadian Pacific Railway, St. Louis, each bearing in addition to the French stamp, a 1½c U. S. (the letters not being first-class matter). We cannot explain this dual use of stamps but suppose that an explanation would make us wonder why we had not thought of it before.

—Mr. L. T. Brodstone, publisher of the West, Superior, Nebraska, passed through Chicago, after a most pleasant visit to England.

—Mr. Clarendon Bangs, Atlanta, who has been in Chicago for some time, is about to sail for Europe.

—Mr. L. B. Blough, Pittsburgh, Pa., says that he has in his possession a South African air-mail cover, in part, bearing the stamp with the cancellation Durban, Mar. 5, 12—No. 1925, and the representation of an airplane. The pair of Union of South Africa, 1½ stamps make up the 3d rate. We understand that the Durban to Capetown air service has been discontinued.

CLEVELAND OPENS THE SEASON

The present 1925-26 season opened with a bang for the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club of Cleveland, on Friday evening, September 25th. The big event was a combined Season Opener and House Warming. The Club for several years has been meeting in cramped quarters, but recently secured a nice large roomy place at No. 2077 East Fourth St. The arrangements were in charge of Messrs Good and Schneider.

Mr. Sanderson exhibited a very fine and interesting collection of Switzerland, as well as an equally fine collection of English Colonies. Mr. MacLaren was also there with his matchless collection of stamps on the original which he "dug up" himself. And for good measure he also displayed his collection of Revenues all in wonderful condition. Many other members exhibited unusual items from their collection.

The members were also treated to a welcome surprise in the return of former member M. J. Lloyd to Cleveland. Mr. Lloyd was always a faithful hardworking member of the club, but has spent the past three years in London. We are glad to have him with us again.

Forty members and visitors were in attendance. From the large number of visitors present it would indicate increasing interest in stamp collecting in Cleveland. The Garfield-Perry Stamp Club meets every Friday evening at Room 700, 2077 East Fourth Street, where local philatelists as well as those from out of the city are always welcome.—P. A. Finlayson, Secretary.

A NEW CATALOG FEATURE

The new Scott Catalog contains a distinct innovation in the form of a large number of pages given to lifesize watermark illustrations. The section will be of great value to the collector whether beginner or advanced. A special grade of colored paper has been used to show up the illustrations in proper form and the new feature will be a distinct improvement in efficiency.

We take the liberty of reprinting the following prefatory matter used by the Scott Stamp & Coin Co. believing that many of our younger readers will appreciate the same:—

"This section illustrates every watermark appearing on the postage stamps listed in this catalogue.

These illustrations were made through a photographic process and are exact reproductions of the watermarks as they appear on the stamps selected.

In compiling a group of illustrations such as this it is impossible to show every minor variation of the watermarks. In fact, hardly any two watermarks are alike in every detail. This is because of the manner in which they are made, viz.

Pieces of wire are bent to form the designs and are then sewn or soldered onto a cylinder of wire mesh. The designs are known as 'bits' and the cylinder with the bits attached as the 'dandy roll.' The dandy roll is placed so that it squeezes out the water from the paper as it passes from the pulp state to the drying rolls, and while performing this function also leaves the impressions of the bits in the paper. These impressions are watermarks.

The bits often become bent during the process of attaching them to the dandy roll and during the operation of the roll itself; thus causing countless minor variations in the designs impressed into the paper. When bits are stamped from thin brass sheets, there is not so great an opportunity for these variations to occur.

ELLIS PARKER BUTLER, AUTHOR

A Great Believer In Stamp Collecting and At All Times An Exponent of Good Cheer

The above picture of Mr. Butler from a photograph by Clarence H. Boden shows the well known author in a pose that will be heartily appreciated by philatelists. Mr. Butler was born in 1869 in Muscatine, Iowa, and is recognized as a humorist of marked talent. His fame was made secure by his great success, "Pigs is Pigs" published in 1906 and followed by other brilliantly humorous stories, among which might be mentioned among others, "The Incubator Baby", "The Cheerful Smugglers", "Adventures of a Suburbanite" and "The Jack-Knife Man". The latest work from his storehouse of good cheer was printed in the American Legion Weekly, and we have been privileged to reprint the same. Mr. Butler is a member of the American Philatelic Society.

By Ellis Parker Butler.

I doubt, for example, whether many know where New Britain is—I don't mean the Connecticut City. Its first issue was as late as 1914-15, but one stamp is worth $125, one is worth $150, five are worth $200 each, one is worth $300, one $350, two $400 each and two $600 each, and there are a number so rare that no prices are quoted. New Brunswick, the next country in the catalogue, has stamps quoted from $125 to $800. An unused Newfoundland shilling stamp of 1860 is worth $1,000, but you can buy a cancelled one for $500. On the other hand you can't get a 6½ pence stamp of the same year for less than $1,250, and it would probably require quite a hunt to get it at that. You can see that an enthusiastic boy whose father has a mere four or five million dollars could easily bankrupt papa and still not have much of a collection.

On the other hand there are thousands of stamps of almost no value. You can buy 10,000 mixed United States stamps for $2.50, which is almost less that nothing each, and I have a quotation on mixed foreign stamps of $1.95 for 10,000. The small dealers will show you sheets containing hundreds of stamps, no two alike, from which to choose at a cent or a half cent each. On these cheap stamps some dealers will give a discount of 90 percent—for a stamp listed at one cent you pay only one-tenth of a cent.

The original idea of the boy when he began collecting was to get "every kind of stamp there was". This is the "general collection", and it includes all countries, but to complete such a collection is such a manifest impossibility, both on account of the time required and the money involved, that most of the advanced collectors have become specialists. This means that they collect only the stamps of one country, one group of countries, or of one period. There are even collectors who specialize in one stamp only, as, for example, the United States three cent red stamp of 1851-1856, collecting all the minute variations, different postmarks, etc., of that one stamp. You may not believe it, but such a collection is intensely interesting.

In my own case I began with a general collection, then got rid of all but the stamps of France and the colonies and possessions of France. Thousands of others, about the same time, dropped general collecting and specialized in one continent—as South America, Europe, or Africa. The stamps of Great Britain and her colonies made a fine field. But even these grand divisions presently became too large for the man of average means to handle. Some began collecting stamps of one or two countries only, or the stamps issued by certain countries in the nineteenth century only or in the twentieth century only. The pleasure was quite as great and the possibility of securing a reasonably complete collection was greater.

There are now thousands of thousands of adult stamp collectors in all parts of the world and there are thousands of dealers, but to secure a stamp needed to fill a spot in an album the collector must often consult dozens of dealers and wait for years until some collection is broken up, and all the while there are more collectors entering the field, stamps are being destroyed by fire or otherwise and prices are mounting. In 1916, when I began collecting the stamps of the little Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, the first four stamps issued (in 1852) were listed at one dollar for the first two and three dollars for the second two, each. They are now worth four dollars for the first two and ten dollars for the other two, each. The highest priced stamp was then listed twenty dollars; it is now forty dollars. But this is not all. Many of the stamps could then be bought at less than list price; now more than list price is gladly offered for many of them.

But the real fascination of stamp collecting I have hardly touched upon, if I have mentioned it at all. It is in the expert knowledge that comes with the specialists' study of their stamps. This is akin to the dog fancier's knowledge of the fine points of the particular breed of dogs he likes best, or like the flower-lover's interest in the delicate variations in tulips or dahlias. I might put it this way—a raw collector might begin by wanting one stamp from each country of the world, and be interested until he has that collection complete. Any stamp will satisfy him. Presently he will want to have one stamp of each denomination of each country of the world—one cent, two cent, three cent and so no. Then he may feel that it will be better to try to collect

If Covers Are Your Hobby

One collection we are breaking up offers covers of unusual interest, with many combinations to make high rates to China, Cape of Good Hope, New South Wales, Honolulu, etc. Some pairs of 10c '47's, a fine 24c steel-blue, a flock of 12c '51, a pair of 5c buff; some nice "Patriotics" and some Confederates.

THE FORUM

By H. P. ATHERTON, 318 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Hello, Folks. We got back from Montreal, P. Q., all right; but came thro the worst rainstorm imaginable. From dewy morn till dewier eve, we either aviated over mud puddles, or sprayed them over the neighboring landscape, including everything from wet hens to black horses.

Are you superstitious? I've been receiving circular letters to effect that if I do not copy 'em nine times, and send immediately to nine friends (les miserables), that the penalty may be the loss of an eye or ear, while as a premium for sending them one may look for good luck in nine days.

Forgetting mud and chain letters (I thought these had long been forgotten) let's go back to the 3rd Canadian Philatelic Exhibition, held at the Mount Royal Hotel in the Hall of Gold, or "Sallie Daw" as some called it in atrocious U. S. French.

The exhibits were beautifully arranged, and were guarded by most capable appearing members of the R. C. M. P. attired in scarlet coats, Stetsons, and natty all the way down to their brightly polished clinking spurs.

As the awards, etc., of the exhibit may be covered elsewhere, let's step into the Exhibit Hall. On the left as we enter is the Metered Mail machine. Those things worry me somewhat—they are so mechanically perfect and efficient. Can it be that they will some day become universally used, doing away with stamps of the 2c denomination and lower for the most part? I believe it quite possible Why, to show the accuracy of this machine, one envelope was fed thro some ten times, and these ten strikes registered almost directly over each other. That is mechanical accuracy for you, and the machine eats up an awful lot in an hour. Sticking on stamps is surely a waste of time with one of these around.

Then we take a few more steps in any direction, and run into the stamps of British North America. They were everywhere, and were easily the most popular stamps in the exhibition.

Page after page of rare and beautiful items greeted us from all sides. Canada 12 pence were "common", there being over 20 of them. Nova Scotia "Splits" on covers, New Brunswicks in used blocks, and always beautiful Canadas, with more and more in every aisle.

Two of the younger collectors showed me stamps that they had by pointing at them in the cases, then they pointed at a 12d black wistfully mentioning that they hoped to find one sometime.

One criticism made was by a non-philatelist, who objected to the "careless mounting" of a sheet of Penny Blacks, saying it showed "open spaces", these being the missing plate positions which the owner wanted to see filled probably far more than the critic.

Another non-philatelist on being told that the vertical pair of imperf, British Columbias unused, was worth a pile of money, asked "Why didn't he buy a block of four?"

Perhaps the most interesting of all the United States stamps exhibited was the frames of War Department stamps shown by Mr. C. J. Phillips, and I'll give you the list of his Fort pmks. so far as shown in the cases, tho he may have more in his four volume collection.

FORT POSTMARKS ON WAR DEPARTMENT STAMPS.

Arizona — Apache, in purple and in black; Bowie in purple with five point star obliterator; Huachuca in purple and in black; Thomas in black.

Colorado—Baker in black.

Dakota (North) — Totten in black; Yates in black.

Minnesota—Snellings in black.

Montana—Maginnis in black and purple, octagonal outline; Shaw in black.

Nebraska—Omaha in purple; Robinson in black.

New Mexico—Stanton in purple; Wingate in black.

Washington — Spokan (now Wright) in black.

Wyoming — Fred Steele in purplish black; McKinney in black; Washakie in black.

CAMP POSTMARKS ON WAR DEPARTMENTS.

Nebraska — Sherman in purple with star obliterator. Thomas in black.

New York—Plattsburg in purple.

From Port Townsend, Washington, was a page of our philatelic pet—the Kicking Mule. Then the Monogram, U. S., a tall thin U with a shorter S inside, is shown on 2, 3, 6, 7, 12 and 30c denominations in black. The blue Wells Fargo ellipse in blue is mighty fine to see, and from the few ever seen, it must be a great rarity. Among his other cancellations I jotted down the more interesting:—Aladdin's lamp, anchors, anvil, cartwheel with six spokes, Maltese crosses in black and in colors, shield in circle from Fort Bridger, Wyoming (another Fort for your list), then stars and many other forms that are more familiar to us.

Isn't it nice to have an inspiration set before you like this? I left "Sallie Daw" saying "Forts, Forts, Forts," (to myself of course), so that they would stick in my mind for some time to come. And what do you think, a man said to me "You like covers with Black Jacks on 'em I believe?" "Guilty," says I. He thereupon handed me a cover with two BJ's and two 3c 1861's (10c rate) from Fort Howard, Wis., to Kingston, C. W.

NEWS GLEANINGS

—The P. O. at Roseville, Ohio, informs us that a parcel addressed to us is held for 14c postage. We shall be very glad to have our subscriber in Roseville give this matter attention.

—One of the outstanding features of the exhibition held at Montreal was the fact that Edw. E. Goodchild secured three awards on his collection of Canadian Revenues. He obtained a bronze medal and in addition a silver medal for the original manuscript accompanying the same, and also the "Moert trophy" for the exhibitor in any class who showed the twenty best mounted and annotated pages in the exhibition. This was no small achievement when it is remembered that there were over three hundred and fifty entries.

SUBSCRIPTION RENEWALS.

Some of our subscribers need to know our rule regarding discontinuances. We discontinue all subscriptions in arrears promptly the second issue of each month. This means that your subscription should be renewed prior to expiration. The expiration number can be ascertained by consulting your wrapper. No free copies of the Weekly are sent out and this rule is as fixed as the laws of the M. and P. Our older subscribers understand our rule and the newer subscribers should get acquainted with it.

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW

F. W. Allen, Editor, 521 So. 4th St., Grand Forks, N. D.

Government Issues—The 3, 6, and 10 cent stamps are now being precanceled by the Bureau for a number of cities. Together with the 1, 1½, 2, 4 and 5, the above denominations comprise the complete list of values so far issued. It is expected that other values will appear at an early date. Rumor has it that the 8 cent is next in line.

The widespread interest in these precancels is not surprising. The present series is an ideal one to collect in any form. City sets of Bureau prints will make a pretty showing, when the collector takes a bit of care in the mounting. The price standard is low enough to permit anyone to build up an attractive collection at but a slight cost.

While it appears that from the quantity printed of each item there will not be a scarcity of any variety, this supposition fails to work out. Some varieties are causing collectors to tear their hair out in great bunches, because they seem to be almost unobtainable. Those from Berea, O., Chester, Pa., Frenchtown, N. J., Liberty, Mo., Manville, N. J., Marion, O., Muncie, Ind., Portland, Me., Trenton, N. J., and Salt Lake City, seem particularly elusive, and are missing from most albums.

At the present moment (Oct. 1st) a fair sized showing would number around the three hundred mark. This is including the stamps in coiled form, of which only the 1, 1½, and 2 cents have appeared. So it is still possible to get in on "ground floor" of a sideline that is going to get its full measure of popularity.

25 Cent Special Handling—After six months of life, this stamp seems to have been a mistake, as there are comparatively few going through the mails. The chief use to which it has been put, is franking shipments of baby chicks. It is scarce in precanceled condition, few varieties having come to my attention.

Philadelphia overprinted a number with Type VIII, which is the style of printing used for precanceling the Special Delivery. Columbia, Mo., exists in the current electro and the following cities in various handstampings: Chatfield, O., Clinton, Mo., Kent, O., Kirksville, Mo., Fairmont, Minn., Geneva, Ind., Napolean, O., Princeton, Mo., and Ridgely, Md.

Paonia, Colo.—Has been using electrotyped precancels since May. The style is very neat and distinct, being small lower case set off by thin lines. Dr. W. I. Mitchell sends a sample and the following information: "All values of the current set from 1c to $2 inclusive were printed. There are no errors, no 'thirteens' and no Hardings or other commemoratives. The 20, 25, 30, 50c, $1 and $2 all read down, the others are all normal. Only the 1c to 9c inclusive, 14, 15, 20, 25, 50c and $1 are now in use as they have quite a few of the old handstamped 10, 11, 12, and 30c and $2 bi-color on hand. The ½ and 1½c were issued handstamped only."

Kingsville, Texas—Mr. Loyd C. Frank submits a one cent, current issue, precanceled in U-53 and remarks that he has not seen it chronicled to date. Neither have I. Kingsville is a comparatively new entry in the precancel field.

Delphos, O.—Mr. H. A. Thatcher reports the 2 and 20c in a style similar to U-52. He states, "very interesting to me, for it is the old home town of the family".

Carbondale, Ill.—A second type is now being used, the U-53. As a rule the overprints are badly smudged. I suppose the stamp pad gets full of coal dust. The one cent value seems to be all that there is a demand for, or rather the 1½ it would be, now that the rate for circular mailing has been changed.

Berlin, N. H.—Will have to go into the next catalogue as it is now using rubber stamped precancels. The style is two lines of solid caps extended, between thick bars.

Bennington, Vt.—Another newcomer from the northeastern group. Not altogether unfamiliar is this town. Who is apt to forget the inspiring victory of Revolutionary days, when Col. Stark with a handful of raw militia repulsed the trained regulars of Burgoyne? Bennington has been furnished a U-58 handstamp.

Bryn Mawr, Pa.—Has a U-53 handstamp. I have only the 11 cent. Bryn Mawr is a suburb of Philadelphia and the seat of one of our foremost educational institutions for women.

Bartlesville, Okla.—There is a Bartles Oil Co. Perhaps this is a boom town named after the aforesaid corporation. One of my latest finds is a strip of 3 cents bearing the U-53 precancellation.

Miscellaneous—The next edition of the Precancel Stamp Catalog is slated to appear in April. The publishers deem it wise to refrain from issuing the book this fall, as was contemplated, because of the flood of new varieties caused by the changing rates and activity of the Bureau. It is desirable to have a work of this sort up to the minute and the publishers are to be thanked for their decision.

The editor of this department welcomes inquiries and notes relating to this branch of the hobby. If you wish information do not hesitate to drop me a line.

Universal Style charts printed on card board in handy form, showing at a glance the method by which precancels are described, may be secured at cost (16c) from the editor of this department.

CONGO

Following is a list of the stamps of Congo (Scott's Nos. 1-5) issued from official sources by L. Gailly, Belgium, a specialist in the stamps of the country.

No. 1- 5 centimes, green, 120,000 copies.
No. 2-10 centimes, rose, 90,000 copies.
No. 3-25 centimes, blue, 60,000 copies.
No. 4-50 centimes, reseda, 60,000 copies.
No. 5- 5 francs, lilac, 4,700 copies.

Some of the more interesting varieties are:—No. 2 in very dark rose. There exists 1,200 copies of the No. 4 with the error Cungo, which is not listed in our catalogue.

Of the 5 francs No. 5, there are quite a few counterfeits on the market, and generally they have been cancelled so as to make detection harder, but most of the cancellations are of post offices that were not yet established when this set went out of circulation. In fact, the 5 franc can only be found with the Boma, Banana and Vivy cancellations, the last one being very scarce as at the time this post office was of minor importance. The counterfeits generally have the Matadi and Leopoldville obliterations, whereas these post offices were not established before March 1, 1891, and May 1, 1889, respectively.

V. R. Wailly.

Translated from the French report of Mr. Gailly who gave me the above information.—V. R. W.

ancis Wheeler writes us that the e people need a stamp expert to them out. In the picture "Abraham oln" the great man was shown as ing in a post-office in 1836 and there were stamps on the letters. The other day he saw a Gloria Swanson picture supposed to be in 1890, and a perfectly good 2c 1925 was used to paste a note on a door.

Greetings have been received from five members of the Springfield Stamp Club who have been doing the Montreal exhibition. The party consisted of Messrs. Stone, Prevost, Hyde, Atherton and Angers, all Springfield philatelists.

A visit to Los Angeles reveals the fact that there are some nice stamp shops and some excellent stocks of stamps in the California city. The latest candidate for philatelic favor and dollars is the firm of C. S. Watson & Co., which has removed there from Boston. Mr. Watson thinks no more of a trip across the Atlantic than ye editor does of one to New York or Washington.

The Martauco Stamp Co., 45 W. 45th St., N. Y. City, will be very glad to send you a copy of the new wholesale bulletin just issued by this firm. Two dealers' stocks are in the items offered per 10 and 100.

A Word About "New Issues"
BRITISH COLONIES
Every collector of these know those which have made large jumps in catalog price in the last year or so. 90% of these we have sent out in our new issue service at 30c per shilling. Can we say more?
FRENCH COLONIES
When you look in your New catalog and see the advance some of the recent stamps and provisionals have made, you will say "Why did I pass them by?" The uncertain conditions existing in France today mean many more changes. The wise collector will take them as they come.
THAT'S WHERE WE CAN HELP YOU. PRACTICALLY ALL OF THE RECENT FRENCH & COLONIES HAVE BEEN INCLUDED IN OUR NEW ISSUES.
IF YOU ARE NOT SATISFIED WITH YOUR PRESENT NEW ISSUE SERVICE, LET US HELP YOU KEEP UP-TO-DATE.

BOLIVIA'S NEW CENETNARY ISSUE

We picture herewith designs to be found on the new centenary issue for Bolivia. The set is to be printed in London, where a contract has already been signed. Stanley Gibbons has received a circular letter from a party in LaPaz from which the firm quotes in the last number of the Monthly Journal the following, and adds the comment which follows the quotation:—

"I am in a position to offer you the total issue of 100,000 stamps of one and two cents, less the quantity required by the Government for registration purposes in the Universal Postal Union Convention of Berne, and also a small number of sets put up in circulation, at the price of 25 cents gold per set of these two stamps, provided you cable me in time to transfer to you the privilege of the exclusive ownership of these very valued stamps, thus enabling you to control the market in all the world."

Obviously these two values are not required for postal purposes, as they are only to be put on sale in Bolivia in very small quantities—just sufficient in fact, to give them some sort of status as issued varieties. They are therefore entirely unnecessary and speculative, and we advise collectors to give them the cold shoulder.

The rest of the issue is, of course, legitimate, and if it is the one which we find described in other journals, it should prove of unique interest, for the designs represent extremely weird figures from the ancient Sun Temple of Tihuanacu.

THE EXHIBITION HANDBOOK

Thanks to E. E. Goodchild we have been favored with a copy of the handbook and official catalog issued in connection with the Third Canadian Philatelic Exhibition held October 5-9, at Montreal. The book is compiled and edited by Geoffrey M. LeHain and Alfred Newman, and is exceedingly well gotten up and printed by the Walker Press of Montreal.

The program of the Exhibition listed five days of activities and the reports from the Exhibition give evidence that the days were full of business. The frontispiece is an illustration of the Montreal Post Office in 1854, taken from an old print. For contributed matter we have "A Sketch of Postal Organization through the Ages" by Victor Gaudet, K. C., Postmaster of Montreal; "The Specialist" by Fred Jarrett; "The 15c 1868-1900" by Louis L. Reford; "Rowland Hill" by J. Powell Davies, a grandniece of Sir Rowland; "The Revenue Stamps of Canada" by E. E. Goodchild; "Air Mail in Canada" by T. M. Barrington; and other contributions of merit.

There are numerous full page plates of rare Canadian items scattered through the book, and all in all it is a worthy tribute to Canadian philately. On the jury of awards we note from the United States C. J. Phillips, J. A. Klemann, A. F. Lichtenstein and Theo. E. Steinway of New York, Eugene Klein of Philadelphia, and B. L. Drew of Boston.

EDITORIAL.

The third Canadian Philatelic Exhibition held at Montreal, in the second week of October, was a decided success, according from reports from several of the visitors in attendance. The exhibition attracted many visitors, "the majority of them men who had slipped away from work to see a sight which has never been duplicated in Montreal." The report of the jury on awards numbers twelve pages and 15 gold medals, 31 silver and 50 bronze medals were given to those worthy of preference, in the estimation of the judges, who found that their task was an exacting one. The attendance from the United States included Messrs. C. J. Phillips, Eugene Klein, Dr. C. W. Hennan and G. W. Angers, not to mention others. It is noticed that we are well represented in the prize list on which the names of Messrs. C. M. Ams, S. G. Rich, Major J. A. Steinmetz, E. S. Knapp, Dr. C. W. Hennan, C. F. Heyerman, Rev. T. R. Kimball, H. Toaspern, K. Koslowski, B. W. H. Poole, Scott Stamp & Coin Co. and Collectors Club stand forth. The far-reaching effect of the Montreal meeting will be manifest for some time to come and it has established philately on a plane that will command public attention in the section dominated by Montreal.

The New York "Times" prints a despatch by wireless from Walter Duranty, with the date line of Moscow, October 10th, telling of the origin and rise of the philatelic trust operated by Soviet Russia. The Soviet Philatelic Department, organized in 1923, has extended its influence until now as the Philatelic International, it has sections in forty different countries. The trust has the sale abroad of all new issues of Soviet stamps, as a monopoly; and none of the countries of Soviet Union is authorized to issue its own stamps while it buys stamps abroad and sells them in Russia, as well. Within the borders of the countries, there is no restriction on philatelic interchange except that dealers must buy their foreign stamps through the trust but collectors who are registered with the stamp trust may deal direct with any foreign section of the Philatelic International. It is said that over twenty thousand persons are thus registered. The enterprise is tax exempt and any profits are devoted to a fund for destitute children, whose president, it seems, has been invited to "visit the World Stamp Fair to be held in New York the beginning of next year." As showing his sincerity of purpose in conserving philatelic welfare, he says that no irregularities or reprinting have tainted Russian issues; and he authorizes the American representative, Maurice Sherman, now in Moscow, when he returns to America to offer our philatelists a chance to investigate Soviet philatelic conditions, expenses paid, "with a fair guarantee of visas and absolute freedom of inquiry here."

Mr.G.V.Stewart sent us early notice of two new proposed Empire air routes, even though we are late in printing the information: "An experimental flight will shortly be made between Cairo and Kano in Nigeria, by machines of the Royal Air Force while in British East Africa, a private concern is about to make a survey of an air route from Kismayu to Khartum. Khartum is already linked with Cairo by a Royal Air Force service. The Cairo to Kano route is 2,800 miles in length and when air service is established this will again be cut in half."

There is much interest being shown in the Norse-American stamps and a good many complaints have been received about the difficulty experienced in finding the stamps on sale at post offices. For instance, Mr. H. R. Faison names many large offices in North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida where the stamp clerks said that not one stamp of this issue had been furnished them for sale. He says: "Having been a champion of commemorative issues of stamps since 1893, against the slings and arrows of outrageous criticism, I am at a loss for a defense of the distribution of the Norse-American issue." He adds that the enticements of the Norse-American stamps are so neutralized in a collecting sense that no impression has been made on the outsiders as: "Not one person, adult or schoolboy, in ten thousand, has seen one of these stamps or knows of the issue." Wishing to hear what was to be said as reflecting the position of the department, we sought the view of one of its representatives. Speaking unofficially, he says that this celebratory issue did not have a wide or national appeal, perhaps; and consequently, the number of stamps issued was comparatively small, making it an impossibility to supply all offices, even if there had been the intention to do so. While the post office department regards philately with favor and wishes it all success yet it is careful not to place itself in the position of shaping its activities in a stamp issuing sense so as to become open to any suspicion of proselyting. The character of the stamps was indicated by the selected cities to which the stamps were first sent.

It is of interest to have the slant of the post office folks, even though the reflection is not "official." We believe that the department tries to avoid even the appearance of using any of its stamp issues for its own gain or that of any class, cult or clan. With the exception of the Columbian issue of 1893, which was advocated on the score of resulting profit to the department through the sale of large quantities of the stamps to collectors, none of the subsequent issues were conceived in this materialistic mood. The Omaha issue of 1898 was issued as a result of pressure that overrode the decision of the department to dispense with extra stamps because as a business proposition, the results did not justify the added work and expense entailed by the coming of the special stamps. However, by that time, precedent was in the saddle and what followed is philatelic history. It is clear that the government does not issue commemorative or special stamps with any idea of profiting through their sale to stamp collectors nor does it loan itself to any boosting of philately through the stamps. Of course, the Stamp Agency as a wing of the department is glad to make sales to collectors and to increase them as much as possible, because there is an overhead to be met here and in the government's eyes, the Agency resolves itself into a business proposition.

Some time ago, the American Foreign Service Journal printed a letter from J. K. Davis, the consul at Nanking, in which he said that wishing to add to his stamp collection, he wrote to a number of his consular colleagues in various parts of the world and received attention from each one. Among those who answered Mr. Davis was the consul at Jerusalem, J. Rives Childs, who made the suggestion that a philatelic society be made by those in the consular service who listened to the call of stamp collecting. A specialty could be made of the early exchange of new issues by the consuls at countries of issue. The remark is made: "I believe that the organization of such a society would add another bond of interest among a considerable number of Foreign Service Officers—including non-career men who might be interested." We should be glad to learn of progress in the o ganization of the American Foreign Se vice Philatelic Society, by Mr. Davis Nanking, who no doubt had his han and his mind full during the Kiangs Chekiang civil war.

In the "Town Crier," the Sunda magazine section of the Wichita Beac Kansas, for October 4, 1925, there is illustrated account of the stamp work Father Stollenwerk, Liebenthal, Kans whose name is well-known to all p latelists through his development of t missionary stamp field. The article headed, "A Kansan Sells Stamps by t Ton" and is interesting and inspiration telling as it does of the values of stam actually and spiritually, as it we Father Stollenwerk is said to ha handled over two billions of stamps his sixteen years of service; and his ge eral collection numbers 40,000 stamps.

GREETINGS OF KING GEORGE

A very successful banquet was held in connection with the Third Canadian Philatelic Exhibition at Montreal. The dinner was held in the oak room of the Mount Royal Hotel and the great success of the event was crowned by a message from King George which was read following the toast to His Majesty. The cable was signed by Lord Stamfordham and read as follows:—

"I have laid before the King your telegram of yesterday, and am commanded to convey to the philatelists of Canada, who are celebrating the third Canadian philatelic exhibition of Montreal, the expression of the sincere thanks of His Majesty for their kind message of loyal greetings. The King, who has ever taken the keenest interest in philately, is delighted to know of its progress in the Dominion and wishes all success to the exhibition."

FROM PORTO RICO TO THE NORTH POLE

YES, IT'S QUITE A JUMP, but you really should make it once in your lifetime just to prove to yourselves and your fellow-collectors how truly broad-minded you are. And we are graciously offering our assistance. LAST MAY when the good SHIP OF THE AIR LOS ANGELES made her FIRST and as yet ONLY TRIP to PORTO RICO, she carried a FINE BUNCH OF COVERS for us. This was the FIRST AIRMAIL SERVICE TO OUR INSULAR POSSESSIONS.

U. S. A. TO PORTO RICO GENUINE FLOWN COVERS, BEARING THREE CANCELLATIONS, "Varick ST. Sta. N.Y.1", "Air Mail Service, New York", "San Juan, P.R." 2.00

Then, after mooring for awhile to the mast of the Patoka, in the harbor of Mayaguez, and being duly gazed upon and admired by the Porto Ricans, the LOS ANGELES made her RETURN TRIP TO LAKEHURST. On this HISTORICAL TRIP WE ALSO HAD SOME VERY FINE COVERS.

PORTO RICO TO U. S. A. GENUINE FLOWN COVERS, BEARING CANCELLATIONS: "Airmail Mayaguez, P.R.", "U.S.S. Patoka", "U.S.S. Los Angeles", "City Hall Sta. N.Y. 4". These cancellations are scarce. 2.00

AFTER the first experimental flight to BERMUDA in February, when the LOS ANGELES could not moor, because of stormy weather, and therefore could not bring Bermuda mail back with her,—preparations were made for a SECOND FLIGHT TO BERMUDA. On this flight a goodly number of covers were carried to Bermuda, so the price for these now is very low. These will soon be absorbed by collectors, and in a few years you'll be glad you put by a few.

U. S. A. TO BERMUDA 2ND TRIP COVERS, NICE ONES
5 COVERS $1.00; 10 COVERS $1.50 .25

THE LOS ANGELES chose fine weather for this SECOND FLIGHT LAST APRIL. She moored at the mast of the faithful Patoka in Hamilton harbor, was duly photographed and visited by official and unofficial Bermuda, and left the Islands with a fine sack of mail. We had friendly official help here, so our covers were nicely cancelled. They are all franked with Bermuda 85, and postmarked "Hamilton, Bermuda", and our local "Flushing, N.Y." receiving. We can furnish them with either of the airmail cancellations, "BERMUDA FIRST OVERSEAS AIRMAIL", "AIRMAIL SERVICE BERMUDA". They are very fine covers, you really need one.

BERMUDA TO U. S. A. 1ST TRIP COVERS, APR. 25, '25
EITHER AIRMAIL CANCELLATION 1.00

AND NOW FOR A JUMP TO THE NORTH POLE. WE HAVE A FEW CARDS FROM THE AMUNDSON FLIGHT. These are very interesting, and as you know, many of them were left in "cold storage", so the supply is rather limited. They are postmarked Madison Sq. Sta. N.Y. 4, May 20, 1924." with a 2c U. S. coil on one side OUR and "Kings Bay" and Norway 104 and 126 (a nice old bear) on reverse. PRICE 2.50

OUR REVIEW

The United Stamp Company, Chicago, has just issued the sixtieth section of the Marquette Sectional Album which in view of the fact that it covers Germany is particularly acceptable at this time. One hundred pages are required to accommodate these stamps which are the subject of increasing interest as they show so vividly the historical progress of the country. The treatment that is given the stamps of Germany on the pages is well-advised and it is certain that the arrangement must attract favorable attention from collectors. In reaching the sixtieth section, the publishers of the Marquette Sectional Album deserve a few congratulatory remarks. It is well remembered when the first instalment of the U. S. section appeared; and it is now history how the publishers have kept faith in their task with a degree of determination that is remarkable. The work of printing an embracive album is such as to tax the stoutest heart and when so successful a result is shown, the projectors of the "world work" should know that they have scored heavily. Germany: 100 sheets. Publishers, United Stamp Company, 141 S. Dearborn St., Chicago.

It is a distinct compliment to the United States when a European firm publishes a catalog printed in the English language and priced in dollars and cents. This has happened in the case of the Yvert & Tellier-Champion Catalog, which has followed the precedent set last year. It is not within our power to properly review this book in the space at our disposal, but we feel compelled to give it a strong endorsement. It is in the first place superbly illustrated with line cuts unusually clear in detail. The text is exceedingly well written and there is a large amount of information scattered throughout the book. As we open the book for review we find this notation in connection with the 1860-61 issue of Spain:—"The 12 cuartos stamps were used to frank letters for France; the 19 cuartos those for Belgium, hence the scarcity of the latter." There is scarcely an issue of the stamps of Spain that does not have some explanatory matter of this character. What is true of Spain is true of the other countries.

The watermarks are illustrated full size and great care has been taken in the production of the book. At 28 francs the price of the book is approximately $1.50 and it may be obtained from Theodore Champion, 13 Rue Drouot, Paris, France. There are 1220 pages in the book. The publishers in their preface pay tribute to the ever growing interest in philately and declare that the recent Ferrari sales have proven a remarkable impetus to stamp collecting. We believe that American philately, however loyal it will be to its own catalog, will not only welcome but support this splendid piece of enterprise upon the part of this well-established French firm.

We have received from W. Ward, 37 Lorne St., Lytham, England, two small books that are very interesting and will prove of value to the specialist in English stamps. One is on "Errors and Varieties of Surface Printed British Stamps", illustrated with enlarged diagrams. The other is "British Books of Stamps and Rolls". The two books are well printed and each are sold at one shilling. Mr. Ward used in mailing these books a copy of the 1½d booklet stamp to which is attached another booklet dummy stamp bearing the following advertisement:—"Air Mails. Inquire at any Head P. O."

The Whitfield King Catalog—Whitfield King & Co., of Ipswich, England, the pioneer firm in the handling of new issues, has just published the 1926 edition of their "Standard Catalog of Postage Stamps". This book has now reached its 25th edition and is the best of all yet issued. There are 5,600 illustrations in the book, which has undergone quite a number of changes not only in prices but in the arrangement of contents and the designations of stamp issuing countries. "Mesopotamia" has been displaced by "Iraq" and "New Britain" by "New Guinea".

The firm acquaints us with the total number of stamps issued to date as shown in their catalog, 43,279. Europe has issued 12,895, Asia 7,940, Africa 9,924, America 7,320, the West Indies 2,945, and Oceana 2,355. During the past twelve months there has been an increase of new stamps numbering 2,167. The book may be obtained from Whitfield King & Co., Ipswich, England, price postfree $1.60.

THE CHAPMAN STAMPS

Fine Collection of U. S. and British Colonies Left to the Wadsworth Atheneum.

Mrs. Fred P. Holt of Hartford, Conn., gives us some facts concerning Mr. Chapman and his stamp collection that should be given place in the WEEKLY. We will quote from Mrs. Holt's letter:—

"May I add a few words to your notice of the death of Mr. Silas Chapman, which occurred at the Hartford Hospital September 10th after three major operations? His stamp collection was composed almost entirely of U. S. and British Colonials in unused perfection condition of all issues previous to the late war. He was never lonely because entire evenings were spent poring over his treasures with a catalog by his side. He used loose leaf albums and they went with him to the hospital. Every time he sat up they were in his hands and his 80th birthday, September 2nd, was passed happily with his treasures, and friends who called upon him found him with them. By his will his splendid collection is left to the Wadsworth Athaneum of Hartford, with a sufficient bequest to pay for their display in revolving cases. It is indeed a wonderful gift to his home city."

U. S. COIL STAMPS

MINT—O. G.

Among the most interesting of the late U. S. stamps are the coil varieties, which unfortunately most collectors have neglected until recent years. As a result, many varieties which catalog only a few cents are really difficult to obtain. I really believe that at today's catalog prices these are most reasonable and if the demand continues to increase, many varieties that were on sale at the post office just a few years back will be selling at substantial prices.

I have on hand one of the finest stocks of coil stamps in existence and offer the following:

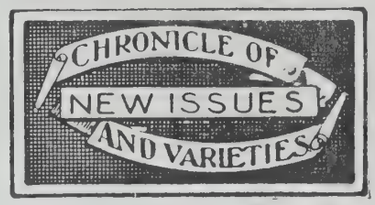
TWO DISTINCT COMPLIMENTS

We have several advertisers who take large advertising space in the WEEKLY and if we single out two at this time for special mention it is not because we do not appreciate the support accorded us by those who are regularly advertising in the WEEKLY.

The year's contract with the Scott Stamp & Coin Co. expired September 30th. Six thousand lines had been contracted for and we find that this firm has used during the year no fewer than 6,900 lines of space.

Another advertiser, the firm of H. E. Harris & Co., of Boston, contracted July 1st, for 5,000 lines of space and in the three summer months of July, August and September the firm has used 1,544 lines, or nearly one-third of their contract.



COVER DESIGN WANTED

Next January we shall publish a missionary number of the WEEKLY, and we desire a cover design that will be appropriate. We have many subscribers who are expert with pen and pencil and we invite them all to a friendly rivalry in originality and skill. The drawing if larger than a page of the WEEKLY should be made proportionately.

We offer for a first prize $25 and $10 will be given for all sketches that may be acceptable for cover designs. All drawings must be in our office by January 1, 1926, the earlier the better.

On August 11th I am leaving on a business trip through Europe, from which I expect to return about October 10th. Orders received at my New York office during that time will be shipped after my return. My European address is

While recently in Washington I had an opportunity of discussing with several officials the proposed stamp with portrait of Woodrow Wilson that the daily press advised us several days ago may be expected in the near future. It seems that while an official announcement was made at the White House that a Wilson stamp would be issued, the Post Office authorities are of the opinion that the portrait will appear on some future stamp and not upon one that will be immediately issued. In other words, he will appear in the usual course of business, and if a new stamp is not required in one or two or even five years, we will not see him until that time. I am under the impression that this is not what the Woodrow Wilson Foundation had desired nor what is generally believed that the President had promised.

In the letter written by the Postmaster General to Mr. Norman H. Davis, President of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, it was stated that portraits of McKinley, Roosevelt, Cleveland, and the like did not appear until several years after they had died. The Postmaster General evidently overlooks the fact that in 1908 in accordance with the desires of Postmaster General Meyer, that Washington and Franklin were the only portraits placed upon the stamps and that accordingly there was no opportunity of placing these Ex-Presidents upon the stamps until the new issue made its appearance during the last three years.

Mr. New further states that after the new postal law had been enacted that there was not ample time to engrave a new portrait but that they simply used the Harding 2c die and changed the figures. He evidently overlooked the fact that it was necessary to take time to engrave a die with Nathan Hale for use of the ½c stamp.

I have been informed that they are of the opinion that had Wilson appeared on the ½c stamp, there would have been a Democratic howl. If this was the case why could they not have taken time to engrave Woodrow Wilson upon the 1½c stamp and used the old die for making a ½c stamp with portrait of Harding? Surely no one would have assumed that this was a slight to Harding in any way.

A suggestion has been made to Washington that a 17c stamp may be appropriate for heretofore we have always had a stamp of the denomination which equaled the domestic letter rate, plus the registration charges. When the registration charge was formerly 8c and the domestic postage 2c, we had a 10c stamp to cover. When the registration was raised to 10c a 12c stamp was immediately issued and later on when the regular postage was raised to 3c, a 13c stamp again made its appearance.

The Peoria Journal states that postage stamp politics does not much outrank peanut politics. They tell us that had Woodrow Wilson been succeeded in office by a Democrat the Post Office Department undoubtedly would have given Wilson stamp room.

We want a Woodrow Wilson stamp and if you feel the same way, address a communication to the President calling his attention to the fact that it is not the Department's intention of issuing a stamp showing Wilson until the occasion arises when a further denomination is necessary. Tell him that you feel that he should be so honored without further delay.

New Postal Cards For Foreign Use

The new single postals as well as reply postals selling at 3c and 6c each, respectively, in accordance with the ruling of the Universal Postal Union will have made their appearance by the time these notes appear.

The cards will be similar in size to the previous issue and printed in red and will bear a portrait of William McKinley. The McKinley portrait is the one in square frame that was formerly used on the domestic postal card.

It is understood by our readers that the reply card can be used in paying postage from any country in the Postal Union to the United States. While such cards have been in use for many years, I have as yet to see the first card used from abroad. A collection of such cards from the many foreign countries would prove unusually attractive.

1½c Revalued Envelopes

Since my last notes no new varieties of the revalued 1½c envelopes have come to my attention, although quite a few new cities have recently received dies for overprinting. These dies are not only going to the larger centers but are now being received by many of the smaller towns who in turn are revaluing for other offices. As far as the cut square collector is concerned, it is my impression that about everything that is going to be issued is now available, although I am still looking for the round stamp on blue die C with the double line overprint. This envelope is by no means scarce unsurcharged and it has been found in a number of cities using the single line overprint. Although I have followed the revaluing diligently I have as yet to see this variety with double line overprint.

Air Mail Notes

The Information Service of the Post Office Department on October 7th announced that on that date Postmaster General New had awarded contracts to private corporations to operate air mail service on five additional commercial routes. The successful bidder on the Boston to New York via Hartford route is the Colonial Air Lines, Inc., of Naugatuck, Conn. The Chicago to St. Louis via Springfield route goes to the Robertson Air Craft Corporation of St. Louis. The successful bidder in the Chicago to Dallas and Fort Worth is the National Air Transport, Inc., Chicago, Ill., while the Western Air Express of Los Angeles is the successful bidder for carrying mail from Salt Lake City to Los Angeles. The bids on the other routes previously mentioned in this chronicle have not as yet been awarded.

The successful contractors have thirty days to sign the contracts and after that, they will have the opportunity of acquiring aeroplanes and other paraphernalia needed in connection with transporting of mails by air. As this all takes time it will probably be the Spring of 1926 before the first one starts to operate.

BOLIVIA.—From further particulars, supplied by M. Théodore Champion on German authority, it seems that the forthcoming centennial commemoratives, referred to in last week's Stamp Collecting, are to comprise nineteen different types, representing devices inscribed on the Sun Gate of the ancient Inca temple of Tihuanaku. These are startling in their crudity and will undoubtedly beat the world's record for philatelic ugliness, in which class there has lately been such strong competition.

New Perkins, Bacon Commemorative.—In the meantime Messrs. Benjamin & Sarpy show us a new 15c commemorative which they have just received from their representative in Bolivia. It is of large upright format (frame 1⅜ in. high by 9/10 in. wide) and has the portrait of President B. Saavedra over the inscription "1825-1925 BOLIVIA-CENTENARIO DE LA REPUBLICA," with the imprint of Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co.

COLOMBIAN REPUBLIC.—Whitfield King & Co. advise of a new registration stamp in greenish blue with the following information:

"Our agent informs us that no more registration labels will be issued for Colombia and that the registration fee will now be made payable by ordinary postage stamps and that these provisional stamps will be used up on parcels as ordinary postage. The stock held of these stamps is not very large and is expected to be exhausted by October 31st."

ICELAND.—Mr. W. T. Wilson sends us a set of five values of a new series of stamps of oblong shape. Each stamp has the same style border with the name "Island" in the centre of the top and the value in an oval in the lower centre. At the left and right sides are the words "Frimerki". The values and shades are: 7a light green, 10a blue and brown, 20a rose red, 35a blue and 50a green and brown. The 7a and 50a show a view of the native shore with a cliff in the distance; 10a and 35a, a village scene and the 20a, a public building.

JAPAN.—In a letter from Tokio mailed on the 19th of September last, Mr. C. A. Yarrington sends a copy of the latest in Japanese stamps. It is a 13s olive brown,

STAMP NEWS IN BRIEF

BRITISH EMPIRE.

Great Britain.—An exceptional variety has recently been shown us by our publishers, in the shape of the current 4d, Waterlow, printed on the gummed side of the paper. This sheet was sold over the counter at a London post office, and most of the stamps had been used in the ordinary way before the error was discovered. No other stamps of the Edwardian and Georgian issues are known in this condition.

Another freak, also shown us by our publishers, consists of a large block from the control corner of a sheet of the Waterlow ½d (C 25). The sheet has been torn during printing and patched together on the back with pieces of white paper. The sheet has then been perforated, so that the patching paper has also been perforated. We are informed by a stamp printer that it is usual to patch sheets which are torn during printing (the printer's sheet probably consisting of four post office sheets of 240 stamps), and to run them through the perforating machine, and then to discard the damaged sheet of 240. In this case the damage evidently escaped the checkers and the sheet was issued.

Bermuda.—Mr. R. Roberts notes new shades of the current issue, ½d, deep yellowish green, and 2½d, deep olive.

Canada.—Mr. J. Almar kindly sends us an official notice stating that the new 8c (for the new foreign postage rate) was to be issued on September 1st. Colour, blue.

Mr. S. Tanner Green sends us information concerning the latest Air label, used under official permission by the Northern Air Service, Ltd., on letters conveyed by them between Haileybury, Ont., and Rouyn. The company is authorised to charge twenty-five cents for this service, and their label is affixed to the reverse of the letter, the usual postage in Canadian stamps being placed on the front. The label is inscribed "NORTHERN AIR SERVICE LIMITED. HAILEYBURY, ONT. SPECIAL AIR DELIVERY," with a winged device.

Gibraltar.—Lieut.-Colonel G. McAllister suggests that the new 5s and 10s values recently forecast will replace the 4s and 8s of the present series, these latter being decimal values which have survived from the days of Spanish currency. The 2s 6d and £5 values will be additional.

India.—Cochin. Mr. Oswald Marsh shows us a minor variety of the new 10 pies on 9 pies, with the word "Ten" in thin letters. From the number of copies found in a parcel of used stamps Mr. Marsh considers that this variety probably occurs once in each sheet.

OTHER COUNTRIES.

Bulgaria.—Mr. P. V. Karaivanoff shows us the following recent provisionals with inverted surcharge: 20st on 10st (Due) 1l on 5st (Portrait), 3l on 50st (View), 6l on 1l (Portrait). We are so far without information as to whether these varieties were legitimately issued or whether they are leakages from the printing works.

China.—Mr. J. Cush points out that the 4c grey, Junk type, exists in sheets of 200 in one pane, and also in sheets of 120 stamps in four panes of 30. The latter arrangement is evidently being adopted generally, as stocks of the various values become exhausted.

Cuba.—A new Ministry of Communications has recently been established, says Mr. R. R. Paderni, charged with the direction of the Post Office, Telegraphs, Railways, Wireless, and other methods of communication. The firm "La Moderna Poesia," successors of José Lopez Rodriguez, are printing the stamps, and have been instructed to use paper with watermark Star with five points, as formerly used for fiscal stamps. Only the 2c has so far appeared with the new watermark. Other values will be printed on the new paper as stocks are exhausted.

Egypt.—Mr. S. B. Pengelley tells us that the first stamps to be printed by the new Egyptian stamp printing works will be Air stamps, presumably for use on mails carried by the Cairo-Bagdad-India route. The current issue will not be changed till 1927. From cuttings sent by the same correspondent we learn that new issues are contemplated in connection with the 14th International Navigation Congress (Cairo, 1926), and the Pan-African Olympic Games (Alexandria, 1927). Is Egypt qualifying for a place on the black list?

France.—Dr. F. P. Renaut informs us that many changes are contemplated in the designs and colours of the current stamps, in addition to those already listed, including:—

15c, green (Pasteur) to brown (Sower).

20c, chocolate (Sower) to green (Pasteur).

25c, blue (Sower) to red (Sower).

45c, red (Pasteur) to blue-lilac (Sower, Type, 15).

60c, violet (Sower) to red (Pasteur).

75c, blue (Pasteur) to red (Sower, Type 15).

1fr, (Merson type) to blue (Pasteur).

Holland.—Special post cards were on sale at an exhibition held at the Hague from June 15th to July 5th, in connection with the Tercentary of the appearance of Grotius' famous work, De jure belli ac pacis. These cards, and also current stamps of Holland, were canceled during the exhibition with a special postmark bearing the name of the book and the dates of the author's birth and death.

Mr. Gordon Wimberley shows us a very deep shade of the current 10c which he believes to be from a new printing.

Japan.—Mr. E. Y. Teramoto states that a 13c stamp for use on inland registered first-class mail will shortly be issued, in the type of the 5 sen of 1914—colour olive-brown. He also suggests that the Military Frank stamp of 1914 may soon be abolished. The perforation of the Silver Wedding stamps is as follows, according to the same kind informant:—

1½ sen, 12½ (comb); 3 sen, 10¾; 12x10¾; 12x12½; 12½. (All single-line machine.) 8 sen, 12½ (comb). 20 sen, 10¾ (single line); 13½x13 (comb).

Nejd.—Messrs. A. J. Marsh and A. Sempad send us stamps of various Turkish issues with an Arabic overprint reading "Sultanate of Nejd, Posts, 1925." The 1922 issue of the Hejaz also comes with this overprint, which is found in blue, red, violet and black. These stamps seem to be in regular use in the Sultanate of Nejd, which, according to our reference works, is now the dominant power in Arabia, Mecca having been captured by the Sultan Ibn Saud, and his Wahabis, in October, 1924. We await further information from our readers before definitely listing these stamps, but they are doubtless of quite legitimate status.

Persia.—Mr. R. W. Gray gives interesting details concerning the 3ch, S.G. No. 506. In 1922 the Dutch printers sent out a supply of this value with the colour changed from grey to bistre-brown. On the difference being pointed out to the Director-General of Posts, further supplies were stopped, and the balance of the bistre-brown consignment were overprinted "Controle 1922" in October of that year. The number of stamps in this colour, both with and without the overprint, is comparatively small, the grey shade being the common one.

As regards the 2ch, Type 58, in sepia and red-brown, mentioned in this column in August, Mr. Gray states that this change of colour is found only in stamps from the oil-field district, and is a chemical change due to the oil fumes in the air. Similar variations are known in other values.

Russia.—Mr. V. Tchertkoff states that a new anniversary issue is expected in October, consisting of stamps of 3, 7, 10, 14 and 20 kopecks.

Spanish Colonies.—Stamps of recent issues are offered at low rates with cyphers on the back instead of the usual serial number. We presume these are supplied thus for sale to collectors, but they can hardly be regarded as issued stamps in this state. We should prefer stamps with the proper serial numbers.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

This was addressed to a certain Mr. Goodfellow. Goodfellow is right.

Always take in all the conventions, exhibitions and meetings that you can. "You can't lose." One or two cases were entirely filled with Canadian cancellations. I noted one in particular wearing the name of Mr. Fred Jarrett. Later on I met him, and found out that he has placed a fine little brochure on the market with a portion of it devoted to odd obliterations. He gave me permission to make use of these in the Forum, and if you wish, a number of them will be shown. There were many beautifully made crowns, called Tudor and Senate Crowns. There were many types of the maple leaf, some merely black with the outline carefully cut, while others were most carefully cut with veins and ribs colorless. Some large leaf forms cut from cork had numerals in them, as "9", or "IX", etc., these also coming in other shapes.

They are studying the town obliterations there same as we are on our early U. S. On the 3c vermilions were many strange designs, all of which bore names, as ox, elephant, bear cub, coat of arms, pumpkin head, reindeer, etc., etc. A good imagination is a good thing to have along when examining cancellations of most all countries, especially on our early U. S. A's.

There are many other things that might be mentioned in connection with this exhibit; but think this will suffice for the nounce. Everyone had a very fine time, and great praise is due the committee who worked till the wee hours getting the exhibits ready for the morrow I was told. They opened on time, and it is too bad that you all could not attend, better luck at the next one.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

JAMAICAN CHILD WELFARE

By Harry E. Huber.

When withdrawn from sale on January 31, 1924, the following large quantities of all values remained on hand:

Remainders.		Face value.
½d,	21,007	£ 43.15. 3½
1d,	36,166	150.13.10

Subtracting from the receipts (116,520 stamps, £599.15.0), the 37,941 stamps (£182.6.11), on which the Child Saving League received ½d each (£79.0.10½), there should remain 78,579 stamps (£417.8.1), whereas the actual remainders were 78,569 stamps (£417.6.7½), a difference of 10 stamps or 1/5½d. This difference represents five stamps at 1d and five at 2½d, probably presentation, or damaged copies.

It is indeed surprising that greater quantities of these stamps were not bought locally, considering the large purchases made of war stamps issued between 1916 and 1919. Of the £1100 3d London overprinted WAR STAMP, in red, sent out to the island and issued October 3, 1919, £900 were taken up by speculators within a few days.

In 1913 the Postal Department of Switzerland issued a 10c Pro Juventute stamp, of which 3,314,060 were sold. The stamps had a postal value of 5c and were sold at 5c over face; of the overage the Pro Juventute Foundation received 4½ centimes, and the remaining ½c was retained by the Postal administration for the extra work involved. The sum received by the Foundation in that year was 149,132.70 francs. The Pro Juventute series of 1923 comprised four values, and the quantities sold were as follows:—

20c,	2,207,253

The yield to the Foundation was 375,660.25 frs.

Whatever the disappointment in some quarters, the ladies of the Jamaican Child Saving League were pleased with the additional income, and at a meeting on February 29, 1924 (reported in the Gleaner of March 8, 1924), the Secretary (Mrs. E. F. Latreille), reported that on inquiring she had found that "the sales were estimated at £79.0.10½ above postal value for the three months." Further, that "in a letter received from Pittsburgh, the writer said his experience with such issues was that although the first year's sale might be small, each successive year would see the sales improve and further the cause of the issue more and more. The amount obtained, whatever it be, will greatly help the Child Saving League's present position."

After the stamps were retired on January 31, 1924, offers were made by several American dealers (through local agents) for the whole of the remainders, but the Colonial Secretary refused to permit the Postmaster to sell any until November 1, 1924.

In the Gleaner of October 25, 1924, appeared the following:—

"Notice.

Child Welfare.

A special issue of Postage and Revenue Stamps bearing the words 'Child Welfare,' of the following denominations, ½d, 1d, 2½d will be sold for 1d, 1½d and 3d each respectively, at the General Post Office, and certain District Post Offices during November, December, 1924, and January, 1925.

The extra half penny charged over and above the face value of each stamp will be for the benefit of 'Child Welfare'—the value for postal purpose is what is printed on each stamp.

Signed, Ellis Wolfe,
Postmaster for Jamaica."

It was pointed out to the Government early in 1924 that if the remainders were re-issued on November 1, 1924, large sales could not be expected, as the local demand had already been more or less cared for, and to make the stamps distinctive it was suggested that they be overprinted "1924-1925." However, as it has been laid down that no issue of stamps should be overprinted, the remainders were re-issued November 1, 1924, without any distinguishing overprint.

As many orders from abroad had accumulated in the hands of local agents by the middle of November, the ½d remainders (21007, £43.15.3½) had exhausted, and as the stock of the 2½d was also lowering a further printing of these two values was requisitioned. This lot was received and issued late in December, and comprised the following quantities:

2½d,	80	9,600	100. 0.0

Remainders from 1923-24.
½d.	1d.	2½d.
Third printing, 1924.
73,680	None	9,600	253.10. 0
94,687	36,166	30,996	£670.16. 7½

The stamps were again withdrawn from sale at the end of January, 1925, in accordance with the following Notice, printed in the Gleaner of January 24, 1925:

"Notice.

Child Welfare Postage Stamps.

The sale of Child Welfare stamps in Kingston, and at District Post Offices, will cease after the 31st. January, 1925.

Signed, Ellis Wolfe,

THE COLLECTING MANIA.

every stamp of one country, and decide on Luxemburg.

He almost immediately discovers that when he has the ten centime lilac stamp of 1865-1872 he has not everything he can have in that stamp. Some of the ten centime stamps printed in those years were lilac in color, but some were rose lilac and some were gray lilac, and he has to have those. Then he discovers that the Luxemburg post office printed over the face of some of these stamps the letters OFFICIEL, meaning they were to be used on public business only, and he has to have that stamp. But he also discovers that, by error, some of these overprints were printed twice on one stamp or three times on another. He has to have these double surcharges and triple surcharges before he can be truly happy. Or, it may happen, one of the plates from which the stamps were printed was marred and the "s" in "centimes" is missing. This happened on every sheet of stamps, and he has to have one of the stamps with the "s" missing.

This may seem foolish, and it is, but it is part of the game, and so many otherwise responsible men are wanting that stamp that its price goes up. If the ordinary ten centime stamp is worth a dollar in the open market and there are one hundred stamps to each printed sheet the one with the "s" missing may be worth a hundred dollars, or it may be worth ten dollars—it all depends on how many specialists there are wanting the stamp. He tries all the dealers and does not find a copy, so he watches the auction catalogues and when he sees the stamp listed he bids for it. Usually the other fellow gets it, and he begins his hunt again. He writes to dealers in Luxemburg, in London, in Paris. He is a lucky fellow when he finally nails that stamp.

Practically every stamp ever issued can be made a specialty in this way. A man can collect varieties of the Boscawen New Hampshire, five cent stamp at $12,000 a throw, and when he has one his collection is complete, because only one is known to exist, or he can collect varieties of the ninety cent stamp of 1867 at $800 per stamp and spend enough money to build a court house, or he can specialize in the three cent stamp of 1917 which is worth almost nothing. Probably an earnest collector could gather ten thousand varieties of this last stamp—or more—and be able to point out how each stamp differed from every one of its fellows. There are innumerable shades of violet in this particular stamp, from a vivid violet that is almost purple to a wishy-washy violet that isn't much of anything. Millions of this stamp were issued by the Government. One variety not perforated on the sides is worth $2 today and will go higher.

The rare stamps are so valuable that they are not handled with the naked fingers, but with tiny tongs made for the purpose. A reason why so many of the older stamps are rare now is that the early collectors pasted them flat to the album page with glue. The stamp had little value. When a new album was needed the owner tried to peel the stamps from the old page and ten out of every hundred were torn and then thrown away. When a modern collector thinks of the stamp treasures that were destroyed in this way his hair stands on end and he has nightmares for a week. Now stamps are affixed to album pages with thin transparent peelable hinges.

The leading association of stamp collectors in America has about 2,700 members, practically all adults, and twenty-two branches, and it holds an annual convention. It was incorporated in 1866. In New York the stamp collectors have a club and maintain rooms where, last season, seventy auction sales were held. The club has a library of between 3,000 and 4,000 bound volumes, and between 40,000 and 50,000 magazines, all devoted to stamp collecting. Twenty-seven of the world's best stamp magazines are received there regularly. I give these figures because they are impressive, but I collect postage stamps because it is fun

REVIEW OF PRECANCELS

By Al Burns.

Alabama.

Birmingham.—The blue ink varieties which were once very common on the 1c Perf. 10 seem to be getting scarce. Everyone wants one and very few are now coming on the market. Evidently Birmingham didn't use blue ink long for it has been reported only on the 1c and the 2c postage due.

California.

Redlands.—This city did not use any precancels after the year of 1902.

San Francisco.—Reading up and down on the 1902 issue were considered very scarce even as far back as 1912 and a reported find of any quantity of them would start a stampede of collectors equal to the "Gold Rush of '49". The 4 and 5 cent made their appearance in 1904 but the 1 and 2 cent did not appear until nearly 2 years later, which accounts for their relative scarcity. The earthquake at San Francisco was in 1906 and the postmaster is reported as not having issued any precancels until six months after the 'quake occurred.

The $2.00, 1902, Perf. 12 (Type III) was first precanceled in 1913 but was never used in very large quantities. The catalog valuation is very low considering that fine used copies are bringing $3.00 or more at the present time. The Perf. 10 variety is also worth more than the present valuation.

China.

Shanghai.—Used precancels for a short time in 1911 and again in 1912-13 for about four months. They are really very scarce items and the 3 cent is about the only one that ever comes to light.

Colorado.

Denver.—First type was used only during the early part of December, 1911. The inclusion of the firm's initials appears to have been contrary to the postal ruling and the issue was ordered withheld. It is reported that they were in use only three days. Many copies may be found with the regular postmark having been used on first-class mail.

Longmont.—1 cent 1908-10 issue was first used Christmas, 1909, when they precanceled it up and down. No normal varieties were known until the latter part of 1911, which shows that they were undoubtedly much scarcer than the ups and downs. The blue ink variety was an experiment used in 1911 for a short time.

Pueblo.—Precanceled the current postage dues from 1c to 10c in 1905. Further information is lacking except that it consisted of "Pueblo, Colo. P. O." in a circle. Can anyone produce a copy?

Connecticut.

Ansonia.—Printed her name on precancels for the first time in December, 1901, (Type II). Type VI, on the 1c 1902 was not used until in 1905, and no inverts were found until in 1908, which accounts for their scarcity. The postmaster at Ansonia, during the latter part of April, 1907, sold a quantity of unused precancels of the 1902 issue to the general public. This was during the day of the picture postal card craze when everyone had a postal card collection. This irregularity was soon stopped but many of them may still be found on postal cards in some of the postal card collections of that day.

Clintonville.—Type II on the 1902 issue reading up or down, spaced 2½ mm. apart with lines 15 and 15½ mm. apart are almost unknown. All differences of spacings on typeset issues are worthy of notice as some of them are much more rare than others.

Danbury.—Without the comma are much scarcer than those with the comma. This error seems to have occurred only once in the plate.

Meriden.—The 1 cent value of 1902 was first used in 1907 by Rogers Bros. of "1847 Silverware" fame, to send out their monthly, called the "Silver Standard". They used the 3 cent for the first time in 1911. The 2, 4, 5, 6, 8 and 10 cent were used for the first time at Christmas, 1911.

Middletown.—First used precancels in 1904. The 1 cent was the only value used at that time. The 2 cent was not reported until 1907. Type II is reported as having been used only during December, 1910.

Milford.—Contrary to popular opinion, the 1 cent 1902 was first issued by Milford in 1906 instead of 1911. It was known at that time in the normal variety but did not appear double until in 1907. The 3 and 4 cent were not used until December, 1911.

Moodus.—Issued only one stamp (1c, 1898 issue). It was used during the latter part of 1901 for a short time. It appears in purple ink.

New Haven.—Type I and II seem to have been used at the same time (Dec., 1901) and nothing more was issued from New Haven until in 1910, when the 1c 1908-10 made its appearance.

New London.—Appeared during Christmas, 1911. This first issue is very rare and is missing in most collections. This was typeset in three fonts of type and was not re-used at Christmas, 1912. The type then used was the U-79 handstamp.

North Haven.—First used precancels in 1909. The 1 cent value was used intermittently from that time until some time in 1913, but they were never very common. Inverts are almost unknown.

South Glastonbury.—Used the 4 cent, 1902 issue, Type II for the first time during Christmas, 1904. Information on the other issues is lacking at this time.

Stamford.—Did not use precancels from 1902 up to December, 1911. Then a full set, up to and including the 8 cent value, appeared.

Torrington.—Is reported as having used the 5 cent 1902 issue. Can anyone produce a copy for cataloging?

FIVE YEAR HONOR CLUB.

J. E. Nichols, U. S. S. Brazos.
Dr. N. P. McGay, Cleveland, Ohio.
New York Philatelic Society, N. Y. City.

We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of $5 for a membership in our Honor Club from J. E. Nichols of the U. S. Ship Brazos. We deem it proper to extract these words from the letter accompanying his remittance:—"I became a reader of your paper for the first time during the early part of this year and you may rest assured that I do not intend to be without the Weekly from now until doomsday. Twelve years ago I began collecting when I saw a small general collection mounted in a small Scott album. Although at present in the U. S. navy, my time is being spent in the building up of a substantial dealer's stock which will no doubt be heard from later."

We are also indebted to Dr. N. P. McGay of 1000 E. 105 St., Cleveland, Ohio, for a remittance of $5 for membership in the Honor Club. Our friend writes:—"I simply can't get along without the Weekly."

When our page list of members was printed recently we omitted by mistake the name of the New York Philatelic Society. To make amends we again chronicle the fact that the New York Society should be enrolled in the membership list of the Honor Club. Are there other omissions?

CASKET OF STAMP GEMS

LONDON, Aug. 21.—A remarkable collection of rare eastern stamps which were kept in a gold casket is to be sold by auction here. The collection was formed by Mohamed Kamel el Kassab, son of the president of the high assembly of Assyria, who is visiting Great Britain.

Every page of the album is exquisitely handpainted with views of Damascus, Aleppo, Beirut, Jerusalem and other cities of Asia Minor, and the volume reposes in a massive gold and silver inlaid casket of Arabian design and workmanship. Three smaller gold and silver inlaid caskets contain medals commemorating the independence of Arabia and other events. An offer of $2,750 was made and refused for one of the stamps.—Newspaper.

MARKET IN MODERN COLONIALS

Tonga Provisionals.—The Tonga provisionals which were issued last year are only coming on the market slowly. Some of the values were effectively cornered, and the prices of these remain high. It is curious that this distant outpost of Empire was a very prolific issuer of surcharged provisionals during the years 1893-97, but which now appear to be in only slight demand. The 1897 set, part of which is still current (the pictorials), has been in use as long as any Colonial series still on issue, but the numbers used are only small. The numbers issued of the 1924 provisionals were recently published, and appear to be authentic. These show the 2d on 5d to be the commonest, followed closely by the 2d on 2s6d and 2d on 5sh. The first mentioned is about three times more plentiful than the 2d on 10d and four and one-half times the 2d on 1sh, which is the rarest of the series and of which rather over 100 sheets of 60 were sold.

These figures show the 2d on 5d to be relatively underpriced, and some of the others relatively overpriced.

These discrepancies will adjust themselves as the speculators' stocks come on the market.

It appears probable that if these provisionals had been kept strictly for actual postal requirements, the one denomination first surcharged would have sufficed, and it looks as though the opportunity was seized to get rid of the old king's head type, instead of destroying the obsolete stocks. In the case of the recent New Hebrides provisionals, issued at about the same time, the stocks were conserved by limiting severely the quantities sold to collectors or dealers.

Rarities.—Far more collectors these days like to have some first-class rarities in their collections, or at least items worth £10 or so, and recent experience has shown that it is the modern rarities that generally turn out the most profitable. The 10sh Malta, CA, is generally considered about the best of these, but if a collector cannot afford this, he will get some of the other high values of Malta, Cyprus, St. Kitts, etc., which were issued in almost as limited numbers as the Malta rarity, but have not yet reached the price quoted for the first mentioned ...np. £20, a figure that well represents ...alue, as it is difficult to obtain at less. ...n first issued, the new printing was ...ut within about a month, and the ...type placed on sale again; indeed, ...t has ...ways been a mystery why it was ...s the supply of this old stamp, which had done duty for so long, lasted until the script 10sh was issued in 1921, and was only finally used up by surcharging "Self-Government." It was not until this occurred that the rarity began to fetch its high prices, and was for some time obtainable at about £2. Its successor, the 10sh script, is itself approaching the same degree of rarity, and is already quoted at 1000 francs in Yvert.

Prices at the summer auctions have been well maintained for desirable lots especially considering the long spell of real summer weather we have been enjoying.

At a recent sale St. Vincent sold very well, both in the early and late issues. The rarity of some of the modern errors is seldom properly appreciated. The 1d on 1sh provisional of the above country issued 1915 contained an error "one omitted." It is not very long since a copy, offered to a British philatelist as a bargain at £20, was promptly refused. The copy in this sale fetched £42! Even some of the local war overprints fetched good prices compared with what these have been fetching recently.

A number of Indian errors and varieties have recently been coming on the market. The ¼ anna provisional, inverted, is amongst them, and prices for this and others have dropped.

The 50 rupee East Africa and Uganda, on script wmk. paper, is very seldom seen, and must be in the front rank of modern rarities. Like many superlatively high values, the demand is less, as the vast majority of collectors do not attempt to touch anything over £1 face. This attitude is also justified by the fact that these very high values are used chiefly, and in some cases entirely, for fiscal purposes. There has been a tendency in some Colonies to use the same key-plates for postage and revenue purposes, so that values that are used exclusively for revenue still bear the legend "postage and revenue." Thus we find £50 and £100 or 1000 rupee stamps.

Modern Australian forms a group with distinct possibilities, and is a sound investment where one can get in at rock bottom prices. The 6d Kookaburra is still worth picking up on current catalogue prices. Its curious design always makes it a ready seller, and it would not be surprising to see it priced at 10sh in our lists before very long. There are also possibilities of scarce items amongst various king's heads of recent Australia and New Zealand, where various changes of color and watermark have occurred within a short period.—The Philatelic Magazine.

THIRD CANADIAN PHILATELIC EXHIBITION

Reported by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

This Exhibition undoubtedly turned out to be a very great success and at the outset I should like to say that as far as I could judge very great credit should be given to the Vice-President, Prof. R. De L. French, who was ably assisted during many months by Messrs. C. H. Goulden, Vice-Pres.; T. M. Barrington, Hon. Sec.; R. H. Beckett, Hon. Treas.; A. Newman, Recording Sec.; S. N. Oughtred; A. Vincent; G. M. Le Hain.

The backbone of the committee, however, was Prof. French, who turned out to be a splendid organizer and a worker who never seemed tired and never gave up his job. The thanks of all Philatelists, not only in Canada but visitors from the United States should be ungrudgingly given to this gentleman.

The Exhibition handbook, which included the Official Catalogue, is one of the finest pieces of work that I have ever seen and the credit for this must be given to Mr. Le Hain, who was Chairman, assisted by Mr. A. Newman. This book has previously been reviewed in the WEEKLY.

The Exhibition was held in "La Salle Doree" in the Mt. Royal Hotel, where most of the visitors stayed. This magnificent room, one of the best I have ever seen for Exhibition purposes, was well filled with rather over 300 frames, which were not found near enough for the numerous exhibits sent in, the result being that many important exhibits could only have a portion of their collections shown.

As far as possible, instructions were given to mount the larger and more interesting portions of the Br. North American collections as it was considered these would have the greatest interest for the visitors. Altogether about 340 entries were received and a judicious display from each was made.

The following is a brief account of the chief exhibits, which space will not allow me to describe at any length, and I would like to state that I am preparing a rather exhaustive description of the Exhibition from the Philatelists' point of view, for the Collectors Club Philatelist, the next number to be issued in January, 1926.

The outstanding features of the Exhibition were entries "not for competition". The chief by far amongst these was that of Mr. A. F. Lichtenstein, who made two wonderful exhibits of Canada and of Br. Columbia and Vancouver Island.

The Canada pence issues are in my opinion, beyond doubt, the finest collection of these stamps that exist and also the one that has been best worked out. As an example, I might mention that Mr. Lichtenstein has been able to plate a very large number of the stamps and to prove the position on plates 1 and 2 of many of the re-entries and re-strikes. Similar work has been done to a great extent on the other values. The mass of material in this collection is really stupendous. Pages of each value, singles, pairs and strips, stamps on cover, a wonderful combination, showing rates to various parts of the world. The famous 12d stamp is represented by the following: 3 pairs unused with 6 used singles, laid paper: 2 used on covers and 6 used singles, laid paper; 12d on thin wove paper, 2 unused, both showing slight shifts; 12d on medium thick wove paper, 1 used. The stamps throughout this collection are in wonderfully fine condition and very carefully written up with all the essential details noted.

In Br. Columbia and Vancouver Isle, Mr. Lichtenstein made a wonderful display with all varieties of cancellation and with an exceptionally fine lot of the Barnard's Cariboo Express, including the unique sheet of 12 of the green stamp printed in two panes of six tête-bêche. Here also was a copy used of the exceedingly rare pink in place of the usual vermilion. The franks used in Br. Columbia are an exceedingly fine lot, almost everything being represented by several copies.

Mr. Arthur Hind exhibited "hors concors," a wonderful collection of Nevis stamps in uncut sheets. The issues of 1861, 1866 and 1876 are complete. Amongst the greatest rarities are the engraved gray paper 4d and 1sh and engraved white paper 4d, 1sh blue green and 1sh yellow green. This yellow green sheet is, as far as I know, absolutely unique. I have never heard of another copy except this one which Mr. Hind got from the Ferrary collection. In addition to the entire sheets, Mr. Hind showed a number of rarities in singles and blocks, amongst them being a very fine copy of the extremely rare 1sh yellow green on laid paper.

In this section I showed a collection of Prince Edward Id., and of United States War Departments used, only, to show the numerous interesting cancellations. The most interesting amongst these was a large series of "forts" and two fine pages of the "kicking mule".

In the competitive class the following were amongst the chief entries:—

Br. North America.—Dr. Lewis L. Reford, who entered in most of the classes of this section, fully specialized

Dr. Reford was entered in so many classes that the jury had some difficulty in deciding what would be an adequate reward for the excellence of his exhibits. It was finally decided as follows:—

"The various exhibits are of such outstanding merit that if judged separately in each of their sections they would have merited many gold medals and other awards. In lieu of these, it was recommended to award Dr. Reford a Grand Gold Medal with the felicitations of the Jury, this being the highest award given at the Exhibition". In addition to the Grand Gold Medal the St. Lawrence Cup was awarded to Dr. Reford, as he would have won the greatest number of points had his exhibits been judged separately.

The Sefi-Pemberton Cup, given for the Canadian collector's entry showing the greatest philatelic knowledge and research, was awarded to Dr. Reford for his collection and annotation of the 15c stamps of Canada of 1868 to 1890.

In the space at my disposal in this paper it is utterly impossible to describe the whole of Dr. Reford's exhibits. The mass of material that he has got together for study purposes is simply wonderful. He has many superb blocks in early issues, large quantities of rare stamps in singles, pairs and strips, and remarkable pages of cancellations, stamps on cover, re-entries, double prints and many varieties that have not been chronicled. Altogether this exhibit was one of the finest I have seen in my life of a real student's collection, a man who loves his stamps and who has devoted time and money to gathering together a real collection from which his fellow philatelists will derive a fund of information when the material found here has been studied and written up as will be done in the next two or three years.

Another outstanding exhibit in the Canadian section was that of Fred Jarrett. Mr. Jarrett is very well known to many of my readers for the handbooks he has published on the "Cancellations of Canada" and he is now at work on a new edition which will be enormously extended, with many new discoveries and varieties that have been found since his last one. The amount of material that he has got together is extremely large, with many very important items, but it was rather lacking in the fact that it had not been written up or rather that a small proportion only had been written up and annotated.

The Jury finally decided that in lieu of giving Mr. Jarrett certain awards in four or five classes they would give him one gold medal for his combined exhibit in these classes.

The Winnipeg Cup was awarded to Mr. John Persse for the fine collection of Canada Postage Stamps. This collection I described at the time of the Winnipeg Exhibition. It has been a little added to and extended and is a very nice general lot.

The President's Cup was awarded to Mr. R. M. Angus for his collection of Br. Columbia and Vancouver Island. This included a choice lot of cancellations well written up and annotated, many of them being of the first degree of rarity.

The Canadian Philatelic Society's trophy was awarded to Mr. E. H. Wilson for his vast general collection. A gold medal was also awarded for the same collection which was one of the outstanding features of the Exhibition, a collection consisting, I am told, of some 40,000 varieties, including quite a nice lot of real rarities.

In the Br. North American class, Frank Alexander, of Winnipeg, was awarded a bronze medal. Mr. Alexander's entries in every class were of very considerable importance, but he lost a very large proportion of points in the judging owing to the fact that his stamps were not written up at all—not a single note was made as to what watermarks or perforations the issues consisted of and in such a country for instance, as Br. Columbia, it was quite difficult to pick out perforation 12½ and perforation 14. There was also included, for instance, in Newfoundland, quite a number of poor copies that should not be found in such a collection as this is. Mr. Alexander could take very much higher awards in Exhibitions if his fine stamps were properly classified and written up.

Mr. Percy G. Doane, the well known and well loved auction dealer of New York, was married October 21st, at Hudson, Mass., to Miss Ellen Perkins, of that town. Mr. Doane kept his plans well concealed and it came as a distinct surprise to his many friends when the news leaked out. The editors of MEKEEL's extend to the couple their heartiest congratulations, which thought is echoed, we know, by the groom's friends, whose number is legion.

UNITED STATES "EDUCATORS"

For those who are not certain of their classifications of 19th Century U. S. stamps (and that means nine collectors out of every ten) we have made up this series of packets and approval booklets, in which every stamp has its correct catalog number.

Packet A.—30 varieties of U. S. postage only, all classified, including every issue from 1851 to 1890 inclusive, only $2.00

Packet B.—20 varieties of the hard-to-place Bank Note issues each one numbered according to Scott's catalog, 1871 to 1890 .....$1.00

"Educator" Approvals contain almost all regularly issued stamps of the United States from 1847 to 1900. No stamp priced more than $5, most of them at big discounts from catalog prices. Sent only against references or deposit. [H

By H. P. Atherton, 318 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

This week we will look at a nice lot of oddities which have been accumulating here for some time. They pile up pretty fast.

Have you ever found any '47's with cancel made up of a group of extremely small dots in blue or red? Each dot is a tiny diamond, grouped into a circular form the size of an ordinary gridiron cancel, and as these little dots are widely separated you have a very artistic and unusual obliteration, for instead of marring the beauty of these fine old engravings, they introduce a new color element in a most attractive way. While not at all "spectacular", they make one of the prettiest of all cancels owing to their delicacy and uniformity.

Mr. A. S. Gorham sends in six covers, there are two from Bristol, R. I., a town he says he hopes may get on the "Cancellation Map." These two are 3c 1861's, one showing a very neat triangle with a fairly large diamond in the center, while the other shows a very sturdy anchor with wide projecting cross bar at the top. Both are unusual and neat; were it not for these other four, his two from Bristol would qualify as very fine.

These four are truly magnificent—this anchor from "East Greenwich R. I." is so finely executed that it "has it" on the other by a great margin. It is a perfectly formed anchor (as a landlubber pictures it to himself), colorless, cut from a cork that is of a shape to allow just sufficient black frame all round to make the design "just right".

Then we see a perfectly struck "Man in the Moon" from Boston. It is also on a 3c '61 cover as are all the above, the date being seen in a small circular office stamp, Morris Milliken, March 16, 1867, so if you have any "Bostons" of about that date with "something odd" that you've been unable to decipher, it may be this cancel. At left is the "Old Man" himself, his profile carefully cut facing the right, and "tied on" to a new moon. Directly in front of his face is a cleanly cut five-point star. This is a rather startling cancel, and one of the best that I have ever seen.

A single Black Jack on cover from a town in New York State which I'm not able to decipher, sorry, has positively the most handsomely cut shield that I have ever seen on any cover, can't tell you how fine it really is, the cut will do this tho. The shield has four evenly cut vertical bars with a regular top of a solid piece, the whole shield being outlined in a colorless frame of an even thickness of a strong millimeter, all being enclosed in a circle of 26 mm, the lower part outside the shield being ornamented by stars of varying size. It is a beauty, perfect centering, cleanly hit, carefully designed and cut.

Lastly is a 3c '51 cover (1857 claret printing) with what is mentioned as the international "Express Mail" cancellation. This cover is struck three times, all three markings being Express Mail postmarks. Two are identical in 33 mm circles, reading "U. S. Express Mail" around the top of the ring, then come three horizontal, BOSTON first in sans serif type (you are acquainted with this word in a curve of course), under this is SEP, and below all, 29.

The above falls on stamp and cover in black, while some 18 mm to left of this pmk. is the same duplicated, tho in red. Under this is a red pmk. in 32 mm ring, with NO town in the ring, just "Express Mail Sep 29". No other markings are on this letter except the mss. below the address—"W.S.", which I presume is intended for "U.S.", showing that the cover emanated somewhere outside of the U.S.A.

Have you any information re this Internatinoal "Express Mail"?

From Mr. E. N. Costales comes a cover with a fine 3c 1861 stamp, hit with a blue ring (25mm) "McC & E Sep 25 1865". What is this, a Steamship Co., or a Forwarding Co.? The letter is addressed to "East Harbor, Turks Island", and in addition "Per Pictou". Across the face of the cover is "Turks-Islands Ship Letter" in letters four millimeters high, in two lines, with a "4" due mark in blue mss. The reverse shows a receiving mark in the typical double lined circle as used in British Colonies of that period—"Turks'-Islands Oc 19 1865".

This adds another U. S. from foreign shores to our pitifully weak list.

Can't you help out with something from D. W. I. or from Peru via England, or something we would like to hear about? They are interesting, and of course, valuable.

Mr. J. H. Davis Reynolds has sent me the most erratically "creased paper" variety of any U. S. stamps that I have ever met. This is a vertical strip of six of our current 7c McKinley's precancelled FLINT MICH. Here's how bad they are: The top of the top stamp measures as normal, about 23 mm across, from ends of perfs. Then appear two wide white lines where the stamp was unfolded after printing and smoothed out. Here the measurement is approximately 25 mm. You may get the idea if I say that these white strips amble down the entire strip, sometimes showing four white lines instead of two, making it "wrinkled paper". It is odd too that the precancel does not go down into the white portion at all, owing to the depth after smoothing out the paper. The black stamps with these white jagged lines not unlike pictures of flashes of lightning, is truly remarkable.

Dr. Wm. Evans is always digging into philatelic literature along with the various varieties that our stamps have to offer, and here is a note from him, today received, re 1882 issue.

He quotes from the book on stamps of the U. S. A. by Mr. Luff, as follows:—"Dates of issue, 3c July 1881—1c Aug 1881—6c June '82—10c Apr 1882". He also adds that the 5c brown (Garfield) appeared in April of 1882, and the catalog for convenience in grouping possibly, has listed them all as of the 1882 grouping.

And here I am with copies of both the U. S. books by Luff and Tiffany, and never even looked in them to verify the dates—dumbhead, eh?

Mr. R. L. Hustis has sent one of those

POSTAL MARKINGS

A. H. PIKE, Binghamton, N. Y.

Every indication points to the fact that philatelists are seriously studying not only the cancellations on stamps, but the postmarks as well. The days are past when collectors are content to get one variety of each stamp for their album. The plan is now to have one or more pages devoted to a single stamp showing the various cancellations. Not only one favorite stamp but in most cases the collectors' have a great many favorite stamps handled in the same way.

Some collectors reading this might think that Pike is just waking up to a situation that has existed for a great many years. It is not that I haven't known of its existence, it is the fact that I hear from a great many collectors that do not know of it. Some are just commencing and others have not even started so it is possible that a great many do not even realize the interest that these extra pages would have for them.

It was my pleasure a short time ago to view a special album containing most of the early U. S. one stamp to a page with each stamp on a part of the original cover and each with its original postmark. I listened for hours to the owner's description of the various dates and events that happened on the same date. Just consider some of the early U. S. that are your favorites and think of what a page or two of these would look like with nice little trimmed pieces of cover showing postmarks, some with the name of the county, others with the name of the postmaster. All of the stamps cancelled with a hand stamp of a design other than the regulation. No two alike, various colors of ink, no incomplete cancellations, for when they did not strike all on the stamp the rest would show on the piece of envelope.

If you want to know how hard it is to make up a collection like this, just try it. Imagine the pleasure the owner had in adding these varieties. We all like to have our early U. S. on cover. This is of course the best, but a collection of a thousand or more covers is not an easy thing to feast our eyes on, neither is it a convenient collection to show our friends. Showing our friends is not the least of the pleasure we get from stamp collecting, as you know.

What a lot there is to learn from the actual use of the early U. S. stamps, or of any other country for that matter. Several attempts have been made to list and illustrate cancellations but the task apparently has proved too great. Collectors are busy men as a rule. So what are we going to do about it. Simply let it drift year after year until stamps have been all soaked off the original cover and we have nothing left to work on? Suppose Scott's and the other catalog makers had to start now to make up their catalog, would it be to their advantage to keep putting it off year after year for lack of time or dreading the work that it would require?

It is too big a job for one man or even a small group. It needs the co-operation of the entire fraternity, and I believe if the right steps were taken something could be accomplished. The immensity of the undertaking is why many are holding back. They are looking for a George so he can do it. In the past there were a good many that took George's place but many discouraging things have come up to thin the ranks of those who "labored for love".

We cannot expect the existing philatelic societies to sponsor this feature of philately for it is their place to foster and encourage regular collecting. BUT, among the members of ALL societies there should be encouragement for research work along postal markings, not as a side line but as an actual part of the complete study of used postage stamps. Collecting mint varieties is perfectly all right, but most stamps are manufactured for the express purpose of being used for postage. There is a pretty strict rule that when used for what they were intended for that they must be so defaced that there will not be any chance of their being used again for the same purpose.

For this reason the majority of philatelists are collecting postage rather than works of art. To collect postage it is almost necessary that we take into consideration the methods in use for defacing the stamps. These methods have changed and progressed from a very crude hand device up to the rapid cancelling machine that will cancel stamps at the rate of 500 or more per minute. It is an interesting study to be able to see this progression and follow it along through the various issues of stamps.

This is not an original thought with the writer. Many have collected stamps along these lines for years and they are realizing many benefits from it. It is nothing that detracts from the stamps or lessens its value, rather the opposite in both instances. Even in the last few years radical changes have taken place that in future years might be of as much interest as early U. S. cancellations are to the present day philatelist.

Once more, does it pay to put off? Does it pay to neglect things that can be done easier today? Most of us know what a help it would be to present day philatelists if some one had watched cancellations in the early days.

Those most interested in this phase of philately have agreed that a separate organization should take up this work. The "ASSOCIATED COLLECTORS OF POSTAL MARKINGS" has been launched with a start of nearly a hundred members with yearly dues of from $1.00 up depending on the kind of membership. The membership is pledged to assist in securing material for publication which will be issued in a series of booklets to be paid for out of the membership fund. A board of directors will be elected to pass on the mss. submitted and as fast as funds will permit the booklets will be issued. The majority vote of the members will decide on what subjects are of most importance and which is to take precedence.

What would take years under ordinary conditions could be published in a few months if the right co-operation is received. In this way it is possible to bring out a small library at a nominal cost which will contain material greatly needed for reference. It is an organization that should receive the hearty support of all classes of philatelists for it does not conflict in any way with any existing organization and will be able to help all those who realize the full possibilities of philately.

Every reader of MEKEEL'S is urged to send in suggestions and helpful criticisms in order to make it possible for the backing the work to make it as efficient as possible.

FIVE YEAR HONOR CLUB.

Howard C. Beck, Baltimore, M. D.
Sydney B. Brown, Los Angeles, Cali
L. R. Farr, Cleveland, Ohio.
Wm. C. Michaels, Kansas City, Mo.

Our old friend Howard C. Beck of Baltimore, Md., has decided to join the Honor Club and we enter his name with pleasure. Mr. Beck is an old subscriber to the WEEKLY and has been actively identified with philately for many years.

Sydney B. Brown of Los Angeles, Calif., is president and manager of the Surety Mortgage Co., with offices in the Story Bldg. Mr. Brown in taking up his membership in the Honor Club pays a handsome compliment to our Chief editor. He writes:—"After meeting Mr. Severn at the A. P. S. convention it was impossible to subscribe for only one year." This is only another instance where Mr. Severn's genial personality has had a commanding influence.

As we go to press we received a check for $5 for membership in the Honor Club from L. Rothe Farr, of the Union Trust Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

Also one from Wm. C. Michaels of the law firm Haff, Meservey, Michaels, Blackman and Newkirk, of Kansas City, Mo. Mr. Michaels has just returned from a trip to Europe and is safeguarding himself from another discontinuance of subscription.

IT IS SAID:

The Huntington, W. Va., Stamp Club was highly entertained October 14th by Delf Norona of Beckley, W. Va., who gave an exhibition and lecture on the postage stamps of Jamaica. Harry E. Bryan, president, so informs us.

There is another variety of the 50c Franklin supplementing the one chronicled on page 453. E. D. Flint writes:—"I examined a lot of these stamps under a strong glass and found two that had a line of beads under the end scroll of hair, different from all the others studied."

The Hampton Roads Philatelic Society, Norfolk, Va., has renewed the subscription of the WEEKLY now being sent to the Norfolk Public Library. This is worth-while publicity. H. S. Williams has also done the same thing for the Gail Borden Public Library, Elgin, Ill.

Andrew Sledd, Decatur, Ga., has an advertisement of unusual interest in this number of the WEEKLY. It will be well to note his discounts. Mr. Sledd is only an occasional advertiser in the WEEKLY, but he assures us that he is on the job for the fall and winter and suggests that his advertisement of Sept. 21st is still effective.

The Malta pound, No. 110, catalogs $15.00. It is offered in this issue at $5.40 and the dealer is honest enough to announce that it is off-center. The firm in question, the Cortlandt Stamp Co., states that they issue no credit slips. If out of a stamp the firm admits it and refunds the full amount of the order by check. This method of doing business should be commended.

A fine philatelic advertising cancellation is in use in connection with the Philatelic Exhibition to be held at Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 6-7. It consists of the following printed matter in five lines:—"Second—British Columbia — Philatelic—Exhibition—Vancouver". In a vertical line reading upward at the left of the initial letter of each line of reading matter is the inscription, "Nov. 6-7, 1925". To complete the cancellation is the handsome design pictured herewith, which is quite familiar to the students of the British Columbia issues. The whole design is a very striking one and shows enterprise upon the part of the promotors of the Exhibition.

AIR ROUTES

Postmaster General New has awarded contracts to private corporations to operate air mail service on five of the eight commercial routes for which bids were recently opened at the Post Office Department.

The route from Chicago to Saint Paul and Minneapolis, on which there was no award, will be readvertised as soon as practicable by the Department. There was no award on the proposed route from Seattle, Wash., to Los Angeles, the bid of Vern C. Corst being still under consideration. Neither was there any award on the route from Chicago to Birmingham, Ala., and the Department is not prepared at this time to say what action it will take with reference to this route.

The successful bidders on the five routes, together with the names of those who were unsuccessful, for the reasons given follow:

CONTRACT AIR MAIL SERVICE.

Boston to New York via Hartford:—The successful bidder is Colonial Air Lines, Inc., Naugatuck, Conn.

1. Eastern Air Transport of New York. While this bid was considered favorable, it did not quite measure up to the successful bid.

2. Federal Aircraft Company of Newark, N. J. This bid was rejected because it was irregular, no bond was furnished, and statements required were not supplied.

3. General Airways System, Inc., of New York. The bid of this corporation could not be favorably considered because it was not able to file with the Department satisfactory evidence as to their financial responsibility to make the route a success.

Chicago to St. Louis via Springfield.—The successful bidder is Robertson Aircraft Corporation, St. Louis, Mo.

1. National Air Transport, Inc., Chicago, Ill. This bid was rejected because it was not in accordance with the service advertised, a different route being specified between Chicago and St. Louis.

2. General Airways System, Inc., of New York. See statement above regarding the bid of this corporation.

Chicago to Dallas and Ft. Worth.—The successful bidder is National Air Transport, Inc., Chicago, Ill.

1. General Airways System, Inc., of New York. See statement above regarding the bid of this corporation.

Chicago to Birmingham.—No award.

1. The General Airways System, Inc., of New York was the only bidder on this route, but their bid can not be favorably considered for the reasons shown above.

Chicago to Saint Paul and Minneapolis.—No award.

1. National Air Transport, Inc., of Chicago. This bid was irregular in that it specified to fly a different course and via different intermediate points than called for in the advertisement.

2. General Airways System, Inc., of New York. See statement above regarding bid of this corporation.

Salt Lake City to Los Angeles.—The successful bidder is Western Air Express, Inc., of Los Angeles.

1. Ontario Aircraft Corporation, Ontario, Calif. This bid was not favorably considered because it was decided that the successful bidder was better able to fulfill the contract.

2. J. J. Murray, Culver City, Calif. This bid was rejected because certain requirements were not fulfilled. Proposal not certified by postmaster.

Elks to Pasco.—The successful bidder is Walter T. Varney of San Francisco, California.

Seattle, Wash., to Los Angeles.—The bid of Vern C. Corst is now under consideration.

1. Western Air Express, Inc., Los Angeles, Calif. This bid was submitted as conditional and made changes in the route which could not be considered under the regulations.

2. Wiley F. Crist, San Francisco. This bid was submitted as conditional regarding guarantee of weight and was rejected.

In making the awards, Postmaster General New made the following statement:

"The awarding of contracts this day for the carrying of the mail by air transport over five routes in widely separated sections of the country marks an epoch in the history of the American post office. Upon the result of the enterprise this day entered upon depends the future of aerial transport in the United States. Because of the importance of the subject and because it is the first time the Department has had this problem before it, the Postmaster General has been particularly careful and has exhausted every means to investigate and critically scrutinize every bid offered and every bidder that has submitted a tender. In the exercise of this care I have had in mind the protection of aviation, as well as the obviously necessary protection of the postal service.

Germany has now issued the first postcards with views, following herewith the example of Switzerland, Holland and Danzig. These are the ordinary 5pfg p.c. with the imprinted Rhineland—Jubilee—Stamp, but instead of the word "Absender" on the left hand side it has a small picture of 23-62 millimeter in the colour of the former printing, showing a view of some town, bath scenery, etc. These picture postcards are printed by the "Reichsdruckerei" on order of towns, baths, or other administrations through the medium of the "Deutshes Reich-Postreklame G.m.b.H." (German Postpropaganda Inc.) for propaganda purposes. They are forwarded by the printing-office immediately to the post offices indicated by the commissioner who placed the order. The P.O. are instructed to start immediately with the sale of these picture postcards (Bildpostkarten) as they are officially named, and sell them without interruption to all buyers who demand postcards and without any addition in price. If a buyer should repudiate the picture postcards the ordinary p.c. are then handed over to him.

The picture postcards are very curious modern philatelic productions. Made on order, postally sold over the counter, but the commissioner has the right to name the post offices which have to sell the cards. Surely a problem for philatelists if it is a regular philatelic value or not. In any case it will not be easy to collect these cards, as officially there seems not to be any announcement at what offices and in which towns they are sold and what pictures will be issued at a special place.

Up till now 5 different picture postcards have been issued: (1) View of the hall of the swimming-bath of Breslau, (2) Kurhaus in Flinsberg, (3) View of Badenweiler, (4) View of Bath Salzschlirf with Söderwald, (5) View of Frankfurt and the Main. If the expense will not be too high there surely will soon be quite a number of these picture cards, a new specialty for collectors.

PHILLIPS'

This "Bulletin" of ours is our "salesman." For some fifteen years it has offered our wares to collectors, and is, we believe, the oldest house organ now published. At a time when yearly price lists were the mode, it was one of the pioneers in offering collectors goods every month or two.

Our "Monthly Bulletin" contains 24 or more pages each issue and is issued every month, as its name implies. It offers items from our enormous stock, one of the largest in the World, and one of the very few great general stocks to be found anywhere. We believe it offers every month and year a greater variety of stamps, especially "hard ones," than any other house organ. As it costs us thousands of dollars a year to get this "Bulletin" into our patrons' hands, we do not want to hear from triflers, but will gladly send it FREE to any serious collector who is willing to pay for value received.

MONTHLY

A Few Reasons Why

you need our "Monthly Bulletin"—It's FREE for the asking.

NEW ISSUES A representative line offered in every issue and giving our patrons some tremendous bargains in the past, such as St. Kitts Ter Cent., Surinam, Curacao Jub., etc., etc. The future will show plenty of other big snaps.

"HARD" STAMPS The real bargains of the future, the stamps that a few years from now will give you the most for your money. We specialize in these stamps the average dealer does not stock.

SPECIAL LOTS Offerings of special items secured through our many connections that we think worth while.

SPECIAL COUNTRIES Almost every issue certain countries are offered almost complete, giving you a chance to "fill up."

RECENT ISSUES Offerings of recently issued stamps, many of which will look cheap a year or two from now.

NEWS ITEMS & TIPS Worth while tips, comments, and news items we think will interest our patrons. We run no silly stamp fiction, or stories. Many of our patrons have told us they watched eagerly for our notes and comments each month.

APPROVALS Details of our Approval Department, offering you the finest array of books for the general collector, both in quality and variety, to be found anywhere.

SUPPLIES A representative line of albums, hinges, duplicate books and other collectors' supplies. Only the well known standard makes, such as Scott, Rapkin, etc.

FILLERS Many American collectors who are known all over the stamp world have found many "fillers" in these lists. Why not you?

BULLETIN

GENERAL offerings of stamps from various countries or groups, such as English, French, Portuguese Colonies, Packets, Sets, etc., etc., as space available in each "Bulletin" will permit.

FINALLY From cover to cover these lists are filled solidly with stamp offers and not padded with large cuts and heavy display type to eat up space. We believe our patrons want stamp offers in as large variety as possible and try to give them. We are not selling WORTH WHILE stamps at one-tenth, one-fifth, or one-fourth cat., nor is any other dealer, but if you want to buy such and pay what they are worth today, get in touch with us at once. We can furnish you with as large a variety as anyone and at reasonable prices.

Our list offers yearly thousands of stamps you'll not see quoted in other house organs or find in the average dealer's stock. Hard-to-get stamps, cheap, medium and expensive, that our superior facilities and connections in every part of the world secure for us. This is the kind of material usually "out of stock," the class of stamps that will increase in value in the future. A few years will show we are offering you more bargains through these "hard" stamps than you'll ever secure buying over-catalogued stuff at big discounts from catalog prices, stuff that will probably remain the same for years if its value is not cut.

It would take six full pages of the WEEKLY to list the offerings we make you in each issue of this list.

Last but not least we have one or two propositions we want to put before you that we think will interest you.

EDITORIAL.

Every now and then, a calculator, wishing to adorn his remarks to his philatelic fellows or to impress the reporter who asks for a stamp story, shuts his eyes and estimates about how many millions of dollars are invested in stamps by collectors and dealers. His guess is about as reliable as the next man's and his temerity in rushing in when we should pussy-foot is not to be condemned as if his figures are not to be accepted by the sober-minded, he gets action that may result in an orderly canvass of the field. The most conservative observer will admit that millions of dollars have been exchanged for stamps but he will be slow to say how many, approximately, have been converted into philatelic material. The next thought is not a flattering one as it is seen that something is lacking when there is no information available on the subject. Here we have a pursuit in which a good fraction of the wealth of the Indies is represented and its professionals do not know the answer to the most rudimentary question concerning its welfare or financial strength. This ignorance connotes a complacency that is little short of alarming and the most charitable construction to be placed on it is that the leaders of philately are not social-minded and pursue their ends in solitary fashion. There is a crying need for the statistician in philately if we are ever to take a philatelic inventory; and it is time that we left the realm of fancy for that of fact, if we are not to be left behind in the scramble for preference that seems to be the chief end of life.

Evidently, the philatelists of today are not like the Romans in the brave days of old as they do not show a unified front to the rest of the world. We are sleeping on our rights and it is time that the alarm-clock disturbed our slumbers sweet. It is imperative that we take stock of our pursuit and give the statistician a job, in order that we may have trade reports that will show whether business is good or not, instead of having to guess as at present. A system must be installed for the well-being of philately and, in a nut-shell, modern methods must replace the uncertain procedure that now prevails, which chokes effort and stills enterprise. A community spirit must be instilled into our world, if the pace of its revolutions is to be maintained. Stamps in their business aspect must be brought down to date if they are to attract favorable attention from persons who are familiar with the customs that characterize other lines of endeavor or business.

The freak suggestion attaching to stamp collecting no longer is to be tolerated and the tendency of philatelists to be different from the ordinary run of humanity is out-of-date. Eccentricities that once upon a time may have been thought amusing or interesting should be dispensed with as cluttering the ground and confusing the issue. A little window-dressing should be undertaken to invite attention to collecting as well as house-cleaning and then, when all is in shape, philately may be properly introduced to outsiders. If good results are not apparent, under these conditions, it will be granted that we have been over-rating the force of philately's spell.

How are conditions to be improved? By concerted action, following mature deliberation. How will "concerted action" be possible? By securing the co-operation of all the societies and, as well, the spokesmen of different classes. This is easily said but how will it be accomplished? By having each society or class send a delegate to a meeting called for the specific purpose of formulating plans for an appointment of a Committee of the Whole, who, representing all shades and grades of philately, would work for the common weal of our pursuit. Each large society would send its spokesman and in this way organized philately would be represented while any detached interests could be welcome to put in their oars. Animated with a sincere wish to be helpful to collecting in its broad sense, a convocation of the kind would make a good start for fuller philately.

The American Stamp Dealers' Association at its convention held recently in New York appointed a committee to consider the "publicity" question, its different phases, and the chairman of this committee is Mr. Hugh M. Clark. It is our understanding that this committee will have a meeting in New York in due course, to which delegates from different stamp societies will be welcome. The idea is a progressive one and the meeting when held should develop the subject advantageously. The publicity urge is marked and seems to become stronger as the days pass by and until it is given the right of way, not a few workers will feel that an opportunity is being lost.

There is a movement apparent for a Committee on Public Relations, as it has been called, which is to be a working body for the advancement of philately in all the different ways that are suggested by the name. This committee, in which all the interests of collecting would be represented, from the amateur to the professional and the collector to the dealer, would be a mobile force that would be protective and legislative, at once. The idea is to speak not alone for one society or class but for all the component parts of our pursuit. With a loyal and unselfish body of experienced workers, dominated by the determination to advance philately, good would certainly result. In working out the details of an organization of the kind, much care would have to be exercised, but when once it was equipped for action, results of favorable kind surely would be forthcoming.

Occasionally, the invitation is extended to us to get behind a new organization that intends to cover some special field, as it is believed by the sponsor of the idea that a general society does not cover a specialty in the thorough manner that the partizan wishes. Without entering into any argument as to the advisability of multiplying societies, the fact remains that the Committee on Public Relations would have a place for the exponents of the specialties as well as the standards. While a few strong national organizations and as many local societies as possible perhaps is the best condition, yet the enthusiasm of the adherents of special societies is not always to be curbed nor does it follow that it should be.

The interest that is shown in the subjects that have been mentioned is proved by the letters that have come from forward-looking philatelists who realize that it is time for their pursuit to be groomed for a place that it should rightfully occupy. Collectors who for years have been content to pursue the even tenor of their way without entering into the public side of stamps are beginning to see that it is incumbent upon them to gain for philately a recognition that it deserves but does not have. The great increase in the number of individual acts of securing a wider audience for the philatelic word shows that many collectors are alive to the chance of spreading the story. When all this effort is systematized, the influence will be irresistible. The many little streams that are trickling when combined will make a torrent that will sweep on to greater things.

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW

F. W. ALLEN, Editor, 521 So. 4th St., Grand Forks, N. D.

Bureau Printings.—A third Springfield to receive these stamps is the Illinois capital, which has a supply of the 1c. Watch for them. They will be much harder to secure than those from the cities of the same name in Massachusetts and Ohio.

Decatur, Ill., and Lancaster, Pa., are to be added to the field, as they both have the 1½c coils precanceled in the most prevalent style of type U. Decatur is reported as having also received the 1c in regular form. This variety will be a difficult one to pick up, as the demand for the one cent denomination has practically ceased.

Niagara Falls is out with the 1½c coil. The Schenectady style was used as the pattern.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., is reported as having the 1½c coil with the Bureau precancellation, but the writer has not seen one to date.

$2 Bi-Color.—It is not common to glimpse new precancellations on this stamp, and when they are seen they merit notice.

Southbridge, Mass., overprinted the scarce orange and black with the U-3 electroplate, several years ago. In a collection just purchased, I ran upon a copy reading up. This item is unlisted, but its existence had been rumored.

Northampton, Mass., in the U-77 handstamp, reading horizontally, is another unlisted item which went out to the west coast and into the collection, referred to above.

Akron, O., has been employing handstamps of similar style for the past ten years or more. There has not been enough variation to warrant discrimination by the catalog compilers. At present one of these handstamps is used in conjunction with two electroplates and it is not unusual to see a package bearing stamps in all three types. The red and black $2 exists in the handstamped style, with overprint inverted. While it is at present uncatalogued, it is not rare, as a number have come to light.

Kansas City, Mo., has only recently found need for a high value, such as the $2, in precanceled condition. That office printed a small quantity of the red and blacks with the U-3 electro. The cancellation reads down on the copy shown to the writer, by Mr. Al Burns.

Rochester, N. Y.—Few cities take more care in their work of precanceling than Rochester. While this statement could not have been made five years ago, it can be now. Since the U-10 style of electroplate has been used, doubles and inverts have become a thing of the past. As a result, when any appear, they fetch good prices. The 1917 issue 4c is priced by the catalog at 6c for the normal print. An inverted cancellation on the same stamp is worth $2.00. Doubles are not seen at all, so when I found a ten cent of the current series with a double precancellation I was much surprised. It is a beautiful specimen showing one overprint diagonally across and a second squarely in the center. Part of the sheet must have been put in the press, then withdrawn and again inserted correctly.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—An invert from Brooklyn is seldom seen. The 10c, old series, is unlisted. I have also to report the current 6c with the inverted precancellation.

Baltimore, Md.—How many inverts of the current electro-U-7 have you in your collection? None are catalogued and I had my doubts if any existed. These were dispelled, however, when a pair of old issue 20c turned up with the overprint upside down. As the stamp is obsolete, one dollar would not be an excessive price to pay for such an item.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Another style of electroplate has just been received and will replace the U-3 that has been in service for such a long period. The new type of cancellation is: two lines of small capitals between thin lines. It is much neater than the old, and a set of stamps bearing the overprint will not be hard to look upon.

As the old 11c and 12c are still in service at the Minneapolis post office, it is improbable that the new series 11c and 12c will appear in the U-3. The old series stamps that have already been seen in the new type are the 13c and 30c. I think we shall also have the above two denominations. All will be very scarce in future years, as they will shortly become obsolete.

Nashville, Tenn.—About the prettiest productions in recent years are the new Nashville precancels. If you have not seen any, you have something to look forward to. It is difficult to picture the appearance of this electro print by words, so I shall not attempt to do so. Nashvilles have always been rather plentiful and you will have little difficulty in securing some of the new stamps.

Tampa, Fla.—Another city to discard one of the old line electroplates (U-4) is Tampa. The new cancellation is sharply contrasted to the old, it being two lines of small serif capitals, without bars or lines above and below. It is quite distinctive and neat.

Topeka, Kans., has a similar plate, and Cloquet, Minn., has appeared with a style along the same lines. The Bureau of Engraving is sending out many electroplates each month and it is to be congratulated upon the workmanship, for it is of the highest order.

3 CENT GREEN.

Issues of 1873 and 1879

R. McP. CABEEN.

Among the interesting varieties of this long-used stamp are a few which should rank as major varieties in a specialist's collection. The two varieties illustrated below are due to defective transfer rollers and are neither rare.

No. 1 showing broken frame line over the "o" of Postage has been found on both hard and soft paper and was used probably in several plates. In order to prove to the sceptic that this is a transfer defect and not a plate defect I show in my collection a condensed plate made up of stamps showing wide margins at top, bottom, and sides, also corner margins, arrows, straight edge copies from the center of the sheet and copies with part of imprint. This variety has been found with double and triple transfers and also on the hard paper used by the American Bank Note Co.

No. 2 showing a small hollowing out of the left frame near the top occurs about as frequently as the variety noted above except that I do not recall having seen it on soft paper. This variety is also shown in my collection by the condensed plate, and in addition many minor varieties have been found on this stamp in connection with the "nick" in left frame, among them being deep scratches, shifts, "near cracks," etc. Two of the more interesting are shown in the cut "A" an irregular line or crack extending from the top frame line above the "P" of Postage downward and to the left almost reaching the leaf ornament above the "S" of U. S. "B" is a minute circle or hollow dot about one millimeter above the top of the stamp near the left hand corner.

A few minutes' search through any quantity of your three cent greens will reward you with a few examples of these two major defects.

U. S. COIL STAMPS

MINT—O. G.

Among the most interesting of the late U. S. stamps are the coil varieties, which unfortunately most collectors have neglected until recent years. As a result, many varieties which catalog only a few cents are really difficult to obtain. I really believe that at today's catalog prices these are most reasonable and if the demand continues to increase, many varieties that were on sale at the post office just a few years back will be selling at substantial prices.

I have on hand one of the finest stocks of coil stamps in existence and offer the following:

odd cancels on the 2c red brown of 1883. It has been mentioned (and forgotten maybe) previously. This copy shows the cancel much clearer, so am recording it again. Letter is mailed from South Woodstock, Conn., to Thompson, Conn. This cancel is on the reverse tho, the pmk. reads "Putnam Conn Dec 12 84 4 PM". To the right of this is the odd obliterator, elliptical in shape, 16 mm by 28 mm. There are three clearly shown characters same as previously noted, and from this copy I am able to get the design for our illustrations. The characters are said to mean Jehovah, and there is still a chance for me to secure a copy that is a bit more perfect for the drawing, as a fold in this cover may cut away a part of a character. It is a very odd marking, and difficult to reproduce.

Do not get discouraged about the illustrating of these many odd obliterations—I'll do that myself. Best I can do now is to "report progress", whatever that means.

"Around The World" Air Mail Flight

In the earlier part of 1924, when the air flight around the world started from southern California, it was hoped that the fliers would carry with them letters having them postmarked at each stop and that on their final arrival they would be delivered to the addressees. The plan did not meet with success for it seems that all of these and cards were mailed back from Seattle—the first leg of the trip.

I have just been shown one of the most interesting lot of cards from this trip ever gotten together and they are all addressed by Lieut. Jack Harding, Jr., to a friend that he left behind at McCook Field at Dayton. The communications are all on the 1c green Jefferson postal cards which were taken by the fliers and in this case posted from the different points of arrival. As such an interesting lot is worthy of record, I will describe each of the seven cards in detail.

Card one shows a 2c green Canadian stamp pasted on the U. S. postal card and is canceled "Prince Rupert, B. C., April 8, 1924 1 P. M." Card reads—"Monday, April 7th. Regards from here. Some flight from Seattle to here yesterday thru fog, rain, sleet and snow in eight hours five minutes."

Card two postmarked "Seward, Alaska, April 14, 1924" and reads as follows: "Sunday eve — April 13th. Here from Sitka today, one h—— of a ride through blinding snows, etc., seven hours forty minutes—non-stop."

Postal three shows an 8 sen gray, Japanese stamp pasted on the U. S. postal canceled with Japanese characters and card reading, "Tokyo—May 26th. Here after wonderful flights through Islands of Cold North. On to Calcutta soon."

Postal four was enclosed within an envelope marked, "American Consular Service" and mailed from India reading "Rangoon, Burma—June 24th. Just a line from straight across the old globe. Surely hot here but wonderful countries, oriental 'n everything."

Postal five shows the U. S. postal card canceled, "U. S. S. Scorpion, July 16, 1924 5 P. M.," the card reading, "Constantinople, Turkey. Going good. Hope to be back soon. Wonderful trip through orient and tropics."

Postal six is canceled "Paris, July 19th" and shows two 25c French stamps pasted over the good old face of Jefferson. Card reads, "Paris, July 15th. Have been in many cities but this one tops them all. Had wonderful stop over of one day here. It surely feels good to be getting so near to the good old U. S. A."

The seventh postal comes from the last stop before sailing for America and shows a 1½d English stamp affixed to the American postal which is canceled "London, August 8th 2.45 P. M." The card which is headed "Kirkwall, Orkney Islands, July 31st" reads, "Regards from our last European stop. Most wonderful trip but will be glad to land at McCook."

These are all addressed to the same party at Dayton, Ohio, who writes that he doubts whether there is another such a set in existence. These seven cards tell a history in themselves and are not only worthy of a place in an air mail collection, but would be interesting even to the casual observer in a museum.

New "Sepcimen" Department Error

Mr. Eugene N. Costales of the Scott Stamp & Coin Company advises me that he has been shown a copy of the 15c Navy with "Sepcimen" error overprint. A great amount of interest is being shown here of late in the Department stamps with "Specimen" overprint and as a result several errors which have not been known heretofore have come to light.

1c 1902, Plate Defect

Mr. Frank Reeder, Jr., has called my attention to two small white dots appearing between the "2" of "1902" and the "E" of "States" on certain copies of the 1c green, issue of 1902. Mr. Reeder writes that several copies have been found which shows that the variety is not a peculiarity of inking but is a plate variety.

Canal Zone

I am now informed on excellent authority but the varieties have not been seen, that the 5c postage and also the 1c postage due have been found with the "Zone Zone" error overprint. I dislike to chronicle these varieties without actually having seen them for when the 14c was recently mentioned, it was later found that the variety did not exist.

Mention has been made in this column of the difference in size of overprint when the recent 3c and 14c were compared. The matter has been taken up with the Bureau and they write as follows:

"In overprinting postage stamps for Canal Zone, Porto Rico, or any of the other possessions, we use what is known as linotype slugs, which is a very soft metal. Uusually, the runs on these overprinted stamps are small, and it has been found that the slugs have always answered the purpose; however, being of very soft metal, in time it begins to flatten out.

As a matter of fact, however, the overprinting of individual stamps may appear to be larger, but, in reality there is very little difference. The slight flattening of these slugs would cause them to print somewhat blacker, thereby giving a larger appearance than they really are.

The overprinting of these stamps is a form of identification or cancellation, and is not in any sense a part of the security of the stamp."

We wish to thank Messrs. Allen Burgan, Arthur K. Roberts, A. K. Kliemann Dr. William Evans and W. E. Berg for notes of interest.

ALBANIA.—Stamp Collecting prints the following: "German papers allege that the air mail adhesives chronicled in February 28th issue were a private speculation, without Government sanction of any kind.

ANTIGUA.—Mr. R. Roberts sends copies of two new shades of this colony. They are the 2p slate grey and the 6p brown lilac.

CHILE.—From Stamp Collecting we learn that in consequence of the revised postal tariff, there is no longer any demand for the 1, 2 and 4c values, which have accordingly been withdrawn.

DANZIG.—Whitfield King & Co. inform us that a 15pfg stamp has appeared in a scarlet shade, type of Scott's A19.

FEDERATED MALAY STATES.—From the Economist Stamp Co. come the following values of the new postage due stamps: 1c violet, 2c black, 8c scarlet, 10c orange and 12c light blue.

TURKEY'S NEW STAMPS.

Interview With Ali Sami Bey.

By ALBERT H. HARRIS.

Ali Sami Bey, the distinguished Turkish artist who has lately arrived in England to supervise the production of a handsome new series of stamps for his country, received me in the well-lighted apartment in the Raynes Park establishment of Messrs. Bradbury, Wilkinson & Co., which has been set aside for his use. With oriental politeness he placed himself at my disposal in order that authoritative news of the new stamps might be given first hand to readers of The Philatelic Magazine.

"You have come to England," I asked, "specially to superintend the manufacture of the new stamps?"

"Yes," replied Sami Bey, "I am sent by my Government for that purpose. The designs I have made partly in Turkey, partly here. The dies are being made here under my supervision, and this enables collaboration in making small alterations with the object of better reproduction. We want the stamps to be as perfect as possible. See, here are the original drawings," and before me were placed the large and beautifully executed designs in black and white, five in number, the first inception of the stamps to come.

"This," explained the artist, indicating a landscape between two cliffs, "is a view of the Sakaria gorge. It is where the Turks obtained their first success over the Greeks in our last war. The railway runs through the gorge, and the winding river is in the distance. It is an historic place."

The portrait design of Mustapha Kemel needed no explanation. He figures thereon as President of the Turkish republic, and Sami Bey, who knows him well, has executed a portrait that is photographic in its likeness.

The design of which the artist is particularly proud is of legendary significance. It depicts an old-time blacksmith of Turkish fable, Boscourt by name, of great strength and valour. When the tribes of Turkey were scattered in the hills, it was Boscourt, aided by a supernatural wolf, who united them into the nation they have since remained.

The fortress view is that of Angora, the capital that has replaced Constantinople as the seat of the government. In the foreground are seen old houses of the town, its dominance by the fortress being well portrayed.

A modern Turkish achievement is shown on the last of the series, unfortunately only to be used for the "Taxe" stamps, or "Postage Dues". This is the Kizil-Irmak railway bridge, crossing the river of the same name on the Angora-Civas line, the first railway built entirely by the Turks. "The railway, the bridge, the engines, the carriages," Sami Bey emphasised, "all we have built ourselves, independent of all nations. It is—what you call?—progress. Now we work. We must progress—it is very necessary for us."

"And you," I ventured, "have you made any stamp designs before?"

"No," was the reply, "these are my first stamps." I expressed curiosity at the dot over the capital "I". Sami Bey smiled. "Ah," he exclaimed, "when I first drew the stamps in Turkey the inscriptions were in Turkish characters only, but after the Stockholm Conference our Postmaster General has told me that the French equivalent must be added in Latin characters, and I have altered them. The Latin letters I do not do well, and I shall leave them to the artists of Messrs. Bradbury, Wilkinson, as they can do them better than I. The little stop will be removed."

The colours, Sami Bey told me, have not yet been decided. These will be chosen to suit the designs, but the Mustapha Kemel 6 piastres is to be bi-coloured, according to present intentions. I was shown and handled the border die for this stamp—incidentally, the work of the engraver of the Iraq stamps—so far as it had been reproduced on its small steel block, and noted that the word "POSTES" had been centred, instead of being divided as on the design illustrated on this page.

All the designs illustrated are photographs of the actual finished artist's drawings in the possession of the engraver, from which he is working, subject to slight adjustments that may be found expedient, such as the one just mentioned.

Later, in the office of Mr. G. F. Foxon, a director of this highly reputed and wonderfully equipped organisation for postage stamp production, I enquired whether it was not unusual for a Government to send their own artist to work on the premises.

"Yes," said Mr. Foxon, "it is unusual, but it has mutual advantages. Sami Bey is personally supervising the engraving of the design he has prepared, and it is very important, for example, that the portrait of Mustapha Kemal should be reproduced exactly as he wishes it. As you have seen, he is a very clever artist. Today, for instance, in examining our engraving of this fine portrait, he has indicated minor points, some of which, no doubt, would not have escaped our attention, but we should have had to submit proofs to Turkey and that might have meant considerable delay. As it is, the work can proceed immediately, and some weeks are saved."

The contract provides for the printing of the following stamps in the designs indicated:

Wolf and-Blacksmith.

50 piastres,	1,500,000

3 piastres,	2,000,000
2 piastres,	1,000,000

With regard to the Postage Due stamps, the word "TAXE" has to be worked into the design. All the stamps will be delivered in sheets of 100 stamps, but it is probable that in the case of the values of which the greatest quantities are required they will be "worked" in multiples of 100, and cut before delivery.

Stamp engraving is a slow process, and the dies for these new stamps are yet in their early stages. It will therefore not be for some months that they will be un fait accompli.

Before his return to Turkey Sami Bey hopes to hold an exhibition of his etchings and paintings in one of the London galleries.—Philatelic Magazine.

United States Errors!

Part Perforated Rotary Errors
Nos. 538A and 539B.

The Department for several years has been using coil waste, perforated 10 vertically, by simply perforating the waste the other way, hence the well-known 11x10 compounds.

In doing this work some few of the stamps slipped through without the horizontal perforations, a Real Bureau Error, giving us a part perforated error. No more can come out, for the designs have been changed.

Scott lists the 1c as No. 538A and the 2c as No. 539B and prices each stamp at $1.00.

I can furnish you a mint pair of each at $2.00 or a block of each at $4.00—exactly half catalog price.

SOME SCARCE AND FINE SETS OF THE OLDER BRITISH COLONIALS

I have recently bought an excellent collection of British Colonial stamps that was closed twenty years ago. On September 21st I offered a lot of fine singles from this collection (and from my general stock), and I can still supply copies of most of those items. The following are fine sets from this collection, unused unless otherwise indicated, generally mint, and in very fine condition. The prices are low for such stamps; and they are all offered with my usual guarantee of satisfaction. As I have only one complete set of some of the items, early orders,—with a supplement,—will be appreciated. I can frequently supply scarce singles on either side of these sets. All set numbers are inclusive; and are priced by the 1925 catalogue.

THE FIRST PONY EXPRESS RIDER

The name of the first rider of the pony express has been discovered!

Henry James Forman, well-known author and former editor of Colliers' Weekly and the North American Review, who novelized "The Pony Express," the Paramount picture directed by James Cruze, is responsible for the discovery.

Forman spent nearly seven months in research work, collecting authentic historical data concerning this romantic undertaking, gathering much material from the files of the Congressional Library in Washington, and the State libraries of Colorado, Utah and California. In addition he had enlisted the aid of scores of private individuals who possess letters and diaries kept during that period.

Hitherto practically all books named Johnny Frey as the first pony express rider, who dashed out of St. Joe, Missouri, at 4 p. m. on April 16, 1860, horse and man decorated with silver trappings, on the booming signal from a cannon.

Yet there has always been some doubt as to who was the first rider. Johnny Frey was generally given the credit, although Alex Carlyle was named by others.

Forman claims to have established, through authentic diaries and letters kept in St. Joe at the time, that "a stranger named J. M. Richardson" was the rider who inaugurated the service. Richardson was known to have been one of the first pony express riders, but for the first time documentary proof is offered that he was actually the first.

Cruze shared no pains to obtain absolute historical accuracy and fidelity to detail in making "The Pony Express." A large library covering almost every phase of the existence of the pony express was assembled at the Paramount studio by Forman and Walter Woods, author of the screen play.—Boston Post.

COL. GREEN PLANS A MEMORIAL

(This article appeared in a recent issue of the Boston "Traveler." It will be of interest to our readers for the reason that Col. Edw. H. R. Green is so keen a student of stamps and so keenly enjoys his philatelic possessions. His home at So. Dartmouth, Mass., is one of the show residences of the South Shore.—W.O.W.)

Round Hills, one of the most magnificent estates in New England will probably be turned over to the public in perpetuity by Col. Edward H. R. Green, son of the late Hetty Green and one of the richest men in the world.

Favors Plan

In an interview today Col. Green stated that he had talked the subject over with his sister, Mrs. Matthen Astor Wilks and that plans for, some time in the future the endowment of the South Dartmouth buildings and 297 acres of land as a gift to be forever used as a park and memorial for the public had been discussed.

"The house here is too large for a dwelling," said Col. Green, "and our plan is eventually to have it transferred into a public museum or else into a home of some character.

"Neither I nor my sister have reached a decision as to what form the endowment will take, but we both agree that steps should be taken whereby the estate may be left as a memorial for public use."

Such a public endowment will eclipse the many benefactions which the South Dartmouth millionaire has carried out within recent years. It will establish a permanent public rest spot and play ground probably without equal anywhere in the United States.

Has Spent Millions.

Already millions have been expended on the construction of the magnificent Gothic castle-like dwelling and other improvements, including artificial ponds and canals, parks and drives on this beautiful expanse of land.

Col. Green already has opened the lands to the public and has endowed in perpetuity a portion of the shore front given over to a memorial to the whaling industry. On this section a wharf has been built to which, resting in a concrete foundation the famous old whaling bark Charles W. Morgan is now tied up. Nearby are buildings, whaling boats, and an array of old whale oil casks piled over with chains. The reproduction is that of an old whaling wharf in New Bedford.

20,000 Visitors.

"We have had as many as 20,000 people here in a single day," said the colonel, "and even now when the weather is more unfavorable approximately 1,800 to 2,000 visitors come here on Sundays and holidays."

Col. Green may be characterized as a unique millionaire. He has been called the champion rider of hobbies, and some of these have made him famous from one end of the country to the other.

His colossal radio laboratory and radio towers at South Dartmouth have been made a school for radio amateurs and for promoting co-operation between great radio inventors and corporations.

Along with the radio accomplishments of his paid experts discoveries promising movies by radio and the photographing of objects several miles distant have been made.

Is Many Sided

The colonel has tried his hand successfully at rehabilitating a broken-down railroad system, at chicken raising, mules, politics, yachting and baseball, raising flowers under glass, stamp collecting and a host of other ventures. His great wealth has aided him in succeeding in all of these hobbies, though the millionaire has proven himself more than a clever amateur in all of them.

The reporter found him seated in his unique, specially-made electric brougham, standing at the head of the wharf where the masts and hull of the Morgan tower.

He has recently recovered from a severe illness and has for long been somewhat of a cripple, so that when going about the estate he is obliged to make the novel glassed motor house his outdoor home. The rear of the car is piled high with reference books and utilities of all kinds within reach of his hand and which he might need in what otherwise would be his walks through the grounds.

Clear Land.

Scores of workmen with foremen in charge were busy clearing up a large tract of land near the water front and the work was going on under the direction of the millionaire to whom the superintendent of the work frequently came for orders.

The colonel sat smoking a cigarette over an outlay of postage stamps spread out on a drop board above his knees in the car. His stamp hobby has never waned and he was occupied opening a collection of new and uncancelled foreign stamps and slipping them into folders for later filing.

He is one of the most interesting millionaires in the country; genial, in stature six feet three inches, with a broad face, small close-cropped mustache and large blue-gray eyes. He is little less than a giant in size.

He talks casually but interestingly of the enormous project which he is carrying through at Round Hills, his eyes straying frequently to the ocean in front where Cuttyhunk head and a handful of Elizabethian islands are spread out across the blues of the sea.

In the near future Col. Green will leave for his New York winter home, but the work at Round Hills will continue. Planned improvements will still go forward and many further thousands will be outlaid before the great estate is handed over as one of the most notable gifts ever made for public enjoyment.

A SOUTH-SEA STAMP ESCAPADE

By Sherman Adams.

I.

The sun was well risen in the ultramarine sky and beat unceasingly down on the ocean discovered in Panama No. 06. A U. S. 299 was ploughing the said ocean, which was, by the way, well watermarked in wavy lines. On the lower deck of this U. S. 299 sat two men, one with a heavy book on his knees.

"And see here. This one's from Tanganyika—isn't it a perfect gem?" said the man with the book.

His companion was unenthusiastic. He merely growled as a Negri Sembilan 13 might if one stroked his whiskers the wrong way. "I'm sure I don't understand what you see in stamp collecting. I'm from Missouri and—"

"Not kidding, are you?" cried the one addressed, thumping down in his chair with lively interest. "Say. Could you let me some 30c St. Louis pre-cancels? You'd be a Greece 199 if you would."

"No, no, no, no. I'm from Texas—now don't ask for a 19c pre-cancel from Fort Worth—, and used Missouri for euphemism to mean that I must be known."

"I've already given enough arguments to convince even a N. Borneo 102 but—"

"There you go again; that's one thing more against stamping—you gotta learn new language. Tanganyika, Carupano, Cabo Gracias a Dios and Blagovenshchensk are enough to drive any tuna fish crazy."

John Smith, the stamp collector, descendant of THE John Smith, the famed Pocahontas of early Va., suddenly leaped into the air, landed and seized the arms of William Jones, the non-stamp collector, descendant of THE William Jones, the famed peanut-king of torrid Texas.

"Tanganyika gave me an idea."

"Strange; it only gives me a headache."

"There's money in this." William comes was at once all attention.

"Yes," continued Smith. "Before us loms a Dominican 27. WHY should we not stop off here—buy a Grenada 70—cruise around these waters—find some small, uninhabited island—take possession—form our government—I be king—you, the dictator—issue stamps—advertise—sell—sign checks—?"

"Uh? . . . Mannnn! . . . . Uh-huh. . . We can do it. I'm dictator? Well, that's high enough. What shall we call the island?"

"What do you think?"

"How's Antikanna?"

"Sounds too much like that old hyphen-filled cure for pneumatic corns. How about 'Aladeen'? It's much smoother."

Irany János Ucca 1, Budapest V, Hungary

"It satisfies," announced William Jones.

And so it happened that when the upper half of the Peru 303 slouched into the Dominican 27, two Americans disembarked and set about to purchase a trim Grenada 70.

II.

A small hot Newfoundland 86 lay quietly at rest on the swell of the Pacific. A Labuan 83 stretched himself on the sands. The trees were serrately rouletted against the proverbially sky-blue sky. Under one particular Penrhyn Island 28 lay the only sign of habitation—a Mozambique 108 (right half only). Inside the hut was activity personified. At one side Dictator Jones is busily engaged between several rows of clam-baskets stuffed with letters.

"Business is quite thriving," he sighed, looking at his future occupation with a magnifying eye. "Our Granada 70 is finding this job of carrying mail fit for a Belgian Congo 51. Advertising sure turned the trick. We'll have to print some more of the 59 snickers, black, with Babe Ruth's visage; the 23½ snickers, bistre and orange-green, of Walter Johnson; and a few thousand more of us two in our robes of office. That Apolloic pose I took on our Granada 70 is a big seller."

"When we advertise the next issue we can say: 'Guaranteed not in your album—15 unused beauties—if you have them, we will give you $100 and publish your name in our ads. . . . Furthermore, dictator, we need a commemorative issue."

"Commemoratives?. We've nothing to commemorate; why, we've only been here three weeks."

"That's short enough time. We'll have a jubilee issue."

"Just think of all the new issues we could have if there was a war — war stamps, peace stamps, commemoratives, war-tax, charity, charity dues, army officials, army official dues, surcharges on all of those, precancels from all of those, have them both perforate and im. EEmagine . . . a scrap would be worth while."

"Here's the solution—there's a 'gator on the beach, if I shoot him it will be a battle, and where there is a battle there is a war. I'm going to take your baby Turkey 546 and with it caress that 'gator which slumbers on the sands and while he slumbers on the sands."

"That's a genuine, accept-no-substitutes, in-the-sealed-package, look-for-the-lavendar-label idea. Get a snap of him first for the charities."

King Smith possessed himself of the rifle and disappeared from the sight of the laboring dictator. Five minutes—a salvo of shots smote the stillness. Fifteen minutes—King Smith burst open the door of the royal Liberia 225 and gasped out breathlessly:

"There's a series of 25 different natives who've just landed from their British Solomon Islands 6. They've got war clubs and are all decked out like Gabon 33's. Bring my official robes, your camera and your gun. . . . . We'll meet 'em. I'll command their adieux and bid them bon voyage; if they don't go, you shoot over their heads from the bushes to strengthen my hint. Don't forget to use the camera. . . . I'll stand so you can get a good shot of me pointing out to sea. . . Get me?" By this time the two were hurrying along the beach and King Smith was fitting on his official robe; namely, a faded kimona.

"What if they don't run?"

"Then we run. If we beat them to our yacht we'll be safe as an investment in British colonials."

"Suppose they catch us?"

"My life's insured. Be sure to get good photos. If we are chased, just stop a minute and snap them while brandishing their war-clubs on the run."

"Not on your life. When I have a pack of Gabon 33's on my heels, I feel as much like stopping as a Bolivia III feels like running. Under such conditions, I'd give any Germany 402 a race."

"It probably won't come to that . . . . but here we are. The squadron is just beyond that grove of Liberia 167's. Here goes. You stay hid."

"Don't worry about that," said the dictator, gripping his gun with a Switzerland 423 hug.

So the brave King Smith strode forward to meet the invaders. He took his stand, made sure the dictator could easily snap him and also cover him, then he pointed straight out to sea over the heads of the dumfounded blacks. "Go!" he said, more to give himself courage than to teach the English language to the chocolate-drops. "Go, and never return. I am the King of this island of Aladeen. War on us at your own peril."

At this speech, all the warriors burst into a great roar of laughter. The leader, however, silenced them with a gesture, started to speak, thought better of it, turned to his men, pointed to the British Solomon Islands 6 and led them back to it. They started to laugh again and their hilarity continued until they had rowed out of ear-shot.

King Smith turned a troubled brow towards the thicket where the dictator was supposed to be hiding. "Ugg! Their laughter don't look nice to me. Did you get any good snap-shots?" No answer came from the bushes. John Smith pulled aside the branches but all he saw was a North Borneo 148, 144, 145, 143, 136, 102, 118, 80 . . . but no dictator. The king searched, but in vain. At last, he started on a run back along the beach. He had almost reached the hut when he heard the excited voice of the dictator yelling:

"This way, Johnny. She's all ready."

Looking up he spied the dictator on the deck of the Grenada 70.

"They've gone," he hollered. Come on in here. What's the matter—get cold feet?"

"Not very cold, they're damp tho from wading out here, of course."

"I'd have been in a fine pickle if they'd been more vicious and you not there to fire for me."

"I thought it would be nice to have this bus all set to start if you couldn't persuade them to go."

"A true friend in need," commented Smith, sarcastically.

"What did they do?"

"They laughed—like finding a U. S. 22 in a nickel mixture—and evacuated, still roaring."

"They know a joke when they see one."

"See here, Jones. Your treacherous conduct is bad enough not to try to fill the lofty position of the king's jester."

"You win."

"Of course." . . . .

"Er—what shall we do now?"

"Prepare for war."

"War! Say, I'm tuckered out from the big excitement I've undergone and about due for a relapse—let alone preparing—Whoops! Catch me quick, I'm going to faint." He did.

III.

In the upper left hand side of a Nyassa 26 in the center of the monarchial isle of Aladeen were two men. One deeply etched against the gray-blue twilight, the other deeply itched by poison-ivy. The base of their perch was surrounded by the relatives of Obock 46 who were doing a terrorizing jig around a large camp-fire and howling like a rube starting to pay his first taxi fare. This was all viewed from above with exceeding interest and camera shutter clicking by King Smith, and with exceeding horror and teeth-clicking by Dictator Jones. "Then I suppose when we're cooked just right, nice and brown on both sides, they'll tear us apart and deal us out amongst them and devour us," he was finishing the long and gruesome recital of their probable future. "I don't see why we ever came here," he wailed on, "this whole business makes me sick. We should'a' known better. We might have made our stamps just as well, or better, from an office on Broadway. Look at us now. We may have ten thousand more gazookums on our bank books back home from this Aladeen scheme, but we could have got just as much from a safe place. But now, no self respecting insurance company would insure us with a premium of 500." The dictator finally got it all out of his system, and, after having rehearsed them for fear of leaving out one grievance, silence reigned in the tree-top.

The shades of night had fallen fast (Excelsior) but vague, sinister forms of the natives were startlingly visible madly circling the fire.

"You know, dictator, old boy, the dance they do is remarkably like—in fact, very much like—in fact—IN FACT—bless my watermark-detector, it IS the Broadway Stagger, not two months old ! ! That means, old chappie, that those me down there are white men painted black Sweet Patootie! We aren't dead yet no are we going to be."

"W—h—a—t?" gasped the dictator, in credulously. "Catch me, I'm going t faint." He didn't—a fifty foot drop i Smith missed him.

Smith started to descend blithely whist ling "The Quaint Old-Fashioned Flap per." The Gabon 33's realized that thei string was played out so they laughe uproariously as the two came to rest o terra cotta again, one grinning, the othe frowning.

"What excuse have you to offer fo disturbing and deceiving me, King o Aladeen?" he asked in mock severity.

"Merely, old timer, that we're actor sent to this island to film a section o Randolf Wassilinyo's latest south sea picture. We have a sense of humor, s upon meeting you, we beat it back to th supply yacht which was following u from Samoa. Since our return here, w have enjoyed the greatest success sinc we broke into the lot. An additiona factor—today is April 1st."

"So you aren't cannibals," enquire the dictator, shyly. "Hump," he adde when duly assured of the fact, "yo aren't as smart as you think. Why, bet you thought I was taking in your ol gag. I didn't want to spoil your fun s I just let on that I was scared."

He stuck up his nose and chest at roller-coaster angle and strutted aroun the fire.

"And so, I take it," added the kin slyly, "you'll be all ready to print thos new precanceled, surcharged, army-off cers, commemorative, postage dues water marked snaky lines for the new charity air-post."

"Not on this island," said Willia Jones, quickly, "but on the corner o Broadway and Forty-Second."

"What's all this?" queried the leade of the Gabon 33's.

"This island is the kingdom of the des potic monarch, me."

"Our company must have this spot fo the new film, what will you take for it?

"A nickel," said the dictator, quickly.

The king turned a sour visage upo the latter and smiling demurely upon th actor: "Will sacrifice half of this king dom for $200. We've got to have th other half to have a place to issue stamp for."

IV.

The sun was well fallen in the red orange, orange-red sky as a U. S. 29 neared the perfect-weather-year-r o u n state. On the lower deck of the said U S. 299 were seated two men, one with heavy book on his knees.

"And see here. This one's taken from the top of the Woolworth building—isn't it a darling?" said the man with th book.

"Looks pretty good," agreed his com panion, erstwhile king of Aladeen, "i we can get a nice office in the metrop I'll be satisfied."

"We're back to the land of daily base ball games," he said sentimentally as he closed "Glimpses of New York" and sa gazing at the approaching shore-line.

"Back to the easiest place in the world to make and spend money."

"Back to where stamp collectors pay anything for anything."

"Back to the best country under the ultramarine."

"Back to U. S. A."

NEW ZEALAND: THE ½D "NEWSPAPER POSTAGE" STAMP, 1873-95

By Capt. C. W. G. CRAWFORD.

Of the much neglected middle issues of New Zealand the ½d Newspaper Postage Stamp is undoubtedly the most interesting, as it comes on three different watermarked papers, and has the distinction of being the first stamp to be designed locally, and printed from the first postage stamp plate manufactured in New Zealand.

Much has been written about this stamp in "The History of New Zealand Stamps," by W. Jolliffe, and more especially the recently published "New Zealand: A Philatelic Handbook," by R. J. G. Collins; and in compiling these notes the writer draws largely on the two works mentioned, and is able to give additional matter.

On the 1st January, 1873, a postal rate of one halfpenny for each local newspaper came into operation, thus necessitating a stamp of that denomination. The new stamp was designed by Mr. John Davies, the Government Stamp Printer, the die being engraved on a wood block in Melbourne. This die was used to produce the electrotypes at the Government Printing Office, Wellington, where the printing of the stamps took place.

The date of first issue of the Halfpenny Newspaper Postage stamp would appear to be the 1st January, 1873, as given by Jolliffe and Collins, and not March, 1873, as given in Messrs. Stanley Gibbons Catalogue, and this statement is borne out by the fact that Jolliffe (p. 53) records a printing of 717,600 halfpenny stamps in 1872, no doubt printed in anticipation of the issue on the following 1st of January. Perhaps the date, March, 1873, was based on the first chronicle of the stamp in The Stamp Collectors' Magazine, Vol. XI, p. 59, for April, 1873, and referred to in Le Timbre Poste, Vol. XI, p. 36, for 1st May, 1873.

The paper employed was one of the papers used for the long rectangular fiscal stamps, and each sheet contained 120 "NZ" watermarks, the letters "NZ" measuring 16x6 mm., the paper itself being usually slightly blued.

From an examination of fiscal stamps showing marginal watermarks, the writer has been able to identify clearly the letters "NE" reading upwards in the side margin opposite the stamp in the lower left corner of the sheet, and the letter "S" reading downwards in the right margin of the sheet with spacing to left showing that it is the initial letter of a word. Only the lower halves of the double-lined letters showed, but they would appear to be about 12 mm. high, and were situated 4½ mm. outside a single outline frame enclosing the "NZ" watermarks.

Also it is reasonably certain that there were no inscriptions in the upper and lower margins of the sheet, possibly there may have been a cross in the centre as is sometimes the case, but no signs of a cross have been seen.

Piecing this information together with the statement in Jolliffe and Collins that the marginal watermark was "STAMP DUTY," we may conclude that the actual watermark was "NEW ZEALAND STAMP DUTY" in doubled-lined capitals, reading upwards in the left margin and downwards in the right margin of the sheet. Also, judging by the spacing of the letters "NE" and the probable length of this inscription, it is fairly certain that the outline frame was of a size sufficient to accommodate the 120 "NZ" watermarks in ten horizontal rows of twelve.

Le Timbre Poste, Vol. XI, p. 52, for 1st July, 1873, states that the ½d, rose, was in sheets of 240 in 20 rows, and that the "NZ" watermarks, "sont répétées onze fois en largeur et dix fois en hauteur . . .."; but as Collins (p. 21) states there were 120 watermarks in the sheet, the latter statement is evidently a slip for twelve instead of eleven watermarks in the row.

The material at the disposal of the writer is quite insufficient to come to any conclusion as regards the small "NZ" (11x5½mm.) "Postage" paper used in 1864, but it seems likely that the marginal inscription of that paper may have been "NEW ZEALAND POSTAGE."

Reverting to the ½d Newspaper stamp: The printing plate was composed of 240 clichés arranged in twenty horizontal rows of 12, and as the 120 "NZ" watermarks were spaced to register with the fiscal stamps, which were more than twice the size of the newspaper stamps, it is evident that at least half of the latter would fall on portions of the sheet without watermark.

The stamp was printed in a pale dull rose with practically no shades, and perforated 10, 12½ and compound, the printings from 1872-4 (inclusive) amounting to about five millions (vide Jolliffe, p. 53).

In 1875 this stamp was issued on a paper specially prepared for it; but beyond the fact that each stamp showed a watermark six-pointed star, no further description of the paper is given in either Jolliffe or Collins.

On November 19th, 1907, the late Mr. L. L. R. Hausburg showed his collection of "New Zealand," and read a paper before the Herts Philatelic Society. This paper was published in the Monthly Report of the Herts Philatelic Society for December, 1907, and was reproduced in The Postage Stamp, Vol. I, p. 214. An extract reads:—

"There is a slight correction I should like to make with regard to the small ½d 'Newspaper postage' stamp. According to some catalogues the 'NZ' and the Large Star papers used for this were both fiscal papers. The former undoubtedly was, but the latter, as you will see by the specimen sheet, is watermarked 'NEWSPAPER POSTAGE,' and was no doubt made for the purpose."

The writer has been unable to trace this "specimen" sheet; but in the "Mann" collection, recently acquired by Messrs. Stanley Gibbons, there is a block with side and lower marginal paper showing the last two rows of the sheet. By the kind courtesy of the firm, an examination of this block showed that the watermarks (six-pointed stars) were arranged in horizontal rows of 12, and that they were enclosed in a single outline frame. Also, in place of an inscription in the lower margin, there was a cross in the middle measuring over all about 10 mm. each way.

Thus we may reasonably infer that the sheet contained 240 star watermarks in twenty horizontal rows of 12 enclosed in a single outline frame, with an inscription, "NEWSPAPER POSTAGE," reading upwards in the left margin and downwards in the right margin, and with a 10-mm. cross in the center of the upper and lower margins.

The date of issue would appear to be

January, 1875, as in The Philatelic Journal, Vol. II, p. 36, for 20th March, 1875, we read that the ½d, rose, is now watermarked Star in place of "NZ." The colour was a deeper rose than previously, and a bright shade, almost approaching the bright rose of the next issue, seems to be scarce. Two single-line perforating machines were used, one gauging 12½ as before and the other gauging "nearly" 12. It is possible that a specimen showing perforations from both machines may be found, and in this respect it is interesting to note that such a variety was listed and priced in Kohl's Grosser Katalog und Briefmarken-Handbuch for 1909, but was omitted in the 1912 edition.

In Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal, Vol. XIII, p. 101, vertical and horizontal pairs are chronicled perforated 12½ all round and imperforate between, and Collins (p. 23) lists a variety "imperf. horizontally by nearly 12."

In 1892 the Halfpenny Newspaper stamp was issued on the same paper as the remainder of the postal series, each stamp showing a watermark single-lined "NZ" about 5½ mm. above a stumpy five-pointed star.

The sheet contained 240 of these watermarks arranged in four panes of 60 (ten rows of 6), each pane having its own single outline frame. The left margin of the sheet had the inscription, "NEW ZEALAND POSTAGE," in double-lined capitals reading upwards, and the right margin had a similar inscription reading downwards. The vertical gutter between the panes was blank. In the upper and lower margins, and also in the horizontal gutter between the panes, were the words "NEW ZEALAND" in similar double-lined capitals, which were about 12 mm. high.

Thus, in order that the "NZ" and Star watermarks should show on each stamp, it would be necessary to rearrange the printing plate so that the clichés were in four panes of 60 each. This was actually the case, for we read in Collins (p. 28) that "Occasionally the sheet would get out of register, in which case the inscription "NEW ZEALAND" in double-lined capitals, normally between the panes horizontally, would appear on the stamps. In 1894 the plate was altered to be without division into panes; but the same paper was used, and consequently one horizontal strip in each sheet, from the printings at this time, shows the inscription, and three stamps in the full strip of 12 are without watermark, from before the "N" and after the "D" and between the "W" and "Z." This variety is frequently confused with the stamp of 1873, perf. 12½, on the fiscal paper, watermarked "NZ," and from the portion of the sheet showing no watermark. It should be remembered, however, that the earlier issue was in a distinct shade—"dull rose."

The appearance of this stamp on "NZ" and Star paper was chronicled in Vindin's Philatelic Monthly for July, 1892, and in their catalogue for 1895-6 Messrs. Stanley Gibbons give June, 1892, as the date of issue. It was printed in rose and bright rose, and the perforation was 12½ by a single-line machine as before.

In his handbook (p. 28), Mr. Collins states that "by 1895, the printings from the ½d Newspaper plates, which had been in use for twenty-two years, were showing signs of wear, and it was decided to bring this value into conformity with the other values by obtaining a design bearing the inscription "POSTAGE AND REVENUE." This was the ½d, black, profile of Queen Victoria with "widow's weeds," which was issued about March, 1895, as it was first chronicled in Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal, Vol. V, p. 172, for May 31st, 1895.

An exhibit showing worn impressions of the ½d Newspaper stamp, watermark "NZ" and Star, can be easily got together, and is not without interest.

A minor variety which is worth mentioning has an oval white space in the spandrel below the second "A" in "ZEALAND," caused by wear or damage to the ornamental background in the cliché, the earliest dated copy seen being June 21st, 1893. The position of this flaw in the sheet is not known, and so far it has only been seen on the "NZ" and Star paper.

REFERENCE LIST.

1st January, 1873.—Printed from electrotypes at the Government Printing Office, Wellington, in sheets of 240, 12x20, on fiscal paper watermarked "NZ" 120 times in the sheet.

(a) Perforated 10 by a single-line machine. ½d, pale dull rose.

(c) Perforated 10 and 12½ compound. ½d, pale dull rose.

NOTE.—More than half of the impressions fall on portions of the sheet showing no watermark.

January, 1875.—Printed on specially made paper with watermark "NEWSPAPER POSTAGE" in double-lined capitals in each side margin, and a six-pointed star showing in every stamp, the 240 stars being enclosed in a single outline frame.

(a) Perforated 12½ by a single line machine.
Variety. Imperf. between pair.

(b) Perforated "nearly" 12 by a single-line machine.
½d, rose (shades).
Variety. Imperf. horizontally by nearly 12.

June, 1892.—Printed on the "NZ AND STAR" paper, 240 watermarks arranged in four panes of 60, with inscriptions in double-lined capitals in all four margins and horizontally across the middle of the sheet. The stars in the watermark are five-pointed.

Perforated 12½ by a singe-line machine

NOTE.—For the earlier printings the clichés in the printing plate were arranged in four panes to fit the watermarks. In the later printings the clichés were closed together, with the result that some of the impressions in each sheet miss the watermark or show a portion of the inscription, "NEW ZEALAND."—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

ANOTHER POINT ON WHICH TO SPECIALIZE U. S. STAMPS

By STEPHEN G. RICH.

First Remarks.—We are really very arbitrary in our choice of points on which we specialize. We admit shades, due to either different batches of ink or to heavy and light printing; but apparently nobody makes the heavy and light printings separate series, though heavy prints in light shades and vice versa actually do occur. We are keen on faults or mistakes in the manufacture of the stamp, such as shifts and recuts. Then we have the cult of cancellations, in which the accident of the color ink that the post office happened to have on some day is made as important as if it were a feature intrinsic to the stamp. Some specialize to the extent of micrometrically measuring the thickness of the paper. Now to all the well-known points of specialization I propose to add a feature in which differences have long been known to exist, but which continues to be neglected philatelically.

The Point.—If you take a bunch of any U. S. stamp—say the 2 cents '83 or the 1 cent '90,—you will notice that the over-all dimensions, both height and width, vary from stamp to stamp. This is due, of course, to the varying distances at which the perforating wheels were set along their axle in the machine. This sort of difference is not found in stamps perforated by other types of machines and is, as far as I as yet know, limited to stamps of the U. S. and insular appendages.

Now this variation in dimensions is, in my humble but vehement opinion, exactly the same sort of a manufacturing variety and exactly as worthy of philatelic notice, as is the difference between successive batches of ink, between different lots of paper, or between different sizes of grill. If the different areas grilled on the 1867 issue are varieties worthy of attention, the different total sizes of stamps in any issue are equally entitled to recognition. If, as certain collectors have said to me, the difference in sizes of stamps is only an accident", then so is the difference in sizes of grills.

What Feature Varies.—Right from the 1857 issue to the current one, the variations in total height and total width of the stamps can be found—sometimes through a small range but more often through a large one. The design of printed portion does not vary in size—within visible limits—but the total width or total height from tip of tooth to tip of tooth on opposite sides, or from tip of tooth to tip of tooth, top to bottom of stamp. Of course, if you want to eliminate the difference of one-tenth or one-fifth of a millimeter that may result from the tearing apart of the stamps, you can measure from the edge of the hollow between perforation-teeth.

A Sample Case.—The 2 cents 1887 green, Scott No. 212, is a convenient stamp on which to see these variations. A lot of about 800 copies, which I happened to have, yielded the following variations:—

1. Over-all width of stamp from tip to tip of perforation teeth at each side:—
   1: "Narrow," 21.5 mm. over-all. Fairly plentiful.
   2: "Normal," 22.5 mm. over-all. Most plentiful.
   3: "Medium," 24 mm. over-all. Not plentiful.
   4: "Wide," 25 mm. over-all. About 1% of the lot.

I did not find any specimens that fell between these dimensions; there may be intergrading sizes, but this lot did not contain them. The few pairs in the lot showed "narrow" and "normal" together and, more than once, "normal" and "medium" together. Only one pair had both stamps alike ("normal").

2. Over-all height of stamp from tip to tip of perforation teeth at top and bottom:—
   1: "Short," 26.5 mm. over-all. Fairly plentiful.
   2: "Normal," 27 mm. over-all. Most plentiful.
   3: "Medium," 28 mm. or up to 2/10 mm. more over-all. Plentiful.
   4: "Over-medium," 29 mm. over-all. Not plentiful.
   5: "High," 30.5 mm. over-all. Least plentiful but not as few as the "wide" variety.

Between the "short" and "normal" a few intergrading varieties were found, and the "medium" varied enough in height to come well up towards the "over-medium." No strips were in the lot studied, so occurrence together is not yet known to me.

3. Combinations of width and height. Of the 20 possible combinations, 18 were found in this lot. Only "wide" by "high" and "wide" by "short" were missing. The most plentiful combinations were:

Narrow by normal.
Narrow by medium.
Normal by over-medium.
Normal by medium.
Medium (width) by medium (height).
Medium (width) by normal (height).

The distribution of the 20 varieties in numbers, while not verified by actual count, appeared to come very close to what mathematicians call the "Gaussian curve of normal distribution;" those of the readers who are in touch with modern statistical methods, especially as used in mental and educational testing, will understand what is meant.

On Other Stamps.—On the 1857 issue I have thus far seen only two heights and three widths, all of which are found on both the 1 and 2 cent stamps.

On 1861 and succeeding grilled issues of same types, the variation is into at least three heights and four widths in all the stamps.

On 1869 I have thus far seen two heights and three widths.

The bank-note issues from 1870 thru the 1882 re-engraved appear to show exactly the same range as the 2-cent 1887. From the specimens I have seen, I judge that the extreme narrow and wide varieties are relatively more plentiful on the 3-cent green, in all printings, than in the other values; and that the narrow variety is quite often seen on the 1 cent and 6 cents.

The various stamps from 1882 to the end of the large-size issues in 1890 appear to show substantially the same distribution of the same varieties as the 2-cent green. I can speak most definitely of the 2 cents brown 1883 and the 1 cent 1887; these vary precisely as does the 2-cent green.

The 1890 issue shows as great variation as its precursors, most conspicuously on the 2-cent carmine. I have not seen the same full range of variation on the 2 cents lake; and I do not recall any height-varieties on the 5 cents.

In all the subsequent issues, printed by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, I have noticed as yet only three heights and three widths. This applies to the Philippine and Cuba issues printed by the Bureau also.

Is It Worth While?—Personally, I have had as much philatelic pleasure hunting up these over-all size varieties as hunting up any others. But the logic of the matter goes beyond one collector's enjoyment. We accept varieties due to manufacture, such as shades (why do we omit light and heavy printing?), different sizes of grill, all kinds of errors, different papers, and so forth. Any argument in favor of their being philatelically acceptable will apply equally well to over-all size varieties.

Furthermore, we note and collect varieties which are not strictly philatelic, such as "Kicking Mule" cancellations, colors of cancelling ink, and so forth. If these are worth while—and who, from Atherton to M. T. Dome, will deny that they are?—surely size varieties are equally entitled to be taken from the list of unconsidered "accidents" and made a part of specialization.

OUR BOOK REVIEW

A review copy of Stanley Gibbons 1926 Catalog is at hand. It may be obtained from the firm at 391 Strand, London, England, and doubtless from various American dealers. The price of the book is 17sh post-free in one volume. Part I, Britain and Colonies, may be obtained for 7sh post-free and Part II, foreign countries, 10sh 6d post-free. The combined book is a very substantial one, though its size has been greatly reduced by the using of a special thin paper. It is well bound and has a handsome appearance throughout. The illustrations used show up finely, hundreds of new cuts having been made to replace worn ones.

Doubtless price changes will be the most important feature from the standpoint of the catalog user. Part I, the British Empire, has no fewer than 5,000 price alterations or additions, while in Part II there are no fewer than 13,400 additions or alterations. British and Irish controls are priced with perforated and imperforate margins. Various countries have been revised and rewritten, including Australian Commonwealth, Brunei, Hejaz, Ceylon, Irish Free State, Tasmania pictorials, Victorian postal fiscals and Western Australia.

Probably the most important feature in Part II, has been a very careful revision of Portugal and the Portuguese Colonies by J. N. Marsden in co-operation with Lieut.-Com. F. H. Napier R.N. This group occupies nearly one hundred pages. Danzig has been re-written, the Wrangel issues of Russia are now complete, and Belgium, Norway and Roumania, have received special attention. It will be noted throughout the work that special consideration has been given to descriptions of stamp designs and the inclusion of names of designers, engravers and printers.

The publishers are to be congratulated upon the book which has been furnished to the stamp trade. It takes its place with our own Standard Catalog and the Yvert Tellier-Champion Catalog already reviewed in our columns. The student of philately will do well to have all three of these books as a source of information and satisfaction.

DR. BOWERS EXHIBITS AT BOSTON

The regular monthly meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society, held October 20th, was well attended with about fifty members and a few guests present. The entertainment of the evening was furnished by Dr. W. C. Bowers of Bridgeport, Conn., who showed the results of sixty years of continuous collecting by his exhibit of British North America, West Indies and St. Helena. These countries were shown with the fine old classics predominating, together with many rare items and quite a few of those that auction catalogs usually refer to as "gems" Dr. Bowers prefaced his exhibit with a few remarks on the manners and methods of collecting sixty years ago. Prior to the entertainment a business meeting was held.—WILLIS H. BARDWELL, Sec.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

THE FORUM

By H. P. Atherton, 318 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

You are undoubtedly beginning to wonder how about the cancellation illustrations, for in the last issue it was sidetracked by merely "reporting progress." This week I can supplement further by saying that a kindred spirit, a stamp collecting architect, has become enthused about these early U. S. cancellations, and is giving me much valuable help.

Either you like cancellations very much, or you don't care a rap for them. My friend, E. L. (Joe) Labine, has always preferred poring over the beautiful scroll work of Brazilian "Bull's Eyes," or in gathering in all the 32, or however many there are, of the 3d Canada Beavers, studying the minor varieties in the early Belgian "Epaulettes" and such early stamps. Well, Joe saw a mess of these cancels all drawn up lying on the desk, and immediately became enthused, architects are that way; with them a design is either "blah bolony" or "wonderful," and the intermediate "so-so" stuff falls in the discard with the "blah" stuff. So you see we have a whole lot of chaff to winnow out, with still plenty of wheat to consider. You are going to get a good full crop of wheat, with just enough chaff to permit a bit of chaffing. (Pardon that.)

Here is how these illustrations are secured in black and white. Suppose you send in an old dogeared 3c green with one of those faintly struck "skating water bugs" as a cancellation. You know the things, an elongated dot for a body and skinny legs extending in all directions, this sounds like a "Daddy Long Legs," and that would serve equally well, for this is a "just supposin'" case, anyhow.

First, I take a good look at the affair, getting in mind the direction of the various stretched out limbs, the sprung knee joints, and the feet at ends of same, for everything seems to have a peculiarity in every cancellation that may differ materially from another of almost similar character.

Then I lay transparent tracing paper over the stamp and take a soft (Kohinoor "B") pencil sandpapered to a needle-like point, and trace very lightly (so as to leave no impression on the stamp below) the entire detail of the design. Sometimes I get "off" by following a dark line of the design or some bit of cancel which should not appear in the true design, yet is there from one cause or another; it is difficult to see a faintly hit design thru tracing paper. Some show the design incomplete, and this I supply if they are symmetrical or nearly so. Many have to be traced over to get them exact, or to my liking.

The above does not dent the stamp, far from it, for the sharp point of the very soft pencil barely touches the paper. If I bear on even a little bit the pencil gives a wide smeary line and this tracing may have to be thrown away, for the soft pencil permits little erasing. This is mentioned in detail for those who might fear a stamp sent for illustrating its cancel would come back injured. Your stamp will be returned exactly as sent, plus the thanks of all concerned.

The tracing just made is now laid on a sheet of Bristol board, this being a heavy coated white paper with absolutely smooth surface. A bit of thin carbon paper with a white back is placed under the tracing, and I again go over each line with extraordinary care, with what architects call a "nail," same being a "6 H" pencil. This is also brought to a needle-like point, and a blunt needle might do equally well. This transfers the design in normal position onto the Bristol board in thin faint lines.

The above is mere child's play, for now comes the "inking in." This I do under a reading glass with a very fine pen, Joseph Gillott's No. 303 or 170.

Have you ever tried to draw a face? If so, you have noticed that a tiny change in a line will turn a smiling face into melancholy, or worse. Same with cancellations, even the thickness of a line may be "off" and cause a design to be redrawn.

The above details the process of securing a single drawing—"art is long and time is fleeting." Yes, yes.

About eight or ten of these designs will be cut out and pasted on cardboard together to fit into two horizontal rows across the top of the Forum each week. At this point the various groups go to the man who is to make the metal plates for the printing in the Weekly, and he probably has his troubles too. How long it will be before you have something to look at I cannot now say. There are about 100 more to be drawn, and a few arrive each week.

When produced they may remind you of some you have that may be a little different from any shown, if so, they will be welcomed, providing they can be seen sufficiently to go thru the above processes. Every little bit helps. I sincerely thank everyone who has sent in cancellations, and to those whose copies I have held over long, my apologies.

Forum mail the past week contained little that was unusual, and I hope that you will not feel that this number is a week lost or wasted, owing to lack of material. This detailed account was coming to you sometime, and is a "runner-up" of last week, where I expressed regret that a cancel could not be lawfully photographed, and reproduced mechanically.

You have probably undertaken tasks that you knew beforehand were going to take a lot of time and patience. Well, you stuck to them, and they took even more time than you anticipated and your patience at times became exhausted, so you chucked the work aside, only to haul it out later and keep digging till it was finally completed. When nearing the end didn't your own satisfaction spur you on and repay you many times over at the finish?

The drawings are nearing completion, and not until the first lot appears in the Forum will I "heave a sigh" of relief and, if they are well received, satisfaction.

THIRD CANADIAN PHILATELIC EXHIBITION

Reported by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

(Concluded.)

Amongst other prize winners in the Br. North American stamps were for Canada.—Mr. T. M. Barrington, bronze medal; Mr. Brewer Corcoran, bronze medal for Nova Scotia; Mr. H. S. Seaman, silver medal for Canada, Georgian Issues; Mr. D. H. Haight, bronze medal for Nova Scotia and New Brunswick together. This exhibit included no less than 11 of the 1sh stamps.

In the class for Cancellations.—Mr. H. S. Seaman took the silver medal for Canada; Prof. A. V. Richardson, bronze medal for Postal stationery; Mr. J. McG. Stewart was awarded the silver medal with special commendation of the Jury; Mr. D. B. L. Kinton a bronze medal.

For Proofs and Essays.—Mr. John Persse had a silver medal; Mr. Fred Jarrett a bronze medal.

In Canada Revenues—the awards were Mr. Burrough Pelletier, the Oughtred Cup; Col. E. F. Wurtle, the bronze medal; Mr. E. E. Goodchild, H. M.

For Revenues any Province.—Mr. Isaac Pitblado, silver medal; Mr. E. E. Goodchild, bronze medal.

Senator J. A. Calder showed a magnificent lot of the Provisional issues of Saskatchewan, but as he was President of the Jury he did not, of course, compete.

In the Canada Precancelled.—Mr. B. Pelletier had the bronze medal, and there were several H. M., in Newfoundland; Mr. H. W. Purvis, silver medal; Mr. P. W. Robinson, bronze medal for Newfoundland specialized.

In Great Britain and Colonies.—Dr. A. E. Whitehead, silver medal.

I was very surprised to see a remarkably fine collection of my home country shown by Dr. A. E. Whitehead, who was awarded a gold medal and special commendation of the Jury. This was a really fine exhibit. The early stamps well worked out with the different plates of the 1d black and with many interesting blocks and strips throughout the collection and quite a number of rarities. This is the first time that I have seen a really nice collection of Great Britain outside that country and I heartily congratulate Dr. Whitehead on his exhibit.

In Great Britain General Colonies.—Mr. I. C. Bricker, silver medal; Mr. W. A. Creber, bronze medal. In a specialized collection of one of the Colonies, Mr. C. M. Ams secured the gold medal, with special commendation of the Jury for his collection of Gambia.

Here we saw what could be done by a specialist who devoted considerable time to study one country. Not only were most issues shown in uncut sheets, including many rarities, but there was every considerable variety worked out and written up, a remarkable feature being the immense number of cancellations. The collection was a really very beautiful and complete one although Mr. Ams only sent two large volumes out of the forty or more he has of this country.

Dr. A. E. Whitehead secured the silver medal for "Great Britain 1d black specialized".

Mr. H. W. Pervis, the Lowe medal for a very beautiful collection of Irish Free State highly specialized.

Mr. L. de Raay, bronze medal; Mr. W. H. Smith, H. M.

In what was called "Period Collections" Mr. C. S. Laidlaw had a silver medal for a very complete collection of used King Edward stamps.

Mr. I. C. Brickner, bronze medal, for British Colonies 20th Century.

In British Colonies any one Colony.—Mr. S. G. Rich, silver medal, for a remarkably well studied collection of the stamps of the Union of South Africa. This was quite a revelation to many of the members of the Jury as to what could be done by a student with cheap stamps. It was worked out in a remarkable manner and reflects great credit on the exhibitor.

Mr. C. H. Wilson, bronze medal, for Cape of Good Hope. A very nice little collection.

For the Study of any one stamp of Great Britain or Colonies.—Dr. A. E. Whitehead, silver medal, for Great Britain, 1d black; Prof. A. V. Richardson, bronze medal, for Great Britain, 1 red.

In the Class for United States.—The collection of outstanding merit was that of Major J. A. Steinmetz, who was awarded the gold medal for his fine exhibit of stamps on covers. Most of this has been shown at the Collectors Club and described by me previously.

Mr. E. F. Clark of Leamington, England, I was glad to see secured a silver medal for a very nice display of early United States, including some carriers and very nice pieces on cover.

Mr. K. N. Woodward, bronze medal for his early United States.

In United States Specialized.—Mr. Theo. Horton, Jr., bronze medal, for a very interesting exhibit well worked out well arranged and well studied.

In United States any one Issue.—Mr. E. S. Knapp, was pre-eminent, securing the gold medal for his magnificent collection of the New Orleans Confederate Provisionals.

In France and Colonies.—Entries were not at all strong.

In the General Issues.—Mr. N. H. Meadows, bronze medal.

In the Entries for France only.—Prof. A. V. Richardson, gold medal, for the issues of 1849-1875 inclusive.

In the French Colonies.—Mr. J. C. Cartwright, silver medal. Mr. G. M. Le Hain, bronze medal.

In Groups of Countries, not otherwise Classified.—Dr. C. W. Hennan, gold medal, with the commendation of the Jury, for a remarkable exhibit of Netherlands and Colonies. This was a really

NOTED:—

In the Albany (N. Y.) "Evening News" of October 19 was an interesting story of how a local collector was awarded a first prize at the Montreal Exhibition. The collector in question is Theodore Horton, Jr., who is only twenty-one. His collection consisted of a study of the 3c U. S. 1851. According to the Albany paper Mr. Horton exhibited twenty-eight varieties of this stamp, all being distinguished from each other and ranged in sequence. Clipping from Philip Hollis.

Paul Dillingham sends us an interesting meter mail marking at hand from Switzerland, which has been used on registered matter. These markings have frequently been found on first and second class mail coming from Germany and Switzerland, but we have not previously chronicled their use on registered mail. In this instance the marking consists of two oblong ovals in which are the figures 30 and 40 in large numerals. The word "Helvetia" is at the top center and the meter number 239 in the lower center.

Our friend A. F. Merell of San Francisco has just sent in two new yearly subscriptions resulting from his radio talks from KFRC, San Francisco. Mr. Merell states that he is getting many letters from interested parties and that he has started many on the right road.

W. R. McCoy believes the time is ripe to "start a movement to have stamps produced for letter franking purposes instead of from advertising memorial associations, county fairs, etc."

The membership committee of the Philadelphia Stamp Club has issued a card folder calling attention to the activities of the club, which meets every Tuesday evening in the club-room at 1626 Arch St. Attention is called to the library of several hundred volumes. Collectors in or near Philadelphia should take notice.

The Scott Stamp & Coin Co., 33 W. 44th St., N. Y. City, has just issued a wholesale price-list of albums, accessories, catalogs and Scott-Seald packets. The list of accessories includes a large number of useful things and every dealer should have a copy of this list for reference purposes.

EDITORIAL.

The Honorable Ernest R. Ackerman, New Jersey, has introduced a bill in Congress, amending paragraph 1671 of Schedule 15, Title II, of the Tariff Act of 1922, putting United States stamps on a parity with foreign stamps, by eliminating the duty imposed on United States stamps reimported into the United States. It is assumed that all philatelists, professional and amateur, are in favor of this relief measure and every dealer and collector is urged to ask his senator and congressman to support the bill, which is specifically referred to as House Bill 9159. Congress will convene early in December and so there should be no delay in speaking into the ears of government. Our cause is just and in all probability it will be so recognized by the legislators, as the prohibition carried by the law affecting the reimportation of United States stamps was an emergency measure; and the conditions which it was designed to meet no longer confront us. It is necessary that the decks be cleared in time for the Exhibition at New York next October.

An interesting letter has come from an officer of the post office department, at Washington, which tells of early U. S. postal records. Our correspondent having noticed a reference to a document, issued many years ago, embodying postal regulations sends information that is not without historical value. He says that in the year 1909 there was an inventory made of the records of the postal division of the government and that among the effects brought forth was a bound volume of pamphlets describing the postal routes that existed in this country in 1809. Rules for carrying the mail provided fines for tardy carriers and it was stipulated that only "a free white person shall be employed to convey the mail." The reports were issued by Gideon Granger, who was postmaster general under Jefferson in 1801, and also, under Madison, in 1809, and they are regarded as being the earliest records of the kind in the possession of the post office department. Naturally, there is nothing of stamp interest in documents of so remote a period but their historical significance is recognized.

Some months ago a few remarks were made on the subject of James Bogardus, the American, and his "stamp machine," as it was termed by a newspaper of today. Evidently some of our newspaper editors are not inclined to grant Great Britain the honor of the discovery of the postage stamp but we have explained how a mistake may be made by the hurried commentator in assigning the credit. Bogardus suggested a plan of "stamp" usage, as said heretofore, in the competition that was instituted by the British government in 1839, with successful results, and a prize was awarded him. To this fact may be attributed the disposition of some of our editors to say that he invented the postage stamp. Incidentally, we have just learned that James Bogardus died in New York, in 1874.

That hardy perennial, the Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue, 1926, has attained its eighty-second edition and if increased bulk is an indication of well-being, all is flourishing in the field that gives it sustenance. There are 1,574 numbered pages in the work and a sheaf of advertising leaves as well. The plates of the watermarks from life are true to their originals and replace the formalized watermarks of previous years. Now that the catalogue is here on time, stamp fun should become fast and furious for the best part of twelve months.

An inquiry comes that takes us back in the past, when a reader asks for enlightenment on the description: "S. Allen Taylor counterfeit." It is almost hopeless to try to compress, in a few sentences, an account of S. Allen Taylor and his activities, as his span of years was full of incident. That he was devoted to stamps will be admitted as will also be the statement that his influence was not always for good, to put it conservatively. He was one of the early philatelic publishers and the stamp papers of the '60's showed that he was one of the leading writers of those days. He was interested in U. S. locals and made reproductions of them as well as of other obsolete stamps. He had specious argument to bolster up his actions in disposing of these prints and being a brilliant man, he was always able to rally around him supporters of a certain kind. In 1891, for instance, he was arrested and convicted in Boston on the charge of counterfeiting foreign postage stamps and selling them to collectors. He was found guilty in record time by a jury in the United States Circuit Court, but the particulars of the sentence are not remembered. He remained in Boston and liked nothing better than to string stamp yarns by the hour and he had many an interesting tale to tell of philatelists of his day. His death took place some time ago at a ripe old age; and in his later years he spent much of his time in painting sign card and similar things for small merchants. A real biography of S. Allen Taylor would make spirited reading and if such exists, we are not able to place our hands on it at present.

We have been interested in the means of adapting radio for the purposes of philately and have spoken before of the reputation attained by Mr. A. F. Merell of San Francisco, who regularly each week broadcasts over KFRC. In a recent issue of the San Francisco Call and Post, there is a fine portrait of Mr. Merell, with the text: "A. F. Merell, 'the stamp man of KFRC,' whose weekly chats over the station are interesting thousands of fans, both young and grown up." Further, there is a half-column article accompanying the picture and it is headed: "Stamp Man's Talks Score Radio Hit." We learn that he talks each Monday "during Mac and his gang's program" and that "his chats on stamps and their origins are looked forward to by many young and grown up fans each week." Mr. Merell has given away over 2,500 stamps to young collectors who have listened to his talks and we happen to know that the stamps were not trash. In the sketch of Mr. Merell, it is told that he is vice-president of the San Francisco Stamp Society and a past president of the Chicago Philatelic Society. Mr. Merell is well remembered in Chicago where he resided for a good many years. Attention is called to these particulars in order to give recognition where due and to suggest that other collectors who are in a position to do so, utilize the air for spreading the story of stamps.

The Chicago Philatelic Society is obtaining publicity in the local newspapers through its plan to teach children the "hobby of stamp collecting." The Journal said: "In the belief that the future of philately depends on an increase in the ranks of stamp collectors, the Chicago Philatelic Society has devised a plan to 'get 'em young.' Efforts will be made to interest school children in the hobby. Lecturers and exhibits will be sent to the public schools on request." The possibilities of this idea are manifest and there is no reason why societies in other cities cannot emulate this example. Too, the individual who will take the time to speak before a school audience will enjoy the experience and we guarantee that he will make a hit if he will illustrate his remarks with stamps donated to members of his audience.

THE MONTREAL EXHIBITION.

By THEODORE HORTON, JR.

(Notwithstanding the fact that we have printed an article dealing with the Exhibition at Montreal, we are publishing this also in view of the fact that it is written by one of the prize winners, and because we appreciate the courtesy Mr. Horton extends to the WEEKLY by sending it in. Mr. Horton feels that this Exhibition has done a great deal in promoting a friendly relationship between the philatelists of Canada and the United States. We heartily endorse the sentiment.—W. O. W.)

The New York Times, of October 18, 1925, states that the medal-winning New York delegation of philatelists who attended the recent Canada Exhibition reported it one of the best showings of stamps on this side of the Atlantic in many years. All the collectors from the United States, who gave themselves the pleasure of attending this Exhibit, must substantiate this opinion. The St. Lawrence Stamp Club, of Montreal, which took the time and effort to put on the Exhibition, deserves the highest credit for the way in which the entire Exhibition was carried through.

Prof. R. DeL. French, head of the Enginering Department of McGill University and Vice-President of the St. Lawrence Stamp Club, assisted by a most able committee, worked like a Canadian beaver in putting on the Exhibition, overlooking no small detail that could add to the pleasure and interest of the visitors. The stamps were shown in one of the state apartments on the main floor of the new Mount Royal Hotel. At one end of this room, the Salle Dorée, hung a huge English flag and at the other end hung a similar flag of the United States. One original feature of the Exhibition was a large framed maple-leaf composed of multi-hued Canadian stamps, which was exhibited by the Montreal Post Office.

Among the visitors from the States were Mr. Arthur Hind, of Utica, N. Y., who exhibited his collection of early Nevis, hors concours; Mr. Charles J. Phillips, of New York City, who exhibited a collection of War Departments with Fort cancellations; the Rev. Thatcher R. Kimball, of Hyde Park, Mass., who exhibited as complete a collection of Official and Semi-Official Air Mail Covers that there is in North America, which won a gold medal; Mr John A. Klemann, of New York City, who exhibited Philippine Islands, hors concours; Major J. A. Steinmetz, of Philadelphia, who won a gold medal for his general collection of United States; Mr. A. F. Lichenstein, of New York City exhibited his collection of Canada; Mr B. L. Drew of Boston; Mr. Theodore E Steinway, Mr. Eugene Klein of Philadelphia; Mr. Theodore Horton, Jr., of Albany, N. Y., who exhibited a collection of Specialized United States, who was awarded a first prize bronze medal; Mr. E. S. Knapp, of New York City, won a gold medal for his Confederate States; Mr. Charles M. Ams, of New York City, won a gold medal for his collection of Gambia; Mr. K. N. Woodward of Chappaqua, N. Y., was awarded a bronze medal for his general collection of United States; Dr. C. W. Hennan of Chicago, was awarded a gold medal for Netherlands and Colonies; Mr. C. F. Heyerman and Mr. K. N. Woodward, were awarded bronze medals for "any one country."; Mr. James Starr of Philadelphia was awarded a silver medal for "any one stamp"; for "philatelic oddities" Mr. K. N. Woodward was awarded a bronze medal; and Major Steinmetz was awarded a gold medal for his rarities.

Of course the Exhibit being held in Canada brought a truly magnificent showing of British North America. The outstanding collection of British North America shown by Dr. Lewis L. Reford, of Montreal, who is President of the St. Lawrence Stamp Club, and who was awarded a Grand Gold medal and several cups for his collections of Canada, and British North America. Dr. Reford has a collection of Canada that is unique. Among the pages of his collection shown were some 12 or more 12 pence, blacks; complete sheets of this stamp overprinted Specimen; the 3 pence, red, in pairs, strips and blocks; and all of the other early Canadians in a very highly specialized collection. Dr. Reford's collection if exhibited in the 1926 International Exhibition should prove a very striking feature there.

Mr. Fred Jarret of Toronto, received gold, silver, and bronze medals for his collections of Canada. Mrs. S. N. Oughtred, of Montreal, who donated a silver cup for the best Canadian Revenues, was awarded a silver medal for a collection of Alberta Law Stamps. Prof. R. DeL. French received two silver medals for his collections of Air-Mail and "any one period". Mr. R. M. Angus received a cup and several medals for his collections.

Among the other guests were Mr. William Van of Winnipeg, who was in charge of the Second Canadian Exhibition held last year; Mr. Bristol of Plattsburg; Mr. Atherton, Mr. Angers, and Mr. Provost, of Springfield, Mass.; Mr. Elliott Perry, of Westfield, N. J.

The Stamp Auction held Wednesday evening was in the hands of Mr. John A. Klemann, of New York City, who cheerfully undertook the sale at short notice, when the auctioneer originally expected to preside was unable to be present. About 200 lots were donated to help pay the expenses of the Exhibition and Mr. Klemann's wit and humor resulted in a net $1,000 from this sale.

The dinner, which concluded the Exhibition, was held in the Oak Room of

NEW U. S. ENVELOPES
Inquiry at most of the larger offices has shown that practically none of them are in a position to furnish the different varieties of the new unsurcharged 1½c brown envelopes. Many of the offices having revalued the 1c stamps have not found it necessary to stock the unsurcharged variety and as there is a possibility of Congress changing the postal rates in December, there is a resulting possibility of the 1½c envelope being discontinued.
For those interested in these varieties, I can furnish the 1½c brown on white in both die A and die H, the same on blue in die A and die H, on manila in die A and on the manila wrapper. The six varieties—all that I have seen or heard of so far at 50c for the lot. These will be mailed unused, entire.
Many have been looking for the manila variety for some time, for although it has been known for a few months, there are only one or two offices carrying them.
I am also in a position to furnish practically all of the revalued envelopes, for I believe I hold today the largest stock in philatelic hands. A little list of those varieties available will be gladly mailed upon request.

The final disposition of the German territories of
presented a difficult after-war problem to the European powers. The eventful history of these territories during this period of adjustment is faithfully recorded in their various stamp issues, which, therefore, are very interesting from the collector's viewpoint. Our INTENSIVE APPROVAL SERVICE contains a fine selection of each of these four territories and the other plebiscite territories of ALLENSTEIN and MARIENWERDER are also well represented in our stock.

the Mount Royal Hotel, Dr. Reford presiding, and from its beginning, with a toast to the King, following a fine telegram read from him, through to the end when the cups and medals were graciously presented to the winners by Prof. French, and the singing of "America" and "God Save the King," was a delightful affair, socially and Philatelically.

Too much praise cannot be given to the officers and members of the St. Lawrence Stamp Club for the most successful effort made by them to make the States collectors welcome at this Exhibition, and all our collectors who might have gone and did not, missed a pleasure and stamp inspiration not often available to any of us, also an unusual opportunity of meeting so many noted collectors in such attractive and quiet surroundings, where nearly all the visitors were staying under the same roof.

We are sure that all of us who had the good fortune to be there look forward to another such invitation from the Montreal philatelists and feel that we ought to do something to offer them half as good a time on our side of the border.

Republic of Texas Cover

Recently, while looking over a portion of the collection of Major Joseph A. Steinmetz, I noticed one cover different from any I had seen heretofore, namely a copy of 3c 1861 envelope used from the Republic of Texas. The buff envelope was cancelled in manuscript, "Rose Hill, Republic of Texas, Feb 21 1861" and was addressed to Allen Congleton, Esq., Washington, N. C. This is the first cover that I have ever seen used during the short time between the date when Texas seceded from the Union and the time when they joined the Confederacy.

It will be recalled that the Convention of 1836 established Texas as an independent Republic and as such they joined the Union in 1845. The Texas Convention of Feburary 1, 1861, adopted an Ordinance of Secession which was ratified by the people on February 23rd and thus Texas resumed her original status. On March 5, 1861, an ordinance was passed providing for the joining of Texas with the southern Confederacy. Thus, for thirty-three days from February 1st to March 5th, there existed a Republic of Texas. It would be interesting to know if any of our other readers have covers used from Texas during this period. Texas returned to the Union on April 16, 1870.

1½c Revalued Envelopes

Several new varieties of the revalued envelope of interest to the collector of entires have recently come to hand. Mr. William Bork also informs us that in a package of 250 envelopes of legal size which he obtained from his local office, that fourteen were of a 2c denomination instead of 1c, giving us similar varieties to those found in Philadelphia quite recently. Mr. Bork made inquiry at his post office and was informed that the envelopes overprinted were just as received from the manufacturers in Dayton, and that the 2c envelopes had been placed in the package at that point.

Air Mail Notes

Under date of October 19th, the Second Assistant Postmaster General informs postmasters through the Postal Bulletin, that the schedule of air mail service from London to Paris has been modified. The service now leaves London daily except Sunday, at 11.00 A. M., for France, offering delivery in Paris the same evening and most of France on the following morning.

Postmasters are requested to bring this information to the attention of their patrons.

The First Assistant Postmaster General also states that complaints are reaching Washington that window clerks at post offices when queried with reference to air mail are not sufficiently informed and do not give correct and adequate information. Each postmaster is instructed to see that his organization is sufficiently informed to give ready information concerning the advantages of sending mail from his post office. If we are to be guided by experiments made recently by one of the Chicago papers, we are led to believe that the air mail from Chicago to New York has no advantage, for they find that mail carried by the special trains reached New York anywhere from a few hours to several days ahead of the air service.

France.—Whitfield King & Co. report the appearance of the 60c postage due stamp in the 1908-10 design. The color is rose red.

Italy.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 10 lire violet, postage due stamp, with the surcharge "Lire 3" over the figures of value on each half of the stamp. The overprint is smaller on the left half and on each is in two lines in black.

Morocco Agencies.—Mr. R. Roberts advises that the 2½p stamp of Great Britain overprinted for use in this territory has been issued on the new watermark paper.

New Zealand.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us the ½p green, 1p red and 2p yellow with the watermark NZ and Star lithographed on the back of the stamp beneath the gum instead of watermarked, in a pale bluish grey ink. The printing on the back is designed to take the place of the watermarked paper. It falls on each stamp in the same way as the previous single line watermark, the inscription on the edge is the same. This is an experiment in security printing, the success of which would appear to be doubtful as one could imagine nothing simpler to imitate.

Salvador.—We note that the Madrid Filatelico chronicles a series of large commemoratives bearing the inscription "IV Centenario" at the top and just below "Fundacion de San Salvador." Also in the upper left corner "1525" and in the upper right "1925". The three values are 1c, 2c and 3c.

Switzerland.—Whitfield King & Co. submit for chronicle the 25c brown on buff, in the design of the 1914-15 set.

Tunis.—We have received from Whitfield King & Co. a copy of the 20c brown, type of the 1906 series, surcharged "30" with two parallel lines obliterating the former value. The overprint is in black.

WE NOTE IN PASSING:—

A. BAUER, Palmyra, N. J., can get no reply from letters addressed to Mrs. P. L. Gerback, 166 Woodland Drive, Huntington, W. Va., or Charles C. Rood, 164 McClellan Ave., Detroit, Mich. Letters to the first named party are returned by the P. O. marked "Fraudulent. Return to Sender". Interested parties will please communicate with Mr. Bauer.

WE have an interesting letter from W. F. Davis, Caldwell, N. J. Dr. Davis is getting along in years. We take the liberty of quoting from his letter:—"I shall be seventy-eight years of age October 25th, and I plan my life in cycles of ten years. In two years I shall be eighty and that completes my present cycle. If I am alive then I shall subscribe for five years more, but to do so now would carry my subscription out of the present cycle. Odd notions these old fellows have." The doctor has been collecting for nearly forty years and has a general collection of about 35,000 varieties.

WE are unable to obtain replies to letters addressed to Cyril C. Lotz, Berkeley, Calif. We have had some business transactions with this party and will appreciate information from any of our Berkeley subscribers. He is a member of the A. P. S.

J. R. UNTHANK of Princeton, Ind., has recently placed a frame of stamps in the public library and came in contact with one who had collected stamps years ago and whose interest has now been renewed. The frame contained 125 stamps, each from a different country, and aroused so much interest amongst the boys that the librarian was glad to receive from Mr. Unthank a copy of Scott's 1926 Catalog, as well as a subscription to the WEEKLY. This is real mission work.

THE C. S. Watson Co. is now entering the auction field and announces its first auction for early in the new year.

THE firm of H. & G. H. Jopling submits for our inspection a packet of Portuguese stamps that they are offering at less than one-fifth catalog. We make it our practice to safeguard very carefully the interests of our subscribers in not allowing better than 50% discount to be quoted, but in this instance the Jopling offer is measuring up fully to our requirements. The lot is well worth considering.

MORGAN W. TAYLOR, after a long absence, is again with us and this time with a quarter page advertisement. We are pleased to again number him amongst our advertisers.

NORTH INGERMANLAND—(North Ingria)

By C. A. HOWES.

This small territory, which flashed into view like a meteor in the philatelic sky in the summer of 1920, lies north of the Neva river and between Lake Ladoga and the gulf of Finland. In ancient times it formed the southeast corner of Finland, but was ceded to Russia by treaty in 1721 as a measure of protection to St. Petersburg, as by so doing the Finnish frontier was removed to 33 miles north of the Russian capital. It is peopled largely by Finns, and during the troubles with the Bolsheviks in the spring of 1920 was occupied by Finnish troops. A provisional government was set up in the chief town, Kirjasala, and the issue of postage stamps was naturally not overlooked. They were lithographed at the nearby city of Viborg in Finland, and are a copy of the Finnish design with the substitution of the arms of the territory and the inscription POHJOIS (North) above and INKERI (Ingria) below. They were issued on March 22, 1920, in the following quantities: 5, 10, 25 and 50 penni, 200,000 each, 1 mark 10,000, 5m 2,000 and 10m 1,000. The paper is white wove, unwatermarked, and they are perforated 11½.

The stones for lithographing this first issue were said to have been destroyed during a Bolshevik raid, with the result that a new pictorial issue was prepared and appeared some time in July, 1920. These were also lithographed in Viborg on the same paper and with the same perforation as the previous set. The stamps are larger and represent: 10p coat-of-arms, 30p reaper, 50p ploughman, 80p woman milking, 1m women tilling a field, 5m a church, and 10m an old man and a boy. The inscriptions are the same as upon the previous set and the stamps are bicolored. Just how long these stamps remained in use and just what recognition was given them, if any, beyond communication with Finland, are matters that have not come to our attention. It is certain, however, that the Bolsheviks finally prevailed and that Ingria is still a part of Russia, being included in the government of Petrograd.—New England Stamp Monthly.

PHILIPPINE ISLANDS NEWS

By PERCY H. HILL.

In reference to the imperforates of the current Philippines now on sale we might state that they savor of the illegitimate. As far as we can ascertain they originated as follows:—Some time ago an American collector or dealer approached the postal authorities desiring to purchase some $10,000 worth of these stamps. As is well known these are printed in the United States so the obliging officials had them made to order, supposedly at a profit. The dealer when they arrived was in the United States and took very few. The balance were then placed on sale at twice face value in the G. P. O. and include all values from the 2c to the $10 stamps. Just what these imperforates, made to order, mean to philatelists is hard to conjecture. Certainly they should not be catalogued, adding to the already cumbrous listing of stamps issued since 1906.

Recently there have appeared on the market here clever imitations of the old Philippine issues made by a "factory" in Spain, some of them of workmanship superior to the originals. In line with this activity are color changes of the current issues in which the changes have been made by acids, turning the two-cent green into a blue or black, the twelve and twenty into dark brown and the twenty-six cent into a blue.

Reference to the new issue promised last year, a fund of $10,000 was set aside by General Wood for that purpose and the designing entrusted to a native artist, Sr. Fabian de la Rosa. He chose subjects such as the Malolos Church, the Balintauak monument, Dewey raising the flag over Cavite, and the Pacto de Sangre, a replica of the picture painted by Luna, a native artist. The latter is idealistic as Legaspi did not make the blood-compact, but his Master of Camp, De Goiti. However, the designs were disapproved for different reasons, one of them it is understood due to the fact that the words "United States of America" were omitted from the stamps. A plan is on foot for a new issue representing the five main agricultural activities of the territory and other pictorial designs, as the present designs are about the oldest in the world, in use since 1906, and even Norway, the most conservative country, has changed its stamps since then.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We desire to call attention to the finely featured advertisement of Vahan Mozian Inc., elsewhere in this issue. The illustration of these New Yorks on covers is a very striking one. It should be said that these stamps are on entire covers and to save space they have been folded in making the photograph. If these covers are not sold prior to a December auction sale they will then be included in the catalog of the coming auction. This is a strong advertisement.

—The Philatelic Society of the Oranges held a special meeting for Precancel collectors on Friday evening, Nov. 6th, at the Orange Camera Club, Main and Clinton Streets, East Orange, N. J. Dr. G. Ward Disbrow exhibited his collection of New Jersey Precancels. There were opportunities to trade—buy—sell precancels.

—Commander Pinedo, an Italian aviator in a round-the-world flight, carried mail between Zamboanga, Cebu, Atimonan, Manila, etc., but it is thought that these covers do not represent a true air-mail service, being only in the nature of local carryings, from point to point of his leisurely flight. There were no special stamps nor cancellations issued, the covers having simply a plane stenciled on them with the legend "Via Pinedo's flight round the world. Manila, Philippine Islands," and the date.—PERCY H. HILL.

—The annual exhibit of The Philatelic Section of the Maryland Academy of Sciences will be held at the Academy Building, December 5th, from 3 to 10 P. M. As this is the first exhibit since the Section was made a Full Chair of Philately in the Academy, a special effort will be made to have a number of advanced exhibits. There will be also general exhibits, exhibits and talks for beginners and free philatelic literature and stamps will be given away. All collectors and the general public are invited. Admission will be free. The Maryland Academy of Sciences is at 105 West Franklin Street, Baltimore.

THIRD CANADIAN EXHIBITION

By GEO. W. ANGERS.

At the Montreal Philatelic Exhibition just closed, airmail collecting received recognition for the first time on this side of the water. The airmail collections shown attracted a great deal of attention and the Montreal papers were very generous in their notices of them and much interest in that branch of Philately was undoubtedly aroused.

Several collections of airmail stamps and covers were exhibited, among which the following received awards:—

1st Prize—Gold Medal, awarded to Rev. Thatcher R. Kimball, Hyde Park, Mass. Collection of 58 rare airmail covers beautifully mounted and annotated.

2nd Prize—Silver Medal, awarded to Prof. R. DeL. French, Montreal. Collection of miscellaneous airmail stamps and covers beautifully and artistically displayed.

3rd Prize—Bronze Medal, awarded to George G. Duffy, Dublin, Ireland. Exhibit of 12 rare airmail stamps, together with the rare Ross Smith cover, carried from England to Australia.

3rd Prize—Bronze Medal, awarded to T. H. Hinton, England. Collection of Pigeongrams of Great Barrier Islands.

NEW YORK STAMP SOCIETY

The New York Stamp Society held its first open meeting of the season on Thursday evening, October 15th, at its Club rooms, 120 West 49th St. About sixty members and guests were there to view the specialized collection of France, of Dr. S. Avazon, of the Ritz Stamp Company. The explanation of the collection was given by the doctor's accomplished and beautiful young wife who has worked in collaboration with him in building it up and who knows about as much concerning it as he does. The novelty of the two expounders made quite a hit with their audience.

The exhibition was extremely interesting and shows what can be done with practically every country. Stamps of ordinary value, particularly of the earl issues, when analyzed, contain points o interest and take on value never suspecte from casual observation.

President Hoover then turned th meeting over to Auctioneer Camp. wh disposed of about one hundred lots a advantageous prices. It was a very suc cessful open meeting.

COVER DESIGN WANTED

Next January we shall publish a missionary number of the WEEKLY, and we desire a cover design that will be appropriate. We have many subscribers who are expert with pen and pencil and we invite them all to a friendly rivalry in originality and skill. The drawing if larger than a page of the WEEKLY should be made proportionately.

We offer for a first prize $25 and $10 will be given for all sketches that may be acceptable for cover designs. All drawings must be in our office by January 1, 1926, the earlier the better.

ADLETS

Minimum two lines

RATE.—30c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $12.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. It is impossible to guarantee advertisers in this department, and patrons must satisfy themselves as to the reliability of the parties with whom they desire to engage in business relations.

BE IT KNOWN:—

Howard E. Newhard, Box 68, Fullerton, Pa., would be pleased to engage in correspondence with any of our subscribers who are deaf-mutes.

Where is the dealer who can furnish Wm. F. Price, 7 Arnold Ave., Newport, R. I., with a copy of Theodore Siddall's catalog of "Chinese Treaty Port Stamps"? No doubt others than Mr. Price would be glad to have copies of this book, and an advertisement in the WEEKLY would prove profitable.

Many readers of this paper are members of the Rutherford, N. J., Stamp Club where settlements are made monthly on sales of not less than $5. For the eight months ending August 31 stamps were sold to the value of $5,187.00 representing one-quarter of the total value of the stamps entered.

W. W. MacLaren is sending out the October number of the Stamp Hunter. A copy may no doubt be obtained by enclosing postage to him in care of the Cleveland Press, Cleveland, Ohio. "My Meadville Find" is the title of the opening article.

The Philatelic Publishing Co., 82 Nassau St., N. Y. City, has been using considerable space in the WEEKLY in advertising the "Stamp Collectors Magazine." This is a very handsome publication, issued monthly, and it seems so well established that we can heartily recommend it to our readers. It will be worth while for you to obtain a sample copy. Or, better still, send $1 for a year's subscription.

A wholesale price-list has been received from W. H. Leckie, 4512 N. Racine Ave., Chicago, Ill. Stamps are priced per ten and one hundred, and mail order stamp dealers are especially urged to send for a sample copy.

Douglas P. Ball says:—"I am pleased to advise that results so far this year are remarkably good, and an unusually profitable season seems imminent." Mr. Ball's conviction is our own.

After a vacation, Felix Cohen returns to our columns. He makes a specialty of stamps from the east and his membership in the A. P. S. since 1908, is a good guarantee.

CAKE OF SOAP CLEANS UP A STAMP MYSTERY

By LYMAN J. SEELY.

When I took the suitcase from our vault last Monday morning I expected to find in it the U. S. section of Scott's advance sheets, as well as six stamp albums I had put in it at the Hamilton Club in Chicago the preceding Saturday afternoon. I was surprised to find the suitcase locked, as I had no key and it was not a spring lock. Then it occurred to me that the catches at the ends of the case were unfamiliar. I began to feel panicky, just as if I had been out late the night before and was being arrested for a murder I couldn't remember anything about. The lock yielded quickly to a little urging and at the first peep inside my worst suspicions were realized; the suitcase contained only some wet and very dirty clothes, a wide leather belt, a small cake of soap from a Battle Creek hotel, a pair of shoes, a cap and a dirty old hat with the initials L. M. punched in the lining.

It was a nasty knock. I had gone to Chicago to show a friend several volumes of a very fine collection of early United States, which added up some $15,000, and had also taken along a couple of books of J. O. Moore, Inc.'s latest acquisitions, totalling about $7,000 more. Somewhere between Chicago and Bath, N. Y., with a change of cars at Buffalo, I had swapped suitcases. Contemplation of a $20,000 set-back proving unremunerative, I telephoned the Pullman offices at Bath and Buffalo, and the "lost and found" departments at both stations. The answer was "nix" in both cases.

Satisfied that Buffalo was the best point to search we decided to make a holiday excursion of the affair and so get something for our money. Mr. and Mrs. Moore, my wife and I packed into a motor and made a new record for the 130 miles between Hammondsport and Buffalo.

While we were on the road the J. O. M. office had telephoned our friend, T. J. Gundlach of Buffalo, and he had taken the matter up at once with the Buffalo police department. Having the Chicago robbery of the Colonial Stamp Co. in mind, the police officials were at first inclined to think I had been the victim of a framed-up exchange. Taking no chances, however, they had already sent out formal notices of the loss to pawn-shops and other places where they might be offered for sale. They also assured Mr. Gundlach we should have the assistance of the best detectives on their staff.

It was morning before we got under way. Police Headquarters assigned detectives Holtz and Paulsay to the job and we first visited the offices of the Pullman company. There again we found ready co-operation, and they had already notified their offices at Chicago, New York, Bath, and Detroit, of the loss. Like the police, they were skeptical of the early recovery of the suitcase. Three days had elapsed since the loss occurred, the car I occupied out of Chicago was an "extra" and the porter not regularly on the run, they had no record of the passengers. For the severalth time I retold the story.

ESTABLISHED SINCE 1903 IN LONDON. [2ndwm

In the middle of the night between Chicago and Detroit I had been awakened from a sound sleep and had decided to smoke a cigarette in the dressing room. Approaching it I was surprised to hear a noise remotely resembling singing. Bar-room quartets are unusual in Pullman sleepers at 3.15 a. m., but even less surprising than the uncouth appearance of the four or five men I found in the smoking room. Unshaved, wet, and generally dishevelled, soused both ways against the middle. I paid particular attention to only one of them. He was standing when I entered the room. A burly big horse of a fellow with a look of drunken belligerency, which soon convinced me that clad in a week-end suit of yellow silk pyjamas I was de trop in that quartet.

In the hurry of an overdue transfer to the Lackawanna at Buffalo I almost forgot that the porter had said, "The bunch that got on at Battle Creek last night sure raised Hob in this car."

The combination afforded a pretty fair clue, so the Pullman representative immediately called the Battle Creek hotel and asked if a man with the initials "L. M." had checked out last Friday night. The answer seemed to be affirmative. That some men had checked out. The clerk read the names from the ledger and said they were from Buffalo. This later proved to be an error due to an imperfect connection. At least we got two names right, and started in to follow our clues. We wanted a railroad lineman or ironworker with initials L. M. All day long we drove from one end of Buffalo to the other through a ceaseless downpour of rain, but no such ironworker did we find.

Leo Maloney looked like a good lead, but we could not locate him, and his father and sister were in jail for assaulting another brother. For similar reasons every L. M. we checked up proved unfindable. Tired and cold we returned to the hotel at dark. While waiting for some dinner I again called Battle Creek, explained our difficulty and asked for the names and registered addresses of the five men. This time we finally got it straight; two of the men were Indians living in a small town outside Buffalo, two were from the city of Lackawanna, and the third was a Buffalo man. There was but one forwarding address, that of Jerry Bright in Lackawanna. Was he the big fellow, I asked, for the shirt in the suitcase was size 17½ collar. Again an affirmative reply; yes, that was the big one.

Back to the car again for another 20-mile drive through flooded roads to check up this clue. Bad news again. The man had gone to the theater. He was not a tall man, but rather short. Help! We went to the theater and watched the crowds come out, but I could not recognize our man. There we called it a day and decided to revisit Lackawanna first thing in the morning.

Once again the breaks were all against us. I could have cried when I dragged my tired frame from bed next morning early enough to keep my appointment with the detectives, who were to call for me at the hotel. I ordered up a cup of coffee, had a hasty shave and sat waiting for more than two hours, or until nearly noon. No sign of the detectives. Called Pullman and lost and found departments again; no news. Finally Mr. Moore, tired of sitting around, decided to go for a walk, and there sitting in the lobby were two impatient detectives. Our telephone had ceased to operate, so there was no response when they called the room.

I hot-footed to the garage for the car, climbed in and found the ignition out of order. The car would not start. Every break bad as it could be. After taking the distributor apart, checking up the wiring, etc., the garage men accepted my version that the trouble lay in a weak battery. Jacking up the rear axle and giving one wheel a turn started it instantly. The delay was unimportant except that it brought us to the steel works at the noon-hour and we were consequently annoyed.

That is about all of the story. Jerry Bright was sent for and at the sight of the detectives grinned and said:

"I know what you want; you're the two cops who were looking for a suitcase full of books at my house last night."

They admitted the charge. He continued:

"I asked the others about it this morning and Bill Samson says he's got a trunk full of damned books at his house, that he don't want them, but does want his work clothes."

Bill proved to be a burly Pole, who explained to everyone who would listen that he didn't want to steal the books. He said that after a night of hilarity in the stateroom he had felt too sick to pay any attention to the suitcase the porter handed him. On reaching home he had thrown the case to his wife, telling her to care for his clothes. Mrs. Bill had bawled him out for giving her a box of books and asked where his clothes were. In disgust he had thrown the suitcase under the bed and never looked at it again. Had even had to wear his dress shoes to work that day.

He readily knocked off work and drove to his home with us, and sure enough in a back room over a small corner saloon, lying under a bed, was the case with more than $20,000 worth of U. S. earlies absolutely intact. We bought Bill some new shoes.

It would be mean not to clear up the mystery of the initials in the hat. When Bill first started to work in the steel mill the foreman asked him his name. He answered that it was something like Lapidowitz Mariastotinzki. To this the foreman replied that he was in error, and that his name on their pay-roll was Bill Samson. But when Bill bought the hat years before he had considered the unpronounceable names good enough for him; the initials, anyway.

FIVE YEAR HONOR CLUB

Frank Reeder, Jr., Easton, Pa.
Emil N. Lundstrom, Inglewood, Calif.
George H. Pflum, Reading, Pa.
H. Sandberg, Sandberg, Calif.

Our first application for membership in the Honor Club this week comes from Frank Reeder, Jr., of Easton, Pa. Mr. Reeder has law offices in the Easton Trust Bldg. of that city. Our second is from Emil N. Lundstrom, 1346 N. Prairie Ave., Inglewood, Calif.

We are also indebted to George H. Pflum, 410 Rehr St., Reading, Pa., for his application for membership in the Honor Club.

A five years' subscription has been received from Mr. H. Sandberg, proprietor of Sandberg's Summit Hotel at Sandberg, California, where, incidentally, Mr. Sandberg is postmaster. He attended the recent convention at Los Angeles and exhibited there his interesting collection of U. S. and Confederate covers to friends. Mr. Sandberg is appealed to by the historical asides of his covers and among them he has some fine examples of the blending of history and philately. His name looks well on our Honor List.

30c AUGUST 1861, SOLD FOR $3,600

Stamp Bought for a Prominent Philadelphia Collector and is a Magnificent Specimen

The stamp paper is often criticised for giving publicity when great rarities of philatelic value change hands. We see no reason why news of this character should be suppressed. If a valuable painting or curio of any kind is sold at a large figure it arouses interest and the public generally has its attention arrested. There is no reason why the sale of a 30c August, 1861, for the price secured at a recent Morgenthau sale should not be acclaimed in the philatelic press. We reprint the following article which appeared in the New York "Times", and consider it a distinct tribute to the solidity of philately from the financial standpoint.

Record prices were paid yesterday for many varieties of United States postage stamps at the opening sale of the collection of John Bister, held at the Collectors Club 120 West Forty-ninth Street, under the auspices of J. C. Morgenthau. The highest price brought by a single stamp was $3,600, bid by Philip H. Ward Jr., a Philadelphia dealer, for a magnificent copy, perfectly centered, of the thirty-cent red orange, 1861, being one of the few copies of the first issue of that year sold in the postoffices during August. The design did not suit the postal authorities, and after slight alterations the stamps were reissued in September. Fine copies of the August issue are among the rarest of United States stamps, particularly of the higher values, and they seldom appear at public sales.

Mr. Ward admitted that he had purchased the stamp for a prominent Philadelphia collector, and he also bought the ninety-cent stamp of the same 1861 issue for $385 and the much rarer one-cent stamp for $910. The latter was lightly canceled, and very few copies in that condition are known.

A $500 purchase of Mr. Ward's was a vertical half of the three cent stamp, 1851 issue, cut to do duty for one-cent postage, and which was used on an envelope with three copies of the regular three-cent issue of that year to pay postage from Massachusetts to San Francisco.

Next to the $3,600 stamp the highest price paid was $1,200 for a lightly canceled copy of the rare thirty-cent, 1869, with the centre plate inverted. The higher values of the 1869 issue were printed in two colors, and a few found their way into circulation with the pictorial engraving in the centre turned upside down. The Bister collection also had specimens of the inverted fifteen and twenty-four cent varieties, and they sold for $420 and $360, respectively.

In addition to the regular Government issue, the Bister collection had several exceptionally fine copies of the early Postmaster stamps issued in several cities prior to the first Government issue of 1847. One of the rarest was the five-cent Baltimore stamp, which brought $460, and a ten-cent St. Louis provisional used on an envelope sold for $265. Good copies of the five-cent New York Postmaster stamps were on sale and a canceled strip of three sold for $430. A horizontal pair sold for $220 and $115 was paid for a single copy on the original envelope.

Two diagonal halves of the 12-cent stamp, 1851 issue, cut to pay 6-cents postage, brought high prices, as very few of those split stamps are known. One cut 12-cent section on an envelope from San Francisco to Massachusetts sold for $225 and another brought $127.50. For the regular 24-cent stamp, 1851, unused, $155 was paid and for the 30-cent of the same year, also unused, $305 was bid. A curious variety of 3-cent issue, 1861, showing a double impression of the plate and lightly canceled sold for $220.

Mr. Ward paid $210 for an upper horizontal half of the 2-cent stamp, 1867 issue, cut to make 1-cent postage.

Walter S. Scott was the auctioneer. Among the various bidders were Edward Stern, Herman Toaspern, John A. Klemann, Elliott Perry, Eugene Klein of Philadelphia and J. Murray Bartels.

JAMAICAN PICTORIAL, 2d

By HARRY E. HUBER.

The 2d of Jamaica's pictorial series was issued February 18, 1921, having been announced in the Office Gazette of February 17th.

"Stamp Office, KINGSTON,
15th February, 1921.

The following is a description of the two penny adhesive stamp to be used for Postage and Revenue purposes.

This stamp will be put into circulation February 18th, February, 1921.

The design of the stamp is denoted by a view of King's House, Spanish Town.

The denomination 2d is shown on labels at each of the four corners. Between the denomination at the top is printed 'Jamaica', and at the bottom 'King's House, Spanish Town — 1762-1872, Postage x Revenue'. On each side of the design is a bearing banana plant.

The colour of the border of the stamp is green and the design is in dark blue.

Signed, C. C. MANTON,
Deputy Stamp Commissioner."

The stamp was printed from line engraved plates, in green and blue, in sheets of 80 (10x8), at two operations, on white paper, watermarked multiple Crown and Roman CA upright. The design measures 22x28 mm., and the perforation is single line, 14. The only marginal marks are a double marginal line, and the usual cross marks in the four margins for centering and perforating purposes.

The vignette is inscribed "King's House, Spanish Town — 1762-1872", in two lines of small colored letters. Squares in the four corners of the frame contain the value 2d, with "JAMAICA" between at the top, and "Postage x Revenue" at the bottom. The figures and lettering are colorless. Vertical panels at the sides contain bearing banana plants. The iron fence, trees, plants, etc., appearing in the vignette are in a small park in the center of the square, facing which on the east is the King's House; on the north, Rodney's Memorial, and on the west, the Assembly Building.

Previous to the building of the King's House, the governors of Jamaica lived at whatever house they chose. The plan of the existing building was designed by Craskell, the Island Engineer, during the administration of Lt. Gov. Henry Moore, in 1759-62, but the building was not completed until the arrival of William Henry Lyttelton, in 1762. The facade is about 200 ft. long, and the freestone used in its construction came from the Hope River course in St. Andrew's. The columns supporting the portico are of Portland stone, while the pavement is of marble.

The cost of the building and furnishing amounted to nearly £30,000 currency (£21,428 sterling), and in Long's time (circa 1774) it was "thought to be the noblest and best edifice of the kind either in North America or any of the British Colonies in the West Indies." Lady Nugent (wife of the Governor), in her Journal, under date of July 30, 1801, writes: — "The King's House, which is now our residence, is a large brick building, of two stories high, forming one side of a square; opposite is the House of Assembly; the two other sides are formed by a Guard House and Public Buildings. Our apartments are very spacious, but very dirty."

Spanish Town, called by the Spaniards Villa de la Vega (and not St. Jago de la Vega), was founded in 1534, after their first capital, Sevilla Nueva, on the north coast in St. Ann's, was abandoned on account of its unhealthy location. When the island capitulated to the British on May 11, 1655, Spanish Town was retained by them as their capital until April, 1872. For many years it had been evident that the convenience of the Government and the general public would best be served by a transfer of the seat of government from Spanish Town to Kingston, and in 1872, Sir John Grant, with the approval of the Secretary of State for the Colonies, gave effect to the change. The chief courts of law had been removed a few years before, as well as the offices of some departments of the government, and the transfer of the Governor's permanent residence, and of the Colonial Secretariat alone remained to be effected. Room for this department was provided in Headquarters House (the official residence of the Officer in Command of the Troops), which was purchased for £5,000, while the Bishop's Lodge (former residence of the Bishops of Jamaica, situated on the Liguanea plain), was purchased for conversion into a Government House. The Legislative Council was thereafter convened in Kingston, and a chamber for its deliberations was found in the large hall on the ground floor of Headquarters House.

Exception has been taken to the frame design, in which the bananas are pictured as growing upwards, and with more than one bunch on a tree. The bananas are growing in their natural position, and three hands (not bunches) are depicted on the stamp. A bunch is made up of from five to fifteen hands on a stem, and after bearing one bunch, the tree is usually cut down or dies. However, freaks are known bearing two and three bunches.

A total of 1,072 sheets, or 85,760 stamps, was printed and dispatched to Jamaica on multiple Crown and Roman CA paper. The script CA watermarked variety, perforated comb 14, dispatched prior to June 30, 1921, and released by the Crown Agents to stamp dealers as early as August, was not issued in the island until November 4, 1921.

UNITED STATES "EDUCATORS"

For those who are not certain of their classifications of 19th Century U. S. stamps (and that means nine collectors out of every ten) we have made up this series of packets and approval booklets, in which every stamp has its correct catalog number.

Packet A. — 30 varieties of U. S. postage only, all classified, including every issue from 1851 to 1890 inclusive, only $2.00

Packet B. — 20 varieties of the hard-to-place Bank Note issues each one numbered according to Scott's catalog, 1871 to 1890 .....$1.00

"Educator" Approvals contain almost all regularly issued stamps of the United States from 1847 to 1900. No stamp priced more than $5, most of them at big discounts from catalog prices. Sent only against references or deposit. [H

NEW STAMP TO HONOR WILSON

WASHINGTON, Nov 6th. — The new Woodrow Wilson postage stamp will be of either a 13-cent or a 17-cent denomination, and Postmaster General New hopes to have it on sale in time for the celebration of Mr. Wilson's birthday anniversary in December. A 13-cent stamp would be useful for parcel post mailings, while a 17-cent stamp would be used for registered letters. The late President considered "13" his lucky number.

KING GEORGE ADDS A VARIETY

LONDON, Nov. 6th.—King George is one of many who have rushed to buy 4d stamps recently issued by the Post Office. A sheet of 240 was sold to a London firm, which found the gum on the printed side. A man who realized their value bought the stamps and sold them to collectors at from one pound to four pounds each. King phia, George B. Sloane, A. Krassa George purchased a block of four.

THE FORUM—U. S. 1847-1870

By H. P. ATHERTON, 318 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to United States postage stamps, 1847-1870 only. Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Here's some good news for you. The study of United States stamps is as you have already found out by collecting, quite an extensive study, and when you begin to take up all the minor varieties, add rates, and cancellations and all that, you are beginning to get so many things to look after that you slight certain items here and there.

This has been my trouble all along, there is so much that I cannot do justice to all the items that arrive, nor can I get away mail fast enough to keep up to date in the returns to the senders. I must owe several hundred apologies for letters unanswered, and the good news above mentioned will not only be appreciated by you, but fully as much by myself, for I am almost totally swamped right now with mail.

Dr. William Evans of 313 East Freemason St., Norfolk, Virginia, has answered my S. O. S. and the editors of MEKEEL'S have kindly given their consent to the splitting up of the work into two groups, the Forum to handle United States stamps from issue of 1847 to 1870, and from that point to 1900, Dr. Evans will handle all items sent him.

I lived in Norfolk from 1903 till 1918, and during those fifteen years Doctor and I used to have many sessions with stamps that ran into rather late hours of an evening. I can tell you right here that if anything in plate varieties crops up in those intricate Bank Note issues, you cannot have a better man to help you out, for "Doc" can spot the various printings as far as he can see them, and that is no mean feat. I'll admit that I cannot do it, and several of the things still puzzle me, the 15c are my jinx as a rule, besides a number of others, where I follow the color as per catalog, or compare with grilled copies.

So, instead of the weak references that you have had in the past re Bank Note stamps you will now be getting the real information on all that appears. Please keep his address before you when you wish to mention stamps later than the 1869 issue. Thank you.

Mr. H. E. Radasch sends in an unusual item, a wrapper with a 10c '47, posted from Brunswick, Me., with red pmk. and grid. The inside shows that this was previously used for a letter sheet from Portland, Me., this pmk. being in blue as is the PAID alongside. The mss. notation "1 Newspaper chg 176" and a numeral "3" also appear. This is the first time I have seen a 10c '47, used for newspaper carrying, this makes a pretty cover as the 10c has the top margin, and the two grids are hit crossways on the stamp.

He also encloses a copy of the Type I, 15c 1869, with three guide dots, one brown, and two in blue, one being in bottom center of the stamp, with a vertical line right up thru the entire stamp.

There are no less than five guide lines showing clearly. We often find this stamp with a couple of lines showing and little broken lines running at random apparently; but it is quite unusual to see so many clearly defined lines on one stamp. This Type I plate was evidently made in a great hurry and soon replaced by the Type II plate, for the latter are most commonly found.

Mr. M. C. Howe has shown me a very neat town pmk. with the county shown inside the pmk. as follows on 2c red brown cover: SO. HADLEY FALLS MAR 2 1885 HAMPSHIRE COUNTY MASS. This is struck in a dark blue ink, and in form of a rectangle with clipped corners, while to the right is the obliterator, an open star inside a circle, probably attached to the pmk. mechanically.

Mr. R. B. Martin has written in about those old pmks. of the early postal days. He encloses sketch of one of the Philadelphia pmks. applied to a folded letter, date inside being Feb. 4, 1800. The pmk. is about the size of a quarter, and reads in large purple letters "PHI 7 FE". These abbreviated pmks. are evidently inspired by the early English markings where the month is generally condensed into two letters, as JY for July, etc. Our town names at this time were abbreviated greatly, BOSn; CHARLSn; RICHd; and many more being easily recognized for the town. Early Massachusetts towns generally have the state abbreviated to two letters only—MS—while later on we sometimes find MAS, until finally the present abbreviation was generally adopted by all towns in the state. Later on it may be so that a few of these early pmks. will appear in the Forum, as they are quite interesting, and "Pre-stamp" covers are gaining in popularity.

In addition to the list of Forts appearing on stamps of the War Dept., Mr. H. M. Konwiser has added some interesting town names:—"Blackfoot, Idaho" in purple; "Santa Fe," "Milken, Colo." in purple; and "Colgate" in purple. Odd how we find names on War stamps which we

SINGLE STAMP SPECIALIZING

The Imperforate Penny Red, No. 4, of Great Britain, a Good Subject.

By CALVERT R. STIER.

I am going to state a few reasons why I think the single stamp specialist has the right idea in collecting and more particularly why Great Britain No. 4 (Penny Red, Imperf.) is a good stamp for this purpose. To me a collection of 1,000 of some 19th Century classic is just as interesting as 1,000 varieties of 20th Century, Mint British Colonials, Precancels, or any other branch of stamp collecting. Besides being a most interesting way to pursue the hobby of Philately, there are three good reasons or more upon which the single stamp specialist can fall back on when defending his ideas and methods against the attack of the opposition, general collecting. The case will be called to order with the following three reasons pertaining to a collection of the 1 penny red of 1841.

First, there was a multitude of plates from which the second penny stamp was issued, giving an infinite number of re-entries, double letters, shades of color, differences in impression, etc. Second, it is a thing of beauty, being printed by the line-engraved process by the famous firm of Perkins Bacon and Co. Third, it was one of the first stamps ever issued, its age of 84 years classing it as an antique. Furthermore, if one is interested in cancellations here is as fertile a field as any.

Its history begins January 20th, when the stamp first made its appearance in London, in a rich orange shade. This was a little more than eight months after the penny black of world wide renown. Most of the plates of the penny black were used in making this stamp, but they ceased to be used much after 1842 or 1843. Plates numbering 10 to 40, with few exceptions, were used between 1842 and 1850. Plate numbers 41 to 105, with many exceptions, were generally in use after 1850. To the specialist all of the plates can be correctly numbered by studying the sizes and placing of the check letters. The earlier stamps usually had the letters printed in small, thin type. The letters J, B, I and R especially, exist in a number of different types. R in plate 10 has a very long tail. Plates in which notable re-entries and double letters occur are numbers 2, 9, 11, 12, 14, 19, 20, 21. Many stamps have guide lines showing and misplaced or peculiar letters.

Besides differences in the stamps themselves, there are quite a few varieties of paper: white, pale bluish, thin bluish, thick bluish, greenish blue and a very deep blue. With two main differences in impression, 5 or 6 papers, 50 or more plates with 240 subjects to each plate, it can be seen that a large collection of this interesting issue is very possible. And if notice of the innumerable varieties of —What have we here? Dr. C. W. Hennan to the life in the Comet, a Chicago newspaper; his picture is headed: "Wins Gold Medal," and the text tells how he worked and won. He was born in Wisconsin and graduated from medical college in 1917. In the current year he became the president of the Chicago Philatelic Society and was awarded a medal at the Montreal exhibition for his showing of Dutch.

—From Capt. R. C. Dettman, V. D., Victoria, Australia, we have received a neat little price list of the stamps of the Australian Commonwealth from 1913 to date, a range of issues that affords interesting collecting material, with their watermarks and varieties. Capt. Dettman is strong for Australian stamps as coming stamps, in an investment sense.

—A reader shows a cover sent from California with the "Paid 6 Cents" in postmark form and the postmark, Georgetown, Feb. 13, Cal., 1855.

—Mr. Harry G. Johnson, Chicago, shows an imperforate pair of the two cent strip narcotic with no signs of the rouletting between the stamps.

—We have received from Mr. F. G. Browne a copy of the Dearborn Independent, in which he marks the following quotation in a story: "In an old house in Ridgefield, Connecticut, the home of Miss May Rockwell, the New England house-cleaning season in 1924 became the occasion of a holocaust of letters which had accumulated in the attic for more than seventy-five years. As one basket after another was carried down and its contents emptied upon the bon-fire in the back-yard, a bystander casually picked up a letter," etc. Mr. Browne adds: "How can people be so ignorant in this connection? Recently a friend told me he had just inherited an old house where his grandfather was born and was going to look it over with a view to selling it. I asked him if he had an attic and said that if he did and it had not been disturbed I might make a deal with him for any letters that might be there. He laughingly replied that he had already been through the attic and had found something like two bushels of letters, which he had calmly burned! When I told him he might have burned up more than the value of the old house, he laughed on the other side of his face."

—Lowe's Standard Catalogue of the Stamps of British North America has been published by Geo. A. Lowe & Son; price, one dollar, bound in cloth.

—The four cent stamped envelope converted into penalty envelopes for government use by application of the "penalty" warning in two lines on the face of the envelope has been coming through the mails from Washington.

—The catalogue of the auction sale to be held November 16th to 21st, 1925, by E. Luder-Edelmann & Co., Zurich, is one of the finest productions that has ever been issued in the shape of an auction catalogue. There are over 3,500 lots in this huge sale and the quality of many of them is of the highest rank; and the fine illustrations to be seen of many of the noteworthy lots make the catalogue an artistic manual.

—Professor E. G. Young of Peking, China, says that philatelic circles in that city are agog over the appearance of the current 3c on 4c grey, inverted, which seems to be something worth getting excited about.

—The new edition of the U. S. Specialized Catalogue is prompt in making its bow and the third edition is now before the public.

—"In three years experience over here I have found that it has paid me very much better to invest my capital in side lines of United States stamps, such as Locals, Departmentals, and Confederate States, and after these in profit and salability, I place British North Americans, early South and Central Americans, West Indies, some of the countries of Europe where the exchange rates are near normal, such as the fine group of Scandinavia, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland. Following these I have also found profitable lines to be British Colonies in Africa, Australians, Japan, etc. In almost all cases I have mentioned there is a good sale for the older issues of these countries, and as supplies can be generally bought at a much cheaper rate than United States stamps—the profit is considerably larger."—CHAS. GODDEN IS MAKING GOOD.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a page advertisement of the firm of Frank Godden Ltd., 359 Strand, London. The managing director of this firm is Frank Godden, who is one of the principal factors in present-day British philately. This is shown by the several large transactions in which the firm has been engaged, the most recent being the purchase of the H. L. Hayman specialized collections.

The Godden firm advertised in the WEEKLY all last season and in contemplation of the Philatelic Exhibition to be held in New York next October will doubtless do its part in completing many of the exhibits. The WEEKLY appreciates the measure of confidence that Mr. Godden places in the WEEKLY and we advise our readers to note carefully the splendid announcement with which the Godden firm opens this season's advertising.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL
A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.
Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."
C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."
The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

UNITED STATES ISSUES 1870-1900

DR. WM. EVANS, Editor,
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

I have consented to attempt the recording of such material as comes concerning the issues from 1870 to 1900. Mr. Atherton will continue the work regarding the issues before '70.

I am taking up the task with the hope that some constructive work can be done with the issues in question, but the co-operation of all who are interested will be necessary, for my material is not sufficient to go far by itself. Therefore I shall be glad to see specimens of interesting items of any kind relating to these issues. This will include minor varieties, covers, cancellations, or anything you think would interest the other fellow. And what is to be said concerning them will appear in the WEEKLY as fast and as often as the material submitted will warrant. Therefore no material submitted will mean nothing to be said.

We take pleasure in introducing to the readers of our paper William Evans, M. D., who will henceforth conduct this Department of the WEEKLY. He will deal particularly with U. S. stamps from 1870 to 1900 and is prepared to be of service to our readers in connection with these issues. Dr. Evans is well known to the philatelic fraternity, his book on "Canal Zone" being one of our standard publications.

And just to start the ball rolling suppose we begin a list of Railroad postmarks used between 1870 and 1880. I do not remember having seen any list of these though the earlier issues have been listed. This one will be long and ought to be divided into three sections, viz., R. R., R. P. O., and Agt. And perhaps someone can start us off with the reasons for these differences.

Let's take the R. R. ones first. Here is the first instalment. Who can add to it?

Addison R. R.
A. & E. R. R. Annapolis, blue.
B. N. Y. & P. R. R., blue.
B. & O. R. R., blue.
Cumb. Valley R. R., blue.
C. & P. R. R., Earlville Station, blue, octagon.
Ca. & Man. R. R.
D. L. & L. N. R. R.
Det. & Mil. R. R.
J. P. & M. R. R.
K. C. & Santa Fe R. R.
L. Valley R. R.
Morris & Essex R. R.
N. W. & N. R. R.
Pensa. & Ga. R. R.
Sav. & Char. R. R.
S. & W. R. Junc. R. R.
T. & C. R. R.

That's not a very formidable list and you ought to be able to make it grow rapidly. Who will be the first to make it longer?

We ll take up R. P. O. next and follow that with the other varieties. Of course, we don't need to limit ourselves to these, other items of interest can be recorded at the same time, and vary the programme. "Variety is the spice of life," 'tis said, so let's have some spice, as well as some other things.

And please bear in mind that what you send in this direction is to be only concerning the issues from 1870 to 1900. Mr. Atherton will continue the work in regard to the earlier ones, and we can't have any Balkan eruptions, in this game. They have enough of them on the other side of the Atlantic. So the rule here will be to send items before '70 to Springfield, Mass., from 1870 to 1900 to 313 East Freemason St., Norfolk, Va., and don't forget to put in the "East."

EDITORIAL.

The photoplay "The Pony Express," which was released several months ago in California, concurrently with San Francisco's great diamond jubilee, is a production that, in addition to its spirited portrayal of the "winning of the west," as a setting for the fascinating story of the Pony Express, affords a philatelic moment or two, when Pony Express covers are shown on the screen. These envelopes have the regulation markings and even though they are stampless, the sight of them gives a thrill to the philatelist. It was noticed that in San Francisco this play was advertsied in some of the downtown store windows by collections of relics in keeping with the old adventurous days, that included envelopes that bore the proper fac-simile stamps and markings on envelopes in the similitude of the original covers.

A cancellation in postmark form, "Racine & Miss. R.R.," on a three cent stamped envelope of the 1853 issue, U. S., that came into our possession piqued curiosity to learn something of this road which in a philatelic sense is unknown. Through the courtesy of Mr. Roscoe L. Wickes the following details have been obtained: The Racine, Janesville & Mississippi Railroad was incorporated on July 6, 1852, but the name was changed to the Racine & Mississippi Railroad some time between July 6, 1852, and February 29, 1856. It was transferred to and operated by the Western Union Railroad up to 1879. On June 24, 1879, the Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad leased these roads for nine hundred and ninety-nine years, and this property was deeded to and absorbed by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad on September 1, 1900.

An old Lallier album, dated June, 1862, and published in Paris by A. Lenégre, is shown by Mr. Marshall Hancock, who bought the collection that it contained in France recently. It is needless to say that this is one of the earliest albums extant and was the first of the excellent line, "par Justin Lallier." There are 1,101 spaces provided for stamps, including envelopes, apportioned as follows: America, 298; Europe, 627; Asia, 41; Africa, 45, and Oceania, 90. A good many "express" stamps are listed under the United States and some of them have fallen by the wayside as having been unauthorized. There are but two stamp-issuing countries in Asia, Ceylon and India, and the only stamps found under Cape of Good Hope are the triangulars. The Lallier album in this and subsequent editions was very popular for many years and the present-day value of all the stamps that have been placed in the Lallier albums from first to last would verily "stagger the imagination."

Our friend, Professor Frank E. Robbins, Ann Arbor, Michigan, sends the following commentary that will charm the collector who likes to meditate on the past of his country as conjured up by a sight of his stamps. He writes: "I have just been reading the very interesting book, M. R. Werner's 'Brigham Young,' and in it found a trifle that possibly the readers of the WEEKLY might care to hear about. It brings in, so to speak, the 'higher philately,' yoked up with Brigham Young and a character, whom one in Michigan is still apt to hear stories told of, 'King' Strang of Beaver Island fame. I don't mean to insinuate that they were collectors however! Mr. Werner, in telling about Brigham Young also has to give a pretty full account of Joseph Smith and Mormonism generally, and I have always looked upon that as one of the most romantic episodes of the first part of the last century. Joseph Smith was killed at Carthage, Illinois, on June 27, 1844. The Mormons were then at Nauvoo, not far away. Immediately after Smith's death there were machinations to get control of the Church. Of course Brigham Young, as the President of the Twelve Apostles, was the one who actually succeeded, but Sidney Rigdon made a strong bid for the place and James Jesse Strang, also. It was the latter who called in philatelic aid. I suppose that he had little chance against the strong personality and fearless resourcefulness of Brigham Young, but at least if he had been familiar with Scott's Specialized U. S., he wouldn't have committed one faux pas. 'King' Strang was baptized as a Mormon in January, 1844, and Joseph Smith liked him so well that he authorized him to establish 'a state of Zion' in Wisconsin, where he was then living. When Joseph Smith was killed, as Mr. Strang says, 'Strang hurried to Nauvoo and exhibited a letter which he claimed the prophet had written to him, by which he was appointed successor to Joseph Smith's spiritual and temporal powers as head of the Church. The postmark on Strang's letter was black and Brigham Young's followers pointed out that all letters left the Nauvoo post office with a red postmark.' (My italics.) 'But when Strang attempted to verify the despatch of his letter by reference to the Nauvoo post office register, the register strangely disappeared. Strang was excommunicated and delivered over to the buffetings of Satan.' Now I think that somebody ought to come forward with a Nauvoo, Ill., cover of 1844 and confirm, if possible, this story. And if any one, by supreme good fortune, should have in his collection 'King' Strang's original cover, with the faked black cancellation, I should say it was a real gem."

Mr. L. Hance Drummonds, New York, certainly is a model correspondent: "Congratulations on your picture of Ellis Parker Butler, which is a living tribute of the best kind for stamp collecting. I believe that you know that Clare Briggs, the cartoonist, was a collector who often brought his stamp knowledge into play in his pictures. I am enclosing a fine used copy of the current five dollar, the best one that I have seen, for you with my compliments." All that we can say is that man surely does like to scatter seeds of philatelic kindness. Yes, we know about Briggs; he was a member of one of the national stamp organizations at one time, if we remember right.

A new aspirant for philatelic favor comes from Georgetown, Demerara, British Guiana, which should not be without honor in its own country; and we feel that the British Guiana Philatelist will well uphold the high philatelic traditions of the colony. The editor says that now that stamps have been graduated into the class of government securities, it is fitting that philatelists be catered to and the question is asked if it is not time that British Guiana be given a change of design, as only twice in the history of the country have its stamps not borne the arms of the colony, and that was in the years 1850 and 1898, respectively. The type-set of 1862 do not count. The question of just how long it is reasonable to expect the people of a country to use stamps without change of design is one that may be considered in the light of governmental policy as well as philatelic practice. Conservativeness in this regard should not be carried too far, even though frequent changes, without justification of some kind, are not to be encouraged. The public needs the mental refreshment afforded by new stamps at decent intervals. How long a time should elapse between issues is open to argument, but it is usual that the more stable the people of a country are, the less demand there is for frequent change of issue.

Mr. F. G. Browne (whose father established the Dial) writes: "I enclose a bit of film which happened to come into my possession, showing a canceled U. S. stamp, just as it came is shown on the screen without mutilation. I have repeatedly seen reproductions of envelopes in the movies and cannot understand why movie people are allowed to reproduce our stamps without interference from the authorities. I thought the piece of film might interest you." Infractions such as these have been noticed by philatelic patrons of the silent drama, but occasionally one finds that the stamps have been blotted out. While printers and engravers generally are aware of the prohibition, it is evident that the average person has only vague ideas of the statute that forbids the picturing of our stamps in their entirety. For some time to come it is likely that we shall notice that the law is broken with seeming impunity by those ignorant of its existence, but it is fair to assume that occasionally the offenders are called on the carpet.

This is going to be a great success judging by the keenness of prospective Exhibitors in perfecting their Collections in readiness. It is however only at rare intervals at the breaking up of Famous Collections that certain blanks can be filled and that exceptional pieces are obtainable.

NEW U. S. ENVELOPES

Inquiry at most of the larger offices has shown that practically none of them are in a position to furnish the different varieties of the new unsurcharged 1½c brown envelopes. Many of the offices having revalued the 1c stamps have not found it necessary to stock the unsurcharged variety and as there is a possibility of Congress changing the postal rates in December, there is a resulting possibility of the 1½c envelope being discontinued.

For those interested in these varieties, I can furnish the 1½c brown on white in both die A and die H, the same on blue in die A and die H, on manila in die A and on the manila wrapper. The six varieties—all that I have seen or heard of so far at 50c for the lot. These will be mailed unused, entire.

Many have been looking for the manila variety for some time, for although it has been known for a few months, there are only one or two offices carrying them.

I am also in a position to furnish practically all of the revalued envelopes, for I believe I hold today the largest stock in philatelic hands. A little list of those varieties available will be gladly mailed upon request.

Rotary Prints, Flat Plate Varieties.

An inquiry has been received from Mr. J. J. Weightman asking for information as to how the stamps from the well known rotary press may be distinguished from those printed from the flat bed presses. As the question is one that puzzles many, a few remarks may throw light upon the subject. Plates for both presses are laid down in the same manner, but after they have been approved the plates for the flat bed presses are hardened in a flat condition. In the case of the plates for the rotary presses, these are curved before being hardened, so that two plates may be fitted together, forming a cylinder which revolves and in turn prints the so-called rotary stamps in continuous sheet form, the stamps being perforated, gummed, in some cases precanceled right on the same press.

In curving the rotary plates there is naturally a stretching, which in turn results in a larger stamp, so that we find the rotary stamps somewhat larger either horizontally or vertically than the flat plate stamps. Stamps from the flat plates measure approximately 18½ to 19mm wide by 22¼mm high, while impressions from the rotary press are either 19½ to 20mm wide or approximately 23mm high, depending upon whether the plates are for the sidewise or endwise coil, or whether they are for the sheets now being distributed in panes of one hundred. For the amateur the method of size is the better way to distinguish. For one who has handled a considerable number of stamps from the rotary press his eye becomes trained and he can tell from the inking as well as the depth of the lines whether the stamp is from the flat plate or the rotary. It is difficult to explain the difference in print, but the flat plate varieties are usually with thicker lines which stand out distinctly, whereas in the case of the rotary varieties the lines are thinner, the inking has a different appearance and there are quite often little lines or blotches through the plate.

While on the subject of the rotary press, it will come as news to many of our readers to learn that Mr. Benjamin F. Stickney, who invented the rotary presses now used at the Bureau, has again been employed as the mechanical expert and designer. He was dismissed in 1922 along with Director Wilmeth and others, and after an investigation was later taken back. Last spring he had resigned and only during this past month has he been re-employed. Many of the labor saving devices now being used at the Bureau are a result of his inventive genius.

SURPLUS ONE CENTERS

Many requests are being received in the Department from postmasters for authority to redeem small quantities of 1-cent stamps in coils and books, also 1-cent envelopes and newspaper wrappers, for which there has been a reduced demand under the new rates. The attention of postmasters is called to previous notices regarding the disposition of excess stocks of 1-cent stamps and envelopes, which have informed postmasters that redemption of such, if in salable condition, could not be authorized. These rules are still in effect and the department expects the full co-operation of postmasters in reducing excess stocks of 1-cent envelopes by affixing additional postage when unreasonably large quantities are not held. Where excessively large quantities of 1-cent envelopes are still on hand in a direct or central accounting post office, and it will be advantageous and practicable to revalue a portion thereof to 1½ cents, the postmaster may communicate with this office, stating the facts in the case, with the number of envelopes on hand and style of canceling machine available, if the office is equipped with an International Flyer or Universal model G machine. However, postmasters should not entirely exhaust their supply of 1-cent envelopes at this time pending further possible modifications in the rates.

Likewise, the department can not authorize the return of 1-cent coils and stamp books, pending possible increased demand later. Postmasters holding excess stocks of 1-cent coils and books may, if practicable, reduce the surplus by disposing of the stamps separately as ordinary stamps. In any event, a reasonable quantity of 1-cent books and coils should be retained to meet any later requirements. Credit for 1 cent each on stamp books and 3 cents on coils of 500 stamps (5 cents on coils of 1,000) should be claimed under Item E of the postmaster's next postage-stamp account when 1-cent stamps are removed from books and coils and sold separately at direct and central accounting post offices. An attested report, showing the number of 1-cent books and coils so sold, must accompany the quarterly stamp account in which credit for the book covers and coiling charge is made.

R. S. REGAR,
Third Assistant Postmaster General.

MONACO.—A new value of the 1925 series of postage due stamps has been issued. It is the 1c in olive green color. Whitfield King & Co. submits the stamp for chronicle.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—Mr. G. V. Stewart writes that the new printing of the 50c black on green, from Die 2 and on old CA paper, should turn out fairly well, as supplies of this value, with script watermark, have already been sent out to the colony by the Crown Agents.

SWEDEN.—Mr. R. Roberts and Whitfield King & Co. send the following new items of this country: Lion type, 5ö green, watermark wavy lines; 10ö purple, King Gustav type, 15ö rose, 20ö orange, 25ö blue, 30ö brown, all without watermark and all imperforate by perf. 10.

The stamp has the name of the country at the top with figures of value at each side while in the centre is the likeness of Rivera. At the base is "Centenario del Rincon" with "1825" in the left lower corner and "1925" in the lower right.

Francis T. Field, Ltd., write that an airpost commemorative in green of the value of 45c has been recently issued depicting an Indian on horseback on the rincon looking at an aeroplane flying towards him, with "Corroo Aero" in the clouds above the aeroplane. Enclosed in a frame with "45c" in each top corner and "1825"—"1925" in each bottom corner."

ZANZIBAR.—Mr. G. V. Stewart advises that he has been informed by the Postmaster of Zanzibar that a new series of stamps will be issued some time next year, comprising the following denominations: 1, 3, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 20, 25, 50 and 75 cents. The design is to be the latest photo of H. H. the Sultan, and it is understood that the stamps are to be printed by De La Rue & Co., Ltd.

Our first application this week comes from Robert M. Tribble of Seneca, S. C. Mr. Tribble is a member of the A. P. S., No. 6224, and specializes in United States stamps.

Our second application for membership in the Honor Club comes from Charles H. Eckman of Huntington, W. Va., and we are very pleased to enter him as one of the members of our Club.

From the city of Brotherly Love comes a communication with a remittance of $5 for a five years renewal of subscription, but the sender writes us:—"Please do not publish my name." This is a sincere tribute to the WEEKLY and one which we greatly appreciate.

I can supply almost any stamp in U. S., from 10c 1847 to date, priced according to the condition of each stamp—but neither can I nor any other dealer furnish every stamp in "super" superb, etc., etc., as some collectors seem to expect—and as they often write. I buy everything at ½ Scott! However—good stamps at fair prices!

WHY NOT WRITE ME!

FRANK POLLARD BROWN

15 Bosworth St. Boston, Mass.

NOTED IN PASSING:—

Charles K. Bumpus suggests that the P. O. Department issue a special stamp larger than the stamps in current use, and make a real national event of it. However, there seems to be a bit of sarcasm in Mr. Bumpus' suggestion, as he has in mind a stamp the style of Belgium 121, having Mr. Wilson's portrait in the center "flanked on either side by his two great war helpers, Josephus and Little Newton."

It seems unwise for us to take further space for and against the issue of a Wilson stamp. We are glad to recognize the interest of our subscribers in the matter, but it seems definitely settled that when a new stamp is necessary the picture of Ex-President Wilson will adorn the same. Clinton L. Chalfant sends us a summary of presidential stamps and expresses the belief that the U. S. should pay Mr. Wilson the honor of being shown upon its postage stamps.

J. E. Guest has begun the new volume of his "Sales Department News" with an enlarged sheet. It is a live contribution to the A. P. S. publicity work and anyone receiving a copy will be favorably impressed with the enterprise manifested by the A. P. S. Sales Superintendent.

A 1926 Year Book is being prepared by Wm. Butler, 137 Gillard Ave., Toronto, Canada. Mr. Butler is a member of the A. P. S. and the S. T. P. A. and is well qualified for the work that he has in hand, a proposed North American Philatelic Year Book. In the contents will be numerous illustrated articles, also lists of dealers, dealers in accessories, auctioneers, philatelic publications, stamp clubs and societies. Who can furnish Mr. Butler with information that will be useful to him?

Henry Trenka, 804 Courtland St., Union City, N. J., can get no replies to letters sent Boyd Blake, 2909 N. Bailey St., Philadelphia, Pa. Interested parties will please communicate with Mr. Trenka.

We are indebted to Cecil F. Blogg for a program of the Vancouver Philatelic Exhibition held Nov. 6 and 7. Much credit is due the British Columbia Philatelic Society for its zeal and enterprise in connection with this second annual exhibition.

We are indebted to Miss M. Gertrude McCann of the Burt McCann Co. of Minneapolis, Minn., for a tangible evidence of friendship. It consists of a jar of "real Minnesota honey" received from the McCann apiary, located thirty miles from Minneapolis and five miles from Minnetonka. Miss McCann states that between six and seven hundred pounds of comb honey were taken from six hives, and this looks like a pretty good showing. Many thanks for the courtesy.

so seldom see on the general run of covers with regular postage stamps.

The pmk. of "Fincastle, Va." has shown up on a Confederate cover with the printed inscription at top which leads one to believe that the mines with which Hampton Roads were "mined", may have been manufactured at that town. (This is a guess, and may draw out a few facts.)

Mr. Elliott Perry has sent in a choice lot of cancellations many of which are being drawn up for the Forum. Among them are the following on 3c '61's:—Purple star of fancy design, being in a brilliant color, possibly ultramarine and purple mixed. (Right here you may wonder at my color terms. Those which come in black I do not mention the color as a rule. Those that range from deep purple down to pinkish I call merely "purple", and "red" covers the others. When I say "blue" it covers a whole range of shades where the blue predominates.)

I have seen a case where a man asked another where he got the "black eye"? The proud (?) owner allowed it wasn't black but purple, and all the time it looked to me like green and a touch of yellow; so who can describe all colors in a few words?

Then Mr. Perry has another copy of the Boston "Man in the Moon" described in a previous Forum, tho so pretty it must be mentioned. A shield, and an odd star in a circle. Then come two star and crescents, one on a Black Jack, and other on a 6c Cont'l, differing somewhat. Other BJ's show a red PAID and the little reddish PD in a small rectangle, this being probably the French (paid to destination) mark. His Bank Note stamps show the "Little Angel" of Los Angeles, a Gothic "W" cut into cork; another odd "W" and a large "S" in blue, these two being possibly R. R. cancels.

Lastly is the much discussed "elephant" on a 10c '69. I have never yet seen one of these critters that was so clearly hit that it might be drawn for the Forum. If some kind reader will send in a few tons of elephants, it will help swell our menagerie considerably. We have a very nice lot of subjects for the zoo so far, yet this elephant, and certain other animals are minus, possibly there is a giraffe somewhere, and we are still shy of lizards and snakes. What have you to offer for our menagerie?

COVER DESIGN WANTED

Next January we shall publish a missionary number of the WEEKLY, and we desire a cover design that will be appropriate. We have many subscribers who are expert with pen and pencil and we invite them all to a friendly rivalry in originality and skill. The drawing if larger than a page of the WEEKLY should be made proportionately.

We offer for a first prize $25 and $10 will be given for all sketches that may be acceptable for cover designs. All drawings must be in our office by January 1, 1926, the earlier the better.

THE RUSSIAN KERENSKI STAMPS WITH UKRAINE OVERPRINT, 1919

By S. V. CHRAMTSCHENKO.

On August 8, 1919, after hard fighting against the Red Army, the town and railway centre of Schmerinka (Podolien), were taken by the Second Ukrainian infantry division (under General Tutuemyk) and the fifth Ukrainian Guards Division, and much booty seized. Thereupon the former Ukrainian administration was restored, and Schmerinka being the headquarters of the postal service for Podolia, a large quantity of Russian stamps of the so-called Kerenski series, 35 and 70 kopecs, was found there. As postage stamps were naturally needed, all these stamps received a black overprint of the Ukrainian national emblem, by authority of the Director of Posts, at Winniza (Type II, Podolia). About 100,000 Grywien or 50,000 roubles worth of these stamps were overprinted, that is to say 62,800 copies of the 35 kop, and 40,000 of the 70 kop.

These stamps were distributed throughout the postal district of Podolia, and in the course of one month were completely exhausted. Moreover, 320 sets of the two overprinted stamps were supplied to the Swiss Medical Mission with the Ukrainian Army by courtesy of the Postmaster of Schmerinka, and a few also to the French Military Mission.

Besides these stamps there were in circulation in the Bolshevik freed provinces of the Ukraine, various Ukrainian stamps of the 1918 issues, the Schagiv series, the 20 Grywien, as well as the vari-coloured series on glazed paper from 1 to 25 Grywien.

As regards the issue with different overprints of the Ukrainian arms, which appeared in 1918, the wide overprint on the Bolshevik stamps had been adopted by the Director of the Podolian postal district.

Meanwhile, a wider area had been liberated from the Bolsheviks by the Ukrainian army engaged in operations against the Red forces, namely, the whole of Podolia, the eastern part of Voldynia (the Western province being occupied by Polish troops), together with the whole of the government of Kieff to the boundaries of the administration of Ekaterinoslav, where Denekin's Volunteer Army held sway.

The supply of "Kerenski" stamps of 35 and 70 kopecs found in the recovered districts of Winniza, Kosiatye, Berdytschew, Schytomir, Fastew, Wassilkow, Biala Tkakow, Unrau, etc., were used without overprint owing to the neglectfulness of the officials.

What happened afterwards is unknown, for at this time the conflict between the Ukrainians and Denekin's Volunteer army broke out, as a result of which the centre of operations was transferred, in November, 1919, to the province of Kamenetz-Podolsk.—West End Philatelist.

OUR BOOK REVIEW

Zumstein & Co. of Berne, Switzerland, has sent us a review copy of their new 1926 catalog. It is a substantial volume of over 700 pages and when one considers that it treats only of the stamps of Europe the value of the book will be apparent. Several countries have been rewritten and re-arranged. This is especially true of Fiume and Sweden. The text of the book is printed in French and German in parallel columns, while the prices are in Swiss francs. The price of this catalog is $1.30 and it can doubtless be secured from some of the large stamp houses advertising in the WEEKLY.

JOHN K LANE

Several letters have been received from dealers abroad asking if John K. Lane, Box 581, Kane, Penn., is authorized to use the name of C. E. Severn in asking for approval selections. As Mr. Severn has no recollection of Mr. Lane we publish this disclaimer.

SUBSCRIPTION RENEWALS.

Some of our subscribers need to know our rule regarding discontinuances. We discontinue all subscriptions in arrears promptly the second issue of each month. STRAY NEWS ITEMS

Bright & Son informs us that there are two uncataloged varieties recently seen by them. The first is Malta, 1914, 1sh black on green with watermark sideways instead of upright. The second is Italy, 1901, 1 lire imperforate.

Philip H. Ward, Jr., will be very glad to answer in his department any inquiries regarding stamps and varieties of stamps of the U. S. from 1900 to date. This will supplement the work of Mr. Atherton and Dr. Evans.

We have a new stamp issuing country called Mongolia. The new Champion catalog pictures six varieties, 1, 2, 10, 20, 50c and $1. According to Stamp Collecting this country is under the jurisdiction of Bolshevik government and celebrated its fourth anniversary of independence in June.

We have received a letter from Mrs. Villiers Appleby, in which she expresses regret that the U. S. Government has abandoned the use of advertising slogans, and adds:—"Perhaps you can persuade Mr. A. H. Pike to take the matter up in Washington." Without a doubt the P. O. Department found itself compelled in sheer self-defense to confine activities in this direction to what might be called governmental cancellations. Mrs. Appleby secured an award of Honorable Mention for an exhibit of these cancellations at the recent Montreal Exhibition.

Frank Godden writes us as follows:—"I would like to take this opportunity of expressing my congratulations on the very able manner in which the prospectus of the New York Exhibition has been produced, and the thorough and fair way in which the classes have been divided and sub-divided."

W. L. Aldrich calls our attention to the fact that one of our advertisers Nov. 2 announced the catalog value of the $2 Wines, No. 4215, as being $5, but the Errata in the front part of the 1926 Catalog gives the corrected quotation of $2. Will our advertisers please note this?

Two designs have already been submitted in our cover competition. More are expected. It will be a good chance for our readers who have skill in the direction indicated. $25 for best design and $10 for any additional that may be accepted.

Wm. Hoffman is not opposed to recent U. S. commemoratives, but is opposed to their being precancelled. This, in correction of a recent statement made by us.

The Stamp Collectors Magazine has reserved a half page in our missionary number of Jan. 25, 1926. Mr. Bach writes, "4000 paid up subscribers and not counting society subs." Congratulations, Mr. Publisher.

THE WHARTON SINKLER COLLECTION OF UNITED STATES STAMPS

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

Heretofore, most of our larger collections have been well known to the philatelic public and their formation has been a matter of philatelic press comment. It will, therefore, come as a surprise to many to learn that within less than two years there has been formed one of the finest specialized collections of the general issues of the United States that has ever been gotten together. In the field which it covers, when choiceness of specimens is considered, I doubt if a finer lot has ever been accumulated. Up to this time there has not appeared a printed word referring to the collection or its owner, Mr. Wharton Sinkler of Philadelphia. As I have had the pleasure of gathering together possibly ninety percent of the specimens, I am in a position to describe some of the unusual items with their history.

Mr. Sinkler, now in his early forties, started collecting as a boy, but his interest was short lived. Early last year his own son "got the fever," which in turn rejuvenated the philatelic germ long dormant in the father. He started by purchasing a general collection along with a few rarities, but soon found out the hopelessness of his task and after consideration reached the conclusion of the great majority, and that is, that there was nothing finer to be collected than the good old issues of our own U. S. A.

He started his United States activities in May, 1924, at which time he acquired the Philip H. Ward, Jr., collection, which the owner had spent upward of twenty-five years in getting together. This contained single mint specimens of most of our issues, with the exception of some of the rarities, and in the case of mint blocks, had a good number of early issues with 1890 to date practically complete. In twentieth century it included all the rarities and many pieces that are unique. From that time to date Mr. Sinkler has acquired most of the choice pieces that have been offered either at auction or private sale. Having ample means to gratify his slightest wish he has not hesitated to enter the auction field against all comers and walk off with the choicest offerings. I had the pleasure of visiting Europe last fall in Mr. Sinkler's behalf and at the sale of the Sir Nicholas Waterhouse collection purchased not only the "rara avis," but most of the other choice mint items. The same remarks apply to the Dr. Carroll Chase sale. When the great Lozier collection was broken up I purchased upward of $60,000.00 worth of stamps—over half of the collection—and most of this purchase was added to the Sinkler holdings. When it is remembered that Mr. Lozier had the pick of the Worthington collection as well as other important offerings in the New York market during the last eight to ten years, some idea of the importance of the Sinkler collection will be appreciated. With an expenditure of upward of a third of a million dollars on the general issues only, a more detailed list of some of the important pieces will be appreciated. Mr. Sinkler has been most particular as to condition and as a result practically everything may be described as superb. He has sought the mint specimen, as a rule, in as many shades as obtainable, as well as mint blocks, the larger the better; supplementing this wonderful unused array we find exceptional covers in all of the early issues.

In the 1847 series we find the 5c represented by upward of a dozen mint specimens in as many shades. There is a superb o. g. block of six and the wonderful used block of eight with stitch watermark from the Waterhouse sale. There are several 10c, including a mint pair and a fine used block of four. There is a superb strip of four on a cover from Baltimore to San Francisco, besides other covers with pairs, singles and splits.

New Woodrow Wilson 17c Stamp

By PHILIP H. WARD JR.

It gives me great pleasure to be able to inform our readers that the Department has definitely decided to issue a new 17c stamp with portrait of Woodrow Wilson, the stamp to cover payment of postage plus registration on domestic letters. The Bureau of Engraving and Printing is working upon the die and it is expected that the stamp will be ready in time for issue during the early part of December but positively before the ex-President's birthday, the latter part of the same month. The Department is certainly to be commended for its final decision and we are glad to see that they have decided not to further delay the matter.

We started our efforts in behalf of such a stamp on the day that the late President died and we are glad to see that these efforts now bear fruit. We further believe that we were the first ones to suggest to the Postmaster General the desirability of a 17c stamp in this connection—calling his attention to the need of such a denomination.

H. F. COLMAN, 509 7th Street N. W., Washington, D. C.

TWO RECENTLY ISSUED STAMPS.

This 2c Federated Malay States is one of a set of five, all in the same design. Values 1, 2, 8, 10, 12c.

The 50st Bulgaria is in bronze on blue-green paper. Two other values, 10st and 15st, differ in design.

There are several sets of the reprints in shades, including a block of four of the 5c.

In the issue of 1851 we find particularly choice mint singles and blocks, as well as a number of fine covers, such as a superb horizontal strip of ten and block of ten of the 3c, several 12c splits from the Chase collection, etc. There are perfection unused copies of the imperforate 24c, 30c and 90c, the latter having boardwalk margins.

The mint 1857 lot is a sight to behold. Everything in blocks, including the rare type 10c in a block of four and block of nine, a block of twenty-four of the 12c, a block of four and of twelve of the 24c with plate number, as well as blocks of four and six of each of the 30c and 90c. His page of the 5c is one of the show pages of the collection, superb singles and blocks in the finest condition in several shades, including a block of four and six of the type I. There are some fine covers with the higher denominations, types of the 1c, strip of three 5c brick red, and a pair of the 3c imperf. between.

This is one of the few collections having the August, 1861, series complete, including a pair of the 90c imperforate. The September issue covers a number of pages and includes mint blocks and singles in profusion. In the grilled issues I doubt if his holding could be duplicated —mint blocks of the 3c grilled all over, of the 2c and 3c 12x14, a unique block of nine of the 12c "Z" grill, blocks of all of he 11x13 and 9x13 and many in shades.

His 1869 issues are certainly the finest lot of mint specimens in existence. All of the inverts, including one of the three known unused copies of the 30c — the finest of the three—two blocks of four and a block of 32 of the 1c, several of the 2c, an entire sheet and several blocks of the 3c, a block of four and magnificent block of ten of the 6c, mint blocks of nine of the 10c, the rare type 15c and 24c from the Worthington collection, a wonderful block of twenty of the 15c, a block of the 90c, all of the "without grill" varieties, as well as the re-issues and in normal single specimens there are dozens.

The Bank Note issues are a grand lot, complete in blocks with few exceptions, including the 24c block from the Worthington sale described as "Continental."

The special prints are there, including both the 2c Jackson and the 5c Taylor on the soft as well as the hard paper.

From 1890 on it is hard to recall an item that is missing. The inverts of 1901 are present in mint blocks of four and it must be remembered that there is only one other 2c block in existence. There is also a block of the 24c aeroplane invert. All of the late part perfs. are present, including the only known pair of the 1917 50c and one of the two known pairs of the 5c.

In the present issue Mr. Sinkler owns the only panes known of the 5c and 10c imperforate.

The booklet panes and coils are all there and this is saying something, for his 2c 1903 endwise and 3c 1910 sidewise are no doubt unique in strips of four.

Another page could be devoted to the department, but it is sufficient to say that he lacks but few blocks and includes a complete sheet of the $10.00 State. A fine lot of Newspaper and Postage Dues complete the collection.

NANKING PHILATELIC SOCIETY

The Nanking (China) Philatelic Society held its first meeting of the season on Monday, October 5th, at the home of Mr. J. d'Almedia, Acting Deputy Postal Commissioner for the Nanking district. A very excellent stag dinner was followed by a business meeting at which officers for the coming year were elected and a number of routine matters transacted.

The members were much interested in an item exhibited by Rev. L. S. Ruland, a copy of China, No. 192, $2 last issue, with center inverted. While browsing around in a minute stamp shop in the heart of the Shanghai native city in August, Mr. Ruland was shown this stamp with the center upside down. The dealer wanted $10 Mex. for it. A cursory examination revealed no defects except a small thin spot. Of course there was no way of telling at the time whether or not the item was genuine. After the usual price haggle the stamp was purchased for considerably less than the amount originally asked. Subsequent examination of the stamp proved it to be genuine, and it was also learned that there are in Shanghai six mint copies of the same error, one block of four being in the collection of a wealthy Chinese. As most of the dollar values are used principally for money orders, on which the stamps are cut in half with scissors, it is quite possible that the rest of the sheet or pane of the error were used in the regular way, the invert not being noticed. A quick glance at the stamp would not reveal the error. So far as is known Mr. Ruland possesses the only postally used copy which has come to light. The Nanking Philatelic Society will be glad to hear from anyone in the U. S. A., who has this $2 invert. It would be interesting to know just how many of them are in the hands of philatelists in addition to the seven known copies.

UNITED STATES "EDUCATORS"

Packet A.—30 varieties of U. S. postage only, all classified, including every issue from 1851 to 1890 inclusive, only $2.00
Packet B.—20 varieties of the hard-to-place Bank Note issues each one numbered according to Scott's catalog, 1871 to 1890 ..... $1.00
"Educator" Approvals contain almost all regularly issued stamps of the United States from 1847 to 1900. No stamp priced more than $5, most of them at big discounts from catalog prices. Sent only against references or deposit. [H

By H. P. Atherton, 318 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to United States postage stamps, 1847-1870 only. Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

The cancellation and postmark collecting is fast spreading to all countries throughout the world. Even in newspaper articles we find references to cancellations, while formerly it made a nice news item to merely chronicle the fact that a stamp had been sold for so many thousand dollars. A recent article mentions in particular the fact that a mammoth collection of the stamps of Great Britain show four entire volumes devoted to cancellations falling on the stamps of that country, yet from foreign ports.

The French Specialized Catalog is now listing and pricing their stamps with foreign cancellations, also stamps used by the army in Foreign Expeditions and maneuvers.

Collectors now save any foreign stamp with a cancellation that is beautiful, or if it comes from some country outside the territory named on the stamp. Many rejoice when they find a stamp of India with a Persian town pmk., or even one from Iraq or Mesopotamia. All collectors of Scandinavians are after the numerals which designate railroad wagons, and towns outside the country, and the colored numerals are choice bits seldom accumulated.

At the Canadian Exhibition was a specialized collection of the early issues of Venezuela, you know those little skinny stamps that look as if they were all counterfeits—till you spend a lot of time hunting up enough copies to study—well, Mr. K. N. Woodward had as tastefully arranged group of these stamps as one could wish. Among them one saw cancellations that were almost exactly like some of our own early cancels, especially the black numbers. He says that by diligent hunting you can scare up a lot of these stamps, that the country seems to be neglected and they are quite interesting; the leaves exhibited bore out his statement.

Too bad we cannot take cancellations of all countries into this Forum. Here is a letter from Mr. Jean J. Stehelin who seems to have had a lot of fun gathering cancels on the issues of Brazil dating from 1868 to 1878. He says here also are many obliterators not unlike some of our U. S. of that period, and you have probably noticed this to be quite true.

He says that from a large accumulation he sorted out the cancellations that pleased him many years ago, and that he is now glad he did, as they are surely interesting to look at, and to compare with our own. What could be prettier than a neatly struck brilliant purple design on the No. 66, the 200 reis black rouletted, they are sometimes met with, and the black with red or purple makes a fine item. So does Spain No. 1 and No. 6, and I'm told they are scarce as well as beautiful.

Mr. Franklin Meins sends in a carefully studied "Check List" of what to look for, and how to arrange, our early U. S. specialized, paying particular attention to the low values.

We find fourteen general divisions, ranging from, "A", Information about the stamps, to "N", Counterfeits and "Fakes". This is the most comprehensive Check Lists that I have ever seen, and under sub divisions there are more subjects than seem possible. With this list before you in running thro a lot of stamps, you could scarcely miss finding a number of items that you were without knowledge of previously, as it makes a wonderful guide.

I should like to see this entire Check List printed in the Weekly, and hope that it may be done, for it would help in arrangement of a collection, and help greatly in studying U. S.

We have with us a wonderful range of covers from Mr. H. C. Brooks. He says that some of them came from New England, and it is a shame to let them "get away". Listen to the gathering, many right out of my own bailiwick!

First a magnificent strip of three of the 1c 1851 issue, the stamp at left being a Type III, and the others Type IIIa, the cover so lightly pmkd. that it is illegible. It is a lemon color envelope, the stamps are deep rich blue, the ensemble makes your eyes go bluey, it is surely a "TNT" cover. Next is a very remarkable cover from Taunton, Mass. (green cancel mind you!) to Halle, Germany, and franked by a 3c and a 12c imperforate of the '51 issue. In addition is the red Aachen Franco in rectangle, and the "N. YORK 7 Am PKt. DEC 20 PAID" also in red falling lightly across both stamps, which have the additional green grids from Taunton. You could look at this cover every few minutes without ennui.

Another cover has strip of three of the 3c 1851's, each with "Gash over Button", and in addition a 1c '57 Type III style, a real nifty item. Then a 3c imperf. '57, claret printing on a cover made by a Cincinnati firm who exploit the gentle art of "Phonography" with stenographic characters all over the printed cover, these "words" being kept in place by a very ornamental frame composed of Gothic arches, Acanthus ornamentation, and the tops of each architectural column is crowned by a fantasy resembling a cuckoo clock. Very odd cover to gaze upon.

There are all kinds of Blood's Locals, some have 3c stamps in addition to the Locals, while others are used from and to Philadelphia without the U. S. Gov't stamp at all, just "Drops", or drop letters to speak correctly. You remember the big rectangular stamp which shows the man stepping over the cupola of the building with a sack of mail over his right shoulder, and a placard with the word "PAID" under his left arm, well he is here, and is a "steppin' pretty". A wee vermilion "sticker" on this cover reads, "By means of Blood & Co.'s City Despatch, removal circulars are delivered in quantities, at low rates".

A cover with that double lined octagon from Phila. reading "U. S. P. O. Dispatch Phila. Jun 2 8 AM." falling on the stamp has in addition this same pmk. out at the side in case you can't read it where it crosses the stamp, good idea. The 1c is a Type I, and "easy" to look at.

From the town of McIndoe's Falls, Vt.,

CHAS. J. PHILLIPS AT BUFFALO

The Buffalo Stamp Club was honored Friday evening, November 6th, by having Charles J. Phillips, of New York, as a speaker on, "Rare Stamps of the World." Mr. Phillips bubbled with reminiscences that would appeal to any stamp collector and his audience gave him close attention, and much applause throughout. As he told of his experiences in selling to Ferrari, King George and others of the great collectors of the world he made most of the Buffalo collectors realize more than ever before that their hobby is more than a boy's pastime—it is a science and a study indulged in by many of the most prominent men.

Mr. Phillips showed a portion of his wonderful collection of United States departmental stamps and the buffalo specialists were in complete agreement with him in what he had to say about the future of specialized items of any United States stamps.

The speaker said he could not understand why more United States collectors had not gone seriously into specialization of plate and paper items and other minor varieties. He stated that in his opinion many of these things were not only the most interesting factors in philately but also offered the most substantial return to the serious minded philatelists.

Plate varieties, he claimed, are the most important of all minor varieties. He mentioned various types found on the three cent post office, some five or six types in all, a number of re-entries (shifted transfers) to be found on various issues and denominations of the departmentals and other interesting things, such as retouched corners, and scratched plates.

He spoke of the various papers to be found, the ribbed papers of the Continental printings, the hard paper printings of the American Bank Note Company, and others which are not well known by the average collector and which have much greater value than ordinary papers.

Speaking as he did of the departmentals, which were entirely the product of the Bank Note companies, which were printed at the same time and in the same shops with the postage adhesives of the Bank Note issues, Mr. Phillips' talk and demonstration was a most convincing exemplification of the almost untouched possibilities of the United States printings from 1870 to 1890 or thereabouts.

The speaker advised collectors to study and specialize in the cheaper stamps of these issues — the lower denominations which were printed in the greatest quantities and from the greatest number of plates and various kinds of paper and ink and therefore have the largest number of plate flaws and of varieties of shades and paper. Any of them are worthwhile and exceedingly cheap at present day prices, he said.

Especially interesting to the cancellation collector was Mr. Phillips' showing of Fort and Army cancellations on the War departments and of the famous kicking mule. Naturally, fort cancellations are much commoner, relatively speaking, on the War departments than on ordinary postage stamps of the same issues and collectors of forts on postage adhesives therefore had an opportunity of seeing fort cancellations they had never heard of before.

Mr. Phillips was entertained at luncheon by Warner Bates, a former president of the Buffalo Stamp Club, and in the evening he dined with Adolph Steeg, who is now president, and the following other members: M. W. Bennett, Harry Flier, Ted Gundlach, Roscoe Martin, Dick Townsend, Warner Bates, and F. J. Sleght.

Among the out-of-town members of the club who were on hand to hear Mr. Phillips in the evening were John Schaffer of Hamburg, LeRoy Brown of Olean and Messrs. Leaworthy of Dunkirk and Fedders of LaSalle.

WE NOTE THAT:—

THE Marks Stamp Co., 462 Spadina Av., Toronto 2, Canada (and not 562 Spadina Av., as advertised by mistake October 26th and November 2nd), has just issued a very large wholesale and retail pricelist. The advertisement of the firm elsewhere in this issue covers the list in question and doubtless a large number of our subscribers will avail themselves of the privilege of buying this catalog, which will be ready for mailing on November 15th.

THE firm of G. F. Rapkin, 151 Goswell Road, London, England, has issued a large revised pricelist of 48 pages describing and pricing a very fine line of philatelic accessories. A copy may be obtained upon request.

WE are indebted to the Economist Stamp Co., for a program of the I. P. E., at N. Y., next October. Anyone interested can doubtless procure a copy from the secretary, Chas. M. Ams, 101 Park Ave., N. Y. City.

A competitive stamp collecting essay contest has been inaugurated by the Philatelic Section of the Maryland Academy of Sciences. The subject of the essays will be, "How does Stamp Collecting help a Student in his Studies, and What are the Advantages to be Gained from Stamp Collecting?" Three prizes have been offered by Major Guy W. A. Camp, and entries may be sent to C. Lat. Wilhelm, 105 W. Franklin St., Baltimore, Maryland.

IN Adlets this week will be found the advertisement of Edmund L. Smiley, now located at Baldwinsville, Mass. Mr. Smiley will be remembered as Boston correspondent for the WEEKLY more than a quarter of a century ago, when the paper was published in St. Louis. He was with the New England Stamp Co. for a while.

SEVERAL of our readers have sent us a clipping, an editorial from the Pittsburgh Post "Philately as a Mania". The article is based upon the King George purchase of the 4d British stamp with gum on the printed side, and it cautions its readers that "stamp collecting, one of the most fascinating of hobbies, is prone to addle the brains of its devotees." This certainly is serious.

FRANCIS WHEELER asks us a question which we turn over to our readers:—"The 2c reds 1893 and 1903 when placed in water to remove paper from the backs give indications of the color running. Is there anything one can do to set the color?"

EDITORIAL.

The newspapers have announced that Postmaster New hopes to have a new stamp on sale bearing the portrait of President Wilson, by the time of Wilson's birthday in December. The denomination will be either thirteen or seventeen cents and incidentally it is said that Woodrow Wilson considered 13 his lucky number.

Alert advertisers are not overlooking the effectiveness that is loaned announcements by the picturing of covers bearing foreign stamps. While collectors are impressed instantly by a sight of a stamp that is out of the ordinary, it is fair to assume that the public is not unresponsive to the appeal of what to it are strange and unusual postal labels. This angle to his publicity will be recognized by the advertiser who is always pondering how to give his trade notices a striking and distinctive cast. In an illustrated circular issued by The Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc., we find a double page illustration of a sheaf of covers from different climes, with the text: "The eighty original articles, especially written for this remarkable book, came from many lands and in many languages. In 'These Eventful Years' they cover 1,400 pages and are illustrated by 160 full page plates and numerous maps."

If one were ever safe in making sanguine predictions for philately, the present is the appointed time to pose as a Pollyanna. From all quarters of the globe come reports of the present flourishing estate of our pursuit and an unfailing index of the increase of interest in philately is found in the great addition to the number of local stamp societies. The schools are making a showing in this respect and the higher institutions of learning are represented by new organizations of collectors. It would be interesting indeed, if a resumé of philatelic activities in the great universities, such as we have received recently from Professor Frank E. Robbins of Ann Arbor, Michigan, could be presented to readers. As showing the far flung reaches of collecting, we learn from a letter just at hand from Professor Franklin P. Metcalf of Fukien Christian University of Foochow, China, that he intends to organize a stamp club in the university. Further point is given to any happy prophecy by the statement made by a wholesale dealer to the effect that he thought that he had replenished his stock during the summer to an extent that would carry him through the season, but he says that the indications are that he will be sold out in the course of the next few months.

The following communication has been received from Mr. Eugene Klein of Philadelphia: "On the evening of October 21st, members of the Philadelphia Forum gave an enthusiastic reception to Commander John Rodgers and Lieutenant B. A. Connell, of the P N 9 No. 1, at the Academy of Music. The two men spoke of their experiences in their attempt to fly from San Francisco to Hawaii. Much interest was evinced in the details of the men's experiences in which the 'flying fish' episode caused much hilarity. After the addresses questions from the audience were invited. One of the questions was: 'Was there any mail carried on either the P N 9-1 or P N 9-3 airplanes leaving for Hawaii from San Francisco?' Commander Rodgers answered: 'Yes.' I carried several letters in my pocket, one to the Governor of Hawaii, another to the Commandant. A relative at San Francisco came to me and asked whether I would take a letter from her. I said that I would and instead of handing me one letter, she gave me a whole package of them which I put in my pocket and took with me to Hawaii. We had to leave behind a mailbag filled with letters, as it was too heavy. These were mostly from stamp collectors."

We are reminded that "Flying," the aeronautical monthly, New York, sent out a batch of covers, marking the first use of the sixteen cent airplane, July 15, 1918, to advertisers and others, with the letter enclosed, from which we take several paragraphs: "This letter is stamped with the new 16 cent aerial mail stamp, and being the first mail carried by aeroplane showing this stamp, the envelope containing this stamp will soon be worth a good deal. On July 6th last at the estate of Mr. Mortimer L. Schiff, Oyster Bay, N. Y., three envelopes sent by aerial mail from the offices of the Aerial League of America were sold at auction for ten thousand dollars." If we are not misled, the record price named was due in great measure to the philanthropic impulses of the bidders as the proceeds from the sale were to be devoted to a fund for the prosecution of the war.

In the "Literary Digest" for November 7, 1925, the heading, "Postage Stamps as a National Commodity," attracts attention to a column of interesting philatelic observations which will be read by the members of the huge Literary Digest family. It would be passing strange if among the hundreds of thousands who read the details, there would not be some hundreds of readers whose curiosity would be aroused by this moving and masterful philately whose influence nations as well as individuals, acknowledge.

The London Observer is quoted on the subject of the issue of Turkey that is being given so much newspaper advertising and the Ottoman Empire is credited with almost ennobling motives in wanting stamps of a character to emphasize the dignity of Turkey as a nation. Innocently, the comment is made "that while many of the new stamps will undoubtedly find their way into albums, far more will be used for correspondence." Turkey is dismissed with a few admonitory pats and little Portugal is haled before the judge who sentences it to the term of king of the stamp spongers. To quote the Observer: "For an example of what countries will do in issuing stamps of an unwanted or speculative character, one must take Portugal rather than Turkey. Two years ago, Portugal began operations with an issue of a series of sixteen different values, commemorating the flight of Portuguese aviators across the Atlantic. Last year, in a similar way, but with double the number of values, the poet Camoens was commemorated. Early this year another new issue was produced and again with more than thirty different values. This time it was for the centenary of the novelist, Branco. Next came a series of four special stamps commemorating the deeds of Portuguese troops in the Great War. More recently still there has been an issue, in sixty-six

l that it was not even hinted that there

We are not through with the London Observer until the following sensible and cinct statement is copied: "With the id growth of stamp collecting, it is rdly surprising that the postal authori- of various countries should take into ount the activities of stamp collectors. the same time, it is generally regarded t a postage stamp is a symbol of na- al dignity, and that any prostitution purely speculative purposes can only er a country's prestige." This is a sonable finding that should be accepted fitting the case. The country that sists in submerging the philatelic and unting the pecuniary will lose collect- respect and each succeeding specula- issue will further attenuate the in- st of collecting adherents until finally, point of negation may be reached. e postage stamp really is a country's passador and when there is a constant cession of new faces that are for or- ment rather than use, the collector in- sibly loses his interest in all the stamps that country, in many cases. It must admitted, however, that a collector e and there professes to see nothing ong in a country's multiplicity of issues.

That's not a very long list and probably it will grow rapidly. I have no doubt that a number of collectors could double it. It's likely that most of the older cancellations continued to be used during this period, and there must have been many additions in these ten years for many new railroads were constructed and, of course, they all carried mails. No doubt the postal clerks received many letters for transmission, that were handed to them on the trains and never went into the Post Office at the place of their origin. That could be done then and can yet, and I knew once a fourth class Post Office where some people had a grievance against the postmaster and never mailed a letter at his Office. Every time they took their letters to the station and left them with the Agent or handed them to the Postal Clerk they prevented Mr. Postmaster from adding to his commission 40% of 3c, or whatever amount of postage they put on their letters. Maybe they wrote two or three letters a month, so their spite was expensive. Well, they helped us by causing R. P. O. and Agt. postmarks to be placed on their letters. Maybe they had a place in the world after all, though it would perhaps have been hard to convince the postmaster that this was so.

A short time ago Mr. Atherton described what at first seemed to me to be a most peculiar cancellation used at Putnam, Conn., and consisting of the Hebrew word, "Jehovah" in a long ellipse. One of these came into my possession not long ago, and mystified me, because I could not understand why anyone should use such a device to cancel U. S. stamps. Of course I had no idea what the word was when I first saw it and had to call upon a Hebrew friend to enlighten me. He recognized it immediately but was at as much loss as I to understand the reason for its use. For several weeks I pondered over it. Couldn't forget it. It bothered me. And then one night the solution came like a flash, and almost by accident. I went to a meeting of my Commandery, and there it was, illuminated above the seat of the presiding officer. I had seen it dozens of times before and never been interested enough in its significance to inquire about it, but when I saw it that time it impressed itself upon my mind most forcibly. My guess now about this cancellation is that the Postmaster who used it was a Knight Templar and that it is to be classed as a Masonic cancellation. Who will find out whether or not my guess is correct?

And speaking of Masonic cancellations, reminds me that there are some going the rounds that are called Masonic, which are not what they are called. Of course, when you find a square and compasses, with or without a letter G in the center there is no doubt. But when someone says that a double X is a Masonic emblem he is calling upon his imagination. XX isn't a Masonic cancellation so don't put it into your collection labelled as such. This is found in black, blue, and red surrounded by a circle. It has also been cut in a cork and the design then appears in white or whatever color the envelope is, but it's not a Masonic emblem in either case.

And all the Masonic cancellations going the rounds are not genuine. A few years ago there were on the market some large ones showing the square and compasses with the G on 3c green stamps, in green ink which had been placed there after the stamps had been removed from their original covers, by some one who was unscrupulous. Some of these showed light traces of black cancellations and some of them were put upon "duds." The ink was not such as was in use in the '70's and it struck through the paper. Once seen it is easily recognized. If you own one transfer it to your "counterfeit" pages.

Of course this is not the only counterfeit cancellation that has been offered to collectors. There are quite a number of them, but most of these are betrayed by the kind of ink used to produce them, and after a little practice can easily be detected.

We have drifted away from our text. Let's have those lists of R. R., R. P. O., and Agt. postmarks.

UNITED STATES ISSUES

During the last eighteen months, it has been my pleasure to furnish possibly 90% of one of the finest mint collections of the general issues of the United States ever gotten together. When compared in value with other collections of general United States issues figuring at the prices at which the several collections were sold, this is larger in value than the Worthington, over twice as large as the Duveen United States and four times as large as the Waterhouse.

During the same period, I have added to hundreds of other collections.

If you have a want list large or small, may I be favored — I carry at all times a substantial stock of superb United States to select from and if your requirements are not on hand, I will offer them when obtainable. My main activities are devoted to the general issues and Departments, as I feel there are no better stamps today from the point of interest or investment than these issues. I do not include Postmasters with this stock, feeling that in the collecting of these, a larger investment is necessary with little return when the collector finally decides to sell.

Am always in the market for anything fine in the issues that I stock and solicit the opportunity of purchasing collections, stocks and rare items.

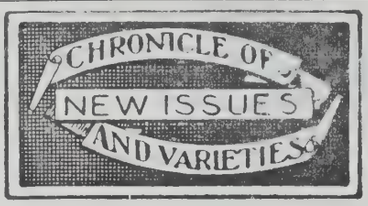
THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL



A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

1½c Rotary Stamp in Color of 4c.

Some time back, rumors were current in Washington that the Bureau of Engraving & Printing had made an error and that the 1½c rotary print postage stamp had appeared in the color of the 4c. The two varieties have run so close together in shade, that it was difficult to say as to whether this was the case or not—hence, the matter was taken up direct with the Bureau.

Under date of November 7th, Mr. A. H. Hall, the Director, kindly advises as follows:

"The facts are, the ink used on both the 1½c and 4c stamps was of the same kind and color, but variations did occur because of the difference in plates, and some slight difference in the character of the pigment."

So far, I have seen two or three very distinct shades of both denominations including what was supposed to have been the error block, which nevertheless is a scarce shade even if it cannot be considered an error of color.

2c Black Harding

Mr. William Peery has submitted for inspection a block of eight of the 2c Harding stamp, wherein on one stamp the side and back of the Harding neck has what appears to be much heavier shading. It is possibly due to something adhering to the plate which resulted in the plate taking more ink and produces the oddity in question. Mr. Peery is not aware as to what plate the variety came from, otherwise, we would endeavor to check it up and see whether the oddity would appear constantly or only in the case of this copy.

Air Mail Notes

Under date of November 7th the Postmaster General signed contracts with private corporations and individuals:—

CEYLON.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the , script watermark, on pale yellow per.

CHINA.—Under date of October 14th t, Mr. E. C. Young writes the follow- very interesting information, regard- the 3c on 4c, a copy of which he has th inverted surcharge:

NORMAL INVERTED

"I send you herewith photograph of an teresting item for the WEEKLY chron- . I can give you very little informa- n: a local 'peddler' dealer showed me pair of them and I bought one at a ce which indicated that he thought y were pretty good property. A month elapsed and so far I have accounted only five or six copies here in Peking, I have not heard of it from other rces. Of course at least 200 must e existed, as this is the size of the et, but my peddler-dealer friend says t he bought it from a man who bought it direct from the office, having purchased four stamps only; if this is the case it is quite likely that most of the sheet is lost to collectors. The overprints have been in plentiful use for nearly a year and excite no interest now.

"I might say relative to both of the recent China surcharges that they are absolutely clean philatelically. Early in 1923, an attempt was made to raise the domestic letter rate to four cents, and expecting this change to get across, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing (which is a semi-government institution only, but produces all the postage and revenue stamps) overprinted great quantities of the three cent green with the large numeral 2 and an appropriate inscription. The characters read 'chan tso er fen'—'temporary serve two cents'. Note the similarity to the surcharges of 1897. It was expected of course that they would be used in pairs to make the four cent rate, as there would be little use for the three cent value, and the two cent denomination is the least used of all of the low value stamps. However, this change was so vigorously protested that the order was withdrawn after about ten or fifteen days, leaving (as I have been told) a hundred million of the overprints to be used up as two's. They are still to be found in most offices. At the same time production was speeded on the grey fours, and a big supply piled up, including booklet sheets, and as a result of the slow movement of this stock came the second provisional, 3c on 4c, similar except for the smaller figure and changed Chinese numeral. These come in both the booklet sheets made up of four panes 10x3 with spacers between, also in the regulation sheets of two hundred, divided by guide lines into 10x5 panes to fit the wax paper storage books used on the office counters. The notice on these 3 on 4 stamps said that 'a few were to be overprinted,' but here eleven months later they are still going strong.

On October first the double foreign letter rate was increased from fifteen to sixteen cents, and November first the domestic rate is also to be raised. It is not possible to guess whether the four cent rate will go this time or not, but it probably will. Not at all improbable that there will be other provisionals—perhaps a 2c on 3c in the new type.

ECUADOR.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise of the issuance of the 2c stamp with the likeness of Noboa in violet. Also the 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c and 10c of the 1915-17 series have been issued with the surcharge "Oficial" diagonally in black.

FEDERATED MALAY STATES.—Mr. G. V. Stewart informs us that the new postage due stamps have been surcharged "Specimen" in small block capitals, the 1c, 2c and 12c being overprinted in red, and the 8c and 10c in black.

HONG KONG.—Mr. R. Roberts and Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the postage due set on script watermarked paper single broken line frame round the sheet.

ITALY.—Whitfield King & Co. send for chronicle the 55c dull purple, with the surcharge "Cent. 30" in black.

KENYA AND UGANDA.—Whitfield King & Co. send us copies of the 12c, both the first and second printing. We note the second printing is a softer black and not so decided a color as the first printing.

NYASALAND.—Whitfield King & Co. and Mr. R. Roberts submit copies of the 1½p orange, type as before, on script watermarked paper. This is a new denomination for this colony.

SIAM.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 10s, in the design of the Air Mail series. The color is grey with the winged figure in orange.

SPAIN.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us copies of the 5c purple and 15c bluegreen, both in the engraved type, Scott's A49.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—Whitfield King & Co. and Mr. R. Roberts call our attention to the new set of postage due stamps which are the same type as the British Honduras dues, script watermark. The colors are 2c black, 8c red, 10c orange and 12c blue.

SEVERAL IMPORTANT ERRORS OCCUR IN RECENT ISSUES OF INDIA AND KUWAIT.

THE NUMBERS DISCOVERED WERE SMALL AND THESE ARE CLOSELY HELD.

HOWEVER, I HAVE OBTAINED A FEW SETS AND OFFER THEM AS GILT-EDGED INVESTMENTS.

WHEN THE NUMBERS IN EXISTENCE ARE COMPARED WITH THOSE OF SUCH ISSUES AS THE CYPRUS, MALTA AND ST. KITTS - NEVIS RARITIES, THEIR CHEAPNESS IS READILY APPARENT.

THEY ARE CHEAP NOW—IN A YEAR OR TWO THEY WILL BE PRACTICALLY UNOBTAINABLE.

MOUNTED SET APPROVAL SERVICE

All through last spring and summer we were all busy, my office force and myself, mounting our stock of sets on Special Set Sheets, a set to a sheet, and we now have something over 500 sets of attractive stamps all ready to send out, and prices include not only the usual popular sets, but we have spent weeks of time going through our stock books (yes, we have over seventy different books of forty pages each and ten rows to a page all filled with stamps) and made up sets from these books that do not ordinarily appear in offered sets. Of course, we have singles, too, literally, thousands of them, all mounted up in books by countries. We are not dealers in rarities, but we unhesitatingly claim that we have one of the very largest stocks of medium priced stamps in this country. Are you from Missouri? Let us show you a selection—try us out on some sets you want—a few of our many are priced below.

Mr. Reimers, under whose supervision each selection is prepared, began his philatelic activities in 1890. His membership number in that veteran association, the American Philatelic Society, is No. 88. Having been a collector himself, he knows what the average collectors want; he knows that they appreciate fair prices, prompt, courteous treatment, and year-round dependability.

We invite your patronage of our Approval Service and promise a hearty, co-operative, "get-together" spirit.

Whether your collection numbers 2000 or 20,000 varieties, come to us for what you want! For your convenience—

Eugen Sekula, "Villa Heimeli" Lucerne, Switzerland

HERE AND THERE:—

J. J. Prendergast, renewing his subscription, sends us a postmark error "Aurora, LLI." It is under date of January 14, 1925.

We heartily recommend the "Philatelic Magazine," 46 Victoria St., London, S. W. 1, England, as an excellent publication. It is gotten out by Harris Publications, Ltd., and a sample copy will be sent upon request. It is published fortnightly, is handsomely printed, with contents bright and newsy. Quite recently a news item appeared in the WEEKLY giving credit to another British stamp magazine for an item relating to the new Turkish stamps. In our issue of November 2nd, however, we reprinted the original article in full and gave proper credit to the "Philatelic Magazine," which publication is heartily commended to our readers.

Those who have noticed the purchases made by Philip H. Ward, Jr., at recent auction sales must have wondered in whose collection the rarities purchased were finding a lodgment. The secret is out. His article on the Sinkler Collection indicates that the famous Hind Collection must have a notable rival. The big things in this great collection place it in the very forefront of valuable possessions.

E. M. Oleson, formerly president of the Rotnem Stamp Co., Minneapolis, Minn., is no longer connected with that corporation. He resigned August 1st, and is now starting a stamp business of his own, as will be noted elsewhere in this issue. Mr. Oleson is a member of the Collectors Club, A. P. S., and other stamp societies and is also Secretary-Treasurer of the Twin Cities Stamp Society. His stock will especially appeal to the collector of 19th century issues.

Harmer, Rooke & Co., is receiving a great deal of publicity in the British press through offering for sale the postage stamp collection formerly the property of the late Czar of Russia. This collection consists of 1,271 essays and proofs, many signed by the artists, and prepared for the late Czar at a cost of many thousands of dollars. The firm has instructions to sell this collection either privately or by auction and American dealers are no doubt being considered in this matter.

comes a bright blue Patriotic Cover with the head of Maj. Gen. M'Clellan, and for stamps a wonderfully fine strip of three 1c '61's do the carrying, each stamp being canceled with a large "PAID". This is a magnificent item. Two other "Patriotics" are mailed with 3c 1861, stamps, one showing "CAMP SCENE" in bronze "From Photograph". You have probably seen some of those "Brady" photos of Civil War times where the subject grasps his sword firmly in his left hand, places right hand on artificial tree stump, and dares the photographer to do his worst. This is one of 'em, posted from Washington, D. C., Oct. 18, 1862 Then there is the "Bone of Contention" cover where the big dog with "SCOTT" on his collar asks the little dog with "JEFF" on his collar, "Why don't you take it?", the bone being labeled Washington. From Elizabeth, N. J., is a Heart lined as a gridiron is, mailed Feb. 29th, and a reminder of Valentine Day. A cover bearing a Black Jack is so carefully grilled that one may determine from the face that it surely is an "11x13", this is pmkd. from Philadelphia, "CARRIER MAY 29 1ST." These Carrier marks come invariably from Philadelphia.

A rare cover bears both the Canadian 10c red lilac of '59 and a 3c '61 of the U. S. A. The two stamps are so lightly pmkd. that I am not sure of the town tho it is dated "Ap 17 1866" and from "U. C."—Upper Canada. This is paid thro the lines, and is one of the very few that I have ever seen coming from Canada. Back in the early '50's we see covers to Canada paid thro the lines, and while they are considered as rarities, believe this to be far less common.

On a 3c green cover is "SPRING LAKE N. J. JUL 31 1880" in a powerful crimson, while attached to the pmk. is the "killer" reading "BEACH HOUSE SEA GIRT N. J." in a smaller ring with a clean cut 5 point solid star. It is magnificent. Others read, "SAGG. SUFFOLK CO., N. Y. AUG 31 188-" on 3c green, hit in purple. Cover with 1c Cont'l and 2c vermilion hit by a purple "LONG BRANCH N. J. NOV 24 7 AM". On 2c red browns are "HAMPTON Nov 23 1883 HENRY CO., GA." in blue ellipse; another is "PORTIA, ARK. FRANK DECKER, P.M. MAY 5 1884".

This is a most interesting exhibit of covers, and am sorry that they cannot be passed around among you for you to take a good look at. You had best keep hunting for old covers, and if your hunting brings you to New England, it is still our "Open Season". Good luck to you.

COVER DESIGN WANTED

Next January we shall publish a missionary number of the WEEKLY, and we desire a cover design that will be appropriate. We have many subscribers who are expert with pen and pencil and we invite them all to a friendly rivalry in originality and skill. The drawing if larger than a page of the WEEKLY should be made proportionately.

We offer for a first prize $25 and $10 will be given for all sketches that may be acceptable for cover designs. All drawings must be in our office by January 1, 1926, the earlier the better.

DO YOU KNOW

That over 3,000,000 letters yearly are not delivered owing to incorrect or insufficient address. It could be greatly relieved if every letter writer used the stationary with his name and address printed on. Consider this matter seriously and take the advantage of my offer, which is as follows: For only $1.50 I will print 200 6x9 letterheads and 100 envelopes with your name and address and ship them to you postpaid. You pay more for blank paper. Don't lay this aside, but send your order right away.

HEAR YE:

The program of the International Philatelic Exhibition, New York, under the auspices of the Association for Stamp Exhibitions, Inc., October 16th to October 23, 1926, to be held in the Grand Central Palace, New York, has been received and will be given attention later. We congratulate the committee on its forehandedness in getting out the prospectus in ample time.

The third edition of the U. S. Specialized catalogue has made its appearance and deepens the impression that previous editions have made on collectors of U. S. Each succeeding issue shows a more amplified and intensive treatment of our issues and an increasing number of U. S. partizans are depending on this work for information and inspiration.

Life says: "The least Philadelphia could do to speed the departure of General Smedley D. Butler would be to issue a sesquicentennial stamp to commemorate the first declaration of: we have the bootleggers on the run."

Ten thousand envelopes received from the states adjoining Illinois during the month of July, 1925, yielded eight of the 2c Norse-American, apportioned thus by states: Minnesota, 4; Wisconsin, 2; Iowa, 1; and Eugene, Oregon, 1. Thus spake our statistician.

In the "Hit or Miss" column of the Chicago Daily News, the following dirty dig is found: "Woodrow Wilson's portrait is to be placed on a 13 cent or a 17 cent stamp. For quiet recognition without vulgar publicity this is comparable to a membership in the American Academy of Arts and Letters."

We noticed that in a recent auction sale, held by Chas. S. Thompson, Los Angeles, the 7c State, red cancellation, which is listed at $5 was started at $8 and sold for $12.

The Dearborn Independent knows a thing or two as is proved by the following unqualified statement in a recent issue: "Stamps from various countries bear pictures of birds, animals and fishes, but the tiger and elephant appear most frequently."

OLLA PODRIDA

A contribution appeared in the Dearborn Independent August 8, entitled, "Lunatics, by One of Them." The article is a friendly one, as seen by the sub-heading, "Showing How Collectors May have Much Method Beneath their Madness," by Wm. C. Richards, and is written in a very attractive manner. K. J. Shepard, who sends in this article, wants more news in the WEEKLY about U. S. stamps. With three departments given to the various issues of the U. S. it would seem as though a goodly proportion of our space is now being devoted to our stamps.

Canada is about to issue a new set of stamps. Three values are underway and more are expected. The designs will consist of portraits, Sir Wilfred Laurier and Sir John MacDonald being two of the subjects.

For nearly a month the British customs officers at Newhaven held up forty gold and silver Paris Exhibition medals to determine the tax that should be laid upon the bits of silk upon which the medals rested in their plush cases. A tax of 50c was probably levied.

The 14th and final Ferrary sale will be held at Paris, Nov. 25-27.

Harry E. Huber is a regular contributor to the British philatelic press. His work in this paper has been favorably commented upon.

The Royal Philatelic Society of London moves into new quarters Nov. 25 and the event will be observed by a public exhibition Nov. 25-27.

The year book of the S. P. A. for 1926 has just appeared, R. C. Bach publisher. Copies may be obtained for $1 each from Mr. Bach, at 82 Nassau St., N. Y. City. The list of members with addresses is the most useful feature of the book.

If you are considering entering an exhibit at New York next October write Chas. M. Ams, 101 Park Av., N. Y. City, for a prospectus describing the various classes.

REVENUE NOTES

By FRANK L. APPLEGATE.

More About the Hyphen-Holes.—My paragraphs in the WEEKLY of June 22nd, called up the information that Mr. Franklin S. Smith of Jersey City has the ⅜ cent used with dated cancellation by sixteen different firms, the earliest date being the cancellation of J Weyth & Bro. of Philadelphia, October 26, 1900. These facts do not refute their scarcity, however, as Mr. Smith doubtless has the finest collection extant of printed, hand-stamped, typewritten and other cancellations on the 1898-1900 Proprietaries. He has absorbed nearly all the notable collections of these stamps, including that of the renowned Clarence H. Eagle.

Other collectors have written one of the difficulties they have experienced in rounding up several varieties of the hyphen-holes.

Georgia.—The Georgia cigarette and cigar stamps first issued on January 1, 1924, are beginning to come in new colors. I have seen the 1 cent in violet and the one and one-half in green.

Arkansas.—The new Arkansas stamps were out early in July. All are 33x21 mm. roulette 9½ and lithographed by the zinc plate process, "ARKANSAS" at top, value in large circle in center flanked on either side by a triangular floral piece in the cigarette values and by a bear rampant on the cigar stamps reminiscent of the St. Louis provisionals. The colored lines of rouletting are like the old Thurn and Taxis postage stamps, but run horizontally only—plain roulette vertically on all values. The colored lines approximate the color of the stamps except on the 18¾ cent cigar stamp in which they are pale gray on the specimens seen.

Cigarettes:—

1c dark blue.	4c green.
2c maroon.	4 4/5c violet.
2 2/5c carmine.

Cigars:—

12½c yellow.	37½c brick red.
25c dark red-brown.

The cigarette stamps come in sheets of 50 imperforate on outer margin with plate number or perhaps sheet number. The cigar stamps all in sheets of 12 only, two vertical rows of six, hence all are imperforate on one or two sides.

North Dakota.—The North Dakota cigarette stamps issued April 1st, are of common postage stamp size lithographed on smooth surfaced paper in sheets of 100 perforated 12½ except on the outer margin. The central picture represents a prairie dog.

1c green.	2¼c bluish gray.
1 1/5c brown.	3c purple.
1 3/5c blue.	4c rose.

The values 1 3/5c, 1 4/5c, and 2¼c, are the first stamps of these denominations ever issued in the United States. We have had many odd values among the various kinds of Tax stamps both State and National, but never before just these.

ROMANCE OF STAMP COLLECTING

Address Delivered by Representative Ackerman Before the Springfield Stamp Club

We are indebted to H. C. Hyde, president of the Springfield (Mass.) Stamp Club, also H. P. Atherton, for reports of the last meeting of the Springfield Stamp Club held Friday evening, Nov. 13. Representative E. R. Ackerman, Congressman from New Jersey, was the guest of the Club, and the "Springfield Union" of Sunday, Nov. 15, published the following excellent account of the occasion. The Club is to be congratulated upon the success of this meeting.

Congressman Ackerman of New Jersey was the guest of the Springfield Stamp Club Friday evening at the residence of Dr. Hugo Thomson. He exhibited selections from his collection of early American stamps, including a portion of the collection which was awarded a Special Gold Medal at London, Eng., in May, 1924. Two volumes were filled with letters bearing specimens of the first stamps issued for general use by the United States Post-office—the 5-cent brown and 10-cent black, issued in July, 1847. These were in use just four years and bring to mind most strikingly the marvelous growth of the United States in the past 75 years.

During the entire four years, 1847-1851, the whole United States used less than 5,000,000 postage stamps—not much over a million a year. Last year there were about 17,000 millions of stamps sold by the Postoffice Department and no doubt the city of Springfield alone uses more stamps per year than the whole country did in 1850. In the 1847-51 period, however, postage rates were much higher. Two letters sent from the New Haven County Bank to New York City in 1848 and 1849 were shown, each having a pair of the 10-cent stamps. The present postage for letters of the same weight would be four cents each.

Many of the more interesting varieties of the 10-cent stamp were exhibited. The plate from which these were printed contained 200—each one of which differs from all the others. By examining hundreds of specimens over a period of several years, Elliott Perry of Westfield, N. J., who accompanied Mr. Ackerman, succeeded in reconstructing the arrangement of the varieties according to the position which each occupied in the original plate.

Several letters postmarked in the early railway mail cars were shown, such as Eastern Railroad, Wilmington & Raleigh Railroad, and the collection contains other examples of railroads whose names today are little but memory. New York & New Haven, Concord & Montreal, Mad River & Lake Erie are among these.

Gold Rush Pays.

Postage rates were high in those days. The gold rush to California was on and letters to and from the Pacific Coast and the East were charged 40 cents per ounce and took four weeks or more to make the trip. Many of them went to Panama and across the Isthmus. Letters bearing strips of three of the 10-cent stamps to make up the 30-cent rate to Panama and strips of four 10-cent stamps that paid the 40-cent rate to California were also shown.

About 1860—just before the Civil War—the scene shifts and mail began to be carried across the prairies and through the passes of the Rocky Mountains by swift horses and intrepid men—the famous Pony Express. Members of the club saw many of these letters bearing the frank of Wells, Fargo & Co. with the Pony Express stamps and some cancelled with a device that includes a pony running at full speed. These Pony Express stamps were in several denominations, from 10 cents to $4 for each stamp—the usual rate being $1 for each half-ounce letter.

Next came the express franks of Wells, Fargo and other companies. These were envelopes on which the name of the express was printed or stamped and which were sold at 25 cents to $1 or more each. Often they were government stamped envelopes employed to do double duty.

The postoffice did not reach many of the mining camps in the California mountains, but the expresses which carried provisions and equipment from the towns back into the mountain settlements and brought out the gold dust also carried mail to and from the mining camps and the nearest United States postoffice. They enabled the miner to communicate with the outside world.

When one considers the kind of service given, the charges do not seem high. Such mail was carried on horseback or on manback, and some of the express mail routes were several hundreds of miles long. For "two bits" (25 cents) or "four bits" (50 cents) the miners letter was carried to the nearest post-office. Then Uncle Sam brought it the rest of the way from California to New York or perhaps Massachusetts for 40 cents until 1853, and for 10 cents most of the time from 1853 until after 1860.

Early Canadian Mails.

From California Mr. Ackerman took his audience north into British Columbia and showed them many interesting envelopes and franks used to and from Vancouver and the gold camps in the Rocky Mountains of Western Canada. As there was no railroad from British Columbia to Eastern Canada until after

A COVER BARGAIN

I handle thousands of old U. S. original covers every year, with the more common varieties in predominance, of course. Many of us remember when the 3c 1851 were considered almost worthless even on cover, but all of us now know what specialists have done for that stamp. I hate to think what I would be tempted to offer a man for 1000 unpicked 3c 1851 covers!

I believe other stamps — now common — have good futures—but my safe and storage capacity seem to be taxed to the limit and so I am making an offer you can't lose on.

LIBAU COMMEMORATIVE ISSUE

Lettland has issued a set of five stamps to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the City of Libau. The values are: 6+12, 15+25, 25+35, 30+40 and 50+60st. There are three designs: Harbor and lighthouse, town hall and bathing establishment.

1870 all the mail to and from British Columbia and the parts of Canada east of the Rocky Mountains was brought down into California and then back north to Canada from points in the east, especially from New York. These letters brought usually bore queer combinations of stamps and express mail franks. Today a 3-cent Canadian stamp or a 2-cent United States stamp is sufficient to carry an ordinary letter between any two towns in Canada and the United States; but letters from Vancouver or the mining camps in British Columbia in those early days had to bear both British Columbia and United States stamps and usually were sent in Wells Fargo or other franked express envelopes. Each letter bore stamps and franks representing three or four distinct postages and postal services.

The fourth volume shown by Mr. Ackerman contained envelopes used just before and during the Civil War period which bore various colored patriotic insignia. Patriotic sentiment ran very high at that time and was often expressed by the use of envelopes on which national or secessional sentiment was shown by flags, cannon, portraits and combinations of such devices printed in color.

These vary greatly in artistic merit—often being rather crude but "peppy" cartoons. A bull dog labelled General Scott guards a bone marked Washington, from Jeff Davis. Another patriotic envelope bears a flag in color and below is John A. Dix's famous order of "If anyone hauls down the American flag, shoot him on the spot." Another has a tree, each leaf being a small flag labelled for one of the States of the Union, and below is a parody on the poem, "Woodman Spare That Tree." One has a crude portrait of Lincoln, who is dubbed "The Cold Water Candidate" and another has a fine engraved portrait of the martyred president as a young man smooth shaven, and below is a flag in color. This was printed on an envelope bearing a 24c stamp of the 1857 series and used to England in July, 1861—even as late as then the postage on single letters to and from Great Britain being a shilling or 24 cents.

Patriotic Envelopes.

These patriotic envelopes were very popular with the soldiers and are frequently found among letters written from the Army of the Potomac—particularly in the early years of the Rebellion. Fewer are found in the South; but Mr. Ackerman showed several where the front of the envelope was a representation of the "Stars and Bars" and one had the names of President Davis and Vice-President Stephens on the flag of the South. Strange to say these were used with "U. S." stamps—the Confederate stamps not being available.

Another volume contained the common 3c stamps of the 1861 series used during and after the Civil War; but not on the original envelopes or letters. Many of these showed another form of patriotic sentiment in the marks by which they were cancelled. At that time machine cancellers were unknown and each postmaster was a law unto himself as to the form of canceller used. Many cancellers were cut from cork or the end of a broomstick and show artistic merit as well as ingenuity. Stars of various shapes and sizes abound and occasionally a shield or a flag is found. Cartoons are common and such devices as the "Devil with a pitchfork," which was used at West Meriden, Conn., are eagerly sought after by collectors to whom the historical side of philately appeals.

Chicken Cancelled Stamp.

If the reader of this article knows anything about this very odd cancellation, he is invited to write to Mr. Ackerman at Plainfield, N. J., about it.

An envelope, which has become famous among stamp collectors all over America, was next shown. Although this piece is of no great value compared to the real rarities of philately, yet it is so striking and curious that probably it would arrest the attention and intrigue the curiosity of many people who have never collected postage stamps. It is an envelope used from Waterbury on which are three 1-cent buff colored stamps of the 1869 series. Each stamp is cancelled in black with the figure of a chicken, and each chicken is running as if there was only one grasshopper in the world to be caught.

Mr. Ackerman concluded his remarks by exhibiting the umbrella which he has carried 45 years. It has been his companion around the world and on many other trips and its total mileage is well over a half-millon. Philatelists throughout the United States, to the extent of a million in number, are greatly interested in the forthcoming International Philatelic Exhibition to be held at the Grand Central Palace in New York City in October, 1926, when over 300 exhibitors from all over the world will be in attendance.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

STRAGGLING ITEMS:—

THE Nanking, China, post office is sending out a postal notice giving changes in tariff. They took effect Nov. 1. On domestic letters the rate hereafter will be 4c, instead of 3c. Postcards will be 2c single and 4c double, instead of 1½c and 3c as formerly.

OUR readers will recall the articles published in the WEEKLY several years ago in which Mr. Ritchie paid special attention to cancellations on U. S. stamps. We have in preparation a further contribution of a similar character by Mr. Atherton, and many plates will be used of groups of these cancellations.

THE veteran dealer, M. Z. Booleman, comes once more into the philatelic limelight in the sale of his entire stock by H. R. Harmer of London, England, in January. The stock is extremely valuable and any auction purchaser will be interested in the description elsewhere in this issue of the stock offered.

THE members of the Boston Philatelic Society were delightfully entertained by John W. Prevost of Springfield at the meeting held Nov. 17. Mr. Prevost gave a talk on "France, from Bordeaux to the Marne" and accompanied the same with an exhibit. Three candidates for membership were voted in.

JOS. A. STEINMETZ sends us a newspaper clipping which announces that adverse flying conditions will prevent the Chicago-Springfield-St. Louis air mail service being started before April 1, 1926. Mr. Steinmetz wants some bisects on covers of any country as per his advt. elsewhere.

A. M. McFADDEN returns to our columns this week with an advertising contract that will extend over the winter season.

NOTE the two special Christmas offers elsewhere in this issue. They will give you good opportunities to spread the gospel of philately. Make a Christmas present to one of your stamp loving friends. None better than the WEEKLY.

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB.

M. N. McLellan, Plainfield, N. J.
Charles Curie, N. Y. City.

We are pleased to enter this week as our first applicant for membership in the Honor Club M. N. McLellan, 686 W. 7th St., Plainfield, N. J. He is a new subscriber to the WEEKLY, having recently sent $1 for his subscription, and immediately thereafter he forwarded the additional amount necessary for membership in the Club. He writes:—"I make this application for membership in the Five Year Honor Club with the full realization that one cannot keep up-to-the-minute in stamp collecting without your paper."

Application No. 2. comes from Charles Curie, counsellor at law, 165 Broadway, N. Y. City. Mr. Curie remits with a bit of verse that we can appreciate:—

"I guess I'll have to keep alive,
And join the Club, so here's my five."

This appears to us to be real poetry, especially as it is accompanied by a piece of prose in the shape of a $5 remittance.

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW.

F. W. ALLEN, Editor, 521 So. 4th St., Grand Forks, N. D.

Bureau Printings—We are informed that the government has rolls for overprinting Albany, N. Y., Fulton, N. Y., Elgin, Ill., La Crosse, Wis., Lancaster, Pa., Macon, Ga., Niagara Falls, N. Y., Waukegan, Ill., and Westfield, Mass. I suppose they will come along in due course of time.

Of the above Waukegan, Niagara Falls, and Lancaster have been seen on the 1½c coil. The others may already have been issued. I shall appreciate specimens for listing from any readers.

Special Handling—Berea, O., in the U-8 electro, is reported by Wm. D. Davis.

Minneapolis in the U-3 electro should be scarce as this plate has given way to a new electro mentioned in the issue of November 2nd. Frank C. Coffrath reports this item, as well as Buffalo, in the current type.

Tiro, O., is shown us by E. A. Lynn. It is handstamped.

The large green stamps do not seem popular with precancel collectors, but I believe the reason is that their scarcity almost prohibits their collection. In time I believe they will be in great demand.

Special Delivery—These can now be had in orange, black, and blue colors. A specialized collection of them would be attractive. The "Merry Widow" issue also exists precanceled and a touch of green to the field would help. As the old ten, new ten, fifteen, and twenty are of uniform size, mounting would not be difficult. Instead of retaining a page for each variety, the grouping should be made with thought for color effect and symmetry of types.

Some unlisted varieties of the new ten are: Southbridge, Mass., hand stamped reading up; San Francisco Type IV; Gardner, Mass.; Keokuk, Ia.; Stockton, Calif.; and Evanston, Ill.

The orange fifteen has been seen from Chicago, New York, Philadelphia and Cincinnati.

Cincinnati is alone on precancellation of the twenty cent black, a finely executed stamp.

Norse-American Centennial—Minneapolis precanceled a small lot of this issue, but the fact is not generally known. They were printed with the U-3 electroplate for a firm publishing a Norwegian paper. As nearly all the papers were sent to Norway, none of the precancels have come to light in Minneapolis. Report has it that a few sets of each are being held as souvenirs by an official of the publishing company, who refuses to loosen up although he is not acquainted with their philatelic value.

Montgomery Ward Co. precanceled the Norse stamps in the regular course of business. This firm has the permission of the Department to precancel with a handstamp all unused postage received as remittances. In this way nearly everything should be expected from the mail order houses. Sears-Roebuck Co., also have permission to precancel at their various branch stores scattered over the country.

Anamosa, Iowa, exists on both the 2c and 5c. They bear a linotype overprint of small plain caps between lines. It has been established that this type is the "property" of a small firm dealing in precancels and for that reason is not listed in the standard catalog of precancels. It is regrettable that such precancels exist, but we have to face the "album weeds" in precancels as well as in the regular field.

Brooklyn, N. Y., on the Norse issue occurs in a handstamped overprint applied at one of the sub-stations.

Staten Is., N. Y., in the current U-53 handstamp, appears to have been printed to order. I cannot, in justice to my convictions, give them a clean bill of health.

Duluth, Minn., occurs on both stamps in the regular type, U-1. They are scarce items and worthy ones.

Hanover, Kans., and West Hoboken, N. J., come on the 2c. If the Harding black had not been so freely handstamped in such a variety of inks and positions at the Hanover office, I should not comment on the appearance of the Norse stamp. But by its past performances Hanover must be judged, and for that reason I place a speculative taint on the little Kansas town's emissions.

Houston, Texas, on the 2c has been shown us by Mr. Jack Isom of that city. It is overprinted in the current electroprint, U-1. Quoting from Mr. Isom's letter: "Only six sheets were printed, all of which were used by a firm in mailing out sheet music. I located about sixty copies all of which were off center. There will not be a further issue."

This comprises the entire list of Norse-American precancels, known to date. Collectors may rejoice that there are so few.

Bangor, Me.—The seven cent in red ink is very rare. Only two copies have come to my attention. From Mr. F. M. Billings of this city, I have received the following information: "The Bangor 'reds' were printed in the early months of 1925. Only the 1, 5, 7, 11, and 15c denominations were treated with the vermilion overprint. I cannot say how many of each but there must have been a very limited quantity of the 7 cent as I have had but two. They inform me at the post office 'never again' will any be printed in other than the black. There are a few on hand still to be used, but they will not last long."

Danvers, Mass.—Like Bangor this office has printed precancels in red, contrary to postal regulations. I believe this practise has been stopped as all I have recently seen have been in black. The 1, 4, 8, 8 inverted, and 30 reading up are known in red. Possibly others exist. If so I should appreciate learning of that fact.

Conclusion—Universal Style Charts, printed on card board, and showing various styles of precancels, may be secured from the editor of this department for sixteen cents.

The latest edition of the Standard Precancel Catalog will be furnished any reader on receipt of $2.10. This book consists of over 450 pages, is fully illustrated, and lists over 100,000 varieties of precancels.

The editor at all times welcomes notes of interest and inquiries.

TWO NEWSPAPER EDITORIALS

Uruguayan Stamps.

The republic of Uruguay celebrated this year the centenary of its independence, which was achieved August 25, 1825. The settlers of Uruguay and the Argentine had revolted against Spain in 1810 under the leadership of General Artigas, who defeated the Spanish forces in the battle of Las Piedras May 17, 1811. On the one hundredth anniversary of this battle a commemorative overprint was applied to certain contemporary postage stamps, consisting of the name "Artigas," followed by the dates "1811-1911."

Another special stamp issue was made on April 5, 1913, to mark the centenary of the "Instructions" given to the Uruguayan delegates at the conference in Buenos Aires to declare the complete independence of Uruguay, then a province of the Argentine.

But Uruguay was not yet strong enough to stand alone, and soon came under the dominion of Portugal, being annexed to Brazil. Once again her people rose in rebellion, in 1824, defeating the Brazilians at the battle of Sarandi. Stamps issued on the centenary of the battle show a symbolical figure of Uruguay holding a dog in leash. This refers to the historical fact that owing to shortage of manpower General Artigas was compelled to augment his forces with savage dogs. Artigas died in 1826 and the equestrian statue erected in his honor is depicted upon some particular postage stamps issued for the unveiling in 1923.

On the night of April 19, 1825, a party of Uruguayan exiles crossed the river La Plata, and, landing near Montevideo, raised the populace against their Brazilian taskmasters. The historical painting by Juan M. Blanes representing this famous episode is reproduced upon the commemorative stamps issued on April 19, 1925, to signalize the centenary.

War ensued between Brazil and Argentina for the possession of the Eastern Province, as Uruguay was styled, which finally resulted in the confirmation of her independence, at first as a part of the Argentine, and eventually as a separate republic.

Two stamps in an allegorical design, inscribed "Constitusion MCMXVII," commemorate the adoption of a revised constitution by the Uruguayan parliament, in that year.

Now special stamps commemorative of the independence centennial have been issued, says the London Times, which show the vignette of the legislative palace at Montevideo.

The first postage stamps in the world to bear an inscription in the international language of Esperanto has just appeared in Russia, with a portrait of an eminent inventor, Dr. Popoff, who is described as the inventor of radio (Inventisto de Radio".—Indianapolis News.

Byron on a Postage Stamp.

A writer in a recent number of the London Graphic comments on the fact that Greece recently issued a stamp in honor of Lord Byron—two kinds of stamps, in fact, one showing the poet addressing a crowd of enthusiastic Greeks, the other a simple portrait. Has any other English poet ever been immortalized on a postage stamp? he inquires. Evidently not, since all the English postage stamps bear the heads of royalty. And so far as is known, no other nation has chosen to immortalize its stars of literature in this way. Benjamin Franklin, it is true, appears on one of our stamps, but the honor is paid to his services to the state rather than rendered for his literary labors. Presidents and statesmen in this country take the place on postage stamps of the crowned heads or the ornamental designs which adorn, or at least appear, on the postage stamps of foreign countries.

The new Greek stamp may cause changes and bring about consequences of which the author of the project little dreamed. Those who approve of the honor thus paid the great men of the past will suggest such a movement in other countries. This very paragraph in the Graphic, with its question as to whether England has ever honored her great literary men as Greece has honored one of them may sow the seed which will result ultimately in a harvest of postage stamps bearing the heads of Chaucer, Shakespeare, Shelley, Keats and others.

The thought that such a suggestion may cross the Atlantic and bear fruit on this side brings a shudder. It is easy to foresee the contests, once it is announced that an issue of stamps is to be made giving immortality to one of our poets. Should the choice fall on a poet of the people, indignation will reign in the camp of the intellectuals. Should the reverse be true, a failure to represent the taste of the majority will be charged. Even more indignation will be aroused than has happened at times in the choice of members of the Hall of Fame. Certainly no one who values his peace of mind will want to be a member of the committee which makes the choice. —Chicago Post.

SCOTT STAMP & COIN CO.

33 WEST 44TH STREET NEW YORK, N. Y.

EDITORIAL.

The program of the International Philatelic Exhibition, New York, October 16th to October 23rd, 1926, is off the press and has been widely distributed by this time. The managers of the great enterprise have started well, as time indeed is the essence of a world's stamp exhibition. The floor plan of the Grand Central Palace is shown and various regulations and information for exhibitors have place. The scheme of the exhibits is a pretentious one and embraces twenty classes with medal awards in each class, from Class I, "any specialized stamp or issue in each of the following sections," embracing the countries of the world, down to Class XX, "exhibits by governments." We may well believe the printed words of Charles M. Ams, 101 Park Avenue, New York, the secretary, saying: "This program, representing many months of effort on the part of the committee, is now being submitted for the approval and endorsement of the philatelic public." Mr. Ams adds: "Constructive criticism or suggestions will receive careful consideration from the committee." We believe that this program will impress any collector with a proper idea of the magnitude of the forthcoming exhibition and it is well worth the study of all philatelists, to whom it will be sent, no doubt, upon application. We bespeak the consideration of all the philatelic organizations, national and local, for the prospectus at an early date. On the last page of the program is an entry blank for exhibitors. From now on the exhibition will loom as an actuality in the minds of collectors the world over.

At last the stamp article that for some time rumor had it would appear in the universally circulated Saturday Evening Post makes its triumphant flourish. The name of this illustrated story of collecting is patly conceived: "The Hobby of Kids and Kings," and Jack O'Donnell, a staff writer of the Post, we are told, wields his material deftly to fashion an article nearly twelve columns in length, that will attract the eye and engage the mind of millions of readers. The story is filled with human interest and will accomplish a world of good for philately. Two large cuts show an "informal exhibition at a New York philatelic society," in which we recognize some familiar faces and that old standby, the open air bourse in Paris. Here is double-distilled publicity, the like of which perhaps has never been seen before.

Congressman Ernest R. Ackerman of New Jersey, the philatelic champion in the halls of Congress, has drafted a bill to repeal the war or emergency enactment that levied a duty on United States stamps reimported into this country, as was said several weeks ago. His bill is House Bill 9159 and as Congress soon will convene, it is now the proper time for collectors to write their congressmen and senators in behalf of the bill. It is unlikely that the treasury department will object to the abolition of the tax as none of its principles are in question and it is essential that exhibitors in New York next October be not embarrassed by the law that now serves no purpose, governmentally.

Keith Preston, who shines as a columnist in the Chicago Daily News, has a chord in his cardiac apparatus that vibrates melodiously at the thought of his boyhood collecting days. Several times he has betrayed the philatelic yearnings that boy collectors have and now in a review of McFee's "Sunlight in New Grenada" (describing a recent trip to Bogota), we find the following interesting confession: "When we were young we wanted to go to Salvador because of the beautiful volcanoes on her stamps in our collection and to Guatemala because of her philatelic cockatoos. The romantic interest in far places that started with postage stamps has carried us on into foreign bonds. Much have we wandered in the realm of more or less gilt-edged investments in various romantic places." If Keith would keep abreast of the stamp times and make it his business to see the latest philatelic creations from far and wide, we are sure that these postal certificates would make a dent in his plastic mind and his plethoric purse.

The following letter from Mr. K. N. Woodward, Blairstown, New Jersey, is of interest: "In your issue of November 19th I note that the publishers of the catalogue, to use their own language, claim that the grills, classified by counting points, is a new departure. No doubt this is so for a catalogue, but there is nothing new about the system. My father used it before I was born and if the publishers never used it before they saw several pages so classified, when appraising my father's stamps after his death, I wonder did this prompt them to use it. It's the only solution. I see the grills now in the Nationals. I sent two values of that set to one of our large society counterfeit detectors and they came back classed as 'doubtful' to put it mildly, 'because the grills did not agree with the copy he had.' I don't believe that this man knew that there were two sizes of grills. Now such a mistake may be avoided. If anyone wants a list of my grills I can take it off some time. There are all sorts of combinations, including the halves." Wm. L. Stevenson, a second edition of whose "United States Grills" has just been published, must be considered, as his study of them was based on a mechanical aptitude and a keen philatelic insight. He counted the grill points and differentiated between the different varieties, such as "biscuit," pyramid, etc.

The death of Louis J. Bachand-Vertfeuille, at Chicago, on November 13th, 1925, while not unexpected by his acquaintances there, will shock those who did not know of his illness and sojourn in the hospital. As secretary of the Metropolitan Philatelic Association, Mr. Bachand-Vertfeuille became known to many collectors, who regarded him as the embodiment of philatelic energy. He took the office in question when the managerial ship of the society was drifting and restored the society to vigor. However, as the workings of the organization became centered in the hands of Mr. Bachand-Vertfeuille, dissatisfaction was expressed in different quarters and controversies arose involving the workings of the sales department in particular. Mr. Bachand-Vertfeuille went to Chicago from Montreal some years ago and attached himself to the Chicago Philatelic Society and local philately to some extent. He was the representative of an influential newspaper of Montreal published in French, he having been of French extraction. Mr. Bachand-Vertfeuille was about fifty years of age and is survived by two daughters, to whom all sympathy is given, his wife having passed away some time ago. He

During the past few years several tional stamp societies have been ffeted by adverse winds and signs of e loosening effect of the storms have en apparent. Certain alleged delin-encies are called to our attention and ggestions are asked as to what course pursue to obtain satisfaction of claims. hen particulars are asked for from ose named, there are more or less plau-le explanations forthcoming to show at the ones against whom complaints e made have their points of view that ay involve legal considerations. When ntroversies arise that embrace questions legality on one or both sides, it would em as though any decision should be sed on a knowledge of the law, as well of ordinary business conduct. It some-nes happens that time does much to ooth the road to settlement of cases of a kind and in all probability the points issue will be worn away before long. he American Philatelic Society, the hilatelic Sons of America, a few or-nizations for specialists and lots of al societies are enough to supply the nts of the collector, it seems.

UNITED STATES ISSUES 1870-1900

Dr. Wm. Evans, Editor,
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

Now that the new catalogue has revised the classification of the grills on the 1867 issue, and included the Z grill as a separate and distinct species, there is perhaps some hope that some day the 1870 grills will be likewise treated. Notice that the word "about" now precedes the millimeter measurement in almost every instance in the 1867 issue while the 1870 issue is still "8½ to 9 by 10½ to 11½", which doesn't mean a thing when you come to study these grills just a little. It certainly doesn't tell anyone that there are two distinct kinds of grills on some of this issue, which fact manifests itself very plainly by just a little effort to distinguish them.

First there's the grill made up of elements like those of the 1867 smaller sizes and the 1869 issue, viz., little crosses in the center of each grill point. These grills might measure 9x11½ mm. or thereabouts if one could find enough of one of the pesky things to measure it.

As a matter of experience they generally show a small part of the grill of irregular shape. Some of them show only a few points, some of them one row of points, and a few display nearly a whole grill. Once in a while a pair of stamps comes along, one of which shows a part of a grill and its Siamese twin doesn't indicate that such a thing as a grill has ever existed. No trace. If it were by itself no one would suspect it of being a grilled stamp.

The other variety is almost always much more distinct. It is nearly square. Its elements or points have no little cross in the center, but look as if they had been made by a little square point with a smooth flat top. You can tell the difference at a glance. It's an altogether different grill, and it's different from all the other grills on all the other issues. It deserves a place by itself. I have never seen one on any of the higher values, but then that's not so strange for I've not seen so many of the higher values with any grill on them. It does come on the values up to and including the seven cents. It is not plentiful on the six cents and seven cents values, but can be picked up quite readily on the three lower values, and now is a good time to pick it up before it gets into the catalogue and the price goes up. If it never gets in, you'll always have five uncatalogued stamps, and that's not a bad idea anyway. It's an evidence that you're on the lookout for things not mentioned in the catalogue. Before we leave this subject I'd be glad to have a look at a specimen of this grill on any value above seven cents if any one has one to show me.

Another thing about grills look out for fakes. Only a short time ago I was offered a 24 cents with a beautifully clear and distinct grill. All of it was there, every point. It was the only stamp of that value that had ever come to my notice with such a nice clear grill on it. Did I buy it? Sure! But I bought it for what it is—a fake grill. Watch out. If there is a 24 cents stamp with a genuine grill as clear as that one it has never been recorded. Generally all a stamp of this value can boast of in the way of a grill is one or two rows of points, or a little irregular group of them, and the same is true of the other high values. The points of genuine grills are not all present, and quite often there are only enough of them visible to say that they are really there.

The fakir has not always been as careful as he might have been. Fake grills are sometimes found on Continental stamps and even on the American printings on the soft, porous paper characteristic of those stamps. These of course would deceive no one who knows his stamps, and is reasonably careful. Continental stamps exist with genuine grills but they differ from those of the National printings, so we are told by those who know. It has never been my fortune to see one of them.

From my opening remarks some one may get the impression that I'm knocking the catalogue. I'm not. In my humble opinion it's the best catalogue on the market for the general collector. There are parts of it which could doubtless be made better, but that's true of every human undertaking, and if one will take an old edition and compare it with the last one, he will find that many improvements have been made from year to year. How they do it is more than I can figure out. But since they do and have been doing it for many years, there's no harm in hoping that they can continue until they get it as near perfect as it can be made and then it will include two kinds of grills on the 1870 issue.

Who can tell us something about this cancellation? It is on a copy of the 10c of 1882, and consists of a very large size letter U in a circle. The U is 13 mm. tall and 10 mm. wide. The diameter of the circle is 20 mm. Between the bars of the U are the figures $\frac{4}{20}$ and below it the figures 90. Presumably these figures indicate the date of its use.

A similar cancellation on a 2c red brown of 1883 issue has the figures $\frac{10}{24}$ inside the U, and the stamp also shows part of one of the oval grids so much in vogue at that time. The date below the U did not "take" on this stamp. This cancellation is black, the one on the 10c is magenta.

Who will tell us whether it was used in any other year than '90? Or why it was used, or where? Who has one on a cover?

RARE UNITED STATES
20TH CENTURY ISSUES

When you have finally decided on the 20th Century U. S. varieties that you desire, may I have your want list? I can generally furnish everything in mint singles and blocks, including the rarities.

Just at present I have in stock superb copies of the four inverts, the imperforated 5c error, all the 1908 blue papers, the 1922 10c part perf., the 2c Harding part perf., as well as mint blocks of four of all of the normal varieties without exception.

Reference to the last several catalogs will show that increases in 20th Century U. S. issues have been greater than in the case of the earlier varieties. In a recent sale just held in New York, a U. S. 1921 variety sold in the neighborhood of $500, while standard seasoned varieties such as the 5c Baltimore, Buchanan, and on the cover, too, brought just around the same figure. When the real rarity of many of our late varieties is appreciated, they are bound to advance substantially. Consider the investment point of view as well as the pleasure.

A wonderful stock of early U. S. also on hand.

Always in the market to purchase fine things in U. S. general issues, Departments and 1861 to 1870 Revenues.

Mrs.—It looks too good. Do you think these people are serious? How can they sell so cheaply?

Mr.—I know Vahan Mozian, Inc. They have been established since 1901 and they guarantee all these collections to contain no damaged stamps, neither revenues, telegraphs or cut square envelopes.

Mrs.—But how can they make any profit?

Mr.—I am sure they do not make any profit directly, but they advertise their firm.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps from 1900 to date. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 75 Electric Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States.

Woodrow Wilson Stamp

The new 17c Wilson stamp is about complete insofar as the die is concerned and I learn that the variety is going to be printed with the longer dimension horizontal, similar to the higher denominations of the current series. A color has not as yet been definitely selected, but it is expected one will be decided upon within the next several days on the return of the Postmaster General to Washington. It is rumored that Mrs. Wilson will select the color. These stamps will be printed in sheets of four hundred, distributed in post office panes of one hundred, and the denomination will become a part of the regular series. A definite date of issue has not as yet been decided upon for the matter is being handled personally by the Postmaster General. It is expected that it will be ready for issue on the anniversary of his birth the latter part of December, if not earlier.

A 1½c Overprint Oddity

Mr. William M. Allen has submitted for inspection quite an oddity which cannot exactly be considered as a variety, namely, the current 1½c stamp with the double line overprint of the 1½c envelope.

The stamp in question is attached to a circular letter sent out from Camden, New Jersey, wherein the regular 1½c stamps were placed on the covers. It is assumed that in running these through the cancelling machine, the operator had the die for overprinting the envelope in the machine instead of the regular cancelling die, for it must be remembered that the same machine is used for both purposes. After he had found out his mistake, he changed the die, put in the cancellor and applied the regular second-class cancellation to the circular letter.

1c 1902, Variety

A few weeks back, mention was made in this column of a variety found in the 1c green issue of 1902 consisting of certain white marks in the upper part of the stamp between the date and the lettering. E. J. Newcomer now sends me a pair from a booklet pane showing the same variety on both stamps, which leads me to believe that the oddity is due to a defective transfer roll. In other words, it falls into the same category as the 2c "cap" variety of the 1890 issue.

20th Century Information

Your editor will at all times be pleased to furnish information relative to our 20th Century issues but where a direct reply is necessary, a stamped envelope should be enclosed. When the question asked is of general interest, the reply will be published in this column.

BELGIUM.—Mr. Henry Hooreman sends us for chronicle two new items for this country. They are the 5c grey and 20c dull brown in the postage due series.

CYPRUS.—We are informed by Mr. Paul S. Demetriou that the 2¾ piastres stamp will be discontinued and that the ¼, ½, ¾, 1, 1½ and 2 piastre values will be changed in color.

GIBRALTAR.—Mr. R. Roberts and Whitfield King & Co. inform us of the appearance of the following new items of this colony: 2s6p green and black, 5sh carmine and black, 10sh ultramarine and black and 5 pound purple and black. These are all of the large format design, script watermark. The value tablet is in the second color.

FINLAND.—The 1 mark has been issued in orange shade. Whitfield King & Co. report the new color.

NICARAGUA.—The Metropolitan Stamp Co. sends a new provisional set of "Oficial" stamps. The following have been surcharged as noted above in red: 4c, 5c, 10c, 25c and 50c of the 1914 set and the ½c, 1c, 2c, 3c, 15c and 20c of the 1922 series.

PARAGUAY.—From Whitfield King & Co. we receive a copy of the 50c red, type of the 1925 issue, with the letter "C" surcharged in black on the upper right side of the stamp. Our correspondents advise that stamps overprinted thus are for domestic use.

SAN MARINO.—Apropos of our recent paragraph anent this tiny Republic, reference was made in an article on postage stamps published in The Times of September 28th, to the fact that the Republic of San Marino intends issuing a new commemorative series of stamps "to perpetuate the centenary of its founder, Antonio Onofri." This statement has drawn from the San Marino Consul-General in London a reminder that that Republic was founded by Marinus early in the fourth century, whereas Antonio Onofri lived during the latter part of the eighteenth and early part of the nineteenth centuries and held the office of Captain Regent no fewer than seven times between the years of 1791 and 1821. The new issue of postage stamps is not to mark the centenary of its founder, but to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the death of one of its greatest citizens.—Stamp Collecting.

TRANS-JORDANIA.—Whitfield King & Co. send for chronicle a copy of the 1m chocolate of Palestine, with a new two line surcharge in black for use in this territory and further add that they have also received the values noted below: 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 13m, 1, 2, 5, 9, 10, 20pi.

TUNIS.—The Metropolitan Stamp Co. call our attention to several changes in the issues of this colony. The 20c brown has been surcharged "30" in black and the following new colors have appeared: 60c red orange and red lilac, 1fr dark blue and light blue, 2fr green and red on pinkish and 5fr violet and green.

URUGUAY.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 2c stamp issued to commemorate the Battle of Sarandi. The series consists of three values: 2c green, 5c violet and 12c blue, all of the same design, of large format shape, with a battle scene in the centre with the figures of value in the upper corners. Between is the two line inscription "Republica Oriental Del Uruguay" with the date "1825" to the left of the word "Del" and the "1925" at the end of the inscription. The date of the battle is in the lower left corner and "1925" in the lower right. Beneath the central scene is the "Batalla de Sarandi 12 de Octubre".

KING EDWARD VII

WAS ONE OF THE MOST POPULAR MONARCHS THAT BRITAIN HAS EVER HAD.

AMIABLE, DIPLOMATIC, LOVABLE—HE WON A PLACE IN THE HEARTS OF HIS SUBJECTS THAT MUST HAVE BEEN THE ENVY OF BROTHER KINGS.

AND HE LEFT AN IMPRESS ON THE AFFAIRS OF EUROPE THAT WILL BE FELT FOR MANY A GENERATION.

FOR HE FORMED AND SOLIDIFIED THE TRIPLE ENTENTE, WHICH LATER WON THE WORLD WAR AND SHAPED THE DESTINIES OF THE WORLD.

FROM A PHILATELIC STANDPOINT, KING EDWARD IS MORE THAN INTERESTING. FROM THE DAY THAT GREAT BRITAIN FIRST ISSUED POSTAGE STAMPS IN 1840, UNTIL 1902, OVER SIXTY YEARS LATER, THE PORTRAIT OF QUEEN VICTORIA APPEARED ON MOST OF THE STAMPS OF THE EMPIRE, SO THAT KING EDWARD WAS ONLY THE SECOND MONARCH TO GRACE BRITISH POSTAL ISSUES.

UNTIL THE FIRST GEORGIAN STAMPS APPEARED IN 1912, A SPACE OF ONLY TEN YEARS, MOST OF THE COLONIES HAD ISSUED THREE DIFFERENT EDWARDIAN SETS — THE SINGLE CA WATERMARK, THE MULTIPLE CA WATERMARK AND THE UNIVERSAL COLOR EMISSIONS.

A COLLECTION OF EDWARDIAN STAMPS IS, THEREFORE, QUITE AN UNDERTAKING IN ITSELF.

AFTER THE WAR, WHEN CURRENCIES WERE SO RAPIDLY DEFLATED, EUROPEAN COLLECTORS SOLD THEIR LARGE SUPPLIES OF KING EDWARD ISSUES AND PRICES WERE SOFTENED OR STOOD STATIONARY FOR SOME YEARS.

THESE SAME COLLECTORS ARE NOW TRYING TO BUY THEM BACK. MOST ISSUES ARE BECOMING EXTREMELY DIFFICULT TO OBTAIN, AND I EXPECT TO SEE MANY EDWARD STAMPS INCREASE RAPIDLY IN VALUE DURING THE NEXT FEW YEARS.

THEY WILL NEVER AGAIN BE AS CHEAP AS THEY ARE TODAY.

I OWN A LARGE STOCK OF MINT EDWARDS, BOTH MEDIUM AND SCARCE VARIETIES, AND WILL BE GLAD TO HELP YOU WITH YOUR WANT LIST.

HUNGARIAN STAMPS OVERPRINTED FOR TEMESVAR ALSO FOR BARANYA

(Courtesy of Bright & Son)

We have lately been looking into the matter of these issues and find that there are many interesting varieties which are not generally noted in catalogues and which are not generally known.

It is now very difficult to get complete sheets of these issues to show the various settings and arrangements of overprint as most of the stocks have now been broken up for packet purposes.

We have, however, lately been able to examine complete sheets of Temesvar 10 filler on 2 filler overprinted in blue, and find there are two main types of overprint. In one the figure "10" especially the "0" is considerably larger than the other, the second type being quite a thin narrow "0" compared with the first one. Of the larger type of 10 there are 44 in the sheet, numbers being as follows:—Type 1. Nos. 1 to 25, 31, 32, 41 to 43, 51 to 53, 61 to 63, 66, 71 to 73, 81, 82, 91, 92. The remainder of the sheet are of the 2nd type, or narrow type, in addition there are small minor varieties in the shape of the "e's" and "I's."

In the case of the Baranya, the chief variety here is the date "1919" in smaller figures and with serifs.

The overprint of this stamp is set in 25's, two stamps in each 25 having small date with serifs; this setting being repeated 4 times in a sheet of 100, making only 8 stamps of small type out of every 100. On a complete sheet of 100 they come in the following positions: Nos. 34, 35, 39, 40, 84, 85, 89, 90.

The same variety in the same positions is found on the long Parliament type in which the overprint is somewhat larger, but is not found in the few values which have the new value added viz.: 45 on 2, 45 on 5, 45 on 15, 45 on 2 (Koztarsasag) and postage Dues. The overprint on these values have the word "Baranya" in larger block type with the date at foot.

The chief variety on these stamps is the type of "B" in Baranya, the normal "B" has the top portion smaller than the bottom, but on a number of stamps in the sheet the "B" can be found with the top and bottom of the same size, that is, the division of "B" is in the centre instead of nearer the top. At present we are unable to give the positions of this variety, but hope to do so later.

HODGE PODGE

The Edmond Stamp Co., San Francisco, Cal., mailed by airpost on Nov. 14 a letter bearing the postmark 11:30 P. M. This, to all intents and purposes, was Nov. 15. It was delivered in Beverly Tuesday A. M., Nov. 17. This is service with a capital S.

After an absence of several months, Wm. M. Stadler returns to our columns with an advertising contract extending over the next six months. He has been assigned a definite regular location.

We have received from C. P. Carlson of Chuquicamata, Chile, a clipping from the "South Pacific Mail," Valparaiso. It gives the particulars of the gift of a very old and valuable collection of stamps by a local public official to the Prince of Wales, while the latter was visiting Chile.

We take this opportunity of further complimenting A. F. Merell of San Francisco, Cal., upon the splendid work that he is doing over the radio. His talks on KFRC have been the means of arousing a great deal of interest in stamp collecting. It would be well if other localities could inaugurate a similar activity.

Rev. John Luther Kilbon, formerly publisher of the "Boston Stamp Book," is executive secretary of the Congregational Church Association of New York City. The Managing Editor recalls the fact that it was his connection with the "Boston Stamp Book" that introduced him to his activities in philatelic journalism. This magazine, originally published by Cassico of Salem, Mass., and later taken over by Mr. Kilbon, was a very successful monthly during its short life. It was unique in its make-up and printed in a very artistic manner.

"The Hobby of Kids and Kings" is an interesting story by Jack O'Donnell in the "Saturday Evening Post" of Nov. 14. We do not know Mr. O'Donnell, but he has a rattling good story which will prove of marked value in promoting philately. The title of the article will of itself be a phrase that will last long as a publicity slogan. The article is accompanied by two particularly fine illustrations. One shows a session of the New York Philatelic Society with the members well grouped and all intent upon studying auction lots. The other illustration shows the Paris stamp bourse. The article occupies three pages of the "Post" and if you have not seen it—get your copy of the magazine before the issue is sold out and write the editor what you think of it.

Fair conditioned stamps at low prices.
Just a few quotations from my approval sheets:—U. S. No. 63, Cat. 60c. .12; No. 76, Cat. 2.50, .95; No. 78, Cat. 2.50, .95; No. 115, Cat. 3.50, 1.50; No. 471 "mint", .25; $1.00 Parcel Post, .07. Canada No. 14, .25. Newfoundland No. 33, Cat. 15.00, 6.00; etc., etc.
Stamps on these sheets are in fair to very fair condition—as neat and clean on back as on face—neatly mounted, and make an enticing appearance. I am positive that thousands of collectors would buy from these sheets once they had perused them, for we are still all mortals and willing to close an eye to some slight defect—we do it in all things, why, then, should an otherwise good and innocent stamp be made the sole victim of a discriminative and nefarious ruling? Get these sheets and enjoy "sane" collecting. References.

HERE AND THERE:—

The B. & B. Stamp Co., San Francisco, Calif., has joined the ranks of our regular advertisers. The company is under the management of W. F. Benedict, who is A. P. S. 7988.

Quite recently we inquired whether any of our readers could give us the present address of Cyril C. Lotz, Berkeley, Calif., as we were unable to get any replies to communications addressed him there. Milton T. Mauck, Baltimore, Md., is similarly situated in receiving no reply to his letters.

It is impossible for us to explain the vagaries of the service rendered by the P. O. Department in handling second class matter. The entire edition of the WEEKLY is in the mails on Saturdays and there is no reason why a subscriber should receive one issue one day and the next week's paper on the day following. This in reply to Paul V. Carpenter and certain other subscribers who have complained to us. File a vigorous protest with your local postmaster every time you get poor service.

A new Malta 1sh 6d stamp will bear a picture of Publius, who is noted in the Sacred Writ for having received St. Paul after the shipwreck described in Acts 28. It was said of Publius that he was the "chief man of the island." The source of our information is the "Postage Stamp."

We have received from E. E. Goodchild and other Canadian correspondents letters expressing gratitude at the publicity we have given the Canadian Exhibition. The WEEKLY has been pleased not only to be generous in the giving of space to promote the Exhibition, but as well in reporting the event itself. We are very glad to extend co-operation in all affairs of this kind and shall continue to serve in this direction.

Harry R. Marlow of Warren, Ohio, is attempting to organize a stamp club for the Mahoning Valley in that state. Will stamp collectors in the district indicated please communicate with Mr. Marlow?

It was a splendid contribution to Springfield's long list of achievements when Congressman E. R. Ackerman made his stamp exhibit before the local club recently.

A letter from Fred J. Melville advises us that the Junior Philatelic Society of London has decided to inaugurate a world-wide competition and the first prize will be a free trip to the New York Exhibition next October. The prize will be the largest and most valuable ever offered in a stamp competition, and the contest will be open to collectors in any part of the world. Mr. Melville will very soon give us the full details. We commend this splendid bit of enterprise upon the part of the J. P. S. and it is fully in keeping with the progressive spirit that this Society has always manifested.

HEAR YE:

Mr. F. G. Browne writes: "Referring to the practice of the film people of reproducing U. S. stamps without mutilation, I saw a 'comic' play recently in which a drunken man watched a mechanical bug walk across the table with an unused current two-cent stamp in his pincers; and the stamp was on the screen a full five minutes before the incident was over."

The fourth auction sale of Herman Toaspern, Brooklyn, N. Y., is on exhibition at the shop of B. L. Voorhees, Chicago, where many of the local collectors examined the lots with attention.

Some of the editorial writers should attend the school of philatelic instruction and while many newspaper editors have a good understanding of philately, there are others whose ideas are ridiculously vague. For instance, one brainy boy heads his concoction, "Philately as a Mania," and proceeds to grope in the dark as follows:

"Wise men who undertake to give instruction as to how to get the greatest enjoyment out of life recommend the adoption of a hobby—some avocation which will provide occupation for leisure hours and enable one to become so absorbed in its pursuit that the ordinary worries of the workaday world will be forgotten. The advice is good, but discrimination should be shown in the selection of the hobby. Stamp collecting, for instance, one of the most fascinating of hobbies, is prone to addle the brains of its devotees, as an Associated Press dispatch from London, describing the excitement caused by the discovery of some stamps with the mucilage on the wrong side, clearly shows.

A British firm bought a sheet of 240 four-penny stamps and on attempting to use them found they had been gummed on the printed side. Philatelists, learning of the mistake, showed the greatest eagerness to obtain the stamps, and the price has advanced to four pounds each. King George, an ardent stamp collector, has bought four at that price.

That is what stamp collecting is liable to do to a man. He will become idiotic in his frenzied desire to come into possession of an intrinsically worthless and uninteresting scrap of paper. Just because there happen to be a few others exactly like it the passion to own such a stamp may become a mania. The prices that are paid for rare stamps almost defy belief. The one-mark stamp of the former German colony of Togo is valued at $22,500. And the unique one-cent magenta of British Guiana probably commands an even higher price. King George, who is a terrible sufferer from the philately mania, has spent a fortune on his collection.

It is well to have a hobby, but those who contemplate acquiring one would best think seriously, before taking up stamp collecting, of the mental condition into which it may plunge them, as illustrated by the collectors who are paying $20 for an eight-cent stamp just because it is gummed on the wrong side."

Several readers have sent in newspapers containing the ads of persons who are anxious to buy old stamps and it must be admitted that some of the announcements are conceived so cleverly that if they do not lure good things from the attics, they should. The pursuit of stamps in this wise resolves itself into a fascinating game and a little success inspires the advertiser to more ambitious procedure in tracking the stamp denizens to their lairs.

Recently, Mr. Edwin C. Bailey, Decorah, Iowa, read a paper on stamps before the high school in his fair city and gave the teachers as well as the students something to think about, and particularly the superintendent, who supposed that postage stamps had been in use at least one hundred years.

The London Philatelist mentions the death of A. H. Wilson, who was elected to the Royal Philatelic Society in 1878, and who was the Father of the Society in that he was the oldest member. Another death chronicled is that of Mr. Jex Long, whose name is familiar to readers of the English publications.

Mr. Tom V. Binmore is doing yeoman service in promoting the national organization which at present is referred to as the Committee on Public Relations and which has been the subject of some discussion in the columns of the stamp papers. He well suggests that collectors could register their satisfaction by letter to the publishers of the Saturday Evening Post, in consequence of the publication of Jack O'Donnell's great stamp article in that paper.

CANAL ZONE ERRORS

By H. F. Colman.

When the Bureau of Engraving and Printing surcharged the 1c Canal Zone stamps of the first printing, which were placed on sale on July 1, 1924, some of the sheets contained the ZONE inverted. A peculiar proposition is this, the error must have been detected in the Bureau before the stamps were shipped as some of the panes with the same plate numbers contained the error and others did not. The strange thing about this error is that it was only just recently discovered on a small number of sheets that was left from the first printing, and probably the balance of them had been used. It falls on the 30th stamp on the lower left hand pane.

There has been considerable written up about the "Zone Zone" error and the 1c inverted, and I have looked this matter up at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and these stamps are surcharged from imperforate sheets of 400, and not from the perforated sheets of 100 as it is supposed. I think it is the general impression that these surcharges are put on after the stamps are perforated, but such is not the case, the CANAL ZONE is printed on stamps, 400 subjects to a plate. In other words, the error, like the one which I have above indicated, only comes once in every 400 stamps. This information is authentic.

The precancel enthusiast has been labeled all manner of names by his brother collector, for pursuing the specialty chosen by him. This is hardly consistent, for there is room for science here as elsewhere in Philately. A collection of precancels may be made a thing of beauty if approached carefully by the serious mind. They are educational. They really have a peculiar fascination that brings much pleasure in moments of relaxation. Therefore, why deny the precancel a respectable place in Philately?

ONCE MORE---ONE BIG SOCIETY

By FRANK L. COES, Worcester, Mass.

Being of good courage and having the idea that the readers of stamp papers (radical and conservative) read first the ads, then the really informative technical dope and lastly (if there is time) the articles classed as fiction, dreams, balloon juice,applesauce and "the and so forth," I again return to the matter previously broached thru your kindness in the WEEKLY.

from end to end. (This is without consideration of the luxury called "air service", or the fact that Great Britain does some fancy mail stunts between London and Edinburg.)

Now, having these things before you. Why is it not the better judgment to reduce routine mail travel, and increase interest by administering the One Big Society in sections as per the circles?

The text "One Big Society"; the reason, first, the proposed five state or Mid-West society. Second, the cuts which I have made to show the suggestion more plainly, and thirdly, the effort to establish a "Public Contact Committee" for the stamp cult.

The last two ideas interlock in so many places that it is almost useless to consider the one without the other.

In the self-explanatory cuts, I have taken a 500 miles radius for the circles (the reason being that this is about a 24-hour mail distance, both here and abroad) and in drawing the circles I have covered the London centered area by estimated population and in covering the U. S. with the same sized spaces, have considered the total population only, but have tried to make the allotted circles center on accepted mail and rail centers, as this obviously will bear an important part in administration.

The London area is roughly the home of 100,000,000 (one hundred millions) as indicated. The seven similar sized circles on the U. S. (some nearly completely land areas) cover only 20 millions at the outside, and probably less.

It obviously takes just as long to mail, carry and deliver a letter (or should) in any 500 mile carry in well settled areas, and the first thing that is further obvious is that it takes four times as long to cross our country as to cover the London area

Balance might be improved by reducing the size of some circles and enlarging others, but it will be done at the expense of mailing time.

For the One Big Society, one President — seven local Presidents each of whom is a first vice-president of the society; in each circle a complete board of directors, and officers, including sales

NEW WILSON AND HARRISON STAMPS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Two new postage stamps bearing the likenesses of Woodrow Wilson and Benjamin Harrison soon will be placed on sale by the post office department, the Wilson stamp of 17 cents denomination, and the Harrison of 13 cents.

A three-quarter face portrait, taken about the time of America's entry into the great war, has been selected by Mrs. Wilson for the stamp, in memory of her husband. It will be issued for the Wilson birthday celebration, Dec. 28th. The Harrison stamp will be issued later. First plans to have the Wilson stamp of 13 cents denomination, on the ground that "13" was his lucky number, were abandoned.

"D" LINE APPROVALS

This series of approval selections containing second grade copies is always very popular because of the extremely low prices at which very creditable appearing copies can be picked out. Straight edge copies—unused, without gum — stamps thinned by removing poor hinges—slightly torn items and everything that is in any way damaged, no matter how slightly, go into these approvals. If you are not fussy about condition and want space fillers at really low prices, apply for the "D" line. United States stamps only, of course.

REFERENCE IS REQUIRED and exchange departments; an interlocking extension of this service for the travel of sales books, etc., and a complete investigation bureau for admissions, fraud chasing and the other things that are delayed by our "long waisted" mail routes and delayed deliveries.

The existing societies have codes and by-laws that are ample for the covering of this idea by the simple method of change which they themselves provide.

The Public Contact Committee would by this means be logically provided with working members from every section of the "great and glorious" area and each district member would be able to express his personal knowledge of district conditions. Nothing in this idea to criticize the shifting of the Presidential incumbent as now, but it ought to give him some first hand information which is lacking at present regarding a lot of things and it should reduce sectional jealousy and local criticisms.

By thus furnishing the Publicity Committee with select personnel from definite areas, it should give many advantages in publicity in the individual areas, and should furnish each area with something now attainable only in the circles around New York, Chicago, San Francisco, and other very active centres of stampic interest.

I say nothing against the "Mid-West" idea, but if they will take hold of this one and boost a little, they will get about fifty times as much for their efforts, and the final job will give them something worth working for.

If every man who thinks favorably of this five state idea had the talent of the man who writes Ringling Brothers Show programme, and the opportunity to use it in the press, the five states would still be a section of five states and only one circle in the seven, without thinking of the fact that in order to progress they must have sales contact, administrative efficiency, and numbers.

The amalgamation of the societies into one thus administered would doubtless cause some heartfelt opposition, some bitter criticism, and a lot of futile resignations by disgruntled office holders,—but, with this all expected, there is no one who can say that such a system would not benefit the cult at large, improve the interest taken by the public, increase recruiting thru the desire of section officers not to be the tail enders, greatly facilitate prompt and final collections, prosecutions and investigations, and by bulk mailing give every area inside information on all allied subjects as well as the financial jobs which are now delayed by long mailing time.

The one society would vastly improve the recruiting of the collector quota on the Publicity Committee, because it would assure many of our local lights in collecting, getting a look in where they now get only local mention.

All these administrative jobs are the same kind we get when we are "House Committee" in our club (a lot of work and no glory with less pay), but by sectional recruiting we would be able to get service from detached members, who have the will, the brains and the ability, and at the same time present to the public eye a much fairer cross section of the collecting fraternity.

Perhaps the thing most interesting in this idea is the statement from a collector that it doubtless would result in the enrollment of detached collectors now either un-enrolled in local clubs or unknown because of their being beyond reach of community effort. There are hundreds of these collectors, and hundreds more of the type who bloom unseen, either thru location or because of the idea that it is a "kid's pastime" Read the last Saturday Evening Post and be undeceived. "The Hobby of Kids and Kings".

Some article. Deserves a reprint in every stamp paper, and the S.P. editor deserves a letter of thanks and praise from every Society member in these U. S. Sit down and write it.

Please someone write me something constructive along these lines, or criticize them enough to start discussion. Also please note this is a movement for the U. S. The London area is for comparison only. But this comparison ought to show why the J. P. S. has the hold it has, and why the closely knit area served helps their administrative work, exhibitions, individual sales, auctions, etc.

A few of our auction houses ought to approve of this on the strength of this sectional interest alone. Speed up the interest, speed up recruiting, aid quick exchanges, reduce the chances for crooks to victimize in thinly settled areas and improve our social relations and friendly contacts. Divide lost motion by seven.

Washington Stamp News

From time to time, as the exchequer and the news on hand warrant it, I am publishing a little sheet with the above highfalootin title. I'm beginning to think it's pretty good, judging by some of the commendatory letters that I have received and the generous response to some of the bargains in U. S. stamps that I have offered. At any rate, you can't get burnt much by investigating.

It only costs 2c per copy so send along 20c in stamps for the next ten issues or a 2c stamp for a single copy. Just to show you how little I care for money, I'll mail the first copy to you in the famous "Richmond magenta" envelope error that sold at such fancy prices.

Incidentally, I might say that the object of "Washington Stamp News", besides tooting my own horn, is to tell you of UNCLE SAM'S philatelic doings. When a new stamp issue or a prospective Airmail route is on the horizon, a special issue of WSN will come along and give the lucky subscribers the glad tidings.

The next issue will give all the dope on the WILSON stamp.

THESE BOOKS ARE READY

To those who have applied to us for approval selections of fine foreign stamps at very big discounts from market prices and who ıave not yet received them we express our regrets and the explanation. A large portion of our foreign stock has never been mounted 350,000 holdings of 19th Century foreign stamps, we did not anticipate such a deluge of requests for important selections. A few coun- nonth and now have in circulation or ready to go the following lots:

3ADEN: Several approval books full, including the issues practi- ally complete in mint, o. g. singles; in used stamps many colored ancellations on the first issue, a pair and a strip of three of No. 1, tc.

3AVARIA: Many mint o. g. singles of the first issue, a few pairs; lso a good variety of cancellations.

3RAZIL: A dozen large approval books, with a fine lot of Bull's- yes, slanting and small numerals; good cancellations on the Maxi- ıilians.

:GYPT: A fair showing of early issues both used and unused with ome mint blocks.

'RANCE: A very fine lot, including o. g. mint copies almost com- lete, with many large blocks of the issues of 1876 to 1880. Nice lot f early covers, a book full of the Bordeaux issue.

GERMAN STATES AND COLONIES: Fine copies used and un- sed of most of the states, and a couple of books full of Cameroons, Kiauchau, etc., mostly mint singles and blocks at ½ catalog mostly.

GREAT BRITAIN: Some books of penny blacks and 2d blues with- ut lines, a good many pairs and strips, fine block of the 2d. Almost ll of the scarcer high values up to 1900, some of them in mint o. g. airs at 30% below our old net prices.

HOLLAND: A fine lot of first two issues practically untouched for plate varieties. A good range of the issues from 1867 to 1900, almost complete both mint and used.

ITALIAN STATES: A few Bomba heads on and off cover; very good lot of Roman States on cover; some nice Parma, Romagna, Sardinia, etc.

MEXICO: Nearly a dozen large approval books, including fine copies of many of the scarcer varieties; fine lot of Guadalajara covers.

ROUMANIA: Scores of copies of the issues from 1862 to 1880, a beautiful lot if you are starting to specialize this country or merely want to fill blank spaces.

SERVIA: Another excellent lot, strong in the 1866 issues with some pairs and combinations. Nice start for specializing.

VENEZUELA: No rarities but plenty of cancellations and shades in the imperf. issues.

WURTEMBERG: Almost everything; three copies of the 70 purple in good condition at less than half cat.

BRITISH COLONIES: Most of these are now mounted, including Antigua, Bahamas, Barbados, Nevis, Montserrat, Dominica, St. Christopher, Malta, St. Vincent, Virgin Islands, Western Australia. Here are a majority of the moderate priced stamps at about half catalog, and some of the $10 to $50 items at bargain figures.

AS IT IS SELDOM SUCH MATERIAL IS SACRIFICED

ıe demand for selections is great. With your request please give dealer references where possible; let us know how extensive a selec- on you wish, with want lists preferably; please do not assume that the catalog value of a block of 4 No. 2 Great Britain is four times $5 nd that we shall offer the block at ½ that or $10. Mint o. g. classics are not catalogued as such any more than pairs, strips and blocks. or many fine things our discounts are 50 to 75%, but market values must be considered in pricing unlisted material. This is a real acrifice sale for the purpose realizing on most of our foreign stock and unless you are an advanced specialist or a condition crank, we can end you things you will be glad to get.

By H. P. Atherton, 318 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to United States postage stamps, 1847-1870 only. Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

This week we have items that are just what should appear in the Forum, for they are interesting, and unusual, and what may be found in most any "find" of old covers. They are not of great rarity, yet the things that make an original find sparkle a bit.

Here is what Mr. Wm. S. Eager has sent in to the Forum:

The earliest cover is without stamp, pmkd. in a wee rectangle, 25x10mm, "ATHENS, OHIO, JULY 5 1827"—yes, the year date is all there too, and these early year dates are not commonly met with. The top and bottom of the rectangle are formed of odd little bars, while the ends of the rectangle are made of what Mr. Webster calls "braces".

A 3c green stamped envelope reads in a circle "AUBURNDALE MASS. NOV 3, 18'73". Note that the year date is split in half by an apostrophe before the 73. A 3c '61 stamped envelope has the black "Patent Lines" stamped on one of the inside folds; this gives three horizontal lines faintly visible thro the face of the envelope—guide lines for the writer. You may have noticed envelopes with colorless lines under each line of writing, folks used to draw colorless lines with the back of a knife across the face of the envelopes so that their writing would look more even. These black lines showing thro the face of the envelope answer that purpose. On a long flap inside we read in print "PAT. NOV. 20, 1855." They are frequently seen, tho they were apparently not very popular with the public. Who knows their history, was an extra charge made for them; etc.?

A black Liberty Head postcard is pmkd. in magenta "POST OFFICE MAY 27 1878 DALTON, MASS." It is unusual to see "POST OFFICE" at the very top of any pmk. at this time. An old 3c '57 Type II is on a cover pmkd. "FELTONVILLE MS JAN 2" (1862), you know this stamp was demonetized early in the Civil War—the sender of this letter may (?) not have known it. This Postmaster drew a firm ink line thro the stamp and penned alongside "old stamp" not forgetting the inevitable "Due 3". A 3c '57 T.II from "CHELSEA MASS JAN 19" in red has an odd black 15mm ring enclosing a circle almost solid black, yet showing what looks like the leaf of a tulip tree; has anyone this cancellation?

3c 1861 Covers.—"East Walpole, Ms." shows a fine big "PAID 3" in circle on the stamp. "LINCOLN, MASS" in a double ring shows a big "PAID" on the stamp, as it also does in 1869, and on 3c greens, a copy of this latter being herein. They are clearly hit, and beautiful. "WEST GLOUCESTER, MASS." contributes a star; with a circle enclosing a star from "NEWTON, N. J.", and one from Chattanooga, Tenn., the latter an outlined star, all three being 5 point stars.

"HUDSON, MASS. MAY 16" in three straight lines each being from a different font of type with a still different 16, make a distinctly odd postmark, there being no frame at all. Macon, Ga., shows

UNITED STATES ISSUES 1870-1900

DR. WM. EVANS, Editor,
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

For several years the Standard Catalogue listed the 15c stamp of 1873 on "paper with silk fibres," and occasionally one was offered in an auction. Then the catalogue listed the 2c vermilion of 1875 on this same paper for a few years, and at last the second edition of the Specialized Catalogue included the 1c, 3c, 5c, 6c, 10c and the 2c brown. Having never been able to find one of the last named value, and having seen a few copies of some of the other values used after this stamp had been changed to the vermilion color, or to be definite in 1877, I am skeptical as to its existence. Can anyone submit a copy showing the silk fibres on the 2c brown of 1873? Who has any of the other values on covers with year dated postmarks? The only ones that have come to my notice (connected with documentary evidence showing the date of their use) are the two cents and ten cents. One is on a check dated May 12, 1877. The stamp being used as a revenue stamp, and the other is on a cover addressed to England having the 2 cents stamp on a 3 cents stamped envelope, postmarked Granite, Va., Jan. 21, and on the back the postmark Plymouth, Fe. 4, 78. This seems to imply that the 2 cents vermilion was used in 1877 and 1878 or two years after the change of color took place, and it is not likely that the paper was used for the 2 cents brown and the same paper held for two years before being used for the other values. The two cents vermilion stamps are not common enough to have been in continuous use that long. They are decidedly uncommon, and this is also true of the other values. The printings on this paper could not have been larger or the stamps would be more common, therefore the evidence is against both the brown and vermilion stamps having been printed on it. Of course if anyone can produce copies of the brown stamp on this particular paper the argument ends right there and then, but until some one does I'm "of the same opinion still."

A ten cents stamp on this paper, used as a registration fee on a three cents stamped envelope at Dodge, Wis., July 23, 1877, is further evidence along the same line. Who has a two cents brown on paper with silk fibres? Please let me see one.

It may be that there are those who don't know just what to look for. Some of us may be looking for silk fibres like those in the paper of some of the revenue stamps. Stop it. You'll never find them. These "silk" fibres in the paper of the postage stamps are very much smaller and finer. You'll need a glass to see them. They are very fine—not more than a millimeter long, and very small in width. To see them hold the stamp so that sunlight strikes it at an angle of about 45°, or hold them so that the sunlight comes through the paper. They are hard to "get" but once found you can recognize them easily. All the values from 1c to 15c, except 7c and 12c have been found. It is quite probable that the 7c and 12c were not printed while this paper was being used.

Who can submit year dated copies or covers of other values than the 2c vermilion and 10c brown.

Here is a postmark, the like of which has never before come to my ken. It is square, and each side is made by the face of a cherub between outstretched wings. At each corner between the tips of the wings is a diamond shaped ornament. The inscription inside the square is in three lines. At the top are the letters P. O. separated by a fancy cross. Outside each of the letters are four dots arranged in the form of a cross ⁘. Below the letters a wavy line extends. The second line of the inscription is KAMAS and the third one UTAH. Has any one a cover showing this design? Or a similar one from some other town in Utah? The stamp upon which this particular postmark exists is a two cents vermilion of 1879, that is the American Bank Note Co. printing on soft porous paper.

The square is 18mm inside the heads. The letters are a trifle over 4mm tall. The wavy line under P. O. is 16mm long.

Here's a cancellation on a 1c 1879 soft paper which looks as if it had been printed upon the stamp just as the names of cities are printed on stamps nowadays. But this isn't the name of a city. It consists of initials, in two lines P.H. and P.M. Queries:—Who was P.H. and where was he P.M.? Does the P.M. mean Postmaster? Or does it mean afternoon? Must it stand as a mysterious hieroglyphic? There are so many things we twentieth century wiseacres can't solve, that it's really provoking to have new problems bobbing up every little while to increase our don't know list. However we are learning some things all the time.

A 1c blue of the 1873 issue presents a cancellation or precancellation in blue in five lines sidewise as follows:

PENNA. R. R. CO.
NEW YORK DIV.
APR. 7, 1874.
SUPT'S OFFICE
JERSEY CITY, N. J.

Besides this, there is a cancellation in black, which is just a blob of ink. The gum on this stamp is practically intact, and on the back is the duplicate of the above blue cancellation, showing as plainly as it does on the face. Who can tell us why this was used? It is not likely that the stamp was used for postage, though it may possibly have been, and the R. R. cancellation was placed upon it to prevent theft. But it is more likely that it was used for revenue purposes, though if that is so there was no need of the black cancellation in addition to the blue one. The inscription on the back does not have the appearance of an offset. It looks more as if the unused sheet had been stamped on both sides. But the reason for anything like that having been done does not present itself. Perhaps some one can shed some light on the subject.

A short time ago a friend showed me a really attractive cover. The stamp was a 3c green. It was tied on by a Washington, D. C., postmark in purple. It was sent to Mt. Holly, N. J., and there forwarded, and the Mt. Holly postmark in blue right near the Washington purple surely makes it look nifty, though it's hardly as valuable as some other covers that might be mentioned. However it brightens up that page in the album wonderfully. It's not always gold that glitters most.

WORTH THEIR WEIGHT IN GOLD

By C. E. R.

In the WEEKLY for September 28, in an editorial taken from the Los Angeles Evening Herald, occurs this statement:

"Some of these stamps are literally worth their weight in gold—and more."

Being a chemist, and hence of an inquiring turn of mind, I thought I would test this, so selected a few stamps of different sizes at random from my duplicates and weighed them, with the results given below.

The ordinary balance used in chemical analysis weighs to one-tenth of a milligram (.00000022046 lb. Av.) while the finer ones for assaying gold are accurate to one-hundredth of a milligram, and the very accurate ones to one-five-hundredth. The value of one ounce Troy of gold is $20.67 and of one gram is 66.45c. (1 oz. Troy equals 31.104 grams.) In the following table the used stamps are washed free from gum and with one exception, very lightly cancelled.

Stamp.	Weight Milligrams.	Gold Value Cents
Hungary, 6i Reaper (112) used,	28.1	1.87
" 6f Reaper (112) mint,	31.2	2.07
Germany, 5 million m (285) used,	31.1	2.07
" 5 million m (285) mint,	45.9	3.05
U. S., 1902, 10c (307) used,	31.9	2.12
" 1902, 10c(307)heavily canc.,	37.9	2.52
" Pan-Am. 2c (295) used,	44.8	2.98
" Lexingt'n-Concord, 1c used,	73.1	4.86
" Lexingt'n-Concord, 1c mint,	95.9	6.37
St. Pierre et Miq. 1c (79) mint,	72.2	4.80
North Borneo, 4c (323) mint,	61.1	4.06
Germany, air mail, 25m (418)mint,	64.5	4.29
Bosnia, 3h (32) mint,	85.1	5.65
Greece, Lord Byron 2d, used,	106.7	7.09
" Lord Byron 2d, mint,	149.0	9.90

These figures show some curious things, aside from the gold value. The "Lexicon" stamp, although smaller than the Bosnian, weighs more. The weight of the gum varies considerably, judging from the two stamps of equal size from Hungary and Germany. The Hungarian gum weighs 3.1 mg., the German, 4.8 mg. (There are one thousand milligrams in one gram, of course, and 453.597 grams in one pound Av.) The two U. S. 10c were a pair, one untouched and the other almost obliterated; the weight of the postmark in this case being 6.0 mg.

It occurs to me that the assay balance might be a valuable tool in the hands of the expert specialist in examining paper, gum, cancellations or overprints. Thin spots, repairs, variations of watermarks would show up when carefully weighed, as would the difference between old and new inks. If this suggestion is of any value, I give it freely. While the balances are expensive, the philatelist would have no difficulty in learning to use them.

In conclusion, I would say that the newspaper was right. Nearly every stamp worth more than five cents is worth its weight in gold, or more.

CHIPS:—

Springfield, Missouri, now has a stamp club known as the Springfield Philatelic Society. Dr. V. C. Pranter is president and the other officers of the new society are E. G. Smith, William Hoffman and R. L. Moore vice-presidents, Ray Faubin secretary-treasurer, and R. H. Patterson sergeant-at-arms. The new club starts with forty members and a junior society will be organized at once.

Edward Lockwood calls our attention to an editorial in a recent Stamp Collectors Magazine and asks us to endorse it. Mr. Bach suggests that dealers sending out approval selections should designate them as being on consignment instead of on approval. It is believed that the term "on consignment" will be more effective in cases of prosecution of non-return of approval selections. This suggestion is well worth adopting.

Philip H. Ward, Jr., editor of our U. S. Chronicle, is bringing to completion his book on U. S. Coils, recently run in the WEEKLY as a serial. We hope to have this book on sale early in the new year.

It has been the past policy of the WEEKLY to decline all requests for the use of our firm name as a reference. The reason for this is very obvious. If we extend this courtesy to one we should necessarily do it for others. Individual members of the firm have at times permitted their names to be used, and this is particularly true of the Managing Editor. Beginning with this issue of the WEEKLY, as a matter of fairness to all our patrons, we ask that our advertisers use banking or commercial references or society memberships.

EDITORIAL.

The newspapers have been giving liberal space to the coming Wilson stamp of the 17c denomination and the Harrison 13c, the department having decided upon a new 13c as well as the 17c. It is gratifying that the dailies recognize the interest that the advent of a new stamp or stamps carry and that they believe that others as well as collectors attend to news of the kind.

From Mr. Fred. J. Melville, president of the Junior Philatelic Society and philatelist extraordinary, we have received the following letter: "Enclosed are the first details of the J. P. S. plan for arousing publicity here and elsewhere for the New York exhibition. I hope that it will appeal to you as a good plan for creating world-wide interest." We believe that the enterprise of the Junior Philatelic Society is to be considered as distinctly complimentary to our forthcoming occasion and while the contest takes the form of a membership drive, it is natural that the expense of a free trip to New York, three hundred dollars, be met in some effective manner. The limit of the traveling purse is about three hundred dollars and we shall anticipate a successful competition.

We are indebted to Mr. Melville for the following account of the sale that included the stamps of the Mayfair find: "The much talked of Mayfair sale of November 9th realised (for 118 lots) 7,707 pounds, of which 5,525 pounds was obtained for the few blocks and sheets found by a titled lady in the attic of her mansion in Mayfair. There was a great crowd at the sale and the news of the result was broadcast last night. However much we would prefer to get such publicity for the simpler delights of stamp collecting as we pursue it, the newspapers and the big general public are always ready for stories like this of the Mayfair attic."

The subject selected for the thirteenth philatelic congress to be held at Liverpool next year is one that will test the best abilities of the practical writers and others on the subject of philately. A silver vase will be awarded the successful competitor whose article on the subject: "How Best to Attract Collectors to Join a Philatelic Society, and How Best to Keep Them," gains the palm. We can conceive of no more pertinent theme for consideration and the result of the contest must provide another arrow for the philatelic quiver.

That bell-cow of the New York correspondents whose daily doses are syndicated far and wide makes room in his column of quirks and quiddities for a rapid-fire sketch of Charles Francis Train, who as Citizen Train gave color to the routine of days gone by. In the catalogue of credits, Train is said to have invented the "perforation process for tearing off stamps," among other conveniences. Newspapers have been known to say that some "ingenious Yankee" was the inventive genius to whom the public was indebted for perforations, but Henry Archer's fame is secure and not to be disturbed by imaginative but unphilatelic writers. Archer's roulette was in use in 1848, and his perforation in 1850, and we believe that Train in 1850 was a very young man.

We are enabled to report a surprising instance of what may be called a transcendent affection for stamps, on the part of a general collector whose possessions repose in five albums. This gentleman is blind and sees nothing and for some years he has been afflicted to this extent. His eye trouble was progressive and when his sight was relatively good, he was indefatigable in his collecting endeavors, as the stamps of the world were the objects of his attentions. This man, now blind, is never alone and fortunately, his sister and the collector's nephews have an interest in stamps, the two boys having small collections. In his philatelic work a nephew will describe any stamp concerning whose identity he is in doubt and the blind collector will name the country of issue, if it is a stamp that he had ever seen. He will handle stamps and here we chronicle an example of delicacy of touch that seems to offend probability but one of the nephews says that his uncle once took a stamp in his fingers and after a short time said it was a stamp of Salvador; and it was! Aside from any question of astounding perception that the blind collector embodies, the retentive memory of the man which allows him to classify at once any stamp that he saw in his days of clear vision is most surprising. Too, the comfort that he derives from his present association with stamps is something for us collectors who see stamps to ponder, is definite, and here we have the amazing spectacle of a man who is blind who still collects stamps, which come to him in various ways. From church societies and business men he receives stamps and he really is an active collector.

Collectors are becoming aware that the customs officers at various ports of entry are interpreting the law relative to the importation of stamp books and papers, in a literal way and thus catalogues containing pictures of United States stamps and foreign stamps without the thin line of defacement are held to be undeliverable. Adhering to the letter of the law, a profound work on the issues of a foreign country would be denied admission to this country if all the plates were not treated with the white streak. Cases have been reported to us where the customs people have intercepted imported stamp literature and when remonstrated with say that the law gives them only one course to pursue and that is to impound the matter. For instance, Mr. George C. Engerrand of the University of Texas, Austin, Texas, has received the following letter from the Collector of Customs at St. Louis, Mo.: "In reply to your letter of the 22nd instant, relative to a catalogue held at this port under seizure, I have to advise that in view of the explicit instructions from the Department this office is unable to release the article to you or permit its exportation. Under existing laws, the reproduction of borders of United States stamps is permitted, these to be printed in white and black only and the illustration must be at least four times as large as the original part of the stamp illustrated. The reproduction of complete foreign postage stamps is permitted only if they are printed from defaced plates. None of the reproductions of foreign stamps in the catalogue are printed from defaced plates and the reproduction of the domestic stamps therein are all of complete stamps." We have recently learned that the officers at different cities have received orders to enforce the law outlined and while admitting that its provisions work hardships on importers in specified cases, they say that they have no option but to act in accordance with the wishes of Washington. It is said that about six months ago, the lines began to tighten in this regard and not a few collectors have felt the pressure. The question of relief from this burden must be considered calmly and dispassionately and it is time that collectors be made aware of the circumstances that now confront them. A discussion would be in order and suggestions could be offered how the ideas that collectors have in mind could be best applied in a beneficial way. As scientific works, the importations should have some consideration as the innocent nature of the works is self-evident. We realize that something may be said on either side of the argument pro and con, but collectors certainly have the better side.

HERE AND THERE:—

AN air mail service, between the United States and Panama, is being planned by the P. O. Department. A committee has been appointed to consider the matter.

ROBIN LAMPSON, Fresno, Calif., sends us a fine philatelic clipping from a local paper. It is a news despatch from Claremont, Calif., telling the activities of the Claremont Stamp Club. The clipping describes the collections of various local philatelists and is a splendid example of the publicity that is easily obtainable in most any community.

C. E. NICKLES, of Washington, D. C., has signed up for a contract of 3,000 lines to be used during the coming year. We congratulate our steady advertiser upon this evidence of prosperity.

A FEW days ago a package containing $266,000.00 in stock stamps was found on Broad St., Philadelphia, after it had lain in the street for some time unnoticed by hundreds of pedestrians. The fortune in stamps was found by a messenger of Paul & Co. Thanks to Benj. Cadbury for the clipping.

THE latest stamp society is to be called the Philatelic Plate Number Association. R. W. Becker, secretary of the Easton Stamp Club, Easton, Pa., is sponsor for the new organization and interested readers should communicate with him.

THE Netherlands has opened a Philatelic Agency at the Central Post Office at Amsterdam. In addition to the stamps of Holland, the stamps of Surinam and Curacao will also be obtainable. A list of issues will be furnished upon application.

WE are promised a new Greek stamp, 20 lepta, to commemorate the breaking of the blockade of Messolongi in the war of independence against the Turks in 1826. The stamps will be used for three months and will be obligatory for all inland mail, so that a letter will cost 1.20 dr. instead of 1 dr. The stamp will depict the breaking of the blockade and the colors will be black and brown. Thanks to P. J. Drossos for the information.

NEW YORK STAMP SOCIETY

Thursday evening, November 19th, was the occasion on which Theodore E. Steinway, the noted piano manufacturer, gave his exhibition of early Great Britain stamps in the rooms of the New York Stamp Society, 120 West 49th Street.

Singles, pairs, blocks and strips up to 26 of one penny blacks, two pence, and shillings of the first and second issues, even roulettes of the early imperfs were reeled off, page after page, before the gaze of enchanted spectators. Some extraordinary British town cancellations and unusual Colonial cancellations of early issues were shown.

Following that Mr. Steinway showed some out of the ordinary New South Wales, Spain, Austria, France and Portugal earlies.

The election of officers for 1926 of the Society will take place at the first meeting in December, on Thursday, December 3rd. President Hoover and Treasurer Schlesinger have been renominated. Dr. Lawrence for Vice-President, Mr. Freanau for Corresponding Secretary and Mr. Michaels for Recording Secretary are now nominees for next year.

Mr. Joseph Hoffman has been appointed Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements for entertaining the A. P. S. in New York, in 1926, on which occasion the New York Stamp Society will act as host.—N. R. HOOVER.

20TH CENTURY ISSUES

When you have finally decided on the 20th Century U. S. varieties that you desire, may I have your want list? I can generally furnish everything in mint singles and blocks, including the rarities.

Just at present I have in stock superb copies of the four inverts, the imperforated 5c error, all the 1908 blue papers, the 1922 10c part perf., the 2c Harding part perf., as well as mint blocks of four of all of the normal varieties without exception.

Reference to the last several catalogs will show that increases in 20th Century U. S. issues have been greater than in the case of the earlier varieties. In a recent sale just held in New York, a U. S. 1921 variety sold in the neighborhood of $500, while standard seasoned varieties such as the 5c Baltimore, Buchanan, and on the cover, too, brought just around the same figure. When the real rarity of many of our late varieties is appreciated, they are bound to advance substantially. Consider the investment point of view as well as the pleasure.

A wonderful stock of early U. S. also on hand.

Always in the market to purchase fine things in U. S. general issues, Departments and 1861 to 1870 Revenues.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps from 1900 to date. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 75 Electric Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States.

New Envelopes

I have just located an unusually odd item in the way of an envelope, namely, the former 1c green oval die on white, issue of 1917, showing immediately over the stamp a further impression of the 2c carmine circular die, giving us a double print, one of the 1c and one of the 2c. These oddities are found here and there and such varieties are worthy of note.

I recall that several years back there were similar varieties of the circular dies wherein the 1c green and 2c carmine appeared together and the 2c carmine and the 3c purple as a double.

Mr. A. H. Pike has just advised that Binghamton, N. Y., has started to sell the revalued envelopes sucharged locally and Mr. A. W. Draves favors me with a similar variety from Milwaukee. Both of these envelopes are of dies and sizes that have not been previously chronicled.

Air Mail Notes

Under date of November 19th the Postmaster General issued an advertisement inviting bids for the operation of a contract air mail route between Atlanta, Georgia, Jacksonville, Tampa and Miami, Florida. A stipulation, not appearing in previous invitations for bids, provides that the leg between Jacksonville and Miami must be placed in operation not later than April 1, 1926, and the extension to Atlanta not later than June 1, following. The bids will be opened at 4.30 P. M., January 18, 1926.

A schedule has been prepared requiring an average flying speed of approximately 90 miles an hour. The Department realizes that in some instances, due to weather conditions, etc., it may be impossible to maintain such an average, but on the other hand when conditions are favorable it may be possible to cover the distance in even better time. Proper allowance will be made in such cases.

The schedule provides for service of not less than six trips per week, with a plane leaving Atlanta, Georgia, 7 A. M., leaving Jacksonville 10.25, leaving Tampa 12.30 P. M., and arriving at Miami 3 P. M. On the return trip it is proposed that the plane should leave Miami at 7 A. M., Tampa 9.40 A. M., Jacksonville 11.40 A. M., and arriving in Atlanta at 3 P. M.

Copies of the advertisements will be on display at all post offices on the route. Contracts are limited by law to not exceeding a four-year term. Proposals should show rate of compensation stated in percentage of revenue, which must not exceed 80 per cent of the revenue as mentioned in the law. The postage rate for contract air mail routes is 10 cents an ounce or fraction thereof where the length of the route is not more than 1,000 miles, and 15 cents up to and including 1,500 miles.

A New Playing Card Variety

Mr. E. A. Young under date of November 10th writes as follows:

"Scott's catalogue lists the small blue playing card stamp No. 3994b, Perf. 12, a variety which was unknown for many years after the stamp was first issued. This was listed on the strength of a small find of these stamps made in New Haven, so I am told.

The same party who found No. 3994b, called on me several days ago with just two packs of cards, each bearing the large 1919 playing card stamp No. 4509, also perf. 12. I bought one pack and he still holds the other.

EMILY KING,
P. O. Box 753, Halifax, Nova Scotia

As this variety appears to be unlisted by Scott, I am passing the information along in case the matter is of sufficient interest to be worthy of your chronicle of new U. S. issues."

It is my personal recollections that these playing card stamps are delivered to the manufacturers in an unperforated condition, and that they apply their own means of separation. I have not looked into the matter here of late while visiting the Bureau, so cannot definitely state whether this is the case today. I have not examined the perforated varieties—hence, cannot say if it is the work of the Bureau or not.

We wish to thank Messrs. Alonzo Valvridge and A. W. Draves for notes of interest.

rose red stamp of Congo has been surcharged for use in this colony. It bears the surcharge "Ruanda-Urundi" in small capital letters in black at the bottom of the central figure. Mr. Henry Hooreman, Whitfield King & Co. and Mr. A. Harold Kirkpatrick furnish the above information.

COLOMBIAN REPUBLIC.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 4c, dark violet, revenue stamp bearing the surcharge "Correos Provisional" in two lines in green. At the same time we are in receipt of the 4c grey lilac revenue stamp from Mr. Emil J. Rall which bears the same overprint as noted above but in red. Mr. Rall advises that these stamps are now being used on letters arriving in Panama from Colombian Republic.

CONGO.—We have received from Mr. Henry Hooreman, Whitfield, King & Co. and Mr. A. Harold Kirkpatrick, copies of the 60c rose red in a new design. The stamp is similar to the 1923-24 series but pictures two long horned cattle in the centre. It also bears the two words "Elevage" and "Veefokkerij".

JAMAICA.—Mr. G. V. Stewart advises that he is informed by the Postmaster at Jamaica that the Child Welfare stamps are to be on sale locally during the months of November and December, 1925, and January, 1926. These stamps were first issued in November, 1923, and were withdrawn in January of the next year. They were subsequently reissued in November, 1924, and withdrawn again in January of this year.

NEW GUINEA.—Current 2d mauve pictorial overprinted "o.s." in black for official use. (J. H. Smyth, Ltd.).—Stamp Collecting.

NEW ZEALAND.—Whitfield King & Co. send for chronicle the 4p purple and the 9p olive green bearing the usual surcharge "Official" in black.

SAMOA.—Whitfield King & Co. report the appearance of the 3 shilling Stamp Duty stamp of New Zealand with the overprint "Samoa" in red.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—Mr. G. V. Stewart advises that the 8c has been placed on sale in a red color. Also that the $5 green and red on green has been issued on script watermark paper.

HEAR YE:—

Mr. J. Hugh Conley, Deputy West District Commissioner, St. Louis Council, Boy Scouts of America, is improving each shining hour to sound the praises of philately while some of us stand around telling "how to help philately." In a recent interview with Mr. Conley he told us of his labor of love with stamps among the scouts and he described how on Saturday afternoons at headquarters he sought to gain favorable attention to stamps by showing and selling them to the boys. Any profit that is derived from the transactions reverts to the Council. What arouses our admiration, in addition to the prosecution of the good work, is that Mr. Conley in each Sunday Globe-Democrat, St. Louis, has a long article, under the heading, "Stamp Stories for Boy Scouts," which must take the eye of the army of readers of the great newspaper. Merely to show that Mr. Conley wields a facile and at times, facetious pen, we take the following introductory paragraph from his column in the issue of November 15th, "Monaco:"

"We read about princes and principalities but don't see many. Monaco isn't big enough for a King—eight square miles and about 20,000 people—but its right to issue stamps should be established by its history of 800 years of independence, even if the country didn't expand much in all that time. The famous Monte Carlo entertains about 2,000,000 visitors every year. They go there to play African golf on indoor greens and other games not known to scouts. So many of these folks have to write home for money that the use of Monaco stamps is quite out of proportion to the acreage. The Prince kept his picture on them all until 1922, then began a very nice line of pictorials. The most interesting one is the building housing the Oceanographic Museum, which displays all manner of sea life and has become one of the great attractions of the capital city."

Here is another instance of intelligent service that we are particularly pleased to publish. Mr. F. R. Gellerman, Cloquet, Minnesota, writes: "I have the honor of occupying the editorial chair of our local church calendar and recently found occasion to utilize a few of my duplicates for the purpose of emphasizing our mission work. I am enclosing a copy herewith. Perhaps it would be of interest to others engaged in this dual capacity, i.e., spreading the gospel of the Lord and of Philately." Sure enough, we find an article in The Calendar illustrated by stamps themselves, an ingenious idea, indeed; and under "Our Missions," and a stamp each from China, Siam and Mexico are the words:

"While we are anticipating the pancake supper for next Friday evening, it might not be amiss to give a thought to the millions throughout the world who are starving not especially for food and raiment, but for that more elusive sustenance, that spiritual food, the heart hunger of which no substitute can ap-

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

ANDREW SLEDD, DECATUR, GA

pease. Cents, satangs, centavos,—whatever their currency may be—the price of a postage stamp each day from each of us will supply that salvation for which they hunger."

The School Boys' Exhibition, Royal Horticultural Hall, Westminster, to be held January 2 to 8, 1926, is being advertised by a label of attractive design. In fact, it is as philatelically spirited a sticker as one could imagine.

Mr. C. L. Brock, Houston, Texas, sends in an envelope that the WEEKLY sent him from Boston, in 1905, telling him that his subscription would expire with No. 732. At that time Mr. Brock was at Grand Rapids, Michigan, and since then, over one thousand weeks have rolled around. The envelope has a fracture that was repaired by two officially sealed stamps, one in front and one in back. An echo from the past, indeed.

"Does it not make you riled to find some fourth-rate writer aiming cheap sarcasm at stamp collecting, which he does not understand even in an elementary sense? Here is a confession. I read a slam at collecting in a story that I will not advertise by naming and I threw the book to the floor in disgust before I realized what I was doing." Our correspondent, Mr. Hubert L. Hargreaves, may have yielded to a primal impulse but we are for him.

We notice that Mr. M. Max Golding, Chicago, receives a complimentary notice in his church paper for having given a talk at a recent meeting at the church, on stamp collecting. The pastor and others said that they did not know before how interesting the subject of philately was.

Our cover contest is engaging the attention of a number of readers who have artistic ideas on tap and we think that the results will show that we have no little talent in our ranks.

The demand for albums is said to be very good and this is the best proof that all is well with us that could be cited.

As the thermometer goes down, the stamp fever goes up.

OUR EYE:—

The firm of H. W. Doscher & Co. San Francisco, Calif., is moving into new location. For a week or two our columns will be minus the advertising of this firm.

"The Sky Line" is the title of a unique house circular issued by the Home of the Postage Stamp, Jackson Heights, N. Y. It is mimeographed and has some interesting features.

Merry Christmas! Francis Greele, secretary of Branch 1, S. P. A., N. Y. City, writes us that an attempt will be made to remember all shut-ins with a bit of philatelic cheer for Christmas. Stamps and their accessories are being contributed by members of the Branch, and Mr. Greeley (whose address is 500 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City) desires the addresses of any shut-ins. They must be received not later than December 19th, so that distribution may be made on Monday, December 21st. This is a most worthy project.

Quite recently we called attention to the fact that a certain advertiser had used an obsolete catalog quotation in connection with an offer. We are glad to say that there was no intended deception in this ad copy.

If you are interested in novelties, new issues, covers, etc., write for the November-December price-list of W. T. Wilson, Birmingham, England.

In reply to our recent query Wm. H. Price informs us that the Siddall catalog of Chinese stamps cannot be obtained in the U. S., but can be secured from Theodore Siddall, Shanghai, China. A new edition of this catalog is being prepared.

ADLETS

Minimum two lines.

RATE.—30c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $12.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. It is impossible to guarantee advertisers in this department, and patrons must satisfy themselves as to the reliability of the parties with whom they desire to engage in business relations.

an odd maltese cross, cut from a broom handle perhaps, in both blue and in black. (When I do not mention color, black is understood.) Lee, Mass., furnishes a remarkable group of cancellations, will mention the best of them. They come with two sizes of pmks.—26mm and 29mm. In 1863 is a cleverly cut star, colorless, like the New Haven of same period, only much smaller. In 1866 is a much larger, of same type. In '64 is a neat little rosette inside a cut cork frame. Next an outlined 5 point star, and again the same, this time with letters ION showing—am guessing that the word is UNION even if the first letter does look like an O—there is a letter in each of the five points of this star. In '66 comes the round cork cancel with "DPH" in colorless capitals. Has this one ever puzzled you? Mr. Eager upon inquiry finds that these are the initials of the man who was assistant at that time. A "Checker Board" and an OK come in '66, while in '67 is another OK cut from a fragile bit of cork, and making a rather novel cancel which I'll illustrate. Lastly on a 3c '67 grilled is a nicely cut heart in a circular frame composed of dots, each being gouged, making a pretty picture. So much for Lee, Mass., they are a fine lot.

3c Greens show a numeral "1" cancel cut very cleverly from a small cork and used from New Bedford, Mass. Four diagonal cuts give us a diamond from Boston. Here's an odd one—from Lee to Lincoln, both towns in Massachusetts, the stamp being hit by an axe, i.e., the design of an axe. Auburndale shows a nice quartering in magenta. Lincoln, Mass., has an immaculate thin S inside the U all surrounded by a circle—beauty.

On a 3c '69 cover with quarterings on the stamp is "TAUNTON MS AUG 5 1869" in blue. This city used a clearly printed pmk. if there ever was one—it is said to be made of steel, and began back on the 3c 1851's—possibly on '47's, tho I have never seen a copy.

Last to be mentioned is a distinctly unusual label. It is on a legal size envelope which started with a 3c green National. This is struck with segments in circular arrangement, each segment having a small hole, and is from Leominster, Mass. This comes in blue on '69's. The label is in that deep vermilion which turns dark—like the Blood's Locals on red paper. The "sticker" is in the form of a parallelogram and reads "NOT PAID IN FULL" on the top line, while below is "DUE 3 CENTS", the 3 being enclosed in a small double lined circle. One can but guess as to the use of these stickers. If anyone knows about such postage labels the news will be welcomed.

From Mr. L. S. Fairbanks comes a boot in magenta on a black Liberty Head postcard. It is a fine boot, clearly struck, yet the town is so indistinct that I am not quite certain that it is Whitestown, N. Y.? From Mr. E. R. Ryder comes a lot of cancels off cover. On 3c '61's—the pmk. "FORT SCHUYLER NY FEB 16 1863" is perfect. An odd triangle with a bar at each side is interesting, and there is a fine U. S., different from any in the files. A very odd blue design will probably go into our "Whatyoumaycallit" group, you'll enjoy these odd unnamed obliterations. The words FOUND and FREE appear on 2c Bank Note stamps. City Delivery at bottom of the pmk. appears on several copies of the 1, 2 and 3c of the Bank Note series. A neat masque, and a black circle with the letters POD, possibly Post Office Dept., are two new ones. There is a beautifully hit Flag on a 6c Cont'l, and a funny little blue Jack 'o Lantern on a 2c 1890.

Many of the above will be pictured. Am glad to see so many still rallying round with nice lots of cancellations, and hope that you may soon begin to see these pictured in the Forum.

THE DUTCH FLOATING SAFE STAMPS

By THEODORE H. AMES.

These issues present more or less of a mystery to most collectors, and, because of the interest of the great number of those who consider Holland and her Colonies to be among the most collectible of nations, I am impelled to offer the following observations on the subject. The information contained herein has been largely gathered from European periodicals and is believed to be correctly accurate.

When, during the course of the Great War, numerous vessels of commerce fell victims to the German torpedoes, the Dutch firm of Van Blaaderen had the idea of carrying from the Dutch Indies on board the ships of the Steamship Company, "Nederland" a so-called Floating Safe, which was so placed on deck that in the event of the ship being sunk the safe would be set free, float, and, by means of lights and bells, attract the attention of passing vessels who might retrieve it and deliver its contents in safety.

The Dutch Government was interested in the plan, as offering a means of making more safe and certain their normal trade with the colony, but had no desire to invest funds in the necessary apparatus. A contract was therefore made with the Van Blaaderen Company, by which the company was to supply the safes, which would remain its property, while the Dutch Government would undertake to guarantee the delivery of letters, provided the senders had directed that they be placed in the "Floating Safes".

To make this worth while financially, the company was permitted to issue the "Floating Safe" or "Marine Insurance" stamps, and to require that mail matter destined to be carried in the "Floating Safes" must bear these stamps at the rate of 15c for each 20 grammes of weight. These stamps were obligatory on such mail, and could not be replaced by the regular postage stamps of the required value. They served the additional purpose of rendering the "Floating Safe" mail easily sorted out from the regular outgoing mails. Presumably the mail was locked up in the safe by the Post Office authorities before the ship sailed and was delivered to the receiving Post Office authorities in the same manner.

The stamps were printed by the house of Johann Enschede and Son, in Haarlem, under the supervision of the Directors of the Post and Telegraph of Holland. They were distributed to all Public Post Offices in Holland and the Dutch Indies, and were sold to anyone who wished to buy. The set for the Dutch Indies was sold in Holland as well as the regular Netherlands set. The revenues from the sale of these stamps were divided between the Government and the Van Blaaderen Company, the former receiving 37½% and the latter 62½%.

The Dutch Government reported the plan at the 1920 meeting of the Universal Postal Congress at Madrid, this being, apparently, the only connection entitling these Floating Safe stamps to consideration as Postage stamps.

The number of these stamps to be sold was extremely small, as is demonstrated by the table below, less than 2,900 sets of both countries being in the hands of the public. The remainders are still in the Post Office and will probably be destroyed, although a short time before they were withdrawn from sale a well-financed syndicate had offered to buy the entire stock at a price of 200,000 Gldn. However, when it was learned that the Van Blaaderen firm was participating in the syndicate, and, under the terms of their agreement with the Government, would be entitled to 62½% of the 200,000 Gldn, the offer was rejected. There is a possibility that these stamps will come on the market if the Van Blaaderen firm can be induced to modify its claim to the larger share of the proceeds.

The plates from which the stamps were printed, the property of the Van Blaaderen Company, are also held in the Post Office. It is the intention of the company to deface the plates and then present them to the Dutch Postal Museum.

Following is a table showing the numbers of each type and value printed, sold, and remaining on hand. In addition 442 sets were sent to Berne for distribution to the members of the Universal Postal Union, and 145 sets were retained by the Directors of the Printing Office and the Post Office. Unless the difference in the demand for stamps of the Netherlands and of the Dutch Indies can account for it, it is difficult to understand Scott's price of $50.35 for the Netherlands set, of which 1,612 were issued, and $34.50 for the Dutch Indies set, of which 558 were issued.

EDITORIAL TRIBUTE TO A. W. FILSTRUP

One of the best looking athletic fields in the Middle West possessed by a high school of moderate proportions is located in Benton Harbor, Michigan. The field itself could not have been more excellently devised for playing purposes and the top dressing of the football space is of loam that gives it unusual spring and the sand underneath precludes the possibility of the gridiron ever being muddy.

There are thirty acres in all in the field and it backs right up to the edge of the St. Joe River with a high embankment, this situation adding to the perfect drainage of the place even after the most severe rains and even cloudbursts.

One of the finest things about the field is that it was presented to the school by two brothers, Ed and Al Filstrup, in whose honor it is now named Filstrup Field. They are wealthy men and originally came from Chicago, but after settling in Benton Harbor they conceived the idea of giving the school the grounds, adding twenty-five acres to five that the school already owned. Then they spent $10,000 in a neat concrete stand seating 3,000 comfortably and told Sydney Mitchell, superintendent of schools, that they would go farther when patronage warranted.

It looks as if that situation already had been reached, as the place was jammed Thursday afternoon to see Benton Harbor beat St. Joe, 13 to 7, in a smashing good game. Willard Linden is coach of B. H., a former Illinois man and a short time back with New Trier. That he has his men in fine shape was shown by the fact that in the last fifty-eight seconds of play they completed four out of five passes and won the game right there.

But the main idea of the whole thing is the fine display of citizenship and public generosity that the Filstrup boys gave. It is found in few places.—E. W. S.—Chicago American.

FIRST DAY COVERS

In these days of high prices for old U. S. stamps and, for the average man, the hopelessness of trying to make a general collection of foreign, a great many are searching for avenues of specialization where there is room for the beginner and yet not the possibility of being discouraged by a deluge of new issues.

Here's a field where there is plenty of room and in which it won't cost you a fortune to keep up with the game, the collecting of First Day covers. Is there any more interesting way of collecting new U. S. stamps than to have each one of them on original cover bearing the postmark of the day that the stamp was issued?

Since the establishment of the Philatelic Agency in 1922, there has been a definite date of issue for each U. S. stamp. In that year the collecting of "FIRST DAYS" was started by a number of collectors and most of the stamps issued since then are still available on First Day covers at reasonable prices. A few of them, of course, are scarce, just enough to show that they really have an investment value. For example, the 5, 6, 11, 14c and a few others of the 1922-23 series have sold at from one to ten dollars each.

By joining my First Day Cover Club, you can begin now and get a cover of each stamp issued from now on at a cost of only 20c per cover above the face value of the stamps. Then, if you like the game, you can pick up some of the covers of stamps that have been issued in the past few years, most of which are to be had. Let your activities cover the period since the Agency was started and you can form a most interesting collection.

Send for My FIRST DAY COVER CLUB Prospectus.

17¢ WILSON STAMP The Wilson stamp will be sold in Columbia, S. C., New York City, Princeton, N. J., Staunton, Va., and Washington, D. C., on December 28th, the day of issue. I will have a First Day cover sent direct to you from each of these five places for only $2.25.

NEW 13¢ STAMP The new 13c Harrison stamp will be issued early in January. An unused single or block of four and a First Day cover will be mailed you on day of issue for only 30c plus the face value of the stamps.

Members of my FIRST DAY Club will receive these new stamps at prices lower than above, so you'd better join now. It only takes a $1.00 deposit to join.

BUREAU PRINTINGS

Those $ $ $ $ Values

With the Columbian Issue of 1893, the American Bank Note Co. wound up its native philatelic career in a blaze of glory. Folks who knew nothing of philately speculated in Columbians by the acre, just as many who know nothing of real estate values are now buying swamp land in various parts of the country. Soon they were disappointed to find there were not enough boobs left to unload on at a profit and it took the next 20 years to use up these accumulations of Columbians as postage.

It follows that during almost a generation no one did much investing in high value U. S. postage of current vintages. Until the past three or four years, only a few William Wiseheimers seem to have tumbled to the fact that the $2 and $5 stamps of the 1894, 1895, Omaha and 1902 issues are missing from most collections. The bi-colored $2 and $5 stamps of more recent days are far from plentiful because most of the time they were in use the smaller stamps of the 1902 type, perf. 10, were available.

Our holdings of these stamps are limited, but we have a few, which we offer as follows:

By H. P. ATHERTON, 318 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to United States postage stamps, 1847-1870 only. Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

We have a good crop of Forum material this week. Mr. Fred Jarrett helps out a lot by sending a proof sheet of his Canadian cancellations. This gives a good idea of what reproduces best in print in these cancellations. Sometimes the more delicate detail and letters are "lost". It is difficult to picture thin lines which are close together.

The first twenty groups are now ready for the Forum, and I hope that you may have the first installment "on approval" 'round Xmas time. Twenty more groups are under way. There are about ten cancels to the group. Very few odd cancels have come out of the West, the Southwest, and the South. Wish some of the readers in these localities would put forth a special effort to send in something. To date the state of Connecticut is far in advance of all others.

This week we will describe a lot of covers sent in by Mr. Brooks. A "Prestamp" cover pmkd. "Watertown N Y" in red shows the letters NY colorless in what looks like a curved board at the bottom of the circular pmk., the ends of this "board" being jagged as tho the board were broken off short each side of the letters. It is at the time the rate was one of those 18¾c affairs, and a beauty. Another, and one of the prettiest that I have ever seen, is from Hanover, N. H., this being in a rectangle of solid blue, the letters colorless, and the edges of the rectangle are milled, as is another small rectangle alongside holding the word PAID in open letters, also milled edges. Beauty.

A legal size envelope is carried to New York by a beautiful block of four of the 10c 1857's, T. V pmkd. San Francisco, Cal., with year date of 1860. Johnstown Centre, Wis., in a bright green on a 3c 1851 is very pretty. A stampless cover franked by "Jeff Davis" is a very fine item. A light blue pair of 10c Archer & Daly Confederates used from Texas is pretty, and pairs are not common on Confederate covers, except the 5c rate, which was changed right quick to 10c.

A cover with 3c '51 and a Washington City Despatch stamp with the rider of the horse sitting bolt upright is a beautiful item. A pair of T.I 5c '57's in brown is nice, being the 10c rate from San Francisco to Vermont. One cover, about the size of a "visiting card", quite "TNT", has one of the 3c '57 T. II stamps, with a variety showing the left side line running so close to the design of the stamp, that it actually bisects the bottom left diamond block vertically. While rather uncommon, you'll get a copy if you hunt long enough I feel confident.

St. Joseph, Mo., the town where the Pony Express riders set out for the West (it being the western terminus of the Railroad at that time), shows in green on a 3c '57 T. II. This town often hit the reverse side of Express Mail covers with the Pony cancellation in black or in color, occasionally one was struck on the front of the envelope. They are very uncommon.

One of those campaign envelopes with Lincoln and Hamlin and the additional inset of Lincoln as the rail splitter is truly beautiful, the 3c '57 T. II being nicely struck with an orange red pmk. from Newbury, Vt.

The now popular Patriotics seem to deluge Mr. Brooks in answer to his generous ads for old covers. One from Weston, Va., shows Jeff Davis feeding a pig labeled Southern Confederacy with Confederate State Bonds. Dead pigs are lying all around, inscription "That feed won't do." This cover is interesting, however, in that it is pmkd. from a town in Virginia—a C. S. A. State—in fact, the little pig under the gate is plainly labeled Virginia.

There are many of these patriotic covers bearing the customary phrases of that unhappy time. One of these is what they call "Hand Colored", tho the color was evidently not applied by hand. These covers are very elaborate and beautiful, and are quite effective without the usual run of words.

Mr. A. H. Keyes sends word that he has a cover with a different type of "sticker" than the last of same type mentioned. This is the postman stepping over the Phila. Stock Exchange Bldg., and reads "Who would carry a letter to the Post Office when Blood does it so cheaply?" This is interesting—what does your cover say?

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

NEW ICELAND SET

Five Values, 7 Aur to 50 Aur, in Three Different Designs

There has been issued a pretty set of five stamps for use in Iceland. The values are 7 aur green, 10 aur brown and blue, 20 aur scarlet, 35 aur blue and 50 aur brown and green. There are three designs as follows:

(a) Harbor scene, south coast.
(b) Reykjavik with Mt. Ezja in rear.
(c) National Museum (Reykjavik).

The 35 aur is same design as the 10 aur and the 50 aur the same as the 7 aur.

THE GODDEN EXHIBITS AT WEMBLY

The article below is clipped from the "London Philatelist," in which it appears as an editorial. In connection with these exhibits made by the Godden firm there are certain outstanding features worthy of attention. These exhibits were distributed throughout the Exhibition and it would be quite impossible for anyone to make a visit there without seeing one or more of them. Considering that there were twenty-eight million visitors from all over the world and that seventy-one colonial governments considered philately of sufficient importance to be represented in their various pavilions, the interests of philately and incidentally the trade have throughout the world been greatly benefited.

The Godden exhibits entailed the use of over $100,000 of stock, and the two hundred frames cost over $750. The case in the Newfoundland pavilion was made in the form of a pyramid and was placed in the center of the pavilion. It cost $125. The work was colossal, every exhibit being artistically arranged and written up with the idea of appealing to the non-collector as well as the collector. The firm received sixteen medals and seventy-one diplomas:—

"It would not require an affidavit from the Secretary of the Society—who watches the business interests of this paper with exemplary care—to support the contention that free advertisement to any member of the trade is not part of our programme. Quite apart from the pecuniary loss which it would involve, discrimination would certainly be invidious if not impossible. This tribute therefore creates no precedent and is not intended in any way as an advertisement for services rendered.

It is, however, part of the Society's programme—and it is carried out to the best of our ability in the Society's journal—to note any efforts made in the furtherance of Philately as a hobby and a science, to encourage such efforts, and to offer congratulations and thanks to their author whether amateur or dealer.

It is in this spirit, and with this object, that we place on record the indebtedness of the philatelic world to Messrs. Frank Godden, Ltd., for their exhibits of stamps in the Government and Colonial—we had nearly said Home and Colonial—sections at Wembley, both this year and last. We do not suppose there are many who would attempt to advise Mr. Godden on the gentle art of advertisement; but, unless the writer is greatly mistaken, the firm do not, and cannot, expect returns from this advertisement which would at all compensate for its cost.

As values increase in stamps it becomes correspondingly essential that money should be turned over, and an advertisement which involves the tying-up of some thousands of pounds of stock, quite apart from the risks of depreciation, can only be justified if a proportion be deducted from the cost representing a purely idealistic end in the general propagation of Philately. We trust that so enterprising an effort will meet with some response and that Messrs. Godden will not have to write off too much for 'good intentions.'

The exhibits themselves are of historical and philatelic interest and represent a very good general survey of the field. Indeed there can hardly be a collector who will not covet something, as the classic issues and rarities are well represented. Possibly the star item is the matchless block of the 1d Black, Plate XI, and this piece has the merit of raising in the normally intelligent and inquisitive lay mind a question as to why this plate should be so rare and as to how it can be recognised. The reply to such a question involves an insight into the results of research in one branch of the science, and many people are not philatelists only because they do not appreciate and have never been told how and where the science comes in.

All the Colonies seem to be represented. There are British Guiana early issues, Cape of Good Hope, Ceylon pence issues, British North American imperforates, Mauritius local issues, and some grand early Australians, particularly Sydney Views. In many cases there are not only singles but rare and fine strips and blocks, and the exhibit goes down to the present day and includes the rarities of Ireland and of Palestine.

Messrs. Godden must have worked on the basis that if a thing is worth doing it is worth doing well. The exhibits could not be bettered."

COVER DESIGN WANTED

Next January we shall publish a missionary number of the WEEKLY, and we desire a cover design that will be appropriate. We have many subscribers who are expert with pen and pencil and we invite them all to a friendly rivalry in originality and skill. The drawing if larger than a page of the WEEKLY should be made proportionately.

We offer for a first prize $25 and $10 will be given for all sketches that may be acceptable for cover designs. All drawings must be in our office by January 1, 1926, the earlier the better.

PHILATELIC PLATE NUMBER ASSOCIATION

By R. W. BECKER, Easton, Pa.

The Philatelic Plate Number Association is now being organized. Its object is to bring together all collectors of Plate Numbers on issues of United States stamps only. These numbers are collected most extensively on single stamps, on blocks usually of 6 or 12 of all issues, or only the commemorative issues; on blocks of imperforated stamps of all issues; coils and booklet panes. Some collectors also specialize in the surface printed stamps. The numbers are also collected in five positions, that is, the two top, right, left and bottom positions.

The collecting of these stamps to form complete issues has been difficult. Collectors are scattered in all parts of the country, and usually have only two or three friends to exchange with. No post office receives all the plate numbers issued and most post offices receive only a very small fraction in number of all the plate numbers printed. On the other hand, the collector receives many duplicates from any one post office. To dispose of his duplicates and obtain his requirements, it is very desirable and advantageous to know collectors in many cities and in many different states. The interest in the collection of plate numbers could be very advantageously extended by bringing to the attention of all collectors and prospective collectors, the fact that plate numbers can be obtained at every post office or sub-station. The stamps thus purchased can be more easily converted into cash when desired, or necessity requires, than a collection of foreign stamps. The U. S. stamps are always good for postage and can always be sold for face value or better, while the foreign stamps, as a rule, on quick sale will bring less than the purchase price. Also the cash investment will not be large if the collector is content to collect the low denominations only. Membership in the P. P. N. A. will bring him in contact with other collectors of this specialty, and give him all the pleasure possible from the exchange of stamps. The young collector can build up an interesting collection and enjoy the search for scarce or missing numbers without the sacrifice of principle. The number of main and minor varieties issued today by our P. O. Department permits the forming of a large collection.

After many months of deliberation, the writer has undertaken the formation of this club, without the hope of fee or reward, fully aware of the great difficulties of reaching the specialists who are most interested, convincing the skeptical and transmitting the light of a new sphere of activity. An association wherein only members can benefit and the value of membership increases with the number of entrants. The object being to get all interested parties to join, all available means will be used to reach as many prospects as possible. To accomplish this purpose some advertising will be necessary, for which each member is assessed 80 cents upon entering plus 20c for postage on 10 notices he will receive at intervals of about one month. The entrance fee is therefore the small sum of $1.00, which will be entirely expended in the interests of the member. Upon entering, the collector receives a list of the members' names, addresses and their specialties. New names will be sent with the notices and any items of news received pertaining to this specialty.

This is the start of a drive in which all stamp collectors should be interested to the extent of assisting all they can to make it a big success. If you have no inclination to start a plate number collection, you can help by sending the writer the name and address of any collector you know who might be interested.

ANNOUNCEMENT EXTRAORDINARY

One of the most interesting and instructive branches of Philately is the collecting of AIRMAIL stamps and covers. Its popularity has been increasing so rapidly in this country that it has been practically impossible to form a collection, due to the scarcity of material. Realizing this fact, our Mr. Barger spent the entire summer abroad, scouring the Philatelic centers of Europe, with the result that several fine stocks and collections were purchased in various countries. Most important of all, however, was an arrangement whereby we are now the sole agents in the United States and Canada for Mr. ALAN TURTON of London, England, a pioneer in AIRMAIL, who undoubtedly holds the finest stock in the world.

We have opened a new department, whereby we are equipped to give you service and a comprehensive stock of stamps, vignettes and covers, pertaining to the alluring fascination of the collecting of AIRMAIL. You will find below a few interesting offers, showing but a small range of our stock. Want lists are solicited, and we feel sure we can supply almost anything from common pieces to the great rarities.

EDITORIAL.

POSTMASTERS have been instructed not to remove 1-cent stamps from books and coils unless told to do so by the department. Too, the annual warning is given that Christmas or other labels must not be affixed to the front or the address sides of envelopes sent to foreign countries as, if these non-postage stamps are attached in this manner, the mail will be returned to the senders, if known and if not, to the Dead Letter Division.

AN interesting cover has been shown by Professor H. H. Schroeder, Normal, Illinois, that bears a pair of five cent of 1847, U. S., that was sent to this country from Canada and addressed simply: Professor J. B. Turner, Illinois College. This college was at Jacksonville, Illinois. The cover bears the postmark of St. Catherines, Feb. 11, 1850, U. C. and Lewiston, Feb. 13, N. Y.

THE Furniture Record for November, 1925, pays its respects to Henry Ford. Hear: "Henry Ford wanted these freaks made by stamp collector. Mrs. Josephine Farrell, Winthrop, Mass., has given a new zest to stamp collecting. It was while seeking some new method of saving stamps that she conceived the idea of decorating her furniture with them." The famous chair and bed are pictured as big as life. Then: "Mrs. Farrell appears proud of her 'artistry.' Who wouldn't be? It's our opinion that although she may be a cracker-jack stamp collector, her genius as a furniture decorator is very much misguided." Mr. Browne comments: "Here's the ultima thule, the penultimate in the stamp game."

THE Chicago American in an editorial recently paid a great tribute to Mr. A. W. Filstrup and brother of Benton Harbor, Michigan, with the heads: "Fine Citizenship. Two brothers in a Michigan Town Give an Illuminating Display of it in Presenting an Athletic Field." It is needless to say that Mr. A. W. Filstrup is one of our best collectors, whose early U. S. in particular have made him the cynosure of philatelic eyes.

THE Ferrari sales have been finished and as a testimonial to the wonderful power of absorption of the stamp market, they stand unapproached. They have proved that the permanency of philately is no longer to be argued against and a total of about $2,000,000 needs no further comment.

SOME time ago, an article appeared in the WEEKLY, the writer of which used the word "philatelical" in place of the more familiar form, "philatelic." In his copy we changed each "philatelical" to "philatelic" and when the article appeared, the author wanted to know what warrant we had to make the alteration. He cited authorities to support the use of "philatelical" and made us fall back on the claim that while the forms of the word were correct, "philatelic" was preferable because it was shorter. He stuck to his guns and said that there was no reason why philatelical should not be accepted as readily as the other form. In a recent number of the Literary Digest we find the following analysis: "The distinction between the suffixes ic and ical is often one without a difference. . . . In some cases, the words are different in sense; as, politic, political. In many cases, especially where the form in ic is used as a noun, the adjectival form is exclusively ical; as, music, musical, but scientifical is a variant form of scientific, the form preferred by the dictionary." In the light of this discriminating discussion, the use of "philatelic" is to be preferred to that of the longer word, "philatelical."

WE have been inclined to consider the highly individualized advertisement as indigenous to our country. In the growth of advertising knowledge in general, an elementary stage was marked by the appearance of the "smart" and "clever" ad that sometimes was given point by a burst of candor or humor based on some very human quality. Here we find in an English philatelic journal the following example of bright and breezy appeal that will cause the reader to smile even if it does not impel him to buy stamps: "Willie Rouse (Wireless Willie), The alleged humorist is crazy on stamps, too . . . . . I've no rarities, worse luck. If honest send references; if not, don't bother." "Nuthook" is a part of the address.

IN a chatty letter from Mr. Theodore Siddall, Shanghai, China, there are several allusions to recent postal changes in China: "You have heard that China no longer has the cheapest domestic letter rate on earth, as the letter rate has been advanced to 4c. The postal card rates were advanced also but as scarcely anybody in the east ever sends postal cards (most of the people don't even know that there are such things) this caused no sorrow. You have read about the students' strikes: the increase in postage rates is about all that China will get out of the strikes. The students were said to have instigated the post office employees to strike but upon the promise of the authorities to ask powers from Peking to raise their pay, the post office men went back to work after one day. The authorities were not severe on the strikers inasmuch as they tried not long ago to advance the letter rates and had printed a big stock of 4 cent stamps in a new color, anticipating the change. So now we have 4 cent postage and the surcharge of 3 cent on 4 cent stamp is not of much real use any more. It is said that the big stock of 3 cent stamps will be surcharged 1 cent in order to use them up. You have a stale item of news in your chronicle of new issues in the paper of September 28th. The Chinese five, ten and twenty dollar stamps were on sale to collectors until June 30th, I think the date was, but only canceled. Of course, they were to be sold at face and as the five and ten were worth much below face, when used, the sale could not have been large." Information concerning the retirement of these high values was given in the WEEKLY long before the supplementary notice appeared.

MR. BENEDICT PRIETH, Avon-by-the-Sea, New Jersey, writes: "Woodrow Wilson is not the only ex-president whose portrait has not appeared on our postage stamps. Why did we never have issues with the pictures of the two Adams, Filmore, Pierce, Tyler, Buchanan and Chester A. Arthur? Surely some of these former presidents were just as useful and intelligent as Mr. Wilson. (This, coming from a son of Old Nassau, class of '91, will no doubt be considered rank heresy by our Democratic friends.) Just consider how long Rutherford B. Hayes had to wait before he was immortalized via the postage stamp route! To all Wilson enthusiasts I would say 'Festina lente'. Their idol will get there in due season." What a historical vista, Mr. Prieth's remarks bring to mind, and it may be added that they may be the basis of controversial comment.

IN the screen comedy, "Good Morning, Madam," one of the sub-titles is: "It tells you how to collect postage stamps, your husband's salary and things like that." Reference is made to the book that the woe-begone book-agent hopes to sell; and this bit of trade jargon would be an open sesame to the philatelic household, but as it was, the poor canvasser had the door slammed in his face.

JAMAICAN CHILD WELFARE

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Of the Jamaican Child Welfare stamps, ½d, 1d and 2½d (first issued Nov. 1, 1923, and withdrawn Jan. 31, 1924), there were available for reissue on Nov. 1, 1924, 78,569 stamps (£417.6.7½). In December, 1924, further quantities of ½d and 2½d were received (83,280 stamps, £253.10.0), making a total of 161,849 stamps (£670.16.7½).

	Remainders from 1923-1924.	Dec. 1924. Receipts	Totals
1d,	36,166		36,166	150.13.10
2½d,	21,396	9,600	30,996	322.17. 6
	78,569	83,280	161,849	£670.16. 7½

The sale of these stamps ceased on Jan. 31, 1925, and those remaining unsold in the District Post Offices were returned to Kingston, for accounting and safekeeping.

The quantities of stamps sold during the three months (Nov. 1, 1924 to Jan. 31, 1925), and in the previous season (1923-24), were as follows:—

	1924-1925.		1923-1924.
½d,	12,423	£ 25.17. 7½	13,073	£ 27. 4. 8½
1d,	11,611	48. 7. 7	16,629	69. 5. 9
2½d,	9,676	100.15.10	8,239	85.16. 5½
	33,710	£175. 1. 0½	37,941	£182. 6.11

On the basis of 33,710 stamps sold, the Child Saving League received £70.4.7 (representing ½d overage per stamp), slightly less than the previous year (£79.0.10½) when 37,941 stamps were disposed of. This grant was possible only by the Post Office Dept. absorbing the whole cost of manufacture of the stamps, a sum not to be lightly regarded, as they are printed from line engraved plates at two operations. In Switzerland where Pro Juventute stamps are issued annually, ½ centime of the overage, per stamp, is retained by the Postal Administration to defray the expense of making the issue, handling, etc.

In compiling the record of returns, certain deductions were made (for which the Child Saving League received no credit, of course), i.e., 62 sets (½d, 1d and 2½d) were distributed as specimens, and some stamps were in such bad condition (torn, stuck together, etc.) that 121 ½d, 103 1d and 108 2½d had to be destroyed.

The remainders therefore were as follows:—

1d,	24,390	101.12. 6
2½d,	21,150	220. 6. 3
	127,621	£492.18. 9½

During the closing days of October, 1925, the following Post Office Notice appeared in the Jamaica Gleaner, and on Monday, November 2nd, 1925, the stamps were again re-issued for sale until Jan. 31, 1926.

"NOTICE.
Child Welfare.

A special issue of Postage and Revenue stamps bearing the words 'Child Welfare' of the following denominations, ½d, 1d, 2½d, will be sold for 1d, 1½d, 3d each, respectively at the General Post Office and certain District Post Offices during November, December, 1925, and January, 1926.

The extra halfpenny charged over and above the face value of each stamp will be for the benefit of 'Child Welfare', the value for postal purposes is what is printed on each stamp.

Signed, R. H. FLETCHER,
Postmaster for Jamaica.

G. P. O.
31st October, 1925."

The Jamaican P. O. Dept. continues to refuse to fill orders for these stamps received through the post, which has created the impression in some quarters that the stamps are locals only, and cannot be used on Empire or U. P. U. mails. This is not correct.

In a letter of 21st March, 1922, the Colonial Office transmitted to the Secretary of the G. P. O., London, for comment, a copy of dispatch No. 98, dated 15th February, 1922, from H. E. the Governor of Jamaica (Sir Leslie Probyn) asking if "you would approve of this Government adopting a similar system (having reference to the Pro Juventute stamp of Switzerland) in this Island, the four denominations of stamps to be so used to be the 1½d, 2d, 2½d and 3d."

The Secretary of the G. P. O., in replying to the Colonial Office, on 30th March, 1922, wrote in part:—

"The prohibition against the use in the International service of postage stamps of temporary validity which formerly appeared in the Postal Union Convention has now been removed; and if the proposed issue of special stamps is sanctioned in Jamaica, it will not be necessary to restrict the use of the stamps to the inland service of the Colony. Specimens of the stamps (401 of each) should be, however, sent to this Office for distribution throughout the Postal Union, if they are to be used for the prepayment of other than inland postal packets."

Although sold by the Jamaican Post Offices only during the three months (November, December and January of each year), their use is not prohibited in other months.

SCOTT'S NO. 499B

Several years back the 2c stamp of the previous issue, namely, issue of 1917 to 1920, was found in Norfolk, Va., with the vertical perforations missing. The find was made by Dr. William Evans, and the writer at the time acquired the available supply, which was quickly distributed. Such varieties to-day are only available when the larger collections are broken up and always make an excellent investment, for they are gradually increasing in value. The issue has been discontinued, so there is no possibility of more being located.

I can furnish a superb block of four of this most interesting stamp at $100.

Also in a position to furnish most of the other 20th century errors, as well as all of the normal varieties in both mint singles and blocks.

May I be favored with your want list.

A FREE TRIP TO NEW YORK

The J. P. S., of London, is offering the most valuable prize ever offered in connection with a philatelic competition.

It is nothing less than a Free Trip to the International Philatelic Exhibition in New York next October.

You may live in London or in the provinces or abroad, but from wherever you are the J. P. S. will give you a free passage to New York, in October, 1926, if you are adjudged the first prize winner in this competition.

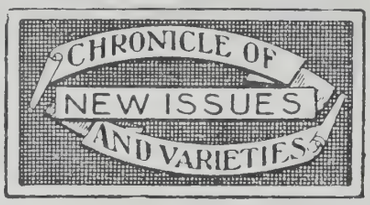
No special skill or philatelic knowledge is necessary. The prize may be won by an adult or a child. A little work is all that is required, and it is work which a boy can do as well as a man.

The first prize of a Free Trip to New York will go to the member of the J. P. S., who secures the most new members for the Junior Philatelic Society before September 1st, 1926.

It is easy to get new members for the J. P. S., for the Society offers advantages to its members worth far more than the small annual subscription of 5s.

We want you to tell all your friends about the wonderful exhibition to be held in New York, and tell them also about the Junior Philatelic Society and the advantages of being a member. You will soon find that they appreciate being invited to join, and you will have the honour of enrolling them. Every new member you secure will bring you a step nearer the first prize of a free trip to New York, next October, when you will have all the delights of luxurious travel and of seeing the greatest stamp exhibition the world has ever known.

If you are not already a member, that is a matter which is easily remedied. The Hon. Secretary is Major Gold, 44 Fleet Street, London, E.C.4. Get in at the start and so secure as much time as possible for canvassing new members to win the free trip.



There will be scores of other prizes, of which a list is being prepared, so that those who do not come out first in the contest will still come in for some valuable and interesting prizes.

It cannot be too strongly emphasized that this is a competition in which young and old may enter with equal zest and opportunity. The schoolboy has a fine chance at school for securing a good start, but anyone with collecting friends and correspondents may do equally well.

17c Woodrow Wilson, Black

I have been officially informed that the new postage stamp with portrait of Woodrow Wilson will be available on December 28th next, the birthday of the late president. The stamp will be printed in what is known as bank note black and will be printed in sheets of four hundred which in turn will be distributed in post office panes of one hundred. The stamps will be similar to the higher denominations in size, that is the long dimension horizontally. Like the balance of the issue, they will be printed on unwatermarked paper, will be produced by the flat bed plate method only and will be perforated 11. On the first day, the stamps will be available at Staunton, Va., the birthplace of Woodrow Wilson, at Princeton, N. J., his home, in New York City, and also in Washington.

13c Harrison, Issue of 1926

I also learn that a new 13c stamp is being prepared and this denomination will have a portrait of Benjamin Harrison, twenty-third President of the United States. The stamp will be similar to the lower denominations in size and as yet a definite color has not been decided upon. The variety will be available on January 11th.

Rotary Prints

After the first of the year, it is expected that the Bureau will install more rotary presses, which will enable them to turn out further denominations of the lower values, which will in turn add to our perforated 10 series. The 7c, 8c and 9c are still to come in this form and when sufficient presses are available to take care of the requirements of the precanceled stamps of the lower denominations, we may then look for some of the greater used higher denominations turned out by the same methods.

1879, 1c American Double Transfer

Mr. Warner Bates has shown me two copies of the 1c, 1879, American print, each stamp with a distinct double transfer. The two stamps are no duobt impressions from the identical plate position and the variety is double almost throughout. I recall but one other double transfer of the later isues which is so distinct.

1922, 2c Dry Print

Mr. Frederick V. Markee kindly submits for inspection a block of the 2c current issue perforated 11 from plate No. 17362. The block is a dry print and shows the plate to be in a somewhat worn condition.

Rev. J. Dreyer kindly submits a block of the same stamp from the star plate No. 17346, wherein the star at the right is double. This is a plate variety and not a double impression of the star.

Canal Zone

Mr. John H. Clapp advises me that the 1c current issue of the Canal Zone has been located with the "Canal" overprint normal but with "Zone" inverted. I learn elsewhere that forty to fifty panes showing this variety have been acquired by one of the dealers.

Mr. Clapp further informs me that he has seen the 5c Roosevelt with the "Zone Zone" error, in addition to the 1c green Postage Due.

DAHOMEY.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 60c, in the design of the 1913 type, in violet on pinkish.

DENMARK.—In writing to us regarding the color change of 2kr, which is appearing in the design of the current ore stamps, in grey frame and claret centre, Mr. A. E. Pade also adds that further new issues are to be expected on account of a change in the foreign postal rates as of Nov. 1st last the letter rate has been reduced from 40 to 30 ore.

FRANCE.—Whitfield King & Co. send us an 80c red orange in the type of A20 and also 1fr 05 value also in red orange in type A22. The color of the latter value is a trifle deeper than the 80c.

FRENCH GUIANA.—Whitfield King & Co. informs us that five values have been issued in new colors: 10c orange red, design of A13; 30c orange, 50c grey, 60c violet, all in type A14 and 1fr blue in the usual franc design.

HEDJAZ.—Our Alexandria Special Correspondent, Mr. A. Sempad, submits a sheet (50) of the current 10 piastres with the date overprint ("5 RABI EL AWAL") inverted on the first, fourteenth, and thirty-seventh stamps, and the year ("1343") inverted on the first, fifth, fourteenth, and thirty-first stamps. These errors were corrected directly they were discovered by the printers. Our correspondent informs us that no errors have been detected in the case of those sheets which have the year on the left-hand side of the stamp.—Stamp Collecting.

JAPAN.—Whitfield King & Co. write that they have received copies of the 13s (a new value) in olive brown color.

JIND STATE.—Further printings of current provisionals—3a blue (ordinary), 12,800; 1a brown (Service), 128,000.—(Phil. Journal of India).

LIECHTENSTEIN.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us three stamps, all of the same design, bearing the likeness of the statesman which is shown on the 35rp of the 1923 series and having a two line inscription "Fvrstentvm Liechtenstein" below with the date "1840" at the left and "1925" at the right. ie upper corners and our correspondents st them as follows: 10rp+5c green, 0rp+5c rose and 30rp+5c blue.

MADAGASCAR.—Whitfield King & Co. port two new items for this colony: 0c brown and lilac and 30c green and ac, both in the current type.

MALTA.—In view of the imminent re-uction to 2½d of the overseas postage te, a large part of the stock on hand of pictorial has been surcharged "2½d" the Government Printing Office. Our ecial Correspondents, Messrs. A. Ca-ia & Co., who send this important ws on reliable authority, report receipt a fresh stock of this same 3d stamp th only a slight difference in shade.—mp Collecting.

MONGOLIA.—A correspondent in Man-uria has sent us specimens of postage mps issued for this place. They are a large envelope posted at Urga, ad-essed to a firm at Harbin, but as the inese Post Office does not recognise se stamps, the letter was surcharged means of six Chinese 20c Postage Due mps. The Mongolian stamps are of ur denominations, 5 cents, black, grey, ret and yellow on white paper, 10 cents, e, black and brown on blue, 20 cents, e, black and slate on grey, 50 cents, and black on salmon. The engraving printing is well executed, the central design is difficult to describe, but appears to be four crowns in the form of a cross, the values are printed in black in Mongolian and English. Our correspondent states that letters seldom come through into China from Urga and the stamps are scarce, as the Mongolian Government forbids stamps being sent out of the country.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

MOROCCO AGENCIES ON GT. BRITAIN.—Mr. W. T. Wilson sends for chronicle the 10p stamp of Gt. Britain, new Waterlow print and watermark, surcharged as heretofore for use as 1 franc. This is the first value to appear in French currency.

SOUTH WEST AFRICA.—Mr. R. Roberts and Whitfield King & Co. send us copies of the ½p green, 3p ultramarine and 5sh blue and purple stamps of Union of South Africa bearing the surcharge "South West Africa" and "Zuidwest Africa" in two lines in black. The overprint on the words "South West" is 16mm-16½mm while that of "Zuidwest" is 12mm 9½mm between "South West" and "Africa." Mr. Roberts advises further that in examining the sheet carefully he finds that in the top panels the words "South West" measure 16½mm while in the two lower 16mm. These values complete the set of type 5 with the exception of the 1 pound value.

TANGANYIKA.—Whitfield King & Co. and Mr. R. Roberts send the following values on script watermark paper, 5c green and black, 10c orange and black, 25c blue and black and 30c purple and black.

ZANZIBAR.—Mr. G. V. Stewart advises us that he has received information from Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., that they expect that the Zanzibar change will only effect the low values because these are portrait stamps and there will be no excuse for altering the stamps of high values. Also that there is no intention of dropping the use of the latter.

IN PASSING

Harry R. Marlow informs us that on Friday evening Nov. 20 a meeting of about twenty stamp collectors was held at the office of Dr. A. C. Tidd, Youngstown, Ohio, and a stamp club was organized which will meet every two weeks. Collectors from Warren and other nearby cities were present. Local collectors desiring further information may communicate with Harry R. Marlow, Warren, Ohio.

Joseph A. Steinmetz sends us a column clipping from the New York Times of Nov. 29 entitled, "Stamps Reflect Life of the Nation". It is a review of historical events and features of great men as seen upon United States postage stamps by our Postmaster General Harry S. New.

In November "World's Work" is an appreciative sketch of the forestry work being done by Charles Lathrop Pack. The article is accompanied by a full page picture of Mr. Pack.

A Handbook of the Aero Philatelic Society of America is at hand. Besides the official matter dealing with the work of the Society there is a list of members and we note that no fewer than 143 are now listed as members of this organization. At the same time the second annual number of the Aero News-letter comes to hand, and much interesting matter is scattered throughout its pages.

We are informed by C. E. Nickles that the new 17c Wilson stamp will be on sale at five places on Dec. 28, the day of issue. These post offices are at Columbia, S. C., Princeton, N. J., Staunton, Va., N. Y. City, and Washington, D. C. The new 13c Harrison will be issued early in January.

The stamp essay contest of the Philatelic Section of the Maryland Academy of Sciences, 105 W. Franklin St., Baltimore, Md., which was to close Dec. 5, has been extended to January 29. Entries may be sent to the address given.

H. E. Harris & Co., 535 Commonwealth Av., Boston, Mass., has just issued a very finely illustrated pricelist of South and Central America. It is a handsome production and will be sent to any address upon request.

We are indebted to Hon. Ernest R. Ackerman for a specimen of a new set of stamps issued for parcel post service in Greenland. The stamps were recently issued, being found necessary to take care of Greenland's growing parcel post business. The set of stamps consists of six values, 1, 2, 5, 10, 15 and 20 ore. The stamps secured by Mr. Ackerman have been cancelled, but they were taken direct from the envelopes and wrappers on which they were used as postage.

Severn-Wylie-Jewett Co., Beverly, Mass. Portland, Me.

FAR AND NEAR:—

We have received from the Marks Stamp Co., Toronto, Can., their Catalog No. 80, a most imposing price-list of 196 pages. The extent of the publication is indicated by its size and it is the most pretentious price-list ever issued by this firm. The catalog index comprising three pages makes a very handy reference list, and no dealer or collector can afford to be without this list.

Joseph A. Steinmetz sends us the Postal Bulletin for Tuesday, Nov. 24. In connection with regular and parcel post mails to the Federated Malay States and British North Borneo the announcement is made that among articles prohibited are imitations of postage stamps and articles bearing imitations of the postage stamps of any country. The North Borneo order includes imitations of postage stamps "whether current or not".

We are indebted to R. M. Telschow, Ridgewood, N. J., for our first 1926 calendar. It is a handsome production.

The Mower advertisement is of interest this week in that it announces the purchase of the Watson stock of sets and packets. The prices quoted are very reasonable.

G. A. Hunt answers the question asked in a recent number. He writes that a piece of alum about the size of a lima bean to a quart of water will furnish a solution that will keep red from running when stamps of this color are placed in water to remove paper from their backs.

Would you like to remember a worthy shut-in with a bit of Christmas cheer? If so, send some of your duplicate stamps to Lancelot G. Reeves, 503 N. Smith St., Charlotte, N. C. The Managing Editor has investigated and finds that Mr. Reeves is worthy of this favor. We have set a good example and trust numerous of our readers will follow the same. The letter of thanks that you receive will justify the confidence bestowed.

Arthur Barger of Framingham, Mass., is with us in our advertising columns this week after an absence of some years. During a trip abroad this summer and after a conference with Mr. Alan Turton, Mr. Barger was appointed sole agent for the U. S. and Canada. The advertisement of air-mail stock in this issue is an evidence of the extensive stock he possesses. During his trans-Atlantic trip Mr. Barger saw increasing activities in air-mail philately and most of the dealers are enthusiastic about air stamps.

NEW SBT FOR NEW ZEALAND

Messrs. Wilcox, Smith & Co., of Dunedin, New Zealand, inform us that Specimens of the special postage stamp to be issued by the Post and Telegraph Department in connection with the New Zealand and South Seas International Exhibition, 1925-26, the design for which has been approved by the Minister and the Exhibition Authorities, have now reached Dunedin.

The design consists of a Maori border enclosing a view of the head of the Grand Court, and Dome of the Festival Hall, and hills beyond, with lettering and numerals below. The values are ½d Green, 1d Red and 4d Mauve. The aim of the designer has been to produce a well balanced artistic stamp, appropriate to such an important Exhibition.

An artistic effect of strong sunlight plays over the buildings and grounds, and hills in the background. In order to render the design still more distinctive, for the surrounding border, an adaptation of a Maori tanike pattern has been introduced, and in each upper corner a representation of a Maori carved head.

Attention has been paid to the lettering, this being in the Roman style. Care has been taken in the selection of the quality of the colours used in the printing, and over the whole design, a light tone has been printed which adds to the general appearance.

The stamp was designed by the well-known artist, Mr. H. Linley Richardson, R. B. A., Wellington. Mr. Richardson was also the designer of the King George issue of New Zealand postage stamps and other stamps.

The stamps are now being printed at the Government Printing Office, and should be available for sale at the Exhibition Post Office on the opening day, Tuesday, November 17th. The stamps will be on sale at the Exhibition Post Office only.

THE WILSON STAMP.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing today completed work on the die proof of the new Woodrow Wilson 17 cent stamp, the design for which was recently approved by Postmaster General New. Mr. New passed the die proof, and work will be rushed in order to have the first issue placed on sale December 28, birthday of the war-time President.

On that day it is planned to sell the stamps at Staunton, Va., Wilson's birthplace; Princeton, N. J., his last home before coming to the White House, and at New York City, the home of the headquarters of the Woodrow Wilson foundation. For the benefit of stamp collectors and dealers they also will be sold at the Philatelic Agency, Division of Stamps, Post Office Department, Washington, as well as the Washington post office.

It is expected that the 17 cent stamp will be used to a large extent in prepayment or registration and postage fees on first class matter and that it will be in great demand for parcel post mailings. It is estimated that 60,000,000 will be required to meet demands during the next year.

The portrait selected for the stamp received the approval of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and of Norman Davis, President of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, and is understood to have been Mr. Wilson's favorite pose, having been taken during his second term of office.

The stamp is the same shape and size, a horizontal rectangle, as the 20 cent stamp of the current series and is printed in bank note black ink. The central design is a portrait of Woodrow Wilson within a semi-circle and is partly enclosed in a panel which is supported on either side by acanthus scrolls. Within this panel, and above the portrait, appears the words "United States Postage" in white Roman letters. On a ribbon below the portrait is the name "Wilson" and under this, at the bottom of the stamp, appears the word "Cents." In both lower corners, within circles with dark backgrounds, are the white numerals "17." Triangular white-line ornaments appear in both upper corners and the entire stamp is enclosed within a single white-line border.

ADDRESS BY SENATOR CALDER

(Clipping from F. ARETZ.)

Some of the finer phases of philately were revealed by Senator J. A. Calder of Ottawa in the course of an address to members of the Toronto Stamp Collectors' Club in the Oddfellows' Temple, November 26th.

Senator Calder, who was elected Honorary President of the club this year, said that in recent years he had had more time than now to give attention to stamps. He had begun as a boy in the "seventies," and had kept it up ever since. He still had his original album, which was very much mutilated, with the stamps pasted in good and hard, but he prized the book very much.

A man should collect what he is interested in, said the speaker. "I do not care what it is, whether it is revenue stamps, picture stamps, or any other kind," declared the Senator. He could have as much pleasure out of a 5-cent stamp as he could out of a $1,000 stamp. Unless a man had that spirit he might as well collect old pianos, automobiles, or anything else, said Senator Calder.

By 27 votes to 4 the Toronto Stamp Club decided that ladies be permitted to become members of the club. — Toronto Globe.

HEAR YE:

Mr. N. R. Hoover, 250 Coligni Ave., New Rochelle, N. Y., has been requested by the Board of Directors of the Society of Philatelic Americans to prepare a history of that organization. He wants all of the early particulars of the organizers and workers of the old Southern Philatelic Society, as it was called formerly, and old-timers with a fund of reminiscences should heed his clarion call.

Those members of the American Philatelic Society who have ideas on the subject of dues and who have not responded to the invitation of the circular letter from Secretary Davis should take their pens in hand. It looks as though the life members who paid twenty dollars for their dues are resting too easily on their enterprise.

The post office department asks postmasters to apply legible postmarks to matter originating in their offices. Special delivery and special handling stamps will ensure the delivery of mail on Christmas, as on other holidays and Sundays.

One of the German wholesale dealers, Mr. Paul R. Schwerdtner, enclosed with his list recently a complete sheet of the 1 million mark stamps with his advertisement on the margin.

Mr. Eugene Klein, Philadelphia, exhibited the attractive lots in his sale of December 14th, at the Sherman Hotel, Chicago, where his friends gathered to admire the various exceptional stamps, particularly early U. S. varieties, cancellations, etc., not to mention the foreign that make the sale a really distinctive one.

An Associated Press dispatch says that the Woodrow Wilson stamp is promised for December 28th, denomination of 17 cents, and that a 13c stamp, with the features of Benjamin Harrison, will be issued soon afterwards.

The Milwaukee Journal recently contained an interesting illustrated story of the "First Fast Mail from New York to Chicago." The first fast mail train was run in the autumn of 1875 and brought the two cities twelve hours nearer than formerly, in a postal sense. In 1876 the first trans-continental fast mail was operated and there is that striking postmark, "Jarrett & Palmer's Special Fast Trans-Continental Train" around the usual New York postmark which bears testimony to that fact.

Dr. Clarence W. Hennan, Chicago, has in preparation a work on Curacao that will treat the issues of the colony exhaustively and embrace much historical data. The book will be No. 1 of the Chicago Philatelic Society series.

Mr. H. C. Mackell, Minneapolis, Minn., was a recent visitor to Chicago, where he called on some of the stamp folks.

We notice with feelings of satisfaction that an increasing number of our readers are succeeding in having notices of stamp collecting printed in their local papers. In our opinion this is practical work, an ounce of which is worth a pound of promise.

Frank Brown now connected with one of the big newspapers of Omaha, Nebraska, but once a philatelic publisher whose American Philatelic Magazine brought him fame if not fortune, thirty or more years ago, has again qualified as a reader of the stamp papers. We suppose that he will start a new society, the Old-Timers Philatelic Club.

Mr. N. B. Paulson, of Chicago, writes that he will soon be home from his stay in Europe in whose polite philatelic capitals he has become a familiar figure. Mr. C. S. Watson, Los Angeles, has arrived home from his latest trip abroad.

Now and then, some low specimen of humanity taunts us belike the poor pilgarlic who writes: "Why don't you say something about the disadvantages of philately?" Let the lions out, Marius.

"There goes a fine 5c, 1847," said a collector, as he planked down $6.60 for two theater tickets. At that, he slept through a good part of the show.

A Chicago bank makes a display of a few stamps and coins in one of its windows that attracts the wandering eyes of passers-by, but the display exhibit is not one that would edify the philatelist.

JOHN W. PREVOST AT BOSTON MEET

John W. Prevost, of Springfield, gave the Boston Philatelic Society a highly interesting evening at the November meeting with his talk and exhibit of the later issues of France. This exhibit was really a continuation of the one given the society last spring, as one evening was not adequate to cover Mr. Prevost's collection in a satisfactory manner. The second showing was replete with many oddities, such as ship cancellations and messages on film as carried into Paris by pigeon post during the siege. There were about thirty members present and a few Springfield collectors made the journey over with Mr. Prevost.—Willis H. Bardwell. Sec.

THE 2c COLUMBIAN SPECIALIZED

By E. L. RANDALL.

Are the 2c Columbians worth specializing? This question occurred to me during a restless moment and, ultimately, led me to make a study of this neglected stamp. To satisfy my curiosity I proceeded to examine an unpicked lot of a thousand copies which I saved over thirty years ago and had left untouched. They were on original paper with dates, post marks and cancellations complete. Previously, I had clung to an impression that there were only two distinct types, viz.: the normal and the "broken hat" on Columbus, which were to be found in perhaps three shades of violet, dark violet and grey violet. From this old bunch of stamps I started a specialized collection.

Simple curiosity started my investigation. Likewise, I thought, they were interesting but worthless. However, the unexpected material discovered impelled me to continue until I had made a careful examination of 30,000 copies. While treated and classified according to my own whims, the result of that study may be of interest to other collectors.

To begin with, the stamp is of large size, with beautiful color running into shades, and susceptible of perfect cancellation. They will be treated in three subdivisions, types, shades and cancellations.

TYPES: — The following list gives the variety and the type into which I have classified the different variations from normal, viz.:

(a) Leaf on stem in left circle;
(c) Dot after left numeral;
(d) Dots after left and before right numeral;
(e) Broken background within circles;
(f) Shaded ornament extending into right circle;
(g) "Broken hat" variety and
(h) "Broken hat" in rear.

These dots, leaves and other varieties run true to form in well-defined types, according to the classifications. Probably, they were caused by broken or damaged transfer rolls, and the various types appear in white outline within or between the circles enclosing the numerals.

SHADES:—There were 1,464,588,750 2c Columbians issued. The first issue was on January 2, 1893, and the last issue to postmasters for sale to the public was on Department's order dated April 12, 1894. Being a general issue in use for the primary rate of letter postage, they experienced repeated changes in ink. I had supposed that violet, dark violet and grey violet completed the color scheme; but I found rich purple violet, dark brown violet, flat iron grey, showing scarcely any violet, and the scarce shade of carmine violet. Some of the latter approached the color of light carmine, and where drops or flecks of ink cling to these stamps, it shows an intense carmine. To a practiced eye for color, the shades run riot and one may discover perhaps a dozen fairly distinct shades in which violet appears and recedes, suggesting purple, brown, grey and rich carmine. The latter is a very scarce shade.

Amid this array of color I found that these stamps arranged themselves in seven well-defined shades, which I used for my classifications, viz.: purple violet, brown violet, carmine violet, dark grey violet, dark violet, violet (normal) and light grey violet.

This stamp evidently started with a medium violet, but was soon followed by darker printings. Probably the last printings were in the carmine violet shade. In a lot of 10,000 I found year dates as follows: 1893, 157; 1894, 43. Of the 1893 dates 138 were of medium to dark shades and 19 light shades. Of the 1894 dates 10 were medium to dark, and 33 were light or carmine violet.

From these facts it would appear that the earliest printings were darker shades, followed by the light or so-called carmine shades. Many of the grey shades display no hint of violet, which is equally true of the scarcer shade of carmine. The latter stamp is very pleasing to the eye.

CANCELLATIONS:—The stamp lends itself splendidly to cancellations. The size takes an entire cancellation and the color takes a good impression. Used during the period of transition from the old type to the new type of cancellations, one may therefore discover many odd and curious cancellations, such as various grids, stars, targets, etc., in colors as well as letters and numerals with and without bars. In selecting cancellations I laid aside only those showing sharp and clear impressions. From 10,000 copies I selected varieties of such cancellations as follows:

Targets,	244
Grids and stars,	209
Quarterings and open crosses,	237
Bars with letters and numerals,	352
Pen cancelled,	20

There were many other interesting items, including several stamps of dark shades, showing plate flaws and various ribbed paper, and one stamp which I designate a "paste-up" pair. This stamp shows the union of two sheets of paper like a "paste-up" coil. Part of two stamps cut straight were used, one thinned and overlapping the other, on the back of which had been pasted a thin parchment to hold the joint firm. On top of this parchment regular gum had been applied. The whole was properly perforated to form one normal stamp. Evidently this had been done in the process of manufacture or may have been occasioned by a torn sheet at time of printing, which defect had been repaired in the manner stated. Perhaps some stamp fan can tell me the correct name for this item.

Aside from the knowledge and material obtained, my study of the lowly and neglected 2c Columbian afforded me an intense amount of pleasure, which, after all, is one of the chief attributes of philately.

ODD BITS:—

Frank Godden advises us that owing to the death of Her Majesty, Queen Alexandra, the exhibition which was to have been held in November in connection with the opening of the new home of the Royal Philatelic Society has been postponed to a later date.

E. M. Gearhart, Erie, Pa., sends us a clipping from a local paper displaying the interest taken in philately by the local school children. Mr. Gearhart describes the activities of the Boy Scout Stamp Club, which will hold a stamp exhibit in the Erie Public Library in January. Some good prizes have been offered. It is needless to say that Mr. Gearhart is largely interested in the local work.

The stamp business of Albert H. Goetz, formerly conducted from West New Brighton, has now been removed to 7 W. 42 St., N. Y. City. Mr. Goetz has just added to his former stock a large amount of material from the uptown branch of the J. M. Bartels Co. Congratulations and good luck.

Will correspondents addressing Mr. Atherton and Dr. Evans please be careful to enclose stamped and addressed envelopes for reply. This seems a trifling detail, but it means much to two busy men who are mixing in with their daily labors the many duties connected with the editing of their stamp departments.

C. E. Nickles writes us that he was incorrectly informed in regard to the Wilson stamp being sold at Columbia, S. C., on the day of issue. We therefore make this correction, hoping that none of our subscribers have been put to undue trouble. Mr. Nickles advises us that the new 13c Harrison will be on sale January 11 in Indianapolis and Washington.

Our missionary special number will appear Monday, January 25. We expect to give the issue a wide circulation and we solicit the names and addresses of stamp collectors who are not now subscribers to our publication.

PRICES THE RESULT OF DEMAND

By CALVERT STIER.

In the WEEKLY of the 24th of August, Mr. C. L. Chalfont had an article on "Early Birds in Stamp Collecting." The following remembrances (which remembrances, by the way, are not my own but are drawn from the memories of old philatelists and from magazines and books printed in those times) these, I repeat, refer somewhat to his article.

As late as 1910, many things most rare and desirable today were then offered at prices extremely low. In Scott's Catalog of 1908, a New York cost 7.50; a 5c 1847, 85 cents; a 1c blue type 1 was worth about 25 dollars (now selling at $225) and so on, ad infinitum. Back in 1891, W. H. Peckitt, of London, offered the U. S. set of 1869 complete for 1 pound, 18 shillings, which is about $9.25. At about 1900 the set sold for about $18.50 and in 1908, for $31.25, and sixteen years later at $63.20 or just about double. At this rate it should be worth $125 in 1940. When we read of the selling prices of some of the rarities in those old stamp journals, we laugh, then feel blue at the foolishness of the sellers who demanded so little for so much of value. I read in one of Fred J. Melville's books where the Cape errors were sold by Stanley Gibbons in 1864 at the price of four shillings each. He priced the "woodblocks" at 73 cents per dozen.

On the whole the demand for the early issues of a country was slight as compared with the demand today. The regular first issues of most European countries catalogued less than a dollar. Now most of the stamps issued in the '40's or '50's are worth more than one dollar. Norway No. 1, is a good example. In 1905 it was selling for fifteen cents; thru demand the price has risen to $3.50. Nearly all of the Perkins Bacon prints could be bought for a fraction of the present prices by the Early stamp collectors. As the years roll on the demand for the ninteenth century issues increases, and so does the price! However, there are plenty of modern stamps which will be worth a great deal more thirty years hence than they are now. In the issues of the German Republic all of the stamps could be bought for a cent or two each in 1923. It is only three years later and yet several have advanced to 40 or 50 cents. Who can say but they will be worth 40 or 50 dollars in a short time?

New 13c Harrison

The new 13c stamp will be issued on January 11th in Indianapolis and Washington. I will send you a First Day cover from each place, with an unused single enclosed in your cover from Washington, for only $1.00. Same, with unused block of four additional, for $1.60.

1917, 1c UNPERFORATED, NO. 481

Set of arrow blocks from the four positions, $1.00.
Set of corner blocks from the four positions, $1.00.
Center cross line block of four, $1.00.

RED, WHITE, AND BLUE

Here's a fine unused block that will make your collection much more attractive, a top block of twelve of the 24c blue and carmine Airplane stamp, Cat. No. 522. It shows the top arrow, two different plate numbers (red and blue), and the word TOP twice (red and blue). Price $5.00.

For those who are looking for oddities, I have a couple of these blocks on "blue" paper, caused by spreading of the blue ink in printing. Price $7.50.

USED BLOCKS OF FOUR OF NORSE AMERICANS

These are really much scarcer than the unused but a fortunate purchase permits me to offer them for a little less. Block of each only 45c.

REV. E. A. BUTLER, St. Georges, Nfld.

Bees, Elephants, Mules

Not to mention Skull-and-Cross-bones, U. S. MAIL, Steamboats, Numerals, Railroads, Pumpkin Heads, and a large percentage of the greatly prized Waterbury, Xenia, and other fancy cancellations are to be found in the two unusually fine collections of cancellations recently acquired and now being mounted for your approval.

And these are all the original animals, not cubist nor futurist impressions of what an elephant or a bee or a mule might look like to hop-fed eyesight but the kind that you expect to sting or kick you if you get too close.

EVEN THE '80s AND '90s

Those who have looked for them and tried to make up a few pretty pages know how very scarce are interesting cancellations on the 4c Jacksons, 5c Taylors, 5c Garfields, 1c blue and 2c green of 1887, on the 2c 1890's, 1c and 2c Columbians. It is possible to find some pretty things, but just how difficult is borne out by the fact that in carefully combing 29,000 2c 1890's recently, we found less than a dozen fancy cancellations. There are a few in these albums, but don't expect to see a book-full. They do include a few Supplementary Mail, U.S.P.O.D. monograms, booby heads, PAIDs, stars, etc.

The Early Bird Catches The Elephant

He may also catch two pairs of 1c '51 precancelled both "paid" and "PAID." Unique? We believe so, as no one seems to have recorded this precancel set in caps; certainly not proved up in pairs!

THE FORUM—U. S. 1847-1870

By H. P. ATHERTON, 318 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to United States postage stamps, 1847-1870 only. Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

A rather mean looking cover, it looked as tho it got in by mistake and had been salvaged from the gutter, was being passed by as of no account, when I glanced at the reverse, and quote from the label affixed, "P. O. New York N. Y. May 1st 1886. This piece is a portion of the mail forwarded from Queenstown Ireland per steamer Oregon on Mar 7th, and damaged by the sinking of that vessel off Fire Island on Mar 14th. Signed Henry G. Pearson (5) P. M." A 2½d Great Britain lilac of 1883-84 issue still remains on the cover, which is a fine historical item.

Mr. Brooks is fairly plastering the newspapers of the entire South with full column ads during this Holiday Season, and he says that the looking forward to the opening of these packages as received reminds him of boyhood expectations round Christmas time. I hope that Santa will be nice to him. Wouldn't you like to attend the "Opening?" Me, too!

Dr. R. W. Payne shows me the earliest registered mail cover that I have seen, it is a 3c imperf of the 1855 printing and dated Feb. 14 (probably 1856) from Saco, Me., to Boston. At top left is stamped by the P. M. in a straight line with a little hand before and after the word—"REGISTERED". It is 39mm over all, struck in blue. This letter contained $11.00 as the letter states. Another from the same correspondence bore the same registry cancel with the additional word "PAID" and "5" stamped under the REGISTERED. This 5c was the official registry fee begun in 1855, as per Book of Rates by Sampson. These covers are rare. (There's the word "Rare", and it happens again two paragraphs ahead!)

He also showed a 10c '57 T. III and 3c '57 T. II both covered by the "N. YORK STEAMSHIP" pmk. plus red ellipse reading "FORWARDED by C J Fox Aspinwall N G", the rate from here was 10c, yet this is 13c—why?

Mr. G. H. Jackson has shown me a most unusual item, it being a cover with 3c 1851 issue, the pmk. on stamp reading "FAVOR'S EXPRESS STEAMER ADMIRAL 1856 SEP 8", this is in a circle and to make the cover still more interesting is the additional pmk. at left on face of the cover "U. S. EXPRESS MAIL EASTPORT SEP 8" in a circle. The word Eastport is in a straight line above the month. He says that he also has this same type of U. S. Express Mail cancel with the word "Boston" in a straight line. These covers are rare.

Speaking of advertising on the face of covers, here is one that comes right after the Civil War, being addressed to a small town in Georgia from N. Y. City, to judge by the cancel, it being on a 2c black Jackson with no return address. Where return address should be, we read "THE POSTMASTER"—this in big type, while under this we continue "will please open this letter—if not called for by the party addressed within a reasonable time—and furnished the writer with any information he may be possessed of as to their whereabouts and responsibility. They are indebted to the writer for the proceeds of goods sold on commission, and pay no attention to his frequent demands for payment. (A little hand points at this next line which is at the bottom of the notice.) The postage will be refunded and the favor thankfully acknowledged". There is a chance to think something over, several solutions, aside from the one "They can't do that now".

Some extremely interesting postal history is doubtless going to waste. If some of you who know interesting facts will send them in to the Forum, they will be gladly received and published. This column is all yours, and we all hope to see you make use of it. Try it once.

If personalities should be withheld, I'll call the folks "Mr. Jones of Jonesboro", etc., but give the true facts as they actually existed at that time. Thank you.

THE COLLECTING DESIRE

By BILL BLOSS.

Initiation into the ranks of philately is made by a series of regular steps. The prospective collector must, first of all, be inspired with the desire to make a collection. Next he must decide what to collect and learn how to collect it.

Since this article will be read principally by those already collecting, it might seem unnecessary to dwell on the desire to collect. However, it is the hope of the author that many of the readers will pass this number on to non-collectors, as recruiting literature to swell our ranks. Hence it is advisable to cover the very fundamental step in becoming a stamp collector.

The desire to make a stamp collection may be caused by various reasons. Some of us started because we saw a fine collection, and wished to make one like it. Some start because of a natural inclination to collect something. Others decide to take up philately through the inheritance of a collection, or the acquisition of a source of supply of postage stamps. Many see in philately a fascinating means of coming in closer contact with the whole world. In fact, it is the weird charm of distant lands that appeals to the school boy, the real beginner in philately. Not a few have heard tales of great profit made through stamp collecting, hence they take it up.

If you are going to collect, cultivate the desire first of all. It is the only thing that will bring you a good collection. Your ambition to make a fine collection is the only key that will open the door of philately to you. Wanting a fine collection is more necessary than the money to buy one.

The desire to make a collection will carry you over the rough spots, when stamps come few and far between. It will sharpen your wits, and keep you hunting for stamps everywhere you go. It will cause you to study your stamps, and as you study, new charms will be unfolded to you.

Why do you want to collect? Analyze the desire.

Is it because your friends collect? If so, you have found a valuable means of cementing their friendship, for stamp collectors are friends the world over. Philately knows no class distinction. Rich and poor are joined in a common cause, and each can help and teach the other.

Is it because you want to surpass your friend's collection with your own? That may be a selfish reason, but it will bring you a good collection in the end, and competition among friends will make all collections grow.

Is it because you want to learn? Postage stamps, though small, tell a vast number of tales. They unfold to the collector a knowledge of geography, history, economics, art. They develop in the collector careful attention to neatness, accurate observation to minute details, color perception, and the desire to learn more of the world and its people.

Do you collect because you will love beauty? You will find it in any assortment of stamps, for where else can you find such an array of colors, fine pictures and beautiful designs except in the work of the world's finest engravers—a marvelous art when considered.

Do you collect for the love of the unusual? Philately offers it, for it brings you souvenirs from the four corners of the earth. Your stamps tell of war, peace, prosperity, desperation, progress.

Is stamp collecting fun? Ask any collector. You will find the joy of the chase for an elusive specimen, and the satisfaction of ownership in looking over your treasures. To the true collector there is no joy greater than completing a series of stamps one has sought for years, as one must in some instances.

Do you collect for profit? The true stamp collector does not. He may keep an eye on the financial end of the hobby, but primarily he should collect for the love of the sport.

Too much attention is paid to the profit side of philately, particularly in America. The real collector should consider the stamp first and the profit last. The writer does not advocate making a collection solely for profit. It is a difficult task for the average collector, and a saving bank or stocks or bonds may pay better in the end, unless the collector is extremely lucky in his purchases.

However, a collection properly made, can show a profit in the sense that it will serve to absorb the collector's spare money which he might waste otherwise, and will pay it back in a larger piece at the sale of the collection, than the collector might have had otherwise. Money in a bank can be withdrawn and spent, but the collector seldom draws on his collection unless forced to sell it all. Hence it encourages thrift. Philately is one of the very few hobbies that gives back any of its cost.

Do you collect stamps as a relaxation from other endeavor? A hobby is recognized by science as a valuable means of restoring the balance of the human body. Physicians, lawyers, financiers, men in all walks of life find in philately a welcome means of rest after a hard day's work. It is good play for a busy brain.

Why do you collect stamps? Have you ever asked yourself that question? Do it. Then see if you are accomplishing your aim. Probably you are, but are you getting as much out of it as you should? If you are not, perhaps you are not going into the hobby deep enough, or are not following the best methods of collecting. Philately is like a gold mine. The reward is waiting for you, but you have to dig for it.

Put your best into your stamp collecting, and philately will pay big dividends in happy hours.

Help our hobby grow. Tell the world you are a stamp collector and more stamps will come your way. Induce your friends to join our ranks, and help make philately a big, permanent hobby.

DEATH OF E. B. STERLING

Last week the bare announcement of the death of Edward B. Sterling was made in the WEEKLY. In the household of philately the name of Mr. Sterling holds a secure place, and a host of friends and acquaintances will hear of his death with great regret. He passed away on Sunday, November 29, aged 74 years, and the funeral was held Thursday, December 3.

He was an old member of the A. P. S., his number being 86. P. M. Wolsieffer, ex-president of the A. P. S., in writing us states that he had known Mr. Sterling for forty-three years. When four years ago our friend wrote us relative to his 70th birthday, this characteristic statement was in his letter:—"Seventy years young. From twelve to seventeen hours I am full of pep with my daily duties and various hobbies."

Ever since he was a boy of ten years of age Mr. Sterling has been a collector. While an authority on stamps and coins he had other interesting hobbies, including the collecting of minerals, shells, antiques and curios. Mr. Sterling was also a student, possessing marked literary ability, and is the author of numerous articles on stamps, mushrooms and other subjects.

For many years he was in the service of the State of New Jersey and up to the time of his death was examiner for the tax department and director of the filing department. In the field of mycology Mr. Sterling discovered and named several new specimens of fungus growth.

In addition to being a charter member of the A. P. S., he was also a member of the Chicago Philatelic Society and the Collectors Club of New York. He was an ardent Republican, a member of the Travel Club, and the Prospect St. Presbyterian Church, of Trenton, N. J.

UNETHICAL

By C. E. R.

Alonzo Dean collected stamps a dozen years or so
Before he met Bedelia Spinks and loved her to his woe;
For six sweet months they swam in bliss, as lovers always do,
Their common hobby bound them close, for she collected too.
And even her engagement ring had a philatelic twist—
'Twas a No. 4 Moldavia set within an amethyst.
They went to exhibitions, and to every auction sale,
And built up a joint collection on a vast and awesome scale;
But the serpent found their Eden, in spite of bars or locks,
For he became a pre-can. fan, while she went in for blocks.
One day Alonzo made a find, amid some New York dens,
A perfect block of six-and-twenty '47 tens!
He hastened with his treasure at Bedelia's feet to lay
When cruel Fortune intervened in a wholly fiendish way;
An inspiration struck him, he bought a printing kit
And deliberately cancelled all those stamps as he saw fit.
A different town upon each one he printed carefully
In alphabetical sequence from A clear down to Z.
Augusta, Ballclub, Chillicothe, Dodge, Engle, Fertile, too,
Grinnell and Hailey, Ishpeming, and likewise Kalamazoo
With Lexington, Morenci, Nogales, Omaha,
And Punxatawney, Quincy, Revere, and Saginaw,
Tunkhannock too, and Utica, Vermilion, Wyandotte,
While Xenia and Yreka and Zim made up the lot.
But when Bedelia gazed upon that desecrated block
Her love for him to loathing turned like an electric shock.
With fiery wrath she grabbed her gun, so were her feelings wrung,
She stuffed that ring in the muzzle and she shot him in the lung.
The jury at the inquest, philatelists to a man,
Applauded her behavior toward that mad precancel fan.
They gave her back the weapon which was spattered with his gore,
And earnestly requested her to shoot a dozen more!

EDITORIAL.

THE following letter has been received from Mr. Edward H. Sterling, Trenton, N. J.: "My father, E. B. Sterling, made a request that you be personally notified of his death and therefore, I am advising you that he passed away Sunday evening, November 29th. He suffered a long and trying illness which he bore optimistically, with great fortitude of spirit, and I am glad to say that the end came very easily and peacefully." The burial was on December 3rd in Ewing Churchyard Cemetery. Mr. Sterling's age was 74 years and at the time of death he was examiner for the State Inheritance Tax Department, a capacity in which he served for many years. In a biographical sketch in the Trenton Evening Times, the following reference is made to Mr. Sterling's philatelic predilections: "Mr. Sterling began making a collection of stamps when he was only ten years old and had persisted in this pursuit with such a measure of success that his name is rated with the foremost collectors of the nation. Mr. Sterling was a member of the leading stamp organizations of the country including the American Philatelic Society of which he was a charter member and in whose affairs he was active for many years; the Chicago Philatelic Society and the Collectors Club of New York." In the field of mycology, he was recognized as an authority and named several specimens of fungi; and he was interested, too, in geographical studies. Mr. Sterling came from Colonial stock and was a descendant of a prominent family in his state. Mrs. Sterling survives her husband and the further members of the family are three sons, two daughters and a sister, and to all of them we extend the sincere sympathy of the philatelic fraternity. A sense of personal loss is felt by the WEEKLY as Mr. Sterling's death interrupts a friendship that has extended over very many years.

EDWARD BOKER STERLING was a stamp collector, instinctively, and it was not long before his stamp enthusiasms attracted attention when once they had full play. He was among the very earliest specialists in the stamps of the United States and our revenue issues in particular. He became a dealer in U. S. issues and he was the animating genius of a little group who found in the stamps a field large enough to cultivate intensively. His catalogues, published over thirty-five years ago, were examples of exhaustive treatment and his elaboration of the details of stamps was based on a genuine affection for them. Mr. Sterling's name was associated with a number of philatelic sensations and he became widely known for his alertness as well as research. Chief of his coups was his discovery of a New Haven envelope in a lot of autograph letters sold at auction in Philadelphia. The following particulars are quoted from a stamp paper of June, 1892: "The stamp in question is one of the New Haven postmaster and is printed in red on light blue paper, and on the original letter! The stamp as shown to us is a perfect specimen, while the postmarks, letters and other proofs in Mr. Sterling's possession leave not a shadow of doubt as to the genuineness of this rarity. The letter which was enclosed in an envelope, was written by Professor Benjamin Silliman, of New Haven College, on October 20, 1845, and was addressed to Francis Marcoe, Jr., of the State department at Washington, D. C. The letter itself is folded and addressed on the back as was usual at that time, the professor no doubt intending to mail it in that way, but on going to the post office, the postmaster evidently told him to use one of his stamped envelopes, which he did, and the letter, when it reached Washington, received the stamp, 'Due 5', the regular rate being ten cents, while the postmaster's stamp paid only five of this sum. . . . . Now as to how it was found. A short time ago a sale of autograph letters was held in Philadelphia, at which Mr. Sterling was present. One of the lots catalogued was 'Nine letters of Prof. Silliman.' On the day of the sale it was put up and sold to Sterling for ten cents, or about one cent a letter, he having no idea at that time that it was anything but a few letters of an unknown personage." Mr. Sterling sold this famous specimen at a high price for that time. Mr. Sterling gained the thanks of the treasury department through his discovery of a counterfeit beer stamp, as well as a tangible reward and years afterward, he and Mr. Deats bought a vast accumulation of tax paid revenues from the United States. When Mr. Sterling sold his collection at auction in the early '90's, the sale required four sessions. The personal qualities of Mr. Sterling were such as to compel one's favor and his loyalty to his friends was never to be shaken. As the years progressed he would relive in imagination the stirring past, when the philatelic world was much smaller and the more readily allowed of personal, intimate communion. Thus, somewhat advanced in years that were full of philatelic honor, Mr. Sterling passes on leaving a rich heritage for those who remain.

ACCORDING to an Associated Press dispatch, bearing the date, Nov. 17, at Winona, Minn., a railroad mail clerk was sentenced to two years at Fort Leavenworth, for abstracting a package from the mails. The defendant said that he was not looking covetously at the contents of the package and that he took the parcel because it bore a rare stamp that he thought would look well in his collection. When he was arrested, several "old stamps" were found in his possession that he had removed from mail in transit. Truly, the mail clerk's fault was in loving stamps too much but the collector will have no compassion on him if he has been disappointed in receiving foreign letters and weighty packages denuded of their stamps by postal employees.

SUPPLEMENTARY to the remarks on the three cent, 1853, stamped envelope, with the Racine and Mississippi River railroad cancellation, a reader chronicles the existence of the same postmark on a letter franked with the three cent adhesive of 1851.

WE wish to congratulate Postmaster General Harry S. New for his excellent review of the postal operations as presented to the United States Bureau of Education not alone because of its graphic account of the workings of the service but as well for the reason that he gives prominent place to the stamp phases of the department, discussing them in a manner to show that his knowledge of the issues is not a superficial one.

MR. H. CLAY REED, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware, champions the cause of the hitherto inarticulate stamped envelope as a commemorative aspirant, in these fair words: "Pardon this defense of the humble stamped envelope, the modest violet of philately. Is it eleven millions of them (some such number) which are born daily, and blush unseen in the desert philatelic atmosphere, —waste-baskets of adhesive—only collectors? I hope that this suggestion of a commemorative envelope will not lead to similar propositions in favor of commemorative metered mail, precancel overprints, perforations, watermarks or plate-numbers." Since Postmaster General New says that the Centennial envelopes were the pioneers in the field of commemorative issues, Mr. Reed is not without warrant in addressing the Hon. R. S. Regar, Third Assistant Postmaster General in these words:

"Please allow me to suggest to you the desirability of issuing a special stamped envelope in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the declaration of independence, to be celebrated by the Sesquicentennial Exposition at Philadelphia next year.

Much has been said regarding a special set of adhesive stamps to commemorate this anniversary, but apparently the peculiar appropriateness of a special envelope issue has been overlooked.

From the philatelic standpoint, the following considerations make the suggested envelope issue both timely and appropriate:

(1) The first commemorative stamped paper ever issued by the United States Government to mark an anniversary of this kind, appeared in 1876, commemorating the Centennial Exposition, and was a stamped envelope of the three-cent denomination, the common rate of postage at the time. What could be more appropriate than a two-cent envelope in 1926, commemorating the same event, and indicating the subsequent trend toward cheaper postage rates?

(2) With the exception of the Columbian Exposition issue of 1893, there has been no other commemorative envelope—no special issue in this line for 32 years.

(3) The envelope designs have not been changed since 1916. With the new designs of adhesives, and the various special issues appearing from time to time, very frequently in the past ten years, a little more variety in our stamped envelopes certainly should not be out of place.

Yours very truly,
H. CLAY REED."

COVER DESIGN WANTED

Next January we shall publish a missionary number of the WEEKLY, and we desire a cover design that will be appropriate. We have many subscribers who are expert with pen and pencil and we invite them all to a friendly rivalry in originality and skill. The drawing if larger than a page of the WEEKLY should be made proportionately.

We offer for a first prize $25 and $10 will be given for all sketches that may be acceptable for cover designs. All drawings must be in our office by January 1, 1926, the earlier the better.

UNITED STATES ISSUES 1870-1900

DR. WM. EVANS, Editor,
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

The specialized catalogue came along a few days ago, with many improvements and a number of additions. Casual examination reveals plenty of increases in value. I'm strong for the "specialized."

But ever since the first edition I have wondered, and perhaps some others have also, why the extended specialization stops where it does—through the issue of 1879? Certainly there are special cancellations to be mentioned in connection with some of the later stamps, and doubtless most of them, at least as far as the 1890 issue, and if that is so it would seem that room might be found for them. It may be that they have not been brought to the notice of the compiler, or that he believes not enough are interested in them to warrant including them in the lists. And just to find out how many would like to see the list extended to the 1890 issue, I'm going to ask you to let me know. If enough interest is manifested we will compile a list of the lacking items for this department, and those of us who want it can cut it out and paste it in the catalogue or our note book for reference. Colored cancellations and others worth listing are what the catalogue omits. Suppose we make a start with the first five stamps, that is, the 1, 3, 6 and 10c re-engraved, and the 5c yellow brown 1881 and 1882. The last stamp mighty few people have paid much attention to, probably, so here is a chance to make some real discoveries. Send a list of the colored cancellations you have on these stamps, and such other cancellations as you feel are entitled to a place in the list, such as PAID, supplementary mail, a year date on the stamp, etc. You are at liberty to send the stamps for verification if you desire, and I'll be glad to see anything you send.

If this proves of interest to a sufficient number, we will go on with the other values, and if the interest keeps up take up the 1890 issue.

While you are submitting material for these lists, why not include some of the odd cancellations for description. We can't expect the catalogue to make a place for these yet, but it's a good idea to have them recorded, and their description is going to lighten up our work and add to the interest of our department. For it's ours you know, not mine. I'm only the recorder, the rest of you will have to help out with the material. And it's not necessary to stop with cancellations. We like to know about double transfers, double printings, scratched or cracked plates, and various other interesting items which are rather numerous in these issues.

Here is a cover bearing a 3c green of the National Bank Note Company's workmanship postmarked in purple "Bay Line Steamer." Not steamship, nor steamboat, but steamer. And the Bay Line Steamers ran from Norfolk, Va., to Baltimore, Md., up the Chesapeake Bay. Then there was one line. Now there are two and they are called the old Bay Line and the new Bay Line, but the letters mailed aboard them now are not postmarked Bay Line Steamers. It's more likely to be Norf. & Balt. R. P. O.

Green ink was used to mark letters before stamps and its use was continued after stamps came into being, as is evidenced by the listings in the specialized catalogue. Many of the earlier issues are found with green cancellations, but by 1870 it had almost become a thing of the past, and only three of the values of 1879 issue are listed cancelled by it. One would therefore suppose that none of the later issues would appear wearing a green mark. But sometime during the life of the 2c green of the 1887 issue, some postmaster used in his office a canceller bearing the U. S. monogram with the word MAIL in the center of the S, and that fellow used green ink, at least part of the time, though he also used purple and black. And the green he used was green, not blue on a yellow envelope. No doubt he used it on other values, but none have come to my notice. Can't someone produce one?

Glen Allen, Va., used various stamps upon which a peculiar star was printed before they were placed upon the envelopes. Pre-cancelled they call them. Well, the last one of these to come this way is a purple star on a 3c War Department. Now why should that stamp have been precancelled at Glen Allen, Va., by a firm who sold druggists' labels? As I "get" Mr. Dietz's story of these precancels they were not precancels in the same sense that stamps are precancelled now. They were placed upon the envelopes and then cancelled in a printing press one at a time.

Here's my guess about the 3c War Dept. In those days Postmasters sent a daily weather report to the War Department at Washington, and the Postmistress at Glen Allen stamped a supply of envelopes and let the firm that was printing their own postal emissions print them for her, as a matter of convenience. Or maybe she had a bad headache some day and all the mail was run through the printing press. One can easily understand that although this was not done regularly, it might have happened on a few occasions when the act would have helped a lady in an emergency. Anyway, whatever the occasion, there's the stamp, and on it is the star with its heavy border lines, and its parallel lines across it. It is a matter of regret that the cover is not also present, although that might not throw any additional light on the reason for the cancellation being on this stamp. If any one else has a copy of this or any other War Department stamps on any value other than the 1c of the Postage stamps, please let us see them.

Little Old N'York in her time has used a rather considerable number of postal markings and some of them, such as the supplementary mail, have been fully explained. This one is on a 3c green Continental. It consists of the universal circle and inside it at the top the initials N. Y. P. O. At the bottom is the word PAID. Between them on each side is a little cross, and in the center is the date of the month inverted. Unfortunately it is not on a cover. Who can tell us why it was used? Or show it on a cover?

Merry Christmas To All

The year about to close is the most successful philatelic year that I have ever had and in wishing my many clients the Compliments of the Season, I desire to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of their patronage.

My activities are limited to the issues of the United States and those looking for the odd and unusual, as well as the more common variety, can usually find it in my substantial stock.

I expect to start the New Year with an announcement of extraordinary importance to the philatelic world — possibly one of the most important ever made to the lovers of our issues—and you are asked to especially look for my advertisement appearing in the issue of January 4th.

If you collect United States, you can hardly afford to miss it.

New 13c Benjamin Harrison

At the present writing it is believed that the new 13c Harrison which was described in this column last week will be printed in pink although this color has not been definitely approved. The head that will be used will be the identical head used in the 13c issue of 1902.

Star Plates Current Issue

The single line open star indicating the wide spacing on the 2c plates may now be found both at the top and at the right side, the star, however, appearing but once on a plate of four hundred. There seems to be two sizes of the five point star, one being the same as used on the one hundred seventy subject coil plates and the other considerably larger, the latter being the commoner variety. There is also a six pointed star found both at the top and sides. It seems to be optional as to where the star is placed but heretofore I have not seen copies near either the bottom or left plate numbers, although they may appear. So far, the star has always appeared near the plate number. I am not in a position to advise our readers at this time as to which plates have stars and which not, but I believe all of the 2c plates since the start of the wider spacing shows the star.

Registration Rate Abroad Increased

The Postmaster General recently announced that amendments to the Postal Laws and Regulations, effective December 1, provide, among other things, for an increase in the registration fee of all articles addressed to foreign countries included in the Postal Union of from 10 to 15 cents. This fee is no more than the minimum registry fee charged for domestic registered mail and the increase in foreign registry will entitle the sender to obtain indemnity of not exceeding 50 francs in case of loss of such articles.

The amendments also provide that registered articles under the Postal Union shall be subject to a charge of 10 cents for return receipts requested subsequent to the time of mailing the articles. The same fee will also be charged for inquiries and complaints concerning international registered and insured mail when such inquiry is not due to fault of the postal service or there has been no failure to provide a return receipt for which the sender paid the prescribed fee. A charge of 5 cents will be made in connection with similar inquiries and complaints involving ordinary mail addressed to foreign countries.

Postal officials estimate that the increase in the registry fee alone on international mail will produce $500,000 additional revenue each year.

New Provisional Envelopes

Three new Provisional envelopes have recently been called to my attention, varieties of interest to the entire envelope collector only, for they have previously appeared in other sizes:

Algeria.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 30c blue stamp of France, Sower type, with the surcharge "Algerie" in red.

Australian Commonwealth.—A special issue of stamps is rumoured to celebrate the transfer of the seat of Government to Canberra next year.

New watermark.—The Victorian Philatelic Record announces an impending startling change in the Commonwealth issues, namely, the introduction of an entirely new watermark. This change was decided upon some months ago, and an order has now been placed with an English firm for the supply of a large quantity of the new paper. It was originally hoped to introduce the new watermark by the end of the present year, but unforeseen delays have occurred, and it is unlikely that the change will take place until about the middle of 1926. The new watermark will be what is known officially as "damask," that is of the multiple type, the idea being that the new paper shall be used for all values of postage stamps and postage dues, irrespective of shape or size. The design consists of a Tudor crown, very similar in general appearance to that of the Script Colonial paper, over a small letter "A" (single lined). The whole design is much smaller than the previous multiple watermark, and the resultant paper should be free from the objectionable uneven texture which characterized the previous effort in this direction.

It is expected that this paper will eventually be employed not only for Commonwealth stamps, but also for those of Papua. It will not be used for the stamps of Nauru and New Guinea.—Stamp Collecting.

Cyprus.—From Mr. R. Roberts and Whitfield King & Co. come the following new items of this colony: ½pia green, ¾pia grey black, 1½pia red, 2pia yellow and black and 2½pia blue. The last mentioned value is a new value.

Danzig.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise that the 1924 series has a 35pf value in blue.

Dutch Indies.—According to a decree of the Batavia postal authorities dated July 10, 1925, all stamps of the 1912-13, 1913-14, and 1922 series, are to be demonetized on December 31st next, while a Bandoeng decree dated August 22, 1925, specifies the withdrawal of the ½c, 17½c, and 22½c postage stamps and the 30c Postage Due, also at the end of the present year.—Stamp Collecting.

Hejaz.—Whitfield King & Co. report that the 10pia, carmine and green, has been issued with the date surcharged at the left.

Liechtenstein.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the 30rp, in the 1921 design, in blue and black. This value was formerly issued in deep green and black.

Whitfield King & Co. report the appearance of a 10rp green in the new series noted last week. The central figure of this stamp is a view of one of the native buildings.

Malta.—Regarding the mention of a 1s6p stamp bearing the effigy of St. Publius, Mr. G. V. Stewart reports that he has received advices from London that there is to be a whole new series of stamps which the 1s6p is to be the first value placed on sale.

Mauritania.—Whitfield King & Co. advise that the 60c is now on sale in a violet shade.

Peru.—According to M. Champion, the total numbers printed of the 2c on 20c provisional, chronicled in our issue dated September 12th, comprised 300,000 copies. There were two different settings, however—quite distinctive in character—Type 1 consisting of only four or five sheets.—Stamp Collecting.

Roumania.—Portrait of King Ferdinand, Perf. 11½-13½. 10 bani olive, 25 bani red, 3 lei carmine are reported by M. Th. Champion. The red 25 bani will be short-lived if the rumour is correct that the same denomination is about to appear in orange. Meanwhile, a new set, in honour of the King's 60th birthday, is threatened.—Stamp Collecting.

San Marino.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts and Whitfield King & Co. copies of the following new colors in the 1903 type: 20c green and 1L blue. Mr. Roberts adds the interesting information that the sheets are of curious construction, two panes of 50, ten across and five down side by side. They are printed on the usual poor thin paper with a wide margin all round the sheet about 40mm wide top and bottom and 30mm at the sides, while there is a plain space between the two panes perforated through the size of the stamp. They are perforated 14½x14 by machine but top and bottom margins have two extra rows of horizontal perforations about 15mm apart and 15mm from the edge of the stamp.

Timor.—Mr. R. Roberts advises that the three designs of the "Marquez de Pombal" commemoratives have been issued with the name of this colony at the base. The values are 2a and are in carmine. These stamps have also been surcharged "Multa" for use as postage dues, but of 4a value.

A WORTHY SHUT-IN

It will be possible for our subscribers who are so disposed to make a bit more cheerful the lot of Launcelot G. Reeves, whose picture is shown herewith. We take the liberty of quoting from a letter

LAUNCELOT G. REEVES (Age 18)
503 N. Smith St., Charlotte, N. C.

Master Reeves has written us and if any of our readers should decide to accompany their gift of stamps with something of a more substantial nature the trust would not be misplaced. His letter reads in part as follows:—

"I thank you many times for your favor. It was indeed a useful gift. In return I enclose one of my latest pictures for you to see how I look and how helpless I am. I've had eight operations on my legs, wore eight sets of plaster casts, have on one in this picture and am helpless all but my hands and one of them is very much drawn.

I am the son of a widow and we are very poor and anything you can do to help me along the way will be very much appreciated.

I've been a cripple all my life, but more helpless since these operations. I get very blue sometimes, then at times I yet hope something can be done to better my condition. I will be glad for you to insert a notice in the WEEKLY."

THE NEW YEAR OPENS.

We are greatly pleased at the manner in which the friends of the WEEKLY are rallying to our call for the opening of our new subscription campaign. The total number of subscriptions received is very gratifying and every name upon this list is entitled to and receives the hearty thanks of the publishers for the co-operation extended.

To the Payn Stamp Co. of Los Angeles, Calif., goes the honor of first place with 60 subscriptions to their credit. Mr. Payn, the owner of this firm, assures us that he will do his part in going after new subscriptions. The Ancher Stamp Co. with 39, Fennell Stamp Co. with 38 and Pacific Stamp Co. with 35, are all grouped very closely for second position.

As we look down through this list numerous dealers' names are noted, but there are many dealers whose names are not to be found. We desire to make special mention of the work done by the Fennell Stamp Co. with 38 new subscriptions and Eugene Klein with 15. Doubtless these firms are fully as busy as the dealers in other metropolitan centers and we appreciate their co-operation. After all, the interests of the WEEKLY, Gossip, Collectors Magazine and other philatelic papers are identical with those of the dealer, and mutual co-operation will produce mutually profitable results.

FOR YOUR EYE:—

In the Pittsburgh Post for November 30 is an article on the editorial page "Fascinations of Philately". It is written by Willard J. Reed of the Dormont (Pittsburgh) Philatelic Club and is a striking feature of the page. We take the liberty of quoting from Mr. Reed's letter in submitting the article:—"You will note from this article that my collection is not a whole lot to rave about, as a real philatelist would say, but the stamps I have are in splendid condition and neatly mounted. I was certainly pleased when my article was given favorable consideration and especially to have it appear on the editorial page." What Mr. Reed has done most any stamp collector can do, if he will go about it the right way.

Our advertisers will please remember that where testimonials are used in advertisements, names and addresses should be given. Otherwise show your original letters to the editor.

We have received a copy of the East Anglian Daily Times, published at Ipswich, England, announcing the death of Mrs. Charles Whitfield King, which occurred November 22. Mr. King will have the sympathy of a great circle of friends in his bereavement. The Managing Editor had the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with Mrs. King, who was in every sense an estimable woman.

Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., 391 Strand, London, England, has just issued a fine pricelist of 48 pages, fully illustrated, and giving complete particulars of the albums, catalogs, handbooks and philatelic accessories stocked by this firm. It will be sent to any address upon request.

The second public exhibit of the Washington (D. C.) Philatelic Society will be held in the Public Library, February 1 to 13, 1926. A notable event is promised.

HEAR YE:—

The Hot Stove League, the famous secret but not secretive association, consisting of members of the Collectors Club of New York, were the guests of Mr. Theodore E. Steinway, at his home on the night of December second. Those who participated in the "table talk" were Harry L. Lindquist, Herman Toaspern, A. E. Pade, Hugh M. Clark, Eugene Costales, Elliott Perry, George B. Sloane, Springfield Barrett, Sydney Barrett and Harry B. Konwiser. Mr. Steinway is treasurer of this more or less closed corporation.

The program of the Buffalo Stamp Club for December is a full one with an extra in the form of a Traders Night on December 29th. Mr. MacLaren, the Cleveland stamp sleuth will be the added attraction at the meeting of December 11.

A letter has been received from Clarendon Bangs of Atlanta, who is doing Europe in a leisurely manner and keeping his eye open for stamp shops.

The Stamp Collector still comes from Tokyo, Japan, the November number comprising twenty-four pages. The text is in Japanese and while we may only guess at the contents, they look impressive.

The international registry fee has been increased to fifteen cents making it on a par with our domestic rate. Washington says that the new rate became effective on December 1st.

Mr. C. D. Reimers, Fort Worth, Texas, of the C. D. Reimers Company, passed through Chicago recently on a business trip.

The students of the Senn High School, Chicago, are much interested in their stamp society and intend to have an exhibit in the school.

Mr. Harry M. Konwiser desires information relative to any articles that have appeared in philatelic papers appertaining to the cancellations on the Departmental stamps of the United States. Address him care of the Collectors Club, 120 West 49th Street, New York City.

GREENLAND PARCEL POST STAMPS

We noted last week some new Danish parcel post stamps for use in Greenland. These stamps were received by Hon. E. R. Ackerman through a friend who has business connections in Greenland. We were able to give only scant information, but Mr. Elliott Perry now supplements what was printed last week with the following:—

"About the Greenland stamps, I myself have made inquiry at the Danish Consulate in New York. Nobody there seemed to know anything about the stamps but they did give me some information regarding the Greenland Government. A private company has a monopoly there but the Danish Government also has an official representative. The stamps were cancelled with an oval containing a crown, the Danish word for Greenland and the Danish word 'Styrelse'. This latter word means Government or official and indicates that the stamps were cancelled at least by or under the authority of the official representative of the Danish Government. Presumably the packages on which the stamps were used went to a well known firm in Copenhagen. The part covers bearing the stamps have the hand stamp of this firm on the reverse."

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW.

F. W. ALLEN, Editor, 521 So. 4th St., Grand Forks, N. D.

Special Handling — Rochester, N. Y., reading horizontally, is the latest to appear. The Minneapolis listed several weeks ago should be stricken from the list, as my informant confused the Parcel Post Due with the large green stamp under discussion.

Norse-American — The set has appeared from Stuart, Florida, but is not recommended for any collection. Anything from this town will have to be condemned as a whole mess of stuff has been precancelled to order. Both red and black ink has been used. All overprints are from type-settings. Two styles exist, neither conforming to the rules of the department. Here is another case for investigation by Washington authorities. It is regrettable that the precancel hobby has to face such situations, for it hurts its standing and popularity.

Minneapolis, Minn. — In the new style of type has appeared the 15c, old issue. I have seen but one copy. It will be a rare variety. The 30c old issue, new type, exists inverted. The 11c and 12c old issue are out in the new type, but should soon become obsolete. The 13c has finally become exhausted. About 18,000 were precancelled with the new plate. The 12c in the U-3 style, with double overprint, is another one for "the book."

Rochester, N. Y.—Mr. E. B. Lemmond shows us a copy of the 30c old issue double print, and states that he fully appreciates the rarity of double strikes of the U-10.

Kissimer, Florida—Mr. Al Burns forwards for inspection an 8c current issue, handstamped in small lower case type "Kissimer, Florida" in two lines between thin lines. Where is this place? Maybe it is one of a number of towns born recently, as a result of the real estate "boom." There is a Kissimmee to my knowledge, but not a Kissimer.

Flushing, N. Y.—Has both an electro-plate and handstamp for the work. The $1 old issue, handstamped in the U-76, is not listed in the catalog, but I have it reading inverted, and down. The new $1 is to be found with the U-10 precancellation reading down, and with the U-76 overprint reading horizontally.

Dayton, Ohio—Adds the $1 old issue to the set by precancelling it with the U-1 electro-plate. It is a hard-to-get item and many collectors will have to be content with the set as far as the fifty cent. Dayton is the only large Ohio city that has never precancelled the 13 cent apple green.

Waterbury, Conn.—Uses an attractive style of electro-plate, the U-9. When the set is mounted it is a very striking one. Doubles and inverts are unknown. The old series stamps were just yielding to the new, when the plate was received and as a result the 2, 5 and 10 cent are among the best of the old set. The 11 and 13 were not overprinted, but the balance, including the one dollar, exist. The 5 and 10, current series, are perhaps the two most common varieties.

Houlton, Maine—County seat of Aroostook, a district of potato fame. This fall they had to plow the "murphies" out of the ground from under a foot of snow. Houlton's precancel fame is limited to two styles of rubber handstamps, and four known varieties of precancels. The Standard Precancel Catalog describes the first type used as U-79 which overprinted the 3 cent perf. 12, and 1 and 2 cent perf. 16. The office has just received the U-53 which has been used to cancel the 1 cent rotary (10x10), old issue. I wish to thank Mr. F. M. Billings for showing me a copy.

Berea, Ohio—Mr. W. J. Lemke informs me that Berea has precancelled the 14c Indian Head, with the U-8 electro-plate. This stamp is much sought after, vying with the ½, 1½ and 25 for popularity. Mr. Lemke writes interestingly as follows: "Berea is just 2½ miles from the Cleveland city limits, and the post-office does quite a business for a town of its size. The Mohler Printing Co. has a permit and uses precancels on many of their publications. Other firms finding need for precancels are Sheppard's Ancona Farm, the Fox Toy Co. (Mfrs. of Foxy Toys), and the Dunham Mfg. Co."

Cornell, Wis.—Mr. L. J. Miller forwards copies of the 3, 10 and 15 cent current issue, handstamped in small caps, similar to U-54, between bars. Another newcomer from Wisconsin is Port Washington in the U-58. I have seen the 1½ and 2 cent.

Green Bay, Wis.—To supplement the U-5 electro-plate, a U-53 handstamp has been received. This is the first handstamp Green Bay has ever used for precancelling. Since 1912 the electro-plate has done the work unassisted.

New Britain, Conn.—Three different types may be found on the current issue. The U-3 electro-plate does the greater part of the precancelling, but the old three line handstamp and a new one of the U-53 style are likewise employed. In the latter type I have seen the 3 cent offset, and 20 cent new series.

South Manchester, Conn.—Is furnishing some interesting specimens by diversifying the inks employed in the printing. I have a "cover" with four stamps of the current series, each bearing an overprint of a different hue. There is a 30 cent Bison, reading up in green, a 15 cent in reddish purple, a 1 cent in bright blue, and a 10 cent in black. They are all regularly issued and desirable items.

Saint Joseph, Mo.—Has a new plate of attractive style. It is a three-line adaptation of the U-10, but cannot be described as that style even though the style of type is similar. The current 5 and 10 cent are all I've seen so far.

North Tonawanda, N. Y.—Has also received a three line electro-plate. The cancellation is an outstanding one of plain capitals between narrow bars, and is a great improvement over the handstampings. These were generally poorly defined and of little desirability. The 1 and 1½ cent exist both normal and inverted in the new type.

Conclusion—Readers of this department may find the method of describing precancelled stamps a bit confusing. The system of Universal Styles (U styles) is the means by which the picture of a precancel can be drawn accurately in a few words. It is the system employed by the compilers of the Standard Precancel Catalog. Cardboard charts of handy size, showing forty-two styles of electro-plates, handstamps, coil machines, and Bureau rolls, may be secured from the editor of this department at cost of sixteen cents.

DREAMER LOCATES GOLD COINS

Biddeford Man Finds 300 and One Shown to Jeweler Worth $22

BIDDEFORD, ME., Dec 12th—With 300 mysterious coins, thought by him to be nearly solid gold, on his hands, Philip Perreault, 35, has become a believer in dreams. Several nights ago he had a vision in his sleep and he said that a spectral visitor told him to dig in land he recently bought on the outskirts of the city.

The next morning, Perreault was at work with a spade, and after several minutes he unearthed a big iron kettle. The kettle was filled with coins, blackened with age. Neighbors say that there were at least 300, although Perreault is uncommunicative on this point.

When he polished the marks of age from one of the relics, the finder took it to a jeweler, who said it was nearly pure gold, worth about $22 at market rates for that metal. Old coin experts never saw medals of that sort before. One side of the coin bears an eagle and the inscription, "The United States is the birthplace of freedom." On the other side is embossed a head thought to be that of Columbus, in the opinion of the local discoverer, and also the word "Kossote" and the motto, "Nothing is impossible to him that wills."

HERE AND THERE:—

A new edition of, "Who's Who in Philately" is promised for the near future. It will be published by Albert H. Harris, well known from his connection with the Harris Publications.

Clinton L. Chalfant was a recent caller at our Chicago office. He also visited a number of the local dealers. Mr. Chalfant is now located at Warsaw, Ind., and is connected with the "Daily Times" of that city.

The November number of MacLaren's "Stamp Hunter" is at hand. It features as its leading article a continuation of the story of the "Meadville Find". The number before us shows that this paper is to be a fixture, in that it has graduated from the multigraph class.

A. H. Albert, P. M. Wolsieffer, and Robert F. Chambers, all have our thanks for clippings and information relative to the death of Edward B. Sterling.

A new and wholly revised wholesale pricelist of mint German stamps for use of dealers only has been received from Victor Weiskopf, Box 298, Grand Central Station, N. Y. City. A copy will be sent any dealer upon application.

In the last Scott Catalog under Nyassa postage dues it is stated that the set of four "were made to sell to stamp collectors and that none of them were ever on sale in Nyassa". A correspondent sends us a circular letter from the Secretary of the Nyassa Company in which it is stated that these stamps were in use in Nyassa, but never on sale at the post offices in view of the fact that they were used only by the postal authorities.

Wm. Lloyd informs us that he has found a 5c Alexandria "Paid" on pinkish buff. It was discovered amongst a lot of stock recently purchased. This specimen is used, but lightly canceled. It is in fine condition and Mr. Lloyd feels positive that it is genuine.

The current "Stamp Lover" gives the regulations of the J. P. S. competition in which the first prize will be a free trip to New York. The conditions hinge upon the securing of new members for the J. P. S. and full particulars may be obtained by writing to Major Gold, Hon. Sec., 44 Fleet Street, London, England.

SUBSCRIPTION RENEWALS.

Some of our subscribers need to know our rule regarding discontinuances. We discontinue all subscriptions in arrears promptly the second issue of each month. This means that your subscription should be renewed prior to expiration. The expiration number can be ascertained by consulting your wrapper. No free copies of the WEEKLY are sent out and this rule is as fixed as the laws of the M and P. Our older subscribers understand our rule and the newer subscribers should get acquainted with it

REVIEW OF FERRARI SALES

This review of the Ferrari sales is so compact and withal so interesting that we pass it on to our readers with acknowledgment to "Stamp Collecting." We presume it is the work of the editor, Derek Ingram, but the authorship of the article is concealed in the bigness of this splendid British magazine.—W. O. W.

Fourteenth and Final.—Although there is little of outstanding interest in the 14th— and final—Ferrari Sale, to be held at the Hotel Drouot, Paris, on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of next week, the conclusion of a disposal process that has occupied more than four years is itself an event of importance. Those experts who, before the first sale (in June, 1921), suggested half a million sterling as the total value of this colossal accumulation of philatelic treasures were not far out. For, including the French Government tax (17½ per cent. on the first eight auctions and 19½ per cent. on the more recent ones), the total realized for the thirteen auctions already held is 25,268,464 francs—nearly £400,000. France will therefore not regret that she turned down the offer of fifteen million francs (say £319,000) which a syndicate of dealers made for the whole collection in bulk in May, 1921.

"Standing Room Only."—Much philatelic history has been made during the intervening period. The auctions themselves were unique. Crowds of all classes thronged the Hotel Drouot long before each sale, eager and determined to see, if not to buy, a few of the gems that they knew had been assembled by the philatelic Count of Monte Cristo in that great caché which he and his two Secretaries had never even attempted to count. People whose pockets were bulging with money intended to pay for the prizes were jostled out of the way by tenacious folk with ancient and decrepit scraps of paper which they had brought with them to compare with the stamps of great price. There were little old ladies with big albums, and big ladies with little albums, shock-headed Peters who had wads of old envelopes in newspapers, and myopic old countrymen in yellow drab coats whose sight was short, but whose expectations reached the skies.

The £7,343 British Guiana.—There have been many sensations in the course of the Ferrari auctions, but none greater than that aroused by the sale, in April, 1922, of the unique 1 cent black on magenta of British Guiana for the stupendous sum of 352,500 frs. (£7,343). It was a poor enough stamp, printed in the colony in 1856 during a temporary shortage of the regular issue. Seventeen years afterwards it was found by a young collector in Demerara, and was sold by him for 6s to a neighbour. The second owner sent his collection to a friend in Glasgow to sell for him, and the whole collection was acquired by a Liverpool dealer for £120 in 1878. It contained the 1 cent stamp, which had been unknown to the British collectors of that period, and which Count von Ferrari bought for £150. The price which the late Mr. Griebert (acting for Mr. Arthur Hind, of Utica, U. S. A.) paid for it in April, 1922, was rather more than five times the amount ever realized at auction for a single stamp before the war—the £1,450 paid by H.M. the King for a mint example of the 2d "Post Office" Mauritius in 1904.

Mauritius Ferrarities.—Of the several "Post Office" Mauritius stamps possessed by "La Renotière" (to give the late Baron his favourite soubriquet), the chief gem was the unused 1d, sold for the equivalent of £2,090 at the Sixth Sale in April, 1923. At the same time a used copy of the 2d realized £720, the comparatively low prices being accounted for by the fact that the 1d stamp was in poor condition and the 2d defective. The late M. Moens paid only 100 francs for the 2d in 1872 and sold it to one of the Rothschilds for 600 francs, von Ferrari paying 5,500 for the pair in 1881. The brilliant unused example of the 2d "Post Office" which now reposes in the British Museum originally belonged to the omniverous Ferrari, who exchanged it with the late T. K. Tapling, M. P., for a comparatively common Cashmere!

The Record (non Ferrari) Mauritius.—The record price of £11,000 was paid by Mr. Arthur Hind three years ago for a used pair of the "Post Office" Mauritius stamps, on original envelope. These were not from the Ferrari collection, however, but from that of the late M. de l'Argentière, through an American syndicate. The envelope, the stamps on which are in excellent condition, was only discovered in 1902, a Bordeaux schoolboy finding it in going through some old papers. The boy took the envelope to his father, who, being one of that curious and almost extinct species, a non-philatelist, sent it to a friend in Paris. There it was sold to a well known dealer, M. Th. Lemaire, for forty thousand francs (equal to about £1,600 at the time), and it was promptly turned over to M. de l'Argentière for five thousand more francs than M. Lemaire gave for it.

"Missionaries."—Sandwiches at £100 a millimetre! A fanciful price, indeed, but not so in the case of the lightly postmarked and extremely rare 2 cents "Missionary Sandwich" which changed hands at the first Ferrari auction for the equivalent of £3,900. These early stamps of the Hawaiian Islands—known as "Missionaries" because most of the copies extant emanated from the correspondence of missionaries who had been sent out to convert the Sandwichers—are anything but handsome, but M. Burrus seemed happy enough when he secured his copy for the sum mentioned.

Spanish "Reales."—A sensation of a different order was set up during the Fifth Ferrari Sale three years ago. One of the lots then sold was a copy of the 2 reales blue Spanish stamp of 1851 in pair with a 6 reales blue. This 2 reales blue stamp had been the subject of controversy from the time of its discovery in 1867, since when experts had been in disagreement over it. The Spanish authorities held fast to the legend of a rare error, a 2 reales printed in mistake with the clichés forming the 6 reales stamp plate, and in the official catalogue of Spanish stamps issued by the Director-General of Posts and Telegraphs, Madrid, in 1920, the explanation is made that "it was due to the presence of a cliché of the 2 reales in the plate of the 6 reales." Outside of Spain, however, most of the authorities had hitherto declined to believe in the stamp, Gibbons catalogue saying "the so-called error of colour, '2r blue,' is believed to exist only as a forgery." The late Mr. Griebert, in his important monograph, "The Stamps of Spain, 1850-1854" (London, 1919), having examined a number and found them all to be forgeries, declined to believe in it as having any genuine existence. But he was promptly converted when he saw the real thing in the Ferrari collection, and demonstrated his belief in it by paying the equivalent of £2,400 for this once scorned reale-ity!

Niger Boys.—Another of the many Ferrari sensations was the sale—in April last year—of one of the two known examples of the 20s on 1s Niger Coast Protectorate provisional, vermilion surcharge, for the amazing sum of 20,000 francs—i.e., £336 (including tax). The transaction has had the effect of standardizing this "twin" Niger boy, for, whereas up to that time it was not priced in Gibbons, the valuation now given it in that priceless catalogue is £300 unused.

British Ferrarities.—The biggest bargain obtained at any of the Ferrari auctions was the purchase, by a well known British philatelist in April last year, of a copy of the 10d brown "Emblems" stamp of Great Britain for the sum of £2. Gibbons, however, have not followed suit in this case, the explanation being that the copy in question was a doubtful one—it was, in fact, offered for sale "without guarantee." The top price for a British stamp in the same sale was for the extremely rare 10s blue King Edward stamp, overprinted "I.R. Official," which brought £445. A similar copy was sold in London in 1921 for £300—the price shown for it in the 1926 Gibbons' catalogue, in which the £1 "I.R. Official" is valued at £140. Another example of this £1 provisional fetched nearly double that amount—£277 to be exact—in Paris last year. In the 1926 catalogue Gibbons prices these at £300.

Early English.—Also in the April, 1924, Ferrari sale. an unused block of eighteen of the British 1d black fetched £136, and a block of six of the 1d red-brown, with Archer's experimental rouletting, brought £84. The 1d black "V.R." (prepared for use on official correspondence, but never brought into use for that purpose), which Ferrari had on a letter posted on June 10, 1840, changed hands for £220.

Boscawen.—When the Ferrari auctioneer's hammer fell on that little soiled paper scrap stuck on a letter dated "Boscawen, N. H., Dec. 13, 1846," the world gasped and asked: "What—where is Boscawen?" For a day, the little hamlet tucked away in the New Hampshire hills took rank on the front page with Paris and London and New York. Boscawen was famous—and all because of an old postage stamp that none of its 1,200 inhabitants had ever seen and few had ever heard of. The cables described the stamp, accurately: a little oblong piece of paper, pale blue, printed with the words "Paid 5 cents" and pasted on the corner of an envelope addressed to "Miss Achsah P. French, Care of Theodore French, Esq., Concord, N. H." Maybe it was a love letter. Maybe not. But it is certain Miss French never dreamed, when she received the missive on that cold December day, that seventy-six years later somebody across the sea would pay £2,570 (the price realized in Paris in April, 1922) for the tiny stamp that cost her correspondent only 5 cents! But when Boscawen learned that the stamp was the only one of the kind that had ever been found and that such a price had been paid for it, what a scurrying and scampering and sweeping out of musty trunks and dusty garrets there was!

NEW YORK STAMP SOCIETY

The New York Stamp Society held its annual election Thursday night, December 3, at its club rooms, 120 West 49th Street. The following were elected: President, N. R. Hoover; Vice-President, Dr. E. W. Lawrence; Treasurer, Baldwin Schlesinger; Rec. Sec., William J. Michaels; Cor. Sec., Chas. H. Fournier; Trustee for three years, Major G. W. A. Camp.

At the next open meeting, on Thursday evening, December 17, Mr. M. Pick will exhibit his valuable Egyptian collection.

The New York Stamp Society is the local branch of the American Philatelic Society and has the honor of having invited the A. P. S. to New York in October, 1926, simultaneous with the International Philatelic Exhibition.

IS IT WORTH $2000 ?

Well, hardly! But it's a real rarity and twice as scarce as the 24c airplane invert, which at present is worth around $1000. I refer to a complete set of First Day covers of the 1922-23 series of U. S. stamps, the first series issued under the regime of the Philatelic Stamp Agency, which I want to sell at a reasonable price. There are only about fifty of these complete sets in existence and there are several hundred collectors of First Day covers who would like to have this. The covers are of unusual historic and philatelic interest as, in most cases, the stamps were issued on a date that had some connection with the subject of the illustration on the stamp. For example: the 1c Franklin on Franklin's birthday, the 3c Lincoln and $1.00 Lincoln memorial on Feb. 12th, the 15c Statue of Liberty on Armistice Day, Nov. 11th, etc., etc. This valuable complete set can be bought at a fraction of the above figure. If interested, let me hear from you.

New 13c and 17c The 13c Harrison and 17c Wilson will be issued Dec. 28th and Jan. 11th respectively. I will supply an unused single of each for 40c. An unused block of four of each for $1.50. A First Day cover of each for 75c. Mailed to you as soon as issued.

Finding 1c '57 Sleepers In Our Own Stockboxes

We had no idea we had filed away so many pretty things in 1c '57s until we started to price up a center-line vertical pair, o. g. It was as deep a blue as some of the printings on Plate III, but the Standard catalog quoted only "blue" and "dark blue", each three dollars. Glancing down through the listed minor varieties, we noticed two new ones, "Curl over E" and "Curl over C" of CENT, and Nos. 41R and 81R Plate VIII. The finely cut center-line suggested Plate VIII, there were two chances in ten we had a lucky position. So we had, Nos. 81 and 91R, VIII, full O. G., in the scarce deep blue shade. A $2 item turned into a piece worth $20 or more.

That suggested a little holiday and a search through the stock-box of 1c '57s. Most of the minors on Type V were correctly classified; there were copies of the "Curl on shoulder", "Horizontal line in head", the "ear-rings", the long double curl, extending from top to bottom label with a loop above the ear reminding us of Will Rogers' lariat, nicely placed in a strip of three.

The copies of "line in head" varied considerably, suggesting that this comes in more than one position; also the constant variety "dot on head" comes from several positions in Pl. VIII. It showed faintly next the center line in a horizontal strip, stronger in the second stamp from the line, while the third stamp was a very obvious spot.

Another well known but unlisted variety, the "dot on shoulder", introduced to us long ago by Stanley Ashbrook, Esq., comes over "O" and again over "N" of ONE; it, too, is a repeater; that is, it can be found in pairs and strips.

Saying nothing much about the various copies of Types I, Ia. II, III and IV (though there were some exceptional examples of that latter), we feel sure than anyone interested in the 1c '57s from Plate V to XII can spend some enjoyable few hours studying the contents of that stock-box. We like to share these simple pleasures and will gladly send the stamps to any of our clients who wish to see them.

IF UNKNOWN TO US, KINDLY SUPPLY CUSTOMARY TRADE REFERENCES.

UNITED STATES ISSUES 1870-1900

DR. WM. EVANS, Editor,
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

In the early days it was the custom of postmasters to postmark mail with the name of the town and the date of the month. Until 1855 only a very few postmarks have been found which included the year. Then this form gradually came into more common use and many towns included the year date in their postmark. In 1869 the custom vanished once more, perhaps because of orders from Washington. For a number of years only a few towns used the year date, and it has occurred to me that it might not be amiss to make up a list of the towns, which included the year date in the postmark for these years. They are 1870 to 1877 inclusive. In 1878 the custom came back into pretty common use so that it is inadvisable to try to list that year. The list would be too long. Therefore if those who have year dated postmarks for the years indicated will submit them we will see what can be done along this line. The older issues have been listed so why not these? My own material along this line is so meagre that the list wouldn't get a start from it. The 1869 issue was still in use in the early part of 1870, and as we are not dealing with that issue our list will start with the new issue only, even though the year date is as rare on the 1869 as on the 1870 stamps.

Also we shall for the present confine ourselves to the year dates forming part of the postmark and not attempt those used separately, like the Watkins, N. Y., which has the 1870 outside the postmark, or those others which show 1871, 1776, 73, 76, 79 and similar year dates as separate markings.

And, by the way, that 1776 cancellation could hardly be interpreted to mean that the stamp was of that issue, and used in that year, could it?

Perhaps this may be an heirloom. Some time ago a person in Kentucky offered to sell me some stamps, which the writer said had been in the family for many generations, but which they had decided to dispose of, and they must be valuable because of their age, and they must be very old indeed because they had 1492 printed on them, and that was the year Columbus discovered America. I had not the heart to deprive any family of such an heirloom in exchange for mere money.

The specialized catalogue lists a 2c of the 1879 issue with black carrier cancellation. One copy of this stamp has come to my notice bearing this cancellation, with what seems to be the words "CHICAGO, ILL.," in the top of the circle, and the "CARRIER" at bottom. The top letters are blurred but the "CHI" can be deciphered. A copy of the one cent blue of the same issue has a "BOSTON, MASS., CARRIER," cancellation in the same form, and a piece of cover bearing a 3c green of the same issue has a "POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., CARRIER," postmark beside the stamp which is cancelled by a grid. All of these are black. The Poughkeepsie is 26mm in diameter. The other two are not in condition to measure.

Back to Chicago, Ill. A little lot of covers bearing 3c green stamps have Carrier postmarks on the back of the covers. None of them have the year date so that the only indication of the time of their use is the stamps on each cover, and the mss. memorandum of the person to whom they are addressed giving the date of their receipt. These dates range from July 26, 1872, to December 27, 1879, covering the printings of all three of the Bank Note Companies. The Carrier postmarks are of two types. The first consists of a circle 25mm in diameter. Inside this at the top is the word "CARRIER," and below this the date of the month and hour of the day "MAR. 1 11 A. M.", in three lines. Three of these are dated in mss., July 26/72, Dec 17 72, March 2, 1874. The postmark (Carrier) in 1872 is black, and in 1873 and 1874, it is blue.

The second form consists of a circle 27mm in diameter. Inside this at the top is "CHICAGO, ILL.," at the bottom "CARRIER" and between them in three lines the date and hour. The arrangement of these three lines seems to vary and it is evident that there was no rule as to their insertion into the postmarking stamp. There are four arrangements, 9 A. M. SEP. 26, SEP. 26, 9 A. M., 26 SEP. 9 A. M., SEP. 9 A. M. 26. Of course these were not all used on the same day, for after the stamp was arranged in the morning it probably was not changed until the next morning. The colors used are black, blue and purple. Of the black ones there are two, one used in March and the other in June, 1877. Of the blue there are fourteen, all used in 1875 and 1876, except four, and there is no date written on these. The purple ones are all on covers used in 1879 where there is a date written on the cover, but several of them are not so inscribed.

Two covers postmarked Boston, Mass., on the face, addressed to Norfolk, Va., have on the back a black Carrier postmark 26mm in diameter. This is like the first type of the Chicago postmark, including simply the word "CARRIER" at the top and below it in three lines the date

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Marking the end of the World War, and the return of the local contingents from active service, the 2½d of the pictorial series, issued February 18, 1921, pictures Government pier 3, Kingston, used by the British Admiralty during the war, with a transport alongside, from which troops are disembarking. The inscription at the foot of the vignette is "Return of a Contingent, 1919."

The official announcement was made in the Gazette of February 17, 1921.

"STAMP OFFICE, KINGSTON,
15th February, 1921.

The following is a description of a two-pence half-penny adhesive stamp to be used for Postage and Revenue purposes.

This stamp will be put into circulation on Friday, 18th February, 1921.

The design of the stamp is denoted by a representation of a Contingent returning from Active Service.

The denomination 2½d is shown in a square at the top of the design, in the left and right corners. Between the denominations is printed 'Jamaica'. Under the design are the words and figures 'Return of a Contingent, 1919.' At the bottom to the left the word 'Postage' is printed on a label, and to the right also on a label, 'Revenue,' and between these words are flags crossed and a dove above.

On each side of the design is a Union Jack.

The colour of the stamp is blue.

Signed, C. C. MANTON,
Deputy Stamp Commissioner."

The design is treated in an upright rectangle, 25x30mm., perforated 14 single line, and the stamp was printed in blue and dark blue, in sheets of 60 (12 horizontal by 5 vertical), from line engraved plates, on paper watermarked multiple Crown and Roman CA. There is a double marginal line, and cross marks in all four margins for aid in centering the impressions, and perforating.

Squares in the upper corners of the frame design contain the value, with JAMAICA between. Between labels in the lower corners, inscribed "Postage" and "Revenue" respectively, are crossed flags, and a miniature dove above. Panels at the sides contain Union Jacks.

On stamp 11 of some sheets "Postage," "Revenue" and "Return of a Contingent, 1919" are doubly printed, and on stamp 21 of others, "2½d" is double.

Through error the Union Jack at the left (dexter side) was engraved in an inverted position, and later in the year, the frame design was redrawn and "reprinted at the expens eof the Crown Agents, who advised the Government of the distress sign in the flag, and held themselves responsible for the mistake."

16,089 sheets of 60 (965,340 stamps) with the inverted Union Jack at the left, were printed on paper watermarked multiple Crown and Roman CA and sent out to Jamaica.

Printings from the new border plate were on script CA paper, and up to August 22nd, 1921, 19,477 sheets (1,168,620 stamps) were dispatched. Both figures above are exclusive of the quantities sold by the Crown Agents in London. Though dispatched in June, stamps from the new plate, on script CA paper, were not issued until November 4, 1921. Stamp dealers in England obtained their supplies from the Crown Agents as early as August, and many collectors in Jamaica secured their first copies from London weeks before the stamp could be bought locally. In the re-drawing of the frame design, the most noticeable error in the Union Jack was corrected, but the lower part of the flag remained unaltered.

About January, 1923, the 2½d appeared with the vignette printed in aniline ink, showing blue through to the back, while those issued at the end of the year (December), had the aniline center showing pink or brown through to the back.

1921. 2½d blue and dark blue, Return of a Contingent, 1919, single line perf. 14.

a. Feb. 18, 1921. Watermarked multiple Crown and Roman CA.
Watermark varieties—Inverted.

b. Nov. 4, 1921. Watermarked multiple Crown and script CA.

TYPEWRITERS AND SUPPLIES

For the past thirty-two years I have been a stamp collector actively and am known by the majority of MEKEEL'S readers for my work on permits, meters and slogan cancellations. For the past twenty-seven years my vocation has been repairing and selling typewriters and other office appliances. Recently I opened up a new store in this city in the center of the business district and will carry a very complete line of rebuilt typewriters and supplies. All stamp collectors as well as dealers should own a typewriter, and my facilities enables me to offer a much better grade of typewriter of any make at a much lower price than they can be bought anywhere else. Besides, I will be willing to make a special discount of from 10% to 25% to philatelists. I am not a stamp dealer, and do not at present intend to carry philatelic supplies of any kind. Will be glad to meet stamp collectors when they are in Binghamton but cannot spare the time for long visits. Ask for my special bargain list on typewriters and supplies, if you want to save money.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL
METROPOLITAN STAMP CO., 1482 BROADWAY (OPPOSITE TIMES BLDG.), N. Y. C.

SEEN AND HEARD:

We are advised that Miss M. Gertrude McCann, of the Burt McCann Co., Minneapolis, Minn., is just getting up from an eleven weeks' illness. Any delay in attending to correspondence will thus be explained. The WEEKLY extends well wishes.

We are indebted to Manton Copeland, Brunswick, Me., for a library subscription for the Brunswick Public Library. Our list has become so extensive that we cannot publish it week by week. We are very glad to acknowledge co-operative work of this kind in our columns.

The North Dakota Collectors' Club held its fall meeting at the home of the Secretary, 630 Euclid Ave., Valley City, N. Dak., Saturday and Sunday, November 28th and 29th. Collections were displayed, notes compared, and trades and purchases made. It was decided to take out a three-year membership in the club's name in the Association for Stamp Exhibition, Inc., of New York. Fred Krueger of Fargo, was elected President, succeeding Dr. T. L. Stangebye of New England. The Secretary was retained against his will for another round of seasons. It was agreed to hold the spring meeting in Fargo around March 1st next. Collectors planning a trip out this way about that time are urgently requested to write the Secretary, A. F. GAMBER, Valley City, N. Dak., for exact date any time after January 1st.

Any stamp club that desires five years back numbers of the WEEKLY may have the same by paying transportation charges, through Kenneth C. Massey, 42 York St., Lambertville, N. J.

R. Forbes-Bentley, writing us from Malta, states that the 3d referred to Nov. 2 as being exhausted was re-issued late in October after an interval of over three months. Owing to the reduction of the postal rates to 2½d the present type of the 3d will shortly be surcharged 2½d.

At the B. P. S. meeting December 15, Rev. Thatcher S. Kimball exhibited his collection of airmail covers, which were awarded a gold medal at the Montreal exhibition.

INFORMATION WANTED

To the former members of the Junior American Philatelic Society:

As a member of the above named Society, I, as well as many other members, have asked for a settlement of account. Not being able to secure the same, I requested Dr. H. A. Davis, Chairman of the Committee named by President J. J. Lockie, to send me the correspondence held by him.

I believe that the time is not far off when all accounts will be settled and circuit books on hand will be returned to their owners. In order to enable me to secure the names of the members who may have money due them, or circuit books unaccounted for, I request that every such member write to me, explicitly setting forth the amount of money due to him or her, how many books were entered in the Department which were not returned, and under the regime of which sales manager they were entered. An affidavit should accompany each statement.

Are Precancels U. S. Cancellations?
Odd cancellations of color and design interest the collector because he realizes that these cancellations make the particular stamps on which they appear different from other stamps of that same design.
The most standardized usage of cancellations in the U. S. today is on the "Precancel" stamp. A precancel is a stamp which is cancelled prior to use to save cancelling the stamp after it is placed on the package or envelope.
The variety of type, position, color and design gives interesting range for specialized collecting. Precancels make a pretty collection and are not expensive.
If you are interested, we will send you FREE (1) 23 all different precancels mounted on a Precancel Album sheet.
(2) A 3 months' subscription to the "Precancel Gazette", which is a monthly publication in its 5th year.
(3) A booklet describing the hobby in detail with special chapters on "What is a Precancel?", "How to Start Collecting Precancels", "Why a Precancel is Worth More than an Ordinary Stamp".
Your name on a postal card will do.

EDITORIAL.

IN a circular received from the Philatelic Agency and dated December 7, 1925, collectors are informed that the new seventeen cent Wilson stamp will be issued on December 28, 1925; and that it will be followed by the 13 cent Harrison stamp in a few weeks. We quote: "To avoid a duplication of work and to permit the Agency to close down for the purpose of taking its quarterly inventory of stock, orders calling for the new stamps will not be filled until a supply of both has been received." It is asked that orders for the stamps be limited to them only as they will be given the preference; all other orders will be filled at the convenience of the Agency. The office expects to receive many orders for the two new stamps and patience is asked by the Agency. The following paragraph is of interest: "The Agency takes this opportunity of announcing that the supply of 2 cent Norse-American stamps is very limited. Orders for not more than twenty-five will be accepted until the supply is exhausted." There are a few of Norse-American of both denominations at scattered offices, according to correspondents, but in each case that we are told of, the supply is so small that it would not be advisable to name them.

IT is increasingly evident that philately has outgrown its provincial clothes and is now being outfitted with garments that are suited to a world citizen; and the change may be ascribed chiefly to the great volume of printed notices received in the outside press. By individual effort, rather than any concerted action by those who preach the doctrine of philately, the non-philatelic world is made aware of the existence of a pursuit that has the virtue of amusement, founded on the more solid attribute of instruction. Collecting affords a graded course of study if the collector is of serious mind or it may be regarded solely as a means of pleasure. To all those who work in different ways to proclaim philately in print, we extend congratulations on what they have already accomplished as it is now not too much to say that they are putting collecting over the top. Persistency is a quality that is indispensable in forcing the more or less reluctant attention to anything that is new to the members of the great public, and the application of it batters away indifference. Collectors, knowing of the solid merits of their cause, have hammered away for years and now favorable results are unmistakable.

AN album that we have not seen for several decades is the Revenue Stamp Album "containing specially designed spaces for all American revenue stamps and a large number of foreign ones," published by J. Walter Scott, New York and London, 1874. This album rarely comes to the surface nowadays and its "Preface" is interesting, as it was written at a time when the U. S. proprietaries and general issues of Revenues were being created in noticeable number. We quote: "In the present state of knowledge concerning revenue stamps, it would be simply impossible to make the book perfect; nor would it be advisable to do so, if the necessary data was at hand, as the supply of labels is, at present, very limited, which would, in that case, make it impossible to fill the album. Perhaps the greatest charm in collecting revenue stamps consists in the uncertainty and romance connected with it; nearly every amateur having specimens in his album which are totally unknown to his brother collectors, and there being no definite value or degrees of rarity established; but, of course, this state of things is rapidly passing away, and ere many years, or even months, have elapsed, collectors will awake to the knowledge that they have some priceless rarities amongst their revenue stamps, which, perhaps, have cost them only two or three cents. Taking these facts into consideration, spaces have been provided for only well-known and obtainable series of foreign revenue stamps; but by the plentiful distribution of blank pages throughout the book, ample room has been secured for all fiscal stamps that may be acquired by the owner. In regard to the emission of the United States, the case is very different, as nearly every American philatelist is desirous of obtaining a complete set of the fiscal stamps of his own country, as they are everlasting mementos of the greatest struggle the world has ever witnessed. Therefore, great care has been taken to provide spaces for every stamp that has ever been issued by our own country, with the exception of beer, spirit and tobacco stamps, which it has been pronounced illegal to collect, but as large numbers do collect them, sufficient pages in blank form have been left for their accommodation; and taking into consideration their large size, they can be arranged with equal facility without the aid of lines. The very useful descriptive list of revenue stamps, lately issued by our publishers, will be found a great aid to the amateur engaged in the study of these stamps, and should be in the hands of every collector. In conclusion, the author will be much indebted to collectors who may favor him with the sight of any stamp not chronicled in this work, for who, by their criticisms or advice, may aid in perfecting future editions. J. Walter Scott."

MR. MICHAEL MILLER, Baltimore, Maryland, who is in a position to make his words of weight urges collectors to get into action if they would ensure the success of the philatelic "legislation" to be introduced in Congress. He writes: "It seems to me that some concerted action should be made by the different philatelic societies to have their constituent members write to their representatives urging the passage of the bill at once and keep it up at frequent intervals. It is manifestly useless to take this matter up at the close of the session when Congress is engaged in passing far more important bills either for the country or in furtherance of political aspirations." Reference is made to House Bill 9159, amending paragraph 1671 of Schedule 15, Title II of the Tariff Act of 1922, putting United States on a parity with foreign stamps, by eliminating the duty imposed on United States stamps reimported into the United States. Local societies, as well as national organizations, should act in conformity with Mr. Miller's suggestion.

IF it were not that "Riq." who collocates a column in the Chicago Post has spoken more or less tenderly of stamp collecting at times in the past, the philatelic readers of the newspaper would cancel their subscriptions to show their contempt for the antiquated ideas that a correspondent is allowed to flaunt in the aforesaid column. In an account of the British Museum, a correspondent says: "The curator of this foreign curiosity shop boasts that he has charge of the greatest collection of stamps and coins in the world, while in this country even the kiddies have passed up the fad of saving stamps, and the only coins worth saving are the ones turned out by the U. S. mint." Inasmuch as boys and girls throughout the country, and especially in schools, are banding together and organizing societies to promote their interest in stamps, the words

THE post office department is to be commended in sending out a readable notice telling of the issue on January 11, 1926, of the new thirteen cent Harrison stamp. This is matter of the kind to focus public attention on the stamps of our country and we trust that the authorities will not weary of well-doing of this kind. We append the salient part of the article:

"The 13-cent stamp, abandoned in 1921 following discontinuance of war time postage, is to be reissued to meet the demands for its use on parcel post packages under the new postage rates, it was announced today by Postmaster General New.

The subject is a portrait of Benjamin Harrison and is a revival of the 13-cent Harrison stamp of the 1902 series with engraved variations to conform to the current series.

The first issue will be placed on sale January 11, at the home city of the former president at Indianapolis, Indiana, and at the Washington, D. C., post office. Stamp collectors, as usual, may make their purchases from the philatelic agency, division of stamps, Post Office Department.

The 13-cent denomination of the 1902 series was withdrawn a few years after issue on account of changes in postage rates and was again revived in 1917, when first class rates were increased to 3 cents. With the abandonment of war time postage the 13-cent stamp again went out of use only to come into demand with the latest rate change. It is estimated that approximately 50,000,000 of these stamps will be issued during the next year."

ANOTHER CHICAGO ROBBERY

L. Josephson, proprietor of the Chicago Stamp and Coin Company, Room 1405 Hartford Building, Madison and Dearborn Streets, arrived at his office somewhat later than usual, on the morning of December 15th and found two men waiting for him outside the office. Mr. Josephson entered the room, followed by the men, and took a circuit from the sales department of the Chicago Philatelic Society from his overcoat pocket. He put the stamps in the vault and then turned to the callers, one of whom asked for some Columbian half-dollars, while the other picked up a stamp catalogue, remarking to his associate that it was the "new catalogue." Mr. Josephson placed three Columbian half-dollars on the table and when his back was turned toward the coin cabinet, each man drew a revolver. With threats and the weapons, he was backed into the vault and in almost a jiffy, his hands were tied behind his back and a handkerchief thrust into his mouth; and his legs were tied. The crooks thereupon locked the door, turned out the light and proceeded to ransack the coin compartments, taking much old silver and items of the kind that seemed to have a value in their eyes, all of which, together with a wad of currency that Mr. Josephson carried was emptied into a satchel that one of the men carried. Mr. Josephson was warned not to make an outcry for fifteen minutes, as they left, but he succeeded in working his hands free and in a few minutes he raised an outcry but the criminals by that time had succeeded in making their get-away. Five hundred dollars will easily cover the loss. One of the thieves was about thirty-five years old and the other man may have been around twenty-one but it was evident that they were professionals by the manner in which they performed the job. They may have been "tipped off" to the "racket" and while they seemed to have an idea of coins, as most crooks have, they were ignorant of stamps. They wanted to know where the package containing the circuit of stamps was that Mr. Josephson placed in the vault and when it was grabbed by one of the men, he returned it after seeing that it contained only stamp books. Too, the watch was handed back to Mr Josephson who met his ordeal coolly. The Chicago newspapers gave prominence to the hold-up and Mr. Josephson's friends are glad that he fared no worse. It is hoped that clues will develop by which the perpetrators of the bold outrage will be brought to book.

BAD NICARAGUA SURCHARGES

John L. Stroub, Box 16, Sta. L, N. Y. City, sends us a list of Nicaraguan surcharges that have been counterfeited. Mr. Stroub is an expert on Nicaragua and will be willing to assist collectors in expertizing on these stamps. Address him for his rates. We quote from his letter as follows:

"The writer recalls at the present time the following 25 major varieties, Scott's Nos. 133a, 193, 195, 235, 236, 253, 311d, 312c, 341b, 342a, 344a, 345a, 345b, 363, 365, 356c, 374, 391c, 392, 392b, 393, 394, 933, 935, 937, all of which have been counterfeited for the benefit of stamp collectors. Some minor varieties and 'handstamps' were also imitated. Unofficial varieties of Scott's Nos. 400, 401, 402, 403, 405, 431, 440, 443, 449, on the market have no value.

The catalogue value of these 25 major varieties ranges from 10c to $100. All but 10 of them (listed below) were more or less amateur counterfeits (Class A). These can be easily eliminated as being dangerous by comparison, study and common sense. Scott's Nos. 133a, 235, 236, 253, 311d, 312c, 341b, 342a, 344a, 345a (Class B), have been duplicated to a high degree of perfection. The counterfeits of Class B are absolutely dangerous. Both classes are on low priced or common unsurcharged stamps. Class B counterfeits are on the cheapest and 'remainder' varieties. Six of Class A counterfeits appear on the 20 centavos, Palace type, Scott's No. 358, now obsolete. The amateur surcharging has made this stamp a scarce variety (worth 60 cents net). The counterfeits of Class B are commercially 100% perfect. The fonts and sizes of type, dimensions, spacings, colors, ink, etc., are qualities which the general collector, dealer, or even expert, would consider genuine."

A PHILATELIC MAYOR

Mayor Robert T. Kingsbury, Keene, N. H., is the president of the Keene Philatelic Society organized recently in the office of John F. Boutelle, Collector of Internal Revenue. Mr. Boutelle was elected vice-president, Prof. C. H. C. Dudley, secretary, and R. H. Clark treasurer. Meetings will be held on alternate Tuesdays and public exhibitions will be arranged for the future. At the organization meeting Mayor Kingsbury exhibited U. S., Mr. Clark Austria, Mr. Boutelle Netherlands, and Ellsworth A. Robbins showed patriotic covers used during the Civil War. We are indebted to D. B. Damon for the clipping.

FIRST DAY WILSON COVER

On December 28th the Department issued the new 17c Woodrow Wilson stamp, having placed it on sale on that day in Washington, New York, Staunton and Princeton. Covers used on the day of issue from these points will be of interest not only to the philatelist but will have a historical interest that will appeal to the non-collector. I have obtained but twenty-five covers from each point, and while they last a set of four will be supplied at $2.50. This price also includes a superb mint copy of the stamp from the first printing.

If you are interested in obtaining the Harrison cover which will be issued on January 11th in both Indianapolis and Washington, include an extra dollar, which will cover the two covers plus a mint copy from the first printing of this variety.

For those interested in first day covers, I would advise that I have on hand a very satisfactory stock of the earlier issues, including the regular series, the Norse-Americans, the Lexington-Concords and the Walloons.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Don't forget to be sure and look for my advertisement next week, for it will contain an announcement of great importance to all collectors of United States stamps.

New 13c Harrison

Under date of December 14th the Postal Bulletin announces to postmasters that the 13c stamp will be issued and will be placed on sale on January 11th next. The official notice reads as follows:

"Postmasters and others connected with the Postal Service are notified that the department is about to issue a new 13-cent ordinary postage stamp, described as follows:

The stamp is the same shape and size, 0.75 by 0.87 inch, as the 12-cent stamp of the current series, and is printed in green ink. The central design is a portrait of Benjamin Harrison within an oval with open background and is partly inclosed in a panel which is supported on either side by acanthus scrolls. Above the portrait, in a curved line, appear the words, 'United States Postage' in white Roman letters. On a ribbon below the oval is the name 'Harrison,' and under this, at the bottom of the stamp, appears the word 'Cents'. In both lower corners, within ovals with dark backgrounds, are the white numerals '13.' The entire stamp is inclosed within a crossline border with small triangular ornaments in both upper corners.

The first issue of the new 13-cent stamps will be placed on sale January 11, 1926, at the post office at Indianapolis, Ind., and Washington, D. C. They will also be placed on sale on the same date at the Philatelic Agency, Division of Stamps, Post Office Department, for the benefit of stamp collectors and dealers.

Postmasters may draw requisitions on a separate form, 3201, for a limited supply of the new 13-cent stamps after January 11, 1926, and they will be filled in regular turn as promptly after that date as production will permit.

R. S. Regar,
Third Assistant Postmaster General."

The Information Service of the department sends out a circular on December 12th, giving a resumé of the same information and states that the 13c stamp of the 1902 series was withdrawn a few years after issue on account of change in postage rates and was again revived in 1917 when first-class rates were increased to 3c. They estimate that approximately fifty million of these stamps will be issued during the coming year.

Philatelic Agency

The Philatelic Agency at Washington distributes under date of December 7th, a circular calling their patrons' attention to the new 17c Wilson stamp as well as the 13c stamp and informs the public that the former stamp will not be distributed until the latter stamp is available. I quote from the circular:

"To avoid a duplication of work and to permit the Agency to close down for the purpose of taking its quarterly inventory of stock, orders calling for the new stamps will not be filled until a supply of both has been received.

The Agency will doubtless receive many thousands of requests for the new stamps and in order to expedite their delivery, patrons are earnestly requested to refrain from including other stamps in their orders. Orders for the new stamps alone will be given preference. All other orders will be filled at the convenience of the Agency."

It will be useless, therefore, to ask for first day covers from the Agency nor will the collector be able to obtain unused 17c stamps until after the 13c stamp appears. I am informed, however, that those calling personally at the Agency will find the 17c value available on the first day.

In the same circular they announce that the supply of 2c Norse-American stamps is limited and that orders will not be accepted for more than twenty-five copies.

Bolivia.—We reprint from last week's Daily Telegraph stamp news Mr. Fred J. Melville's description of the Perkins, Bacon engravings for the centenary commemoratives of Bolivia, some of which have already been chronicled in our own columns:—

"The 1 centavo green (50,000) shows a miner, and symbolizes the vast mineral wealth of the country. The 2 centavos magenta (50,000) is a new rendering of the Sower theme. . . The 5 centavos red on green (100,000) shows a lighted torch upheld by a brawny arm, with the motto 'Nadie la apagara' (None shall extinguish it), an allusion to the independence gained in 1825. The 10 centavos red on yellow (100,000) shows a flower, the native equivalent of our 'Immortelle' or everlasting flower. The 15 centavos red-brown (400,000) presents a three-quarters face portrait of President Bautista Saavedra, whose term of office expired this year.

The most freakish and significant design in the set is on the 25 centavos dark blue (100,000), which is turned with its longer dimension horizontal. On the very peak of Mount Illimani, the highest point in the Bolivian Andes, is perched a ferocious and wonderful Condor craning its neck in the direction of the sea. This is symbolical of the country's lack of a seaboard, and an illusion to the extensive and valuable territory on the coast lost to Chile and Peru in the Nitrate War of 1879. The motto, 'Hacia el Mar' attached to this fearsome design, rings like a war cry, 'Towards the sea.' On the 50 centavos violet (100,000) is a novel representation of the head of Liberty. The 1 boliviano scarlet (50,000) has a combination of classic and futurist elements in a representation of an archer on horseback aiming at the sky, the motto 'Mas alto' being the equivalent of our 'Excelsior.' Hermes, whose neck is longer than the Condor's, figures with a caduceus on the 2 bolivianos orange (50,000), and the final stamp in the series, 5 bolivianos dark brown (50,000), presents a finely en-

GRENADA.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal offers the information that this colony is to revert to the blue color for its 2½p value. The shade will not exactly duplicate that of the original printing.

HEJAZ.—Whitfield King & Co. send us for chronicle the following postage due stamps: ½, 1, 2 and 3 piastres.

MAURITIUS.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal prints the following: "The 3c is now being printed in myrtle-green, the 4c in brown, the 10c in red, the 12c in grey, the 15c in blue and the 20c in purple, all being in the Arms design and on script paper".

NEW ZEALAND.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts a copy of the 1p, Universal, watermarked with N. Z. and Star lithographed on the back of the stamp beneath the gum instead of watermark in pale bluish grey, surcharged on the face "OFFICIAL" in black in the usual manner.

NIGERIA.—We learn from Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal that the 10s has been printed on Script paper and sent out to the colony.

NORTH BORNEO.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of three new postage due surcharges: 2c green and black, 10c bright blue and black and 12c dull blue and black. These all bear the overprint "Postage Due" in one line in black beneath the central figure.

RUSSIA.—A recent issue of Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal lists an issue of two values bearing the portrait of Popoff, an inventor of wireless telegraphy. These stamps are perf. 13½ and are the 7k blue and the 14k green.

TURKS & CAICOS ISLANDS.—Mr. R. Roberts sends for chronicle the 2sh carmine on green, script watermark and also a new value, 1½p carmine, also script watermark.

of the month and the hour. In one instance this is three days, and in the other two days later than the Boston postmark, from which we infer that it was used at Norfolk.

Another cover postmarked Indianapolis, Ind., addressed to "City" has a Carrier postmark on the back, with the word "CARRIER", at the top, "INDI—" at the bottom, and the date between them. The other letters of the city name do not show, but it is undoubtedly Indianapolis. This is in purple.

These markings seem to indicate that certain mail arriving in these cities was delivered by carriers, but under what circumstances? Who can tell us?

A cover carried by a 3c re-engraved of 1881 issue bearing the card of a Poughkeepsie Bank and addressed to another Bank at Kingston, N. Y., is postmarked with the Poughkeepsie Carrier postmark described above, in black, The stamp is cancelled with a smudge of black. Does this indicate that certain mail was conveyed to the Post Office by carriers, or only that the fellow who stamped the mail that day grabbed the wrong stamp to postmark the letters, and didn't notice, or didn't bother to change?

And how many other cities treated either outgoing or incoming letters in this way? Who has some specimens to show from other cities?

Our first applicant for membership in the Honor Club this week is Ed. S. Green, of Delano, Calif. Mr. Green, in making his remittance of $5 writes:—"Like thousands of others I do not wish to miss any number, neither do I want to cause you any unnecessary bookkeeping. If anybody starts a Ten Year Club I'll be with them next time." Many thanks, Mr. Green.

HEAR YE:

On Tuesday evening, December 29th, the annual Christmas meeting of the Philadelphia Stamp Club will take place. Mr. Gustave A. Burger, of New York, one of the members, will exhibit his magnificent lot of "Bombas" and other Sicily on the original covers; and his western franks of the U. S., as well. Mr. Jos. A. Steinmetz will regale the members with a talk and exhibit, which to the knowing ones, needs no comment. Mr. Edgar Lee Green will show his remarkable collection of Bavaria, the whole making a trinity of attractions that deserve big type. Cigars and souvenirs will round out an evening that will make it the event of the year.

A correspondent sends a circular that was received from the U. S. Stamp & Coin Co., located in New Jersey, but not a reference to stamps or coins is found in it. On the contrary, it advertises K. K. K. emblems, charms and such things!

In a recent despatch, the postmaster general is quoted as saying that the present postage rates are ripe for revision. We quote: "The humble postage stamp accounted for the largest portion of the revenues. Each person in the country spent on an average $4.69 for postage during the year and the total thus received was $537,501,340.93 or 89.24 per cent. of the total postal revenues."

The Toronto Stamp Collectors Club will hold a competition and exhibition for all junior collectors at the Central Y. M. C. A., 40 College Street, Toronto, Canada, on Saturday, January 9, 1926, at 2 P. M. The collections are limited to competitors under 16 years of age and are to be the property of residents of Toronto, but an essay competition on, "Why I Collect Stamps" is open to all Canadian collectors. Prizes and certificates will be awarded the successful entrants.

A card has been received from Mr. E. M. Rosenthal, Chicago, who is doing Mexico in style, and seeking the elusive imperforates of that country.

Mr. Clinton L. Chalfant of Jefferson City, Mo., has taken a responsible position on the leading newspaper of Warsaw, Indiana, where his ability will have full play. Mr. Chalfant is an ardent collector who has been connected with philately for many years.

AMUNDSEN'S AIR MAIL

By FRANK E. WOOD, Worcester, Mass.

It may be of interest to the readers of MEKEEL'S who own Amundsen Polar Flight cards to know that Captain Amundsen lectured in Worcester, Mass., a short time ago, and the writer took it upon himself to ask the Captain if these cards were actually carried by him on the famous polar flight. Captain Amundsen answered: "The most of them were." Nothing more.

This statement of the explorer, of course, decides nothing much; but as there has been so much discussion regarding the experiences of these cards, this information is passed along for whatever satisfaction it may give to owners of the cards, who are somewhat in doubt as to any of them having been carried to the polar regions.

Incidentally, the Captain kindly autographed the two cards owned by the writer, which cards were both started on their long journey by being mailed and postmarked on April 19th (Patriots' Day), 1924; one from Worcester and the other from Lexington, Mass. They were both franked with stamps of the current series portraying the three greatest Americans, Washington, Lincoln and Roosevelt, and were returned to the sender, in common with all others of which I have read, from Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, on June 18th, one day after Bunker Hill Day, 1925, which is the only feature to prevent their being 100% patriotic, so far as stamps and postmarks are concerned, at least.

COVER DESIGN WANTED

Next January we shall publish a missionary number of the WEEKLY, and we desire a cover design that will be appropriate. We have many subscribers who are expert with pen and pencil and we invite them all to a friendly rivalry in originality and skill. The drawing if larger than a page of the WEEKLY should be made proportionately.

We offer for a first prize $25 and $10 will be given for all sketches that may be acceptable for cover designs. All drawings must be in our office by January 1, 1926, the earlier the better.

ADLETS

Minimum two lines.

RATE.—30c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $12.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. It is impossible to guarantee advertisers in this department, and patrons must satisfy themselves as to the reliability of the parties with whom they desire to engage in business relations.

Our morning's mail is a Stamp collection in itself with its scores of multi-colored labels from foreign climes.

In one day we had a personal visit from a customer in Icy Iceland followed by one from Picturesque Persia, both staunch admirers of the "Peerless" branded goods.

SOME POSTAL CURIOS

By FRANCIS M. BOTELHO, Ph.D.

I am enclosing for your examination seven original covers. The first is an extraordinarily poor sample of printing. Have you ever seen the like? One would hardly believe that our government would permit such a blotchy affair as this 2c envelope in this poor condition.

The second cover is from Mexico and the Spanish text of the postmark reads:—"Seek or bring about the country's aggrandizement by teaching to read and write gratuitously." Mexicans apparently do not intend to stand still.

The third is from Syria and may be of interest on account of the value of postage used on a letter to America. Four piastres, the postage paid, would look much like $4 to us.

The fourth is from Brazil with a postal marking similar to what Germany is now using through the medium of a meter machine.

The fifth is from Colombia with a surcharged provisional torn irregularly between two corners diagonally, yet used legitimately as shown by the postmark.

The next two are also from Colombia, showing an additional 30c stamp for airmail transportation, but on one the 4c provisional is surcharged in red on a Waterlow & Sons production while on the other the 4c provisional is surcharged in green on an American Banknote production.

Recruiting Special January 25, 1926

On January 25, 1926, we shall issue a Missionary Number of the WEEKLY and propose to give it a wide circulation. We want all our subscribers to send us the names and addresses of those who are collecting stamps and are not subscribers. Use this form for a heading to your list of names and make it as long as necessary:—

FROM ALL QUARTERS:—

Wendover Neefus, Hudson N. Y., is sending out a nicely printed pricelist of the stamps of the United States and Colonies. It is a pamphlet of 48 pages and will be sent to any address upon request.

The Philadelphia Stamp Club will have a Christmas meeting on Tuesday evening, December 29, and in accordance with its regular custom invitations are being sent to many collectors not on the membership list. Gustav A. Burger of New York City will exhibit Sicily covers, Jos. A. Steinmetz will give a talk and exhibition, and Edgar L. Green will show his specialized collection of Bavaria. There will be smokes and souvenirs.

The Martauco Stamp Co., 45 W. 45 St., N. Y. City, is circulating reprints of a full page advertisement which recently appeared in the WEEKLY. A copy will be sent any reader desiring the same.

Elsewhere in this issue A. H. Pike of Binghamton, N. Y., announces the opening of a new store in his city in which will be found a complete line of re-built typewriters and supplies. As a rule we do not carry other than stamp advertising, but we are very willing to make an exception in the case of Mr. Pike, whose name has become a household word to readers of the WEEKLY.

Theodore Champion informs us that our book review was in error in stating that the prices in the Yvert & Tellier-Champion Catalog for 1926 are in dollars and cents. The text of the book is in English but the prices are in francs and centimes.

W. J. Stanton sends us a clipping from the San Diego, Calif., "Union", of December 8, which gives the particulars of a presentation of a collection of postage stamps showing birds and animals by the San Diego Stamp Club to the local Zoological Society. The collection will be framed and hung at the entrance to the Zoo, where it is expected it will attract the attention of all visitors. Mr. Stanton exhibited some fine airmail covers and addressed the meeting which was held in the Pacific Cafe recently.

On Friday, December 11, the Hackensack Philatelic Society held their annual meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Building, Hackensack, N. J., and the following officers for the year 1926 were elected:—President, H. A. Bullard; Vice-President, J. H. Bennit; Treasurer, H. E. Crocker; Secretary, Wm. C. Steiger; Sales Manager, H. S. Dunhaupt; Exchange Manager, E. J. Hauck; Auction Manager, H. A. Bullard. The December social meeting will be held at the home of Wm. C. Steiger, 400 Lookout Ave., on December 30th, and the members are requested to bring their ladies.

SUBSCRIPTION RENEWALS.

Some of our subscribers need to know our rule regarding discontinuances. We discontinue all subscriptions in arrears promptly the second issue of each month. This means that your subscription should be renewed prior to expiration. The expiration number can be ascertained by consulting your wrapper. No free copies of the WEEKLY are sent out and this rule is as fixed as the laws of the M. and P. Our older subscribers understand our rule and the newer subscribers should get acquainted with it.

Is., Cook Is., Fiji, Gilbert and Ellice, New Hebrides, Papua, Samoa and Tonga can be supplied at fair prices. [tf
